Post War and the Farmer

SOIL CONSERVATION

(This is another of a series of comments by well-known journalistic authorities, written exclusively for the Weekly Press of Western Canada.)

"Yes, I'm sold on soil conservation."

This neat all-encasing statement was flung at me by a farmer in Western Manitoba during a recent talk with his farm. And without wishing for a reply he pointed to a nearby field adding, "See those bare, narrow trenches, shooting gulleying they call it. That's all runs in my ribbons. Over on the far side of the section where that large field is hilly, the top of the hills are now white and all the silt has been washed down into the hollows. I get good yields from the low-lands but hardly anything grows on the higher grounds that climbs this deterioration."

"I'm not a textbook man but I'm practical enough to know that my land is taking a licking and unless something is done to remedy it it's not going to support me and my family. My father always got good crops from almost every section of the farm. We didn't know what erosion was in those days but I guess it was going on unnoticed by most of us farmers until the experts put us wise."

In the next breath he put me on the spot by asking me how many farmers in Western Canada practise soil conservation. I told him I could not answer his question but agreed with him that they were far too few to number. I did, however, point out that more and more farmers are taking a keener interest in soil and water conservation practises although some still oppose reluctant to take the matter seriously. I was going on to comment on instances where this work was on hand-but he did not let me. He had plenty of visible evidence and readily responded to it.

He went on to say how he was going to plan support advice and men-tioned the P.F.R.A., Professor Jos Ellis of the University of Manitoba, and the men who do similar work in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

"I don't know what they'll tell me to do, but if it's at all possible and not too costly over a period of years, I'm going to see that I save my soil."

"That's what a large percentage of my western savings are going to be used for as soon as I can get the help, labour and advice to carry out the project. It's going to be a mighty tough job to try and restore the soil to the condition it was in when I remember it." he asserted. "But I'm certainly going to try."

This farmer pointed out to me that he was in a little better position with respect to equipment and buildings than some of his neighbors. He didn't boast but described it as a piece of luck. He had bought a new tractor and combine along with one or two other pieces of farm machinery prior to the outbreak of war. His buildings were a little newer than most of those in the district.

He didn't suggest that he wouldn't have to make repairs to his buildings and buy new machinery but he pointed out that his own expenditures for these requirements would probably be relatively small.

"That's why," he continued, "I'll have most of my wartime savings available for soil conservation work and it's not all going to be spent at once because I understand this has to be planned now over a period of years to be wholly successful in the final analysis."

I left the farm shortly after, doing some thinking on this particular subject than I had done for a long time. There is no question but one of these many farmers to be admired who can combine practical scientific cropping out their varied post-war projects before us that they can start this week as soon as post-war conditions warrant.

I tried to visualize how many things could be done with wartime savings to improve living conditions and other factors affecting farm life.

I realized they were numerous and tried to decide which would bring the greatest benefits but I recognized that some farmers, have more than one problem to cope with in post-war planning and spending and the most urgent requirement would have to suit some fiend.

As I continued my journey I couldn't ignore the near reasoning of my former friend. The heavy June rains in that part of the province this year had left their mark, thereby emphasizing the need of soil conservation. I asked myself how many farmers are planning to use their savings as advantageously in post-war years as this one had voluntarily outlined.

Floor on Prices Protect Farmers

That the basic industries of the Dominion are to share in great measure in the Government post war program, is demonstrated in many practical ways. There are to be minimum prices for all agricultural products and for fish and fish products. Canada is leading the way in a determined effort to reduce tariffs so that the Dominion's export trade, necessary for farm prosperity, will be maintained at the highest possible level. Government insurance for export trade and extension of export credits are being provided. The import duties on agricultural implements have been wiped out. In the past, any one of these measures would have been considered a highlight in legislative progress and a big step towards economic justice for agriculture and other home industries. Taken together, their effect on the post-war standard of living in Canada is inestimable, and represent a balanced program never before approached in an effort to create a well-balanced plan for the economic well-being of the people of Canada.

People often write to National Defence headquarters at Ottawa asking "the present location of Thomas Smith who is in the Canadian Army." Well, there are 124 Thomas Smiths in the Army, 14 of them from Toronto, for instance. Hence the necessity of supplying full Christian names, rank, number, and property spelling the surname. Here's why. There are 8,116 Smiths in the Canadian Army, 361 of them having Christian name of William. There are—Allan 200, Allen 788; Cook 746, Cooke 221, Johnson 1,807, Johnston 1,114, Johnstone 232. The McInnalds in various ways of spelling total 3,744, Aramaic 51, Arsenault 360, the post-nominal the rank of clerks at N.D.H.Q., when enquiries come in. They would appreciate your co-operation with adequate detail.

The response of the farmers of Canada to the appeal of the government to raise more sugar beets to meet the sugar situation is indicated in cold figures. The Dominion-Provincial Agricultural conference in December last year set an objective for 1944 of 65,000 acres, but latest reports is that the actual acreage contracted for between the sugar beet and growers this year totalled 71,625 acres. At the middle of June, Ontario reported plantings of 10,000 acres; Alberta, 20,000; Manitoba 14,000 and Quebec 9,000. Prospects at present are good for the crop, with help supplied by Japanese and German prisoners of war, conscientious objectors, Canadian soldiers and civilians.

Consumer Branch tip to women to make sheet last longer and wear better. Women buying sheets for their children are urged to see they are the right size and fit. When the children come in with wet shoes, do not place them over direct heat to dry—such procedure bakes the soles, weakens leather fibres and causes them to crack and break. Wet shoes should be filled with newspapers and allowed to dry to normal temperature. And polished.

Until November 15 farmers may use their trucks to transport harvest help, and a general permit has been issued to all truck operators transporting farm truck owners from the ban on carrying passengers except in the case of a vehicle operated for transporting goods. It does not, however, exempt any from provincial and municipal regulations or the 35-mile travel limit on trucks nor transportation from persons provided protection, of course, in effort allowing the conveying of passengers to and from church or religious ceremonies or for medical assistance.

Everything humanly possible is done to save lives of our men overseas, as witness the shipment of 7000 pounds of penicillin which reached Montreal recently, and was immediately loaded on R.A.F. transport command planes nothing out for the North Sea, Russia and Britain.

Sooner than any corresponding period in history of Canadian commerce was the value of our exports during the first six months of 1944, a total of $1,546 millions, an increase of $264 millions over the same period last year. Canada's contribution to the fighting strength of the Allies is astonishing when one stops to think that just a few years for comparison with the last six months proved. We sent motor vehicles, such as tanks and trucks to the value of $254,000,000 nearly $90,000,000 more than a year ago. Wheat export at $180 millions was a great advance over the $60,000,000 in the period a year ago. Meats were almost doubled, as was flour, fish and eggs it is notable that wood exports advanced from $1,000,000 to $10,700,000.

$250,000,000 for farm products, $25,000,000 for fish will be made provided for in the proposed legislation before the House of Commons to give "floor prices". The statute, brought forward by the Minister of Agriculture and the Minister of Fisheries, are almost identical in terms, contemplating the support through the national war purchasing board during the transition from war to peace. The Board would be enabled to make grants payments in respect to staple agricultural products" as may be necessary to bring average returns to producers up to the prices as approved.

The situation in connection with lard surplus has been relieved in part by shipment of nearly ten million pounds to Russian since April 1 under Mutual Aid; also to the United Kingdom and elsewhere There was a sixty per cent increase of hogs marketed in the first six months of 1944, a total of 3,250,000.

The Fisheries Department reports that this country will supply 70 million pounds of salted fish, pickled fish and smoked herring blenters to United Nations from the 1944 production.

Dear Mrs. Sherwood,

I am very happy to say that two more parcels which you sent me since then have been received and I am very grateful to you and contributors and I want to give you a few lines to tell you how much they mean to me. Each, and the rest of the Women's Institutes at the Fort.

I am sorry that I cannot tell them the news we had good to think that thousands of miles away women are thinking of us and sending us parcels of comforts and I feel proud to think that I am one of the lucky ones who get a parcel.

Please extend my thanks to the Women's Institute at the Fort for their very kind parcels. I am sure that they "made" it wet weather and "kept" wet weather and fresh, and a few cups of tea "refreshed" me after a long journey up.

Although you may not hear from us all I'm sure all the boys feel as I do, very very thankful.

I am sorry that I may now be losing the Fort Record address and everything I do know at Bomber Command to get it to me so there seems only two kinds of climate here—wet or hot. You just have to take your choice. I like the wet and far most of us. It seems more natural to us. I am sure you have had a very wet time of it yourself. Oh to see one dish of dry weather!

Well all I hope is that I am in back for the New Year and can get a Fort Record.

The day when Victory shall be won does not seem far off now and to me it will be a day I shall never forget.

So far I have been very fortunate—but others have not and to those who have left behind my greatest sympathy is extended.

Before I close, may I say to each and everyone—God Bless you.

Yours sincerely,
Sgt. John Watt.

Wedding

PARKER — HYDES

A very lovely wedding took place at Ardrossan United Church, July 29th, when Dorothy Hyde, of Edmonton, daughter of the late Mr and Mrs. Hyde, of Saskatchewan, and Mr. Roger Parker, son of Mrs. C. W. Parker and the late Mr. C. W. Parker, of Ardrossan, were united in marriage by Rev. Stanley Scott.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a profusion of summer flowers, and the ceremony took place beneath an arch of flowers and leaves.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her Uncle, Mr. Stewart, of Edmonton, looked very lovely in an after noon length model of ivory satin, with wide trimmed pasture net of white shade. Her accessories were in white and she wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

Miss Elleen Jacques played the wedding march and Miss Ruth Rice sang a solo while the bride and groom signed the register.

A wedding reception was held at noon in the Macdonald Baptist church parlor in Edmonton, where places were set for seventy guests.

Mrs. Parker, mother of the groom, received with the wedding party. She wore a black and white two piece suit, with white picture hat and a corsage of carnations and roses.

The bride's table laid in white Madeira linen was decorated with pink roseboids in silver vases and tall white tapers. A lotted wedding cake centered the table.

Rev. Mr. Hooper pronounced the toast to the bride. The groom very ably responding.

A short program followed when Mrs Iwan gave a solo Mrs. Stanley Scott a reading Eileen Jacques and Ruth Rice, piano solo.

The young couple left for a motor trip to the coast on a motor trip; the route the bride travelled in a Queen's Blue wood ensemble with accessories to match and a corsage of roses. On their return the happy couple will make their home in Ardrossan.

◆ Miniatures ◆

By Mrs. C. H. Flintoff

About two or six years ago, The Record suggested to Mrs. C. H. Flintoff, that our readers would appreciate a brief history of the people and little incidents that happened away back in the days of the first settlers. As a resident of Fort Saskatchewan for many years and vastly so many years a correspondent for The Record, Mrs. Flintoff willingly took on the job. After several revisions the completed article is now ready for setting and will be held back until sufficient space was available. It is our intention to run the story in three installments, starting with this issue.

In "Miniatures" we shall try to recall and recapture some of the "little pictures" presented on the day by any experiences of that gallant company of men and women who in the early days of this country came to Fort Saskatchewan and district, to make homes for their families in the new land. Of their work, their courage and endurance they brought to the task, of the achievements in spiritual, cultural and material values they wrested from this wilderness now in its burgeoning seasons.

Perhaps in no way, read, and remember, we may be called to render a fuller measure of recognition and a truer appreciation of their building.

But few of this company are here today. Many of them sleep, tired hands resting from their labors, in a quiet, lovely God's Acre on the edge of the old Fort. Their spirits, facing forth, have found the far horizons and new frontiers they ever sought.

Their works live after them, and we who follow rise up and call them Blessed!

MINIATURES

How shall we present the rich background of these early days? The many people and factors that enter into the picture? It is not possible to mention each and every one who took a part; suffice it that we touch the highlights and let them shed their light on the whole.

Early consideration of Fort Saskatchewan in the spring of 1899 is Main Street, Government Street, flanked on the west by the pioneer-cops, red-coated, white-mushed quarters of the R.N.W.M.P., the seventy men in the detachment, Major Constantine O.C.

erected home memorial tablets to come to a neat white frame church with Hex-weave-painting spires, which had taken the place of the little log church earlier built by willing hands. This is the Presbyterian Kirk and Manse, with Rev. Alexander and Mrs. Forbes in charge. Hailing from Portobello, Scotland, they were a worthy couple. Mrs. Forbes was a nurse who had trained to go to the Mission field in Old Calabar in Africa, but came instead to Canada, as mistress of the Manse in Fort Saskatchewan.

A veritable Mother is loved to the sick and needy in the new settlement, her winning personality and unselfish, loving service to others made her beloved by all.

In 1910 Rev. and Mrs. Forbes moved on to Grande Prairie, travelling by sleigh and caboose. There they established a church and mission after negotiating numerous sets of "Terms" contracts, to get hopelessly mixed in the end as the trail that followed the edge of Walter's Lake bore the wildlife over brush and the same trail out of the shelter, leaving him sitting in the bushbeard holding one rein!

Methinks in the Hereafter there will be something special in the way of "Mansions" for pioneer clergymen.

We journey along Main Street and note, still going north, where the sawmill now stands is the Soldiers' Memorial plot, was the garden plots of Henry Wilson and his nephew, W. L. White, of the present White Saskatchewan Hotel. This store was later destroyed by fire.

Further north was a small wooden building which home: the Post Office and Telegraph Office, with Mr. W. Campbell post-master and Bill Eddy doing the brisk at th "Key". Further along the street is the present Peace Hash was the general store of Shorn and Co., the late Mr. W. G. Shorn and his nephew, Jack, J. W. of Edmonton.

The Shorn store, for many years filled an important role as business, social and political centre, where horsemen and cowmen from afar gathered round the big stove, discussed and settled to their satisfaction matters affecting them locally, and in the wider field of the State. There Mr. Shorn sold my husband, then a lanky youth of eighteen cents, his first coat of clothes, the money for which he had earned by "taking a man's place" in the harvest field.

The only house between the Shorn store and the river was that of Alex Dawson, who was the print shop of the Post's only industry at that time. (We hadn't a job line then!) The well hose hauled down and was not rebuilt.

Dennis Agnew was the other street. There were no sidewalks. About 1902, Rev. A. B. Aldridge and family arrived from Manitoba to build a Methodist Church. For the first summer services were held in the unfinished parsonage, the house now occupied by Mr. Jas Latour.

Rev. Aldridge's preaching, sane and economical helpful of the corner stone, Mr. John Allen, Mr. Ed Carmichael and Rev. Aldridge began the building of the church. This was completed and ready for use without bills. This is the present First United Church.

We recall a hot month held in the parsonage in the winter of 1908. Several sleigh-loads drove in from the country. Mr Josh Shorn was chairman and recounted, by request, some of his experiences while he was a prisoner of Louis Riel in the Upriving of 1885. Mrs. Dewar recited. Mrs. Dr. Berry sang very sweetly that old ballad "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs," then a little girl of about nine years, in a pretty red dress, bartered down the back, started off bravely to say a piece, but, frightened at sight of all the strange faces, forgot her lines and had to be excused. Her name was Kerry Bates! The writer also recited,—one of those offences that began then: those offences that began then: "Boldly sped a banner streamer, with a gay carnation crowd." Remember that sort of "piece"?

Then followed a quiet succession the erection of Dr. Bennett's home, Dawson; the Peters family; Hugh Forbe; Bill Walker; Jim Atkinson; Dr. Tofield; Art Walker; Jim Peter; T. J. Fleury; T. H. Attowell; A. Pasden, an ex-mounty; Ralph Smith; Jos Smith; John Berry Kennedy; Gen. Armitage; John Whisnet; Bobt. Houston; Charles Flintoff; John and Robt. Bann; Fred and Peter Rye; Hal Pearse; J. T. Wallis; Geo. Davies; Kellys; Dense; John Phelam; Gault; Ellis; Hayden; Kelsie; Thompson; Moles; Beehers; Feeds. Time all sailed here fifty to forty-five years ago.

Then in 1909 came Joseph Alton and sons; Hartens; Cokshalvers; Geo. and Duncan Cromeler; Lawrences; Richard Gordon; Cooks; Harcourt; Sergeant; Cornwall; Geddis; Tom Magee; John Webb; Bobbs; Bennetts; E. J. Tweris and others. The newcomers lost no time beginning their search for land. There were no roads, only trails zig-zagging across the prairie, dodging crested sloughs and clumps of brush, as a tent or a log shack with a sod roof could be put up for a are asked to notify the office not later than Monday of the preceding week. Our Column . . .

Canadian Weekly Newspaper editors at Winnipeg last week urged the establishment in Canada of an institute of journalism. They will be a boon to the small weekly newspaper publisher, who is in the majority of cases, an experienced craftsman in the typographical or pressroom departments, but shows writing as much as possible due to lack of training.

It has been noted that the weekly papers winning in the editorial competitions, rarely win in the printing displays. Only the larger staffed weekly newspapers command attention in both departments.

Post-War Reconstruction was the theme of guest speakers at the Silver Jubilee Convention of the Weekly Newspapers held in Winnipeg last week.

That brings us to a thought that has been in our mind for some time. Why not a Post War Reconstruction Committee for Fort Saskatchewan? The Town Council have committees for the surface on two or three projects, but the problem needs the co-operation of a larger group of citizens than our hard-working council.

Fort Saskatchewan has some businessmen this week. Will there be another to take his place? Net unless something is done about it.

This and other problems could be canvassed by a Post War Committee and where a new business would create a good living for an enquiring person, the committee should be given the full co-operation of the town in locating such a person.

x x x

We have been asked by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics to urged our farmer readers to fill in and return the card questionnaires sent them from time to time, as quickly as possible. These statistics are used to compile general records on agriculture in Canada so the government can get a fairly accurate idea of the amount of food being produced each year. In wartime, with this country feeding many of our Allies across the ocean, this information is really vital and ridiculous returns are kept confidential and are not used for income tax purposes.

The selection of the best variety of various crops offers a problem of real interest to all farmers. Some important comparisons between varieties are measurable in fields at this season and farmers are advised to study certain factors before the crops are harvested.

Undoubtedly the ability to produce good yield and quality is an obvious consideration but earliness, disease resistance and ease of harvesting should be observed also. Care must be taken to prevent erroneous conclusions where other than varietal differences may be affecting results. Nevertheless, there are many reliable statements of variesis in all parts of Alberta which offer evidence of real value prior to harvesting. Where re placement of variety is to be made seed supplies should be located with

It is reported this week that a feature of the new $2,000,000,000 social and economic program is that, for the first time, rural areas, villages and small towns will get a greater benefit than the large municipalities in the financial centres. The attempted domination of big money was definitely thrown off and every place of legislation in the decision hours during the past session, was aimed at improving the lot of the ordinary man and woman and of families in the low or moderate income brackets.

It looks as if Fort. Saskatchewan will get a share of this cash if we don't go after it at once. And I mean now!

In the next general elections voting among Canadian servicemen will be very important. Not only will seven special returning officers who have already been appointed This, it is pointed out, doesn't mean that an election will definitely be held in the near future Yes we, a large number of Canucks are with British and other Allied units in every theatre of war and unless the special officers are on the job in the voting territories quite a time before a general election is ordered, necessary arrangements couldn't be made.

Church groups in Canada, with a realistic and patriotic foresight are taking cognizance of the fact that over sixteen thousand Canadian soldiers have married British girls and that their coming here to live will have an impact on our church life. Chaplainwomen of Ottawa, for instance, have issued an appeal to British war brides, pictured on an attractive card, from which we quote just one paragraph. "We do hope that you and your husband will call things over together and will together decide on a church home where you can worship and work as a family. It would be such a help to you and to us if you would at once make yourself known to the local church of your choice. We pray that you may both find the courage and wisdom that you need for these difficult days and for the days of peace for which we all long."

The Special Products Board wants to set right a possible misconception governing the sale by the producer of seeds of alfalfa, red clover, alsike clover, and alsike-white clover mixtures. They explain that maximum retail prices only have been set. These retail ceilings govern sales by one producer to another, but otherwise there is no set price to the producer. A grower selling seed to a seed dealer is free to bargain on the basis of the value of his seed in respect to condition, purity and viability.

The coal problem, with winter looming in the not too distant future, comes to the forefront again. Mines in the Maritimes, Alberta and Wales anthracite has been rerouted to Canada since the beginning of April, as compared with the same period last year it would be necessary for household users affected to burn substitute fuels in stoves made or set heating units for the heavier coals. It is pointed out that Canada has made arrangements to procure additional supplies of coke for Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime provinces.

A department official at a poultry conference in Toronto declared that the end of the European phase of the war is no means marks the end of the time when Britain will require considerable egg supplies from Canada but that history might be taken as a guide for determining the length of the adjustment period After the last war, it was 1926 before Denmark began to approach her pre-war volume of exports to Britain and 1921 before the reached her pre-war volume Holland, not until 1926 Belgium and Sweden not until 1926. And it must be remembered that Denmark, Holland and Sweden were neutrals and unharmed.

Few people probably realize that

by
E. G. L. Stringo

We hear much these days about Canada's place in the post-war world Everybody seems to see in clear Canada some very surplus of wheat During the period of after-war rehabilitation, the call here to make that surplus available much of it for a hungry world—may of it perhaps for a time—more of it perhaps for a time—to the needy and suffering people of those countries that have been overrun by war.

For the long years ahead Canada's farmers should be well equipped. It will have made her surplus of wheat and other foodstuffs, of pulpwood, minerals, fish and fruit which she produces in excess of her own requirements, available to the entire empire in the world and in return for the only money these areas have—their goods, raw materials and services.

The question to me, is not a question that Canada has but a responsibility we must towards the less favoured areas and that I am not sure how far tactile touch to-day hinder foreign people from sending their goods into this country. All in the West, I suggest, should prepare for the Post War salary that will mean so much to our own prosperity.

Which Is Right?

The man who spends or plans to spend his wages to meet his needs—then invests the surplus in War Savings Certificates—

Or the man who decides what he must invest in Canada's war first, then gets along on the rest?

There is a right decision here for every Canadian. If Hitler could see the light in the eyes of those who have decided the right way . . . he'd know where his defeat began.

"HAND MILKING" IS ON THE WAY OUT, TOO!

The Modern Milking Machine has won the favor of Dairymen

Invented from the time-milking, lifting and tiresome chore of hand milking has come to thousands of dairymen through the perfection of the Surdex milking machine.

The milking machine saves hours of time and labor, making cleaner and quicker work of a task that has long been considered as "taking a lot of the joy out of life." In these times of help shortage, it has been the milking machine that has enabled many a dairyman to keep the monthly cheques for milk and cream coming in as usual and to benefit from the great demand for dairy products.

To users of milking machines, doing the job by hand is a thing of the past—to them hand-milking belongs to the days when grain was sown broadcast by hand and crops were harvested with the sickle and the cradle.

A Hand Sower Machine does not give you particulars about the Milker Way, the modern sulker with the natural suction.

It Doesn't Leave a Lot for the Civilian

WHEN war demands have been filled . . . when invasion gasoline, aviation gasoline, Navy fuel oil, petroleum for the manufacture of explosives, synthetic rubber, and gasoline for war industry, farming and essential trucking all have been taken from Canada's oil supply—it doesn't leave a lot for the civilian!

Figure it out for yourself. It takes 5,750,000 gallons of gasoline to fuel 1,000 bombers and fighters for a mission over Germany. It takes enough oil for one landing of a battleship to heat an average house for 350 years. It takes 10,000 gallons of gasoline to keep one armoured division on the move for one hour.

From petroleum and petroleum gases we make explosives and fuels needed to power planes and ships and tanks as well as the raw material for rubbers, ammonia and solvent for explosives, organic chemicals for antifreezes, sulphates for camouflage paints and plastics and resins for war weapons production.

This is why civilian gasoline is short. This is why it's up to every motorist, to every owner of an oil-burned home, to exercise the strictest economy in gasoline or fuel oil usage. Every gallon we can do without here at home is one gallon more for the fighting men. And they need every gallon they can get.

Two full years of gasoline rationing and fuel oil control in Canada have saved 393,000,000 gallons of gasoline and 175 million gallons of fuel oil—a total saving of 568,000,000 gallons of petroleum products. Yet, despite this saving, gasoline stocks on hand in Canada, as of March 31st, this year, were 19,000,000 gallons less than at the commencement of rationing, April 1, 1942.

Oil has a mighty war job to do—yet supplies are short and are constantly dwindling. Oil powers the attack on every front. Oil can mean the difference between success or failure, between light casualty lists and heavy. Oil is vital ammunition—not to be wasted, not to be needlessly, frivolously used.

An announcement issued by the Department of Munitions and Supply, Honourable C. D. Howe, Minister

Answering Your Questions about the Gasoline Shortage

What are Canada's total yearly requirements of petroleum products? Approximately 300,000,000 gallons. Do these requirements include those for seven bush military and other units? Yes. Why cannot this supply be increased? . . . Because the Montgomery gasoline plant is the only refinery in most bush the entire Dominion. Why cannot more gasoline be imported? . . . Every effort is being made to do so. Since the United States limited the amount it exported for civilians, there are very few tankers available. Why cannot more oil be found in the Turner Valley? We know of no new Turner Valley. We know of no new fields.

We did it at VIMY... and CAEN-

WE'LL DO IT AGAIN- but we need YOUR HELP!

You, we need your help . . . and need it badly.

Every man who is able has got to do his bit

Maybe you don't think this means you . . . but it's a job for the other fellow.

If you do, you're wrong. It's your war, and it is a war for every man who is a man . . . for everyone who has a stake in Canada.

Yes, this means you all right and we need you now more than ever before. Every man and woman who is able has got to do his bit

A Post War Nest Egg

by Dr. Seager Wheeler L.L.D., Maple Grove Farm, Dunblane, Sask.

As farmer to farmer I am penning a few thoughts.

I was an immigrant boy coming from the south of England in 1908 to secure a free homestead in the Saskatoon district and landed in Moose Jaw in May of that year.

I had to do a man's labour at any kind of work to keep body and soul together until I could secure enough money and make a start on a homestead. After working at all kinds of jobs I secured a loan of two hundred dollars, giving a lien on my homestead. This amount purchased a team of oxen, a second wagon, a cheap breaking plow with a coulter, two shovs, a few bags of flour and groceries and with this I trekked 175 miles to Saskatoon. My homestead was some 15 miles north of Saskatoon on the bank of the south branch of the north river. I landed there on the bare prairie and lived in a tent until I could cut poles and logs for a dugout on the river bank.

But this is not a story of my early life. I mention it here to illustrate how I found it necessary to husband my resources to secure my homestead. Until I did and later moved to my present farm at Dunblane, Sask. having spent through the school or land teacher. I early learned to accumulate, depriving myself of luxuries, and bought only such goods as I actually needed.

Now, later in life, during the present war years, I realize the relationship of goods which we sense of thrift grumble at is a blessing in disguise. It shows us that there are a lot of things we can do without and with no harm to us physically or spiritually. After the first World war.

War prices of all farm products were at high level and money came easily and was soon parted with.

Let us carry in mind the lesson learned in 1929 when prices for farm products dropped to low levels. At this time we were all encouraged to spend freely. Prices for farm products are higher than before the war and once the quota for all grain was lifted there is considerably more money in the hands of the farmer than for many years past.

Put aside a nest egg for future requirements. It will be needed in the future. During the war years much of the farm machinery has become worn but we have pushed it up as best we could and still carry on. Make your old machinery do as long it is to work-but keep your savings so that you can do so. It may not be absolutely necessary to buy new machinery but very strongly urge that as much of your money be invested in a surety bond reserve as possible. Get along as well as you can with expenses still in use until after the war. Then the tendency will leave a feeling of security that confidence to commencement, and encouragement to health and long life.

I write from my own experience. In the early years, it was a struggle to keep out ill debt and what I lost I have had to hold. I denied myself many commodities that I desired and which some possessed in this object I never hesitated to purchase equipment I could pay for, and in the end proved a good investment. I sense this after fifty years of farming in Saskatchewan.

Canada is still Canada. Governments may come and go, but her resources and industrial material remain and will take care of your investment in

Miniatures

By Mrs. C. H. Plimoff

Sometimes in a wet night there and roads impassable, we were driven to seek shelter under one of the three shingled roofs in the hamlet, those of Robert Hamilton, Peter Rye and Charles Plimoff.

We would a Bee morning in 1909 when, by all the accepted standards of what they mornings, found by poets, "O, that we two were maying", etc., that women were up to, had their sheet down and were busy with particular morning, after a sleepless night when the cool roof of our bedroom had looked all night, seeing Mrs. John Alton, with her eight months old baby in her arms, trudging up to bed under an umbrella, the younger members of the family under another umbrella. It seemed as bed just enjoying it all hugely, while Father Alton, who had already prepared some breakfast from the last cooked-by-lamp-light meal, was trudging up a town, bundling us into the wagons and taking us over to Mr. Peter Rye's. Before noon of that day three other families, also flooded out, arrived. It was a crowded quarters alright, but bed and bread and a warm welcome awaited us in this hospitable home.

Then, in a day or so returning home to find water still dripping from the roof, presenting a sodden, soot-begone picture of things to behold.

With somewhat "tempered" order and cleanliness restored, we settled down to look at getting things out to dry. Presently the sun shone again, a fine breeze sprang up and the day's produce was rounded up on one that might be termed in a new country, and was accepted as such.

The home of Bill Walker, Agricola, was a centre of hospitality for the Frank Walker, later M.L.A., then a lad of eighteen years, was the life and soul of the party.

Bill Walker, with the great might of Frank digging a well on his father's farm, was down in the hole as deep and such a fast of cribbing the whole way. The hole is now a cavalier in process of digging, that when the digger looked up he could not see daylight, and the bottom of it was all it was a dry hole!

Bill's son was engaged at a place where it was difficult to find the of a keg of flour. Years wasn't as they are now. Flour was $2.50 per. Butter was worth twelve to fourteen cents a pound, eggs eight cents to twelve cents a dozen, and vegetables were a luxury. We recall a Saturday evening son of Bill Bennett, whose lasted eight pounds of butter in to the Fort. The butter was needed at home, but the need of money for the family week was even greater. This farm mother had Plimoff cream in her parlour night, all the week as usual. When she inspired the price of butter the storekeeper said to her, "Mrs. Plimoff, I'll make a deal with you! You send me all the butter you make for the next week, and we'll not buying it from any one else but you!" With a sinking heart, but with an outward calmness that would not have made a poker player blush, she replied, "I'll take you at your word, Mr. Bennett!" Then as if it had just occurred to her, "O yes! I forgot! I'll take two cases of Comfort soap." She said good-bye to the prevalent Silicon notes, but she had the laundry soap, and the children had butter on their bread that week and months. Boys and girls were lucky if they had stout leather boots to wear to school in winter. Rubbers or overshoes were not of the question. Two pairs of overalls had to take the place of leggings for boys in many cases. We have known of youngsters walking to school in their bare feet, crawling around the big box stove to warm up and getting so sock-bound that when they came to look at proper mocassins on their feet they found that when they sat down in their school desks they bounced up again as the' they had been shot from a gun. They were usually a lively bunch of youngsters. They had to be to survive.

Perhaps was no bullding going on and no one had any money to pay for it if there was. No farm help was needed as there was but a small acreage under cultivation on the new farms. Those who had a little money to sell or trade for flour, found it in the Public Barracks for Sale.

Living was plain and wants were few, and self-sufficiency was the order of the problems that make life today a complex matter.

Mr. John Whitmore, mentioned earlier in the "little pictures", was one of the first to begin farming, moved in from North Dakota to the Partridge Hill district about 1901. As a young man he had driven a team and road to Edmonton to what is now the city of Lloydminster, about two hundred miles, to haul lumber for the colony of settlers that were soon to follow the Rev. Father Lloyd. This was the original Barr colony.

This trip involved hardship and danger, crossing the Saskatchewan in the fall or winter weather, no settlements where they could get an night. The only stopping place en route was that run by Harry Bend, in what is now the town of Vermilion.

The next carried lighted lanterns under the horse-blankets to keep them from freezing on the singles, six young head and yoke, and drawn by a variety of prairie schooners, from a new white, to a pair, over a fire at the side of a trail, slept at night in the same blankets that kept them warm. Valley, as materials used among Indians to make a blanket, money, we wonder if they were a straight to the hardy pioneers who blazed the trail that they might travel them.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

Editor recently on the weekly newspapers of Canada

Canadians who read weekly newspapers are no doubt concerned with matters relating to nutrition as those who live in towns when centres, and possibly a little light on the activity and purposes of the Canadian Council on Nutrition as difficulty tied up with the future of agriculture, and there is hardly a member of the citizens who isn't directly or indirectly affected by this primary industry.

An expansion of Canadian agricultural production is needed after the war, and it is believed it's greatest immediate use lie in the export market. Nutritionists maintain that the food standards of the world, even at the best of times, are far below the level necessary for really good health. Even in Canada, which has had one of the highest food standards of any country, consumption of food per person has risen since the war in respect of some foods, however, it is still well below the desirable nutritional level.

Here in this connection are a few pertinent facts. The total Canadian civilian intake of fruit per person per year was 320.2 pounds in the period 1935-39. It rose to 1,020.3 pounds in 1941 and to 1,033.4 pounds in 1942. In 1943 the average total intake was 1,000 pounds per civilian. The reduction was in part due to the poor vegetable crop and in part due to more general rationing of, food.

It was back in 1938 that the Canadian delegation to the League of Nations supported a resolution urging members of the League to set up National Nutrition Committees. The Canadian Council was subsequently formed in 1939, followed by an order-in-council in December 1942 which more clearly defined its membership and functions. Each provincial health department was to provide one representative to the Committee, 25 more to represent scientific or economic agricultural experts (teachers and doctors), and five persons connected with social welfare and others.

It was the function of the Committee to consider and make recommendations upon all aspects relating to nutrition, including investigations, dissemination of facts, the rules of nutrition in terms of specific foods, and methods of improving the nutritional status of the people of Canada.

The Council had a general meeting in Ottawa last May, and a few high lights of that meeting furnish an insight into the work being done unostentatiously to better the health of the Dominion of ours.

The Committee on Food Analysis for instance, had been conducting research projects in a number of laboratories. Its members had been interesting findings to report on the Vitamin C content of vegetables before and after cooking, and after standing on a steam table. They reports showed that losses of the vitamins after cooking varied from 14 to 91 per cent, and that losses were greater after steaming than boiling. After two hours on a steam table most of the Vitamin C was lost.

Analysis of fresh and dehydrated vegetables showed that dehydration destroys a considerable proportion of Vitamin C, sometimes more than 50 per cent. Its effort on thiamine, riboflavin and carotene was much less.

Our Column . . .

Walter Woodall's cake of $5000 a day to be given to the first Fuehrer for every day Germany keeps out after August 31st, will pay dividends to everybody, maybe what the cat says.

In the event of snow-white, with tomato trim, the hand egg grading plant at Vulcan will be known as "Chicken Hall" among other buildings in the district.

The appearance may urge other businessmen in the block to "spruce-up" only the front.

It is with mixed feelings that we announce the sale of The Fort Record to take effect October 1st. After ten happy years of pleasant associations and social relations in Fort Saskatchewan it takes considerable courage to pull up stakes and start over again. The position we will shortly fill in the Canadian Army, will, we believe, fulfill a long-cherished hope.

Thanks to the co-operation of advertisers and subscribers alike, we have been able to improve the paper from year to year. The paper itself has increased from a "one or three pager" of five columns to a six page publication of seven columns. Circulation has increased from around 1500 to 2300, and our subscription list is important in quality is the replacement of "ready-print" by bonafide customers new and reliable. The latest news cost is by the various correspondents who have been very faithful and appreciated by the Editor.

We have endeavored to give the best service in a place that every person is interested with there in town of a permanent and it has always been our policy to support and promote any project of community betterment. It is our hope that this co-operation and good-will which have been given The Fort Record under the ownership will continue and that Mr. Knowles will be happy in his relationships with the whole district.

Mr. Knowles will be with us in the Office during the last two weeks of September and will take over operation on October 1st.

Radiograms

Thanks to our famous business about watching a comic grips these days . . . wonder if when it's based on authentic fact and on real people! But that's the only way Mitt Cantff, member of Terry and the Pirates, and his wife, Dorothy, are known to the world of "Terry" fans. Terry" Boman, who's the "splitting image" of Terry of the comic strip. He has served in both and China, and was the flight officer on a transport plane carrying supplies and mail to the front lines.

So it's easy to see why "Terry and the Pirates" is one of the most outstanding comic strips in the papers, and why the cheer is two of the best on the air!

World of Wheat

by
S. C. L. Strange

Farmers will soon be threshing their grain. Many farmers will harvest a crop that was grown from good Registered or Certified seed. Such grain, I suggest, should be threshed carefully with a separator that has been thoroughly cleaned, then the threshed grain should be bined separately so that it will not become mixed with other grains.

A farmer who has grown grain, which is only passed and—of this quality, can improve the crop of many of his neighbors if he will offer this good seed to them at a small premium over the market price. When Registered or Certified seed is offered for sale in commercial channels the fields have to be inspected, and the seed in the sack has to be inspected and government sealed. So the reputation of this kind, however, is needed if seed is sold by a farmer to his neighbors.

The late Dr. Robertson, founder of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, once expressed the view that every farmer who produced a crop of first-to-variety grain suitable for seed, conveyed to him at Ottawa-ton form that would help to improve the quality of the crop, hence the farmer, of all his neighbors.

St. Mark's Church Attracts Visitors

The holiday week-end with its radiant Sunday brought a gratifying number of visitors to our Festival of Prayer at St. Mark's Church. Among the visitors we were glad to welcome was a troop of Trail Rangers from Edmonton.

In the absence of Mr. Ernest Hinton, who has been helping in the leadership of a boys' Camp in Edmonton's Jasper Park, our Rector, the Rev. Charles Carr, passage brother of Mr. Arthur Carr, who was in charge of this service. Mr. Carr's message was deep. Daughter challenged us all with his interpretation of the oddly question, "Am I my brother's keeper?"

Another highlight of our Special Service was the appropriate solo, "Garden of Prayer", sung by Douglas Stevenson, one of the tall sons of Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson of Clover Bar. The vast silence, as Douglas' beautiful voice held the message of the words and music, was high testimony of the deep feeling aroused in the hearts of the congregation.

"Dempsey" Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bell, writes briefly and modestly to this editor. "The colder has been tough, but we have come through alright".

Joe Porter too, writes in the same vein to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Porter, of Fultonvale. It would be a powerful lift to these boys to know that we are all thinking of them—that our hearts are with them.

Wreath-Laying Ceremony Sunday Next

Sunday, August 28th saw the gathering of many First Great War Veterans, members of V.V.B. Units, members of the active services of the present war, as well as many friends from a wide area, at the annual memorial service and V.V.B. Church parade at the Ukrainian Memorial hall. The service was high-lighted by a wreath-laying ceremony, to which honor rolls of both wars were read by Mr. William Griffith, of Pioneer. The wreaths were laid beneath the memorial plaque and honor rolls by veterans representing the Lamm, Pembina, Lindbrook V.V.B. Units, and the Lemm Vista school district. In charge of the parade were Fred Butler of the Pembina unit and James Brocquille of the Lindbrook unit.

Much was added to the service by special music rendered in the auditorium. The Ukrainian United Church choir sang the anthem "O Master of the Land" and Mrs. Kinnee Gross and Mrs. Wasylyk sang the duet "Sunset and Evening Star" and "Whispering Hope". The service opened and closed with hymns from the Ukrainian Community singing.

Rev. Father Wasylyk thanked all those who contributed to the success of the service.

Line Elevators Protest Barley Export Ruling

Protest has been lodged with the Government by the Line Elevator Companies against an order of the Feeds Administrator prohibiting export of barley below grade 3 C.W., or a wire for forward to Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, by R. R. Emerson, President of the North-West Line Elevators Association. It is contended that the order is discriminatory to western farmers as the order will result in farmers being denied the opportunity of obtaining premiums obtainable for malting barley.

Following is the wire sent to Mr. Gardiner:

"Recent orders of Feeds Administrator prohibiting exportation of barley below grade 3 C.W. for export is extremely detrimental to producers' interests. Weather now must but few days has been very poor and will lower barley grades. Malting types which ordinarily would qualify for top grades will now be lowered but shipments will still select those types for malting purposes with payment of malting premiums. To prohibit the export of these types denies the producer the opportunity for malting premiums. Surely there are plenty of feed supplies in Canada without penalizing barley producers. We recommend Feeds Administrator be requested to reconsider his decision and prevent his action by developments either feed grain commission to move in volume."

Miniatures

By Mrs. C. H. Flintoff

The men and women of this period had before them the vision of the future, when their homes could be restored to them in this new land of promise. They watched together and planned each day with kindly hearts and high courage. Many times they had need of these qualities in every individual case to maintain the fine spirit of neighborly helpfulness and co-operation.

Such kindness shown to sickness or when death entered a home was never known to happen before. There weren't any hospitals; just the good offices of example. Sometimes a kind word a welcoming countenance is great a day sometimes.

Before I remember many things about the first Mrs. J. T. Riddle, about six months after she came to the district she had a baby girl. Mrs. Riddle was very ill, and when the baby was born the mother was not expected to live. Mrs. Reynard, who was then living on the Bob Johnson quarter, was sent for. She came and took charge of the household, and for many days and nights she was constantly at the bedside of the sick woman. Mrs. Reynard had a baby of her own, a little girl about two years old, and she had to leave her with her husband and other children. Mrs. Riddle was very ill for many days, but finally began to recover, and Mrs. Reynard was able to return to her own home. Mrs. Riddle was very grateful for the kindness shown her, and when the baby was christened she was named Reynard, after the kind woman who had been such a friend in need.

Another incident I remember was when Mrs. Bob Johnson of Good Hope, whose ready Irish wit was more than a match for the would-be smart Alec. Bill drove a team of bobs in the harvest, and this was the first time they had had to "stand twice to make a shock." Hitched to a dilapidated bushharrow. One day as he drove down Main street in the Port a couple of Mounties were standing on the corner. Seeing the chance to have a little fun, one of them called out, "Hey, old man, what do you feed those horses?" Quick as a flash, old Bill came back "Scrub, you dumb fool. Can't you see the straw?"

As soon as the newcomers were settled, they turned their thoughts to the building of schools and places to worship. These were often in humble surroundings, but the quality of worship did not suffer on this count. Log-churches, "sodsheds," and the other substitutes substituted in the spiritual needs of the people.

In 1901 a ladies Aid Society was organized in Partridge Hill. The first president was Mrs. R. J. Turvin. They began the task of raising funds to build a Presbyterian Church. Rev. A. Forbes was minister, holding services in the old school house.

In 1902, to date, the present church was formally opened and dedicated, and in June 1927 the fortieth anniversary of the opening was observed. Among the guest preachers present was Rev. Dr. Aldridge of Calgary. Two of the original members of the Ladies' Aid were present, Mrs. Jos. Allen of Lamont and Mrs. Ralph Smith, who passed away a month later.

On display too, with its very interesting collection of names, was the distinguished Quilt "spread" by three pioneer Christian women, or a means of raising funds.

We do not wish to give the impression that life in those early days was all hard work. On the contrary, work and play went hand in hand in well balanced proportion. For recreation there were Christmas and other entertainments, tea meetings, picnics, socials and box socials, house dances, quilting bees, choir practice in the house that boasted an organ. We thought nothing of travelling twenty to forty miles to play baseball with a neighboring team. In this connection, we recall Mrs. Joe Carscadden, now Mrs. Harriet Walker of Agricola, telling of her brother Harry and she building a sleigh in the farm kitchen one winter afternoon so they could go to a Christmas tree concert at Partridge Hill that night. They got in finished in time and had a grand trip!

We do well to bow our heads and to tread softly in the presence of this company we have called up. To quote Miss Hazel Wilkinson in Magazine Review, "They toiled and suffered to clear forests that they might make homes, develop farms, establish highways, build schools, churches, that out of their struggles succeeding generations might enjoy success.

"These sturdy pioneers fortified their homes with moral and religious ideals. They taught religion in both school and church. Whatever protection Canadian life today enjoys is due largely to the bulwarks built by these pioneers."

Their mantle falls on our shoulders. To our hands they commend this book. Pioneers, we salute you. Hail! and Farewell!

summer proceeded to dig a well. He dug industriously for a day or two, then on the evening of the second day found he was down too deep to climb out. He was working alone and had no ladder. With the prospect of spending the night and possibly the rest of his life in that well, he started to call lustily for help. Several hours later George Wallis, a neighbor, was walking home from his farm further east, heard the calls for help and came to the rescue of Mr. Flintoff.

A colorful character of those days was old "Bill" Johnson, father of the still Bob Johnson of Good Hope, whose ready Irish wit was more than a match for the would-be smart Alec. Bill drove a team of bobs in the harvest, and this was the first time they had had to "stand twice to make a shocker," hitched to a dilapidated bushharrow. Milk

IS NOT ELASTIC

Milk is our most valuable food. It must provide us with milk to drink, with butter, cheese, evaporated and concentrated milk and a score of other products.

Canadian farmers have done a magnificent job. They have increased milk production in 1943 by more than 40 million quarts—over 1000.

They have done this in the face of a 25% reduction in farm help, serious manpower shortages, and the fact that it takes two to three years to bring a calf into milk production.

Government expenditures to conserve gasoline by curtailing non-essential driving of motor vehicles is one rule as there exists a critical shortage in the light of war necessities. It is well to know that Canada's greatest source of crude oil, the Alberta Turner Valley field, is producing 4000 barrels less daily than a year ago. Sixty per cent of our imported crude oil has to come by ocean tanker The needs of aviation gas, for example, increased from 1.5 million Imperial gallons in 1939 to 7.9 million gallons for the year ending March, 1944 Our Royal Canadian Navy uses 2 million gallons to move an armoured corps gallons remove an armoured corps five miles, and on top of this, just realize the needs of industry and agriculture, truly a staggering amount when totalled. So plain joy riding is not justified.

See that G.S. badge on his arm? That means he's volunteered to fight anywhere in the world.

The Army needs more men like him—men who can take it—men with the courage to fight, on their home, their loved ones—everything they cherish—may be free.

For this War is not over yet—we still have a lot of fighting to do. And our boys who are fighting over there will need the help of every unmobilized Canadian who is fit to fight, and willing to fight.

It will take months of thorough training to make you fighting-fit. That's why Canada's Army needs you NOW—and needs you for

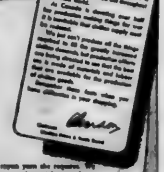
THE STORY OF CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR

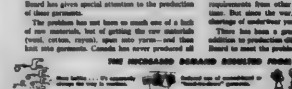


OUTSTUFF Indian and Thirties wear has underwear like the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has given special attention to the production of these garments.

The problem has not been so much one of a lack of raw materials, but of getting the raw materials (wool, cotton, rayon), spun into yarns—and then knit into garments. Canada has never produced all the wool, cotton and rayon yarn she requires. We have always had to get a substantial part of our requirements from other countries, even in peacetime. But since the war, there has been an acute shortage of underwear everywhere.

There has been a greatly increased demand in addition to production difficulties. The miners of the Board to meet the problem are given below.

THE RECOMMENDED DEMANDED STANDARD FOR CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR



GOOD UNDERWEAR: but still not enough!

The answer is that it just has not been possible to produce with the skilled workers and machines available to the United Nations enough yarn and garments to meet the increased demands all over the world.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE ABOUT IT

✓First of all the Board found out the kind and quantity of garments Canadian children must have.

✓This showed that the public is asking for more than is actually needed.

✓In plain ways made to use, by directing production all down the line, if we could meet the needs demand as nearly as possible.

✓Then manufacturers were told to produce an increased number of garments.

✓A constant check is kept on mills to see that they are producing the required number.

✓Manufacturers not producing enough children's underwear were induced to put more in production. An additional 650,000 garments will be provided this year from these sources.

✓Negotiations were conducted with production authorities to obtain permission for supplies of yarn to Canadian knitters for use in children's underwear.

✓Primary cotton mills were required to divert spinning facilities from fabric production to the spinning of underwear yarns.

✓Arrangements were made for the National Selective Service in charge of man power to direct labour to the underwear mills.

✓A special campaign was launched to enlist patriotic volunteers.

✓Distribution to retail stores was organized to ensure available supply in all cities.

Most of us will be sending Christmas parcels to the Hill and hoping overseas. Last Christmas season over 12 million lbs. of parcel mail was dispatched; this year the Postmaster General figures there will be a great increase, as there are suggested deadline mailing dates: September 15 for the Far East, India, Burma, Ceylon, etc.; October 5th for Middle East area, i.e. Egypt, Iran, Syria; October 10 for Central Mediterranean Forces and October 25 for the United Kingdom and France. Don't let the boys and girls be disappointed through late mailing. The special rate is 15 cents a pound for the maximum weight of 11 lbs. "Pack parcels carefully, address carefully", is the advice given.

Despite the desire of young people from the farm due to war's attraction, interest in junior farm clubs seems to being maintained. The estimated national expenditure for 1944 will be held at Toronto during the week beginning November 19 with contests for dairy cattle, swine, poultry, seed grain and potato projects followed by educational classes. Ottawa is on Ottawa, Friday, November 24th.

Banks in the Gananoque area have posted and shipped by Canadian Army personnel in Toronto for Canadian prisoners of war in Germany. The German government, of course, stipulates what they can or cannot read. Many prisoners request books providing "food for thought." Many [illegible] and Modern for the first time. Favorites are the stories of Sabatini, Galsworthy, Burton, Dumas. Prisoners watch eagerly for Canadian writers and works.

The June report of the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel shows there is a continued shortage of technical persons in certain specialized lines. This situation has existed for the past three years. An example of the problem facing the Bureau was the sudden need of aeronautical and technical workers to produce a large supply of the trunder drag parachute. Seventy-three hands were fully put, shell production was unexpectedly stepped up again, rendering it a further search for persons with essential training. An important factor affecting the supply of technical persons is the limited extent to which individuals are qualified in the required technical knowledge. Among the 320 women who graduate each year and become qualified as technical persons, about one half are in the field of household economics and most of the remainder rather generalized courses in science. The activities of this Bureau have played an important part in making Canada's high industrial production possible, but it has been a mighty difficult task.

The end of August marked the deadline for release for demands use of electric refrigerators. A limited number were released last year from stocks built up before manufacture was stopped and since April 1 of 1944 no more have been about 150 a month. At present there are only 225 new domestic-type left in stock in this country. These to be held for hospitals. That is equivalent of one day's production at normal times.

Bureau of Statistics issues Pre the first half of 1944 the index of physical volume of business was 32.7 (1935-39 average equals 100) as compared with the comparable figure for 1943. Industrial production values gained 2.5 per cent. The national income for the first year is tentatively estimated at 6½ billion—an increase of 9.5 per cent over 1943 period.

Our Column . . .

Our Column got side-tracked last week, along with other non-essential items in order that we may publish the pictures of "the boys".

Then again, after the excitement most of the previous week, it was just as well to let the column "cool off".

Cities, towns and communities across Canada are preparing for V-Day. Committees are organized in every branch of society, have been formed in these centres in order that a universal and fitting celebration program may be arranged.

It is generally believed that the day will be marked by a general holiday. Many local citizens will venture forth to the larger centres. But transportation facilities will have many in their home town. Therefore, Fort Saskatchewan, should start making arrangements at once, to celebrate the occasion in an appropriate manner.

Home from war: the Council decided to remove the handle from the pump in the plot next to the Record office. This hasn't been done, and every day or so someone is prevented from taking water from the well.

Well and pump only needs to be cleaned out, and probably a few boards replaced.

Several farmers in the district without drinking water, drive into town two or more a week, while here they do their shopping.

Besides being a healthful measure, it would be good business on the part of the town if they were to have the well put in good condition.

Holding of two great international conferences in Canada this month is convincing proof of the high esteem in which our country has achieved in world affairs. This has been built up by years of outstanding citizenship. On the surface, international relations must remain to meet new and unusual problems, but if past performance is any guide, the conferences will be successful.

Delegates are qualified in the respective countries to make decisions—no time is wasted return to Ottawa for instructions or the final word from the Government involved is kept sound conflict. If peace can be preserved, this in itself is of first significance in the healing of the lives of Canadian youth and preventing disruption of family, business, home and industrial pursuits.

But the new place Canada has attained in world affairs must carry much more than that. Canadians farmers and other primary producers must again take their rightful place in the economic life of the country. The removal of terrible barriers and horrors of war abroad. Toward this objective the government is throwing its whole weight. It means employment for the people, a prosperity instead of depression, as the government somehow. Canada has taken a leading part in the movement for freer trade after the war.

FALL CULTIVATION

The generous rains of this past summer brought forth a large growth of weeds. Many of these weed plants unfortunately not to need before harvest, and as the weed seeds have been distributed on the land. Many seedlings, too, are not equipped with weed seed-saving devices, and so residence also have scattered weed seeds over the fields.

Light fall cultivation will come quantities of these weed seeds to germinate. The cold winter will kill many of the young tender weed plants and next spring additional quantities can be killed by a single stroke of the cultivator or disc before sowing.

Parcel Value Increased. Donation Received

It was reported Wednesday after noon at the Women's Institute meeting, that the increase value of the parcels sent to those in the forces was due mainly to the generous donations sent annually, by Mr. Harry Lasker The Fall Fair donation to the Red Victory Bond sales by Mr. Lasker was turned over to the Women's Institute. The latest amount being a cheque for $120.00, proceeds of the 5th Victory Loan. This is a generous contribution towards the war effort on the part of Mr. Lasker, and calls for a hearty vote of thanks from everyone.

At their meeting Wednesday afternoon W.I. members packed 31 Xmas parcels to be sent to the convicts in the Mediterranean war theatre.

Mrs. Harry Thomas, convenor of the dairy flag reported that another $6 odd dirty bags are ready for shipment except for two knitted articles, mainly wash. Parents having any pullet chicken to donate some for this worthy cause are asked to get in touch with Mrs. H. Thomas, or any member of the W.I.

Drift In Our Own Backyards

"A three-day visit changed my ideas of farming," said a Westerner. "They had warned me about the dust bowl. But didn't worry my brother. I thought. It was words. Do I want to billow-up-and, pulverizing the soil until even cultivation is need, and sowing wheat. Then the three-day wind blows. Then soil top and plating up from my hillside and blow into the gully. I planned alfalfa as a root crop to bind together what was left of the soil. But it took at least a thousand years to form the top soil I had lost in three days."

Three of us who were through the "dirty thirties" in Southern Sask., in employment and depression after the crop failure, were sick at heart and weary of mind when we think of the years ahead. But most of us are still determined that we can win out troubled only by the weeds. When we finish reaping the fruits of our labor and a few assorted humble members here in our own country, we think we can go on to cultivate our fields or markets as usual. We forget the dirty 30's.

It was moral drift after the last war which led us into a decade of infidelity, and it is now a growing struggle that will decide for high standards of living and forget their high standards in toil. The moral question was followed by economic collapse. Shall we now go on to collapse and not put business back in the black. But it has not halted until 1950 or 1960 as after the last war. Many colleges more desperate that we have ever known. I read, in fact, of one college in storm of such revolutionary force that our whole civilization, built up over the last thousand years, is torn to pieces, and only the tough and the strong who adapt that to our own doctrine. "Dad and I took a few boys and left the other day," said the lean-ager. "We got dad fixed up with each other—about ourselves. I know my dad for the first time since he knew me."

This simple story of human relations in the life of a whole race, how to gather a father and son who were drifting apart, and delight it do for management and labor, nation and nation, man and race, those and world unity don't have to wait for world unity. It begins. As the farmer starts in his own fields to re-plan drifting soil, we can put new moral fiber into a drifting world and start it into new land yard.

Efficient Operation Of Combines

For good results, proper adjustment of the combine is essential, says Mr. J. Hutchinson, Agricultural Engineer. Each season requires certain machine adjustments. The best way to obtain these adjustments correctly is to study the service manual furnished by the firm making the machine.

Probably the most common cause of difficulty and loss is a cylinder rasp or rush. If the straw is heavy and it is necessary to set close to the ground to get a good cut, the speed should be reduced so that RASH should are required.

The most common "measuring stick" for good threshing is to examine the straw at the back of the machine for heads. This is not the most accurate method for determining good threshing, but, here at the cylinder line but not the other machine things need to be done that be decides and acts.

That is why the man who hates what he fears is not, in the long run, his fears to take over his life. He has allowed the things he fears to built so large that he cannot see the positive values. Only the man who is captured by, in love with, something positive and great can carry on knowing that he doesn't really matter whether he is afraid or not.

Lincoln has a story about two men sleeping side by side in battle. One said: "You're as pale as a sheet. I think you are afraid." The other replied: "Yes, I am afraid; and if you were half as much afraid as I am you would have run long ago."

Perfect love, we read in First John, casteth out fear. Love the highest you know with all that is in you and then fear will be pushed into place as a minor matter. And, what's more, you will discover that both what you love and your capacity for love will grow even into the likeness of Him whose love was so great that it governed victoriously in His life even when suffering and death tried to conquer Him.

THE FORT RECORD

VOL. [illegible] No. 36 FORT SASKATCHEWAN, ALBERTA CANADA WEDNESDAY SEPT 20th, 1944 Subscription [illegible]

SEP 22 1944

STRAIT IS THE GATE..
Rev. Elliott S. Birdsall, M.A.

Once you permit yourself to take with you Fear your growth has stopped and you become part of the world's illness instead of part of its cure.

There are many things that are rightly to be feared, and unless a man knows that the risks and dangers of his way of life and fears these things that are a threat to be feared is part of maturity.

To set these fears run your life, however is to miss life in another way. The mature man is fully aware of the dangers, but is [illegible] he is afraid, but he [illegible] whether he is afraid or not [illegible] matter.

He is a minor matter because there are so many major matters. The job he has to do, the values he is working to achieve, the loved ones he is confing to protect, the cause he serves, the world he wishes to help build into being, these major matters are so important that he throws himself into their achievement whether he is afraid or not. If his purpose is strong enough and clear enough he will not know until afterward that he is afraid. The important thing is that he has not allowed his fears to make his decisions for him. It is in terms of the major things that need to be done that he decides and acts.

He was greatly interested in the C.C.F. plan sponsored by Dave Barrett, on the back page of this issue. After reading it over several times he exclaimed "no vote for that man"

Yours very truly,
REV. [illegible]

Arctic Ocean Resident Reads 'The Record'

The Fort Record sure gets around as the following letter indicates.

Fort Smith, N.W.T.
September 18, 1944.

The Fort Record.
Dear Sirs;

I am enclosing a picture of which may interest you for publication in your paper.

The picture shows a native of the far north, close to the Arctic ocean, 2150 miles north of Edmonton, in the land of the Eskimo, reading your Fort Record.

He was greatly interested in the C.C.F. plan sponsored by Dave Barrett, on the back page of this issue. After reading it over several times he exclaimed "no vote for that man"

Yours very truly,
REV. [illegible]

Mrs. T. Priest is visiting friends in the Lamont district.

Mr. Kurt Kuhn of the R.C.A.F. has been transferred from the Coast to Rivers, Man., and enroute spent an enjoyable week-end with his parents, Mr and Mrs. [illegible]

Pilot Sergeant Wilfred Hoshalmans who received his wings recently at a graduation ceremony at MacLeod, is home on embarkation leave, his thoughts fixed on Burma—next stop!

Miss Marjorie Bishop is a new nurse at the C.W.A.C., going in now at Kitchener, Ontario, where she will take her initial training.

Receives 'Wings'

Sgt.-Pilot J. G. H. (Orvile) Robinson received his "wings" at a ceremony at MacLeod R.C.A.F. station recently. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robinson, of Fort Saskatchewan, attended the presentation

Sgt. Robinson and his wife accompanied his parents home, where they will spend a short furlough.

Orville attended Fort High School, before joining the R.C.A.F. in December 1940. After [illegible] Engine Mechanic. On completing his course successfully in July 1943, he remustered to air crew as a pilot, and received his "wings" at MacLeod recently.

Some of us are just living for the day we can get back to Fort Saskatchewan and till we stop scrapping among ourselves and live as peace can start.

General Rain Halts Harvesting

A general rain over the week-end put a stop to all harvesting operations in the district. No frost has been reported although Tuesday's reading was 34. Heavy winds and rain have slightly damaged swathed oat grain, although, on the whole the grain is standing up well.

Walker League Society Are Hosts To Visitors

Masters Jarkie, Donald and Valentine Lehman of Rocky Rapids are holidaying with their grand-parents Mr. and Mrs. John Parker.

On October 9th the Bethany Brotherhood Men's League Society will be hosts to the Northern Alberta Sons Walther Leaguers for their annual fall rally. All young people attending can expect a very educational and entertaining program.

Program will start at 2.30 p.m.

Rev. W. W. Gill of Leduc will be guest speaker at Thanksgiving service at Bethany Lutheran Church on October 9th.

Miss Dolphine Lehman is holidaying with her mother, Mrs. May Lehman of Rocky Rapids, Alberta.

Harvesting operations are at a standstill due to the bad weather.

Of interest to many in the district is the marriage of Mrs. Bartel (Lehnert) Hasse to Mr. O. Peetz which took place at the parsonage in Bethany Lutheran church recently.

According to a statement by Sir W. Jenkin, H.P., chairman of Glamorgan Education Committee, Glamorgan produces more teachers than any other county in Britain. A large proportion of these trained in the county's training colleges hold appointments in England.

East Edmonton School Addition Nears Completion

The new show room forming an addition to the East Edmonton Public School (Dog is a moving experience the where forming a handsome structure in which the residents may take pardonable pride. Its proximity, however to the old community hall, gives the students much the appearance of making the contract more cumbed. We gather that the community's pet rehabilitation and reconstruction project, when the boys come marching home will be the conception of the East Edmonton public hall.

Mrs. I. Boatsher and small son (nee Evelyn Nunn) are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Hintz, coming from Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] have received word that their son Lewis, a member of the Invasion Troops since D Day, is being hospitalized for shell shock somewhere in France

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry (Henry's Dairy) have returned from the Coast on an extended visit with their family here.

Mrs. Andy Adamson, unit organizer for Edmonton Rural Victory Loan campaign, has been attending a conference in Calgary in connection with the forth coming Victory Loan

The cash income of Canadian farmers ended with all-time high level in 1943, the total being $1,387 million. I do not think that such a total is extraordinary high in view of the 40 per cent increase in the dominion during the war years.

What is extraordinary was the farm income rises. In times of peace the farmers with another good year struggle to make a living 3-continues prices go down very low For instance, in 1932 the total Canadian farm income was only $393 5 million or less than a third of the 1943 total

What are farmers going to do with the money accumulated during the years of better prices? Quite evidently I remember what many farmers did with their money during World War I. They invested it in land and livestock at peak prices, using not only their cash resources but their credit in the succeeding depression these funds were swept into bankruptcy and which sold for as low as $10 an acre in the bloom period good down to less that a quarter of that price in the depression years

Hundreds [illegible] transactions in that "boom never grow to the age" [illegible] Saskatchewan and Alberta for farm products never persist in the subsequent years.

Speaking particularly about West ern Canada I believe farmers should follow a different policy than they did during Word War I. The prairie provinces have a comparatively short history. Much of the settlement is no more than a generation old. Many farm families are original pioneers on their farms. I believe that a campaign should be undertaken to improve and beautify farm homes. Farmers should be encouraged to save for the particular purpose of improving the farm home surroundings. A special fund might be created by each farm family to lay that purpose. The whole family would be interested in investment that fund. Then when peace these come the money would be available for the building of a new home or the modernization of the old; for the installation of a water system, electric lighting, and a furnace. As investment in such improvements is a "save thing" You cannot possibly lose. Your gain will be in the saving of toil for your wife and yourself, in the enjoyment in living for your family, and in a sense of accomplishing improvements which will encourage your neighbors to do likewise.

Post War And the Farmer

POST-WAR FARM BUILDING, REPAIRS AND REPLACEMENTS
By Leonard D. Haskin, Sagt. Publicity Dept., Alberta Wheat Pool, Calgary, Alberta.

(This is another in a series of comments by well-known prairie authorities written expressly for the Weekly Newspapers of Western Canada.)

The Record Qualifies For 'A.B.C.' Membership

Mr. L. Lyall, auditor for Audit Bureau of circulations, Chicago, has completed his audit of the Fort Record, and now the local paper is a member of this association. Which counts The Record has 1470 subscribers who are paid up. The A.B.C. do not allow into membership papers to agreeable, except under certain conditions. In order to qualify, only a small percentage of readers may be in arrears.

The Record has large National Advertising percentage only papers with an A.B.C. rating and the Fort Record will be one of five in Alberta to enjoy this consideration.

This is another step forward, and no doubt in time to come, The Record will reap extra national business for the effort and expense involved.

Police Court News

Leo Paradis, of Edmonton, was fined $10.00 of defacing signs in Fort Saskatchewan and was ordered to pay the sum of $5.00 and costs, in an Edmonton Police Court.

A Legander, of Fort Saskatchewan, was found guilty to failing to stop at an intersection. He pleaded guilty and paid $2.00 and costs, in a local police court.

Eric J. Paterson, of Edmonton, was found guilty of speeding through town limits. He was tried in Fort Saskatchewan and found guilty, paid $10.00 and costs on lined by the architect. The average home even in the city alone has electricity, running water, gas, and even telephone. Why not the farm home?

I believe that lack of decent housing and home comforts on prairie farms is a direct cause of most of the trouble of the farm youth to the cities. I believe that a campaign should be undertaken to improve and beautify farm homes. Farmers should be encouraged to save for the particular purpose of improving the farm home surroundings. A special fund might be created by each farm family to lay that purpose. The whole family would be interested in investment that fund. Our farmers are receiving much advice about what they should produce. They are being urged to go in more for diversified farming; this means that if after the war large quantities of farm products are to be sold abroad, then Canadian people must be willing to purchase the goods of those foreign people who need our foodstuffs. This in turn means that tariffs, which now obstruct the importation of foreign goods, will have to be torn down. These are earnestly desire to help farmers, therefore, can best do so by urging our government to tear down some of the tariff barriers.

Others, among them Mr. J. D. Morgan, of Ottawa, are urging that Canada should not depend upon the reopening of international trade. For this reason it is important and highly satisfactory that the Dominion's status among other nations is such that it has a real voice in the shaping of the post war world in the final analysis this means more work and better markets for a share of the good things of life for Canadian people in every section.

Others say that we should concentrate mainly export markets there are, and not advert, govern the whole matter To illustrate, this war has brought a large demand for sugar at remunerative prices. Our farmers quickly increased beg production and needed no advice nor urging to do so We must remember, however, that we cannot sell if we do not buy, and this means that if after the war large quantities of farm products are to be sold abroad, then Canadian people must be willing to purchase the goods of those foreign people who need our foodstuffs. This in turn means that tariffs, which now obstruct the importation of foreign goods, will have to be torn down. These who earnestly desire to help farmers, therefore, can best do so by urging our government to tear down some of the tariff barriers.

Order Coal Now

The household coal situation is to bad as we foresee. With abolition of profit for those who cannot pay cash, and a limitation of the amount which can be delivered to those who can pay cash, movement of coal into household bins has become very slow; still be quite a problem, with shortage of trucks and labour, plus winter soon.

Canada in Spotlight World Conference

Canada held the world spotlight during the week because of the two outstanding international scenes enacted at Quebec and at Montreal. Interest of the National Capital as of the week centered in the conference of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier King at Quebec and later in the Montreal meeting of the United National Relief and Rehabilitation Administration at Montreal, where 44 nations are represented.

In two ways these events illustrate the increasingly large role being played in Canada in world affairs As Premier King stated at Quebec few would have visualized that on the fifth anniversary of the Dominion's entering the war, two such gatherings would be held almost simultaneously on Canadian soil. But aside from the fact that Canadian cities were chosen for these deliberations of supreme importance to mankind, the place by Canada was allotted in the proceedings was a tribute to the progress in international relations that Canada has made

At Quebec it was officially announced that Premier King sat in with Churchill and Roosevelt for the making of decisions which will govern the future course of the war and of all people everywhere after the war. Canadian Prime Minister King was much more than official host to the two great democratic leaders from this country

This was a particularly fitting tribute to the Dominion and to Mr. King because of the vast war contribution Canada has made in the military, economic and political fields But it was also a fresh recognition that in the major decisions of world policy being formulated, Canada is entitled to wield an influence far beyond its size from the standpoint of population.

The Dominion is vitally interested in a quick Victory over Japan an intelligent and amicable world readjustment after the war and in the future of Anglo-American relations.

Three very three of many important topics in the forefront of the Quebec talks This Dominion all must be one of the chief suppliers of food, agricultural machinery and other products and products for the re-establishment of liberated or conquered nations devastated by more than five years of war Canada's place in the un-premodented program of the UNRRA activities have been therefore of prosperity here, and will be a large one

International matters often have a remote sound to people in ordinary walks of life But it cannot be forgotten that the Pacific war is commanding timing and after the war means a great deal to everyday life At the session of parliament the Government must many finishing touches on the great reconstruction program at home, designed to maintain and evelop our present prosperity and to provide security and a better standard of living to Canadian men women and children But Canada is now the fourth greatest trading nation on the globe and many of its industrial resources must depend on encouragement of International Trade. For this reason it is important and highly satisfactory that the Dominion's status among other nations is such that it has a real voice in the shaping of the post war world in the final analysis this means more work and better markets for a share of the good things of life for Canadian people in every section.

A "Forty-Eight" at Home

Mrs. J. J. Moore

Like a beautiful brilliant jewel
In a setting of sombre stone;
Like a blissful sigh of Peace
Midst the agony of groans
Like the precious "First Edition"
Crammed in a box of books;
Like the glory of pink roses
To some lesser blossom looks,
Like the colors of the rainbow
Which on a gloomy day appears;
Like the flash of a baby's smile
Breaking throughout his tears;
Like a tiny taste of Heaven
To those who far-off roam;
Like unto these is my Dear One's

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS at Ottawa

Written specially for the weekly newspapers of Canada

Coming up for the week of October 9-14th, Canada will again observe "Fire Prevention Week," pursuant to a proclamation that is announced by Proclamation in the Canada Gazette. Fire Marshal Fire Commissioner flatly states there are too many fires on Canadian farms as well as in towns and cities. During the past ten years 470,000 fires in the Dominion have destroyed insurable property valued at more that $264,000,000 and during that period 2,582 persons lost their lives as a result of fires That's something to think about, alright, and a mighty good reason why everyone should make a thorough inspection of premises for fire hazards—be careful, always. Nearly all fires can be prevented.

You mightn't think it, but the "taxation" policy of the government is another powerful weapon in the fight to keep down the cost of living, and the same is true of "savings", both having the main result, i.e., helping to pay for the war and curbing excess purchasing power Through supplementary taxes and wage c ntrols Canadians contribute passively to the success of the stabilization policy to keep down the cost of living Through taxation and increased savings they also make an active contribution, and a very important one. That is something like a remember when the War Finance organization starts functioning again to mobilize personal savings for Victory through another loan.

No one cavils the work of the federal Labor Department which has the tough job of having directed toward it most of the labor and industrial disputes which arise. It is encouraging to hear a report from the department, though, that there has been a decided reduction in time lost through strikes in the first six months of 1944, compared with the same period of 1943. Preliminary figures show that 51,000 workers were involved in 118 disputes, with a loss of 350,000 man hours. In last year's 6-month period there were 202 disputes, with 103,000 workers and a loss of nearly 816,000 man-days.

The history of the fast-growing Canadian Navy, when it is written, will be a glorious one in the chapter which includes operations of the year 1944. R.C.N. ships provided 100 per cent of close escort for all North American United Kingdom trade convoys during the summer months of this year, and at the same time a considerable proportion of the seagoing hulls and fighting ships were supporting invasion operations in Northern France. Our navy manned 20 infantry landing craft, 16 motor torpedo boats for the operations, and had 19 corvettes escorting invasion convoys as well as six of our largest and most powerful destroyers. In all 120 ships, manned by about 10,000 officers and men took part in the invasion. Our navy had a great record against U-boats and since the beginning of the war, by mechanical, collapsed one surface ship, such readers and damaged six. Our Canadian ships were responsible for all of the surface ships sunk and 21 enemy surface vessels, damaged or destroyed.

Australian troops have been very effectively tackled by the Japanese Army, authorities Its campaign against one of the most brutal barbarians has been equally from a danger rate in the Canadian Army of officers' casualties. The average of the war is no matter have now been brought down to 24 per thousand a year, a very good record indeed. Every third soldier found to be unfitted will be allowed to return to civilian life after given specialized treatment and rendered a citizen billof-health.

When the brave "Carpathian" sailed recently for Sweden to exchange thousands and thousands prisoners of war, she carried 1,500 bags of parcels for Canadian prisoners of war in Germany Where the Carnadian Post Office department went about there would be space for mail quick arrangements were made to include 1,500 bags of piece post, on hand in New York Usually they go through Switzerland by way of Marseille, but since the latter is now in the battle zone, parcel post had accumulated in New York Now the mails were quickly routed in Ottawa, flown to New York and that's the story behind the story.

Fall Cultivate

To control the newly, the grass-hopper and second crush Early cultivation, full cultivation of stubble land is very effective when properly done.

The wheat time newly has increased many thousands of acres of wheat in Alberta, and control of the larvae are planning to overwinter just before ground level in the stubs of the wheat stubble that they fed on all. If they are left uncultivated damage to our 1945 wheat crop may be enormously heavy, warns J. L. Kaplan, Supervisor of Pest Control, Alberta Department. It can be avoided simply by cultivating just deeply enough to fill the stubble out of the ground and top it on the surface. The effectiveness of the operation will depend upon late-fall cultivation of stubble left up on the surface, and will destroy the possibilities with which the larvae are protected by the covering stubble has passed. The more hot, sunny days there are after the stubs are rooted up the more newly larvae will be destroyed. Some damage is likely in the heart of Alberta's fertile region never suffer heavy infestations they should cultivate all their wheat stubble right behind the combine or the binder.

New Claim Made For River Bridge

Advocated for the past 20 years, 6 months' bridge over the North Saskatchewan river at Clover Bar, just east of the town of Beverly, is being urged again as a multitude of that area.

A committee was set up at a recent meeting in Beverly to bring the need of the bridge to the attention of the dominion and provincial governments. W. E. Lurtis was named provisional secretary.

Some years ago the provincial government built approaches to a proposed bridge only and a ferry was procured, it is claimed. The approaches fell short of the river by about 200 yards and are said useless in winter.

The proposed bridge would serve under territory travelling between Jasper, Lloydminster and points east and also would be of value to the farmers taking produce to Edmonton Stockyards and packing plants or other market outlets, it is claimed.

GRANTS AND ALLOWANCES CAN WE AFFORD THEM?

Proposals are being made to spend hundreds of millions of dollars in the form of grants, allowances and relief to certain groups of Canadian people, mainly to those who live in urban areas. If these grants are made, the percentage of the income from each person to be collected in taxes will be almost as high in peacetime as it is now during the war. This would impose extreme hardships upon most of the people, including farmers, for farmers, either directly or in the form of income taxes or indirectly in the increased cost of the things they buy, always pay their full share of all taxes.

These gifts, grants and allowances will not help to produce new wealth. They merely divert the wealth from some and give it to others. Worse than this, however, they take the savings of the people and put them to non-productive uses, for these savings, collected as taxes, will not be available to make improvements and to create new industries, hence will not increase the general wealth of the country. The point then is, can we afford to do all this, and is it an balance necessary? Will Dominion Experimental Farm, Lacombe, and the University farm, Edmonton. Some winners will meet to decide provincial championships. The finals to be held at Edmonton. Final winners will then be eligible for the National Contests at Toronto in November.

'Thank Your Lucky Stars' At Sharp's Shows

Sharp's shows this week brings us "Thank Your Lucky Stars", with a cast of sixteen top ranking stars of radio and screen. Among these are Humphrey Bogart, Bette Davis, Ann Sheridan, Errol Flynn, Olivia De Haviland, Alan Smith, Ida Lupino and John Garfield The plot goes like this: Horton and Schall, as producers of a big charity show, want Dinah Shore, but they can't get her without Eddie Cantor, who swears is on the affair with an all-directing hand. Meanwhile Jon Simpson (Eddie Cantor), a bus driver dreams a double for Cantor, is trying to get Dennis Morgan in the show as a comedy-starter Joe Jean Leslie and others of Morgan's pals, get Eddie away by a ruse, and with Joe impersonating Cantor (you know what we mean) they succeed. Cantor's frantic efforts to get loose land him in an asylum and he is delayed enough so that Morgan gets his big chance.

The sugar situation is NOT sweet

FOOD SUPPLIES OF THE SUGAR CANADA CONSUMER HAD TO BE IMPORTED

This map shows where Canada, Great Britain and the United States get their sugar in the good old days of peace. Our chief countries take practically all the exportable sugar from these three major sugar-exporting areas.

But supplies have either been cut off by enemy occupation of the country—as in the case of Java and the Philippines, or their production radically reduced by shortage of workers, as in the case of Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Martinique, Trinidad, Fiji.

Even the production of beet sugar in Canada and the United States has been drastically cut by labour shortage. In both countries the '43 sugar beet crop was forty per cent less than the '41. The only country to show an important increase is Cuba, where export had for years been deliberately restricted. But its increase has not been sufficient to offset the losses elsewhere—let alone meet the increased demand.

SUGAR FOR CANADA

The war has brought vast unused Armies on the United Nations' side. Their maintenance has been taken for granted. Industrial output, and the transportation of all supplies to them, are as vital as T.N.T. and manufactured munitions. For instance, to explosives to fill five 10-inch shells requires as much sugar as lem. It is estimated, then 600 coffins children a year. If this is all done it will mean that a total of at least 1,000 mothers, fathers, or fancy and three quarter times the pre-war taxes will have to be collected from the Canadian people.

WHO WILL HAVE TO PAY?

It would seem proper to inquire, then, who will have to pay this bill, when these unexpectedly high taxes, which will be collected some other time, will be collected? Is it fair to ask that the so-called wealthy people alone are the proper part of the taxes to a complete fallacy. Every able ability of all the people to pay taxes will be somewhat curtailed after this war, for it is highly probable that present high prices for certain products, and so present high hourly wages will decline. In addition, the taxes will be collected as taxes in the form of excess profits from industries working on armaments, which conditions are now said at reduced high prices—will no longer be available for taxation in the form of excess profits. Consequently the national income will undoubtedly be greatly reduced.

AN EXTREMELY HEAVY BURDEN ON MANY

It is also obvious, therefore, that to raise some 1,500 million dollars a year from producers and workers will be an extremely heavy burden, and from industries making goods for civilian consumption at less profit, and working at less capacity, may require far more than the same figure of taxation. Consequently the income as it required today to pay the workers a total of 1,500 million dollars. In any event it would be an insufferable burden to many, and it would have a most serious repercussions upon the economics and social life of the people, and upon the progress of the country.

THE PROGRESS OF THE COUNTRY WOULD BE RETARDED

Untold thousands of people today are only able to pay their present high taxes because they are just buying nothing into their capital or savings. This, of course, cannot long continue. Eventually people will have to live within their incomes, and live, therefore, would be able to pay for any savings. But the people's savings are necessary if the country is to progress, and such progress continues if the standard of living of the people is to be improved, or even maintained, to say nothing of a desirable higher standard of living for the present generation.

The final result, therefore, of the collection of enormous taxes to pay for all the unavoidable bills created by conditions that will come out of the war, and in addition, the proposed gifts, bonuses, allowances and subsidies, would be as follows:—That the people would be impoverished, and reduce greatly their present consumption of goods, and hence greatly reduce the standard of living. That the amount of savings available for making investments in new enterprises, and for the investing in new enterprises, would be greatly reduced, and that the progress of the whole country would be retarded; all of which finally would result in a lower national income, and so in severe hardships to the whole body of the people. It is highly probable, too, that the hardships would be those who would suffer the most severely, and who would afford the least, those same persons might have to suffer if the general prosperity and activity of the country—and the...

Conserve the Soil

On Alberta fields there is, on the average, only four to six inches of top soil. This layer is the portion of the soil which produces plant food and moisture to pass through the action of the soil bacteria. Each inch of top soil brushed away means the loss of sufficient plant food to produce twenty to thirty average crops of wheat.

Many fields in the spring are covered with small gullies caused by spring run-off. They represent a tremendous loss of top soil—soil that has been built up over the centuries. The upper layer of the soil contains the absorbing material, and when it goes runoff is increased, and a correspondingly smaller increased erosion and so on in a vicious circle.

All fields should go into winter protected by a trash cover and a ridged loamy surface if at all possible, says H. J. Mather, Supervisor of Soil Conservation. Where fields have been plowed, the surface should at least be roughened as a protection against erosion, and as an aid to moisture absorption. The duckfoot cultivator is one of the best implements to use in the last operation. Cultivation with a duckfoot across the slope of the field will give added protection.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev Elbert H Birdsall, M A

When so many are writing and talking about the nature of the peace, it seems little short of arrogant that this column should carry an opinion on the subject but there is what reporters call an "angle" that has not yet, to my knowledge, had sufficient emphasis This angle has to do with those intangible things called ideas cultural presuppositions, and social maturity.

Governments, nations and governments very often have the opinion that they can live abundantly upon plentiful supplies of arms and food, and this illusion often blinds them to the fact that in the social understanding they feed upon that determines their fate History is strewn with the wrecked armor of mighty cultures that have died of internal rot due to feeding upon immature understandings of man and society.

That being so it would be a tragic assumption devoutly to be wished that triumphant power should today be wedded with social wisdom And the tragic thing I see happening is that power has been divorced from that sentiment that shows least signs of moral maturity, that is, North America.

Here, on this continent, we still think we are the world's child, the young world, the unspoiled world. Admittedly the very opposite is the case We are the old world because we still feed upon the social conceptions that led to the last two wars in Europe. We are not young, we are merely immature: few are infatuated with our galaxy of new tools but aren't interested in the true nature of men or of the basic essentials of community life We are so spoiled by the successes of our tools and the wealth of our resources that we haven't yet begun to ask the fundamental questions about human nature and because we have not seriously asked the question we are essentially in a state of immaturity. Our tools and resources and techniques are not adequate to feed these ceaseless and insatiable structures to further these values.

In the midst of all this immaturity we find ourselves living under one of the world how they ought (or must!) arrange their life and other people must listen humbly to the notion of the self bootstrap. Each inch of top soil brushed away means the loss of sufficient plant food to produce twenty to thirty average crops of wheat.

Many fields in the spring are covered with small gullies caused by spring run-off. They represent a tremendous loss of top soil—soil that has been built up over the centuries. The upper layer of the soil contains the absorbing material, and when it goes runoff is increased, and a correspondingly smaller increased erosion and so on in a vicious circle.

All fields should go into winter protected by a trash cover and a ridged loamy surface if at all possible, says H. J. Mather, Supervisor of Soil Conservation. Where fields have been plowed, the surface should

The Tiny Match

I'm just a tiny match
That people carry 'round,
To light their cigarette or pipe
Then throw me on the ground.

My head is bit so very hard
Against the old stone wall,
And then I'm tossed with another band
No thought of where I fall.

Some scratch my head with finger nail
And think it quite a lark,
Then flip me in the sidewalk will
Where it is dry and dark.

At times I've had to stay there long
'Til my head rong like a bell,
And then to pass the hours away
I fussed and burned like "Hell".

I'm blessed for all the damage done
When I my temper lost,
And not the guy that struck my head
Or was careless where he tossed.

If my true values were appraised
By people whom I serve,
They'd find me such a useful tybe
Who from purpose does not swerve.

So if you wish me to behave,
I warn you here and now,
To say me be a thoughtful way
And I'll not start a row.

I'm just a little tiny match
That people sorry 'round,
To serve them in a thoughtful way
So long as Judgment's sound.

Letter to the Editor

September 26, 1946,
10,812 South Edmonton
The Editor, The Fort Record,
Dear Sir,

In the Fort Record dated September 12th appears a letter the article entitled "Drift in Our Own Backyards" that started me thinking of another kind of drift, that is drifting away from the glorious open spaces that was known as this country in the early days Fortunately this open is not dead, and an article such as appeared in The Record revives it Just a day or so ago a farmer's cattle broke the fence and got into the neighbors' crop The owner of the cattle went to get his cattle home and found it was not his end of the line fence that was broken and told his neighbor to. Farmer No. 1 offered to help fix the fence and together it was fixed in a few hours. What an often turns into a feud had been averted and a friendship remained instead We can and always value our time in dollars and cents.

Sincerely,
Alfred Elliott.

We all make footprints in the sands of time. But some leave the imprint of a great soul—others just the marks of a heel.

Cattle Should Be Well Cared For During Winter Months

As a general principle it would seem to develop the breeding and feeding qualities of cattle to the maximum during the summer months and more than a reasonable extent supply to them during the winter. It appears that the fall months between the first and second frosts are the natural time for cattle to lay on extra flesh as a protection to carry them through winter. In the early part of this and the last few years, however, cattle have made much more than enough growth during the fall months when fed on the best pasture. They should be taken to the feed lots in the fall when they have ample nutritious grazing during this period as well as throughout the summer. In many instances farmers are in a position to turn the herd over to stubble land immediately after threshing where there is often sufficient nutritious feed to carry the herd until frozen up.

Care of course should be taken to see that they are not left to overfeed unduly late in the fall. For this way the natural may quickly lose the required flesh and elasticity that has been built up. When this happens, the herd

STRAIT IS THE GATE..
Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, M.A

There is more hope for a rich man's dog than there is for the rich man himself. That is a "hard saying" but it seems to be implied in Jesus' parable (Luke 16 19-31) Read the story again and ask yourself why did the two extreme fates fall upon the two men? Why did the poor man enter at death into all comfort and joy, while the rich man had to endure the torments of Hell? There are no moral reasons given There is no evidence that the rich man was immoral or brutal or criminal in any way. Neither is there any evidence that the poor man was moral or kind or forgiving. Their only difference was economic one rich and well fed and well clothed and well housed and in good health; the other was poor, hungry, ragged, ill and un-housed. Simply because of these differences, apparently, the poor man received eternal bliss and the rich man everlasting torment.

However much our sympathies may be with the poor man, and however much we may agree with him that at last he is getting the things he had been denied, there is to us a feeling that there is something unjust in the sentence upon the rich man. What should "having" send a man to hell?

It is the rich man's dog that gives the clue. Of all the actors in the earthly scene he alone is aware of the total situation and does what he can about it. The poor man cannot know the whole situation for he is a helpless cripple. Neither does the rich man know the whole situation: he is too busy with his house and clothing and servants and food and the pressures of a poor man at his gate to concern his conveniences. The dog, however, although only the humblest fellow-mammal, knows the whole story. He knows every boil-ding and animal and person. Further more he not only knows, but, to the full extent of his canine brain, he does something about the part of the situation that needs attention.

Apparently, then, the rich man's harsh sentence is the result of his ignorance and resulting indifference. His wealth provided him with answers to all his desires; and, basking in the delights and respectabilities of his property, he was blissfully ignorant of the poor cripple at the gate. There were so many satisfactions within the fences he had put around his property that he had no further knowledge of nor interest in the larger world. And so he went to hell.

There is no need to labor the application of the story to people like ourselves who are so full of the respectabilities and delights of the little worlds we have fenced off for ourselves that we are ignorant of the and pains in the whole world. Hon Fred Sherman:

Just a few lines to you, and the rest of the Women of the Port, for their lovely parcel just received. It has taken some time to reach me but never-the-less it's contents were grand. I suppose you send quite a few parcels every here as there are quite a few of us here From the Port here.

I am still an ambulance driver, and like my job fine. We always have a bit of entertainment when Jerry comes around, but isn't mind. We go just now here and then about back to safety, where they soon bounce well and strong again. There will be a lot of stories to tell when we all have a get-together when we arrive home.

This is certainly a lovely country for the scenery, but I wouldn't care to live here. There is plenty of fruit right now as it is grape time and the trees are just clustered with grapes. Some in a lovely city I have driven into it so often that I have covered every square inch, from one end to the other. Verona City is remarkable that we will remember always.

I have met a number of boys from home but not them all as we are all in different outfits, so you see it is quite hard to find them.

Once in a while my wife sends me The Port Record so I am glad the news even though it is old by the time I get it.

Well Hon. Sherman news is scarce and we cannot say too much in our letters so I guess I will close for now, thanking you once again for your lovely parcel. We know by these parcels that you haven't forgotten us.

Your sincerely,
H. U. Beaboeuf.

CANADA'S VETERANS
Their Post-War Opportunities
This is the first of a series of advertisements to inform the people of Canada of plans to re-establish men and women of the armed forces. To get the full details save and read every advertisement.

The Future After Discharge —

A MESSAGE TO RELATIVES OF THOSE IN THE ARMED FORCES

When your boys and your girls come home, when they lay aside the uniform, when they go out into the world as normal peace-loving Canadians, what lies ahead? Can they pick up their lives as civilians, where they laid them down, months or long years ago? Are there plans to help them do the things they wanted to do before the war? Will they have security? Can they continue education, or receive needed training? Will they be assisted in home ownership, or to establish their own business, and will they be enabled to pick up their family life once again?

There are questions which concern all those Canadians who have loved ones in the services. They are questions which this series of advertisements is designed to answer.

OPPORTUNITY IS THE OBJECTIVE

Canada has been making plans for your boy's and your girl's return to civilian life ever since early in 1940. These plans are in effect and operating now. The aim is that every person who has served shall have opportunity. Thousands, already back in civilian life, have benefitted by training, by re-establishment grants, by advice of departmental officials, and by the social security provisions. There is ample help for those men and women who most be help themselves.

ASSISTANCE ON DISCHARGE

When your boys and girls are discharged from the services, they will be given:

1. A clothing allowance of $100.00 (if discharged after August 1, 1944).
2. Their pay to date of discharge.
3. One month's additional pay, if they have 183 days' continuous service, to establishment grant.
4. A railway warrant home or to the place of enlistment.

Dependents will receive:

1. Their normal dependents' allowance to date of discharge, with assigned pay.
2. An additional months' dependents' allowance, with assigned pay, if there has been 183 days' continuous service.

Your boy or girl will be allowed to retain certain items of uniform. They will be given a complete medical and dental examination and will be eligible for free needed treatment for a year after discharge. Those discharged not physically fit, in need of continuing treatment and unable to work, will have their pay and allowances of rank continued for at least a year if there is necessary and, if the disability is permanent, for as long as curative treatment is beneficial. All are interviewed by Veterans' Welfare Officers and told of the re-establishment programme.

WAR SERVICE GRATUITY

On discharge, those enlisted to serve outside Canada, or those who served in the Aleutian Islands, are eligible for a war service gratuity. It provides $7.50 for each thirty days' service in Canada and the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each thirty days' service overseas or in the Aleutian Islands. For those with overseas service or with service in the Aleutian Islands, there is an additional seven days' pay and allowances for each set months of such service. Payments will be made at the end of each month to the months following discharge. Complete details of the war service gratuity will be given in a later advertisement.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT GRANT

In addition to the war service gratuity, there is a re-establishment credit of $7.50 for each thirty days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each thirty days' service overseas. This is for things such as the purchase or repair of a home, the buying of furniture, a business, or government life insurance, and for certain other purposes which will assist your boy or your girl in becoming re-established. This credit, which is redeemed by grants given for training or education, or under the Veterans' Land Act, is primarily for those who do not wish assistance under these three plans.

RETURN TO FORMER JOBS

If your boy or girl held a civilian position before enlisting, and was not engaged to replace somebody already in the forces, and if the position still exists, and your boy or girl is capable of filling it, it is the employer's duty, under the law of Canada, to reinstate him or her in that position with seniority. Application for reinstatement must be made to the former employer within three months of discharge from the forces or from hospital.

Veterans' Welfare Officers are stationed in the principal Canadian Canada. They are the friends of ex-service men and women. It is their duty to advise and assist ex-service personnel with their re-establishment problems. If there is anything about the Rehabilitation Programme that you do not understand, consult your nearest Veterans' Welfare Officer.

TRAINING AND EDUCATION

The surest way to permanent employment —the thing your boy or girl will want most of all to get and to hold a job. Canada's plans give opportunity to acquire needed skill either at university or in preparation for a business or industrial career. Fees are paid by the state, along with living allowances, while training or continuing education.

WHILE ALL ON UNEMPLOYED

There is protection against illness or unemployment by unemployment allowances which can be drawn against in the first eighteen months after discharge. There is also protection under the Unemployment Insurance Act for those who enter insured employment and remain in it fifteen weeks.

HOME OWNING AND FARMING

There is provision to assist city and other workers to have homes of their own, either on small acreages of land outside the high taxation area, or in towns, under the National Housing Act. Full-time farmers can be given financial assistance in full-time farming, while commercial fishermen may secure financial help in getting their own homes, on small acreages of land, and in buying needed fishing equipment.

FREE TREATMENT

In the year following discharge, service men and women are eligible for free treatment for disabilities and allowances for any condition, even if not the result of service. Pensioners are entitled to this for life for their pensioned disability.

THE POLICY OF PENSIONS

Canada's Pension Act is administered by an independent commission, all former members of the services. Any permanent disability suffered overseas, not a result of misconduct, is pensionable. Where service is in Canada only, the disability must be a result of service.

World of Wheat

by
H. G. L. Strange

HIGHER QUALITY WILL HELP

The Food Research Institute tells us that the demands for wheat by European countries immediately will be less than many suppose

Canada has the largest existing surplus of wheat, and each year a larger quantity for export than any other country There are two things we might do. One is to reduce production to fit the European demand, which will be low if existing obstructions to international trade continue, or the other would be for Canada and other countries to remove these existing obstructions to trade—tariffs and so forth—and so greatly increase the demand for Canadian wheat This of course, is by far the better method

In any event however there will be keen competition to sell wheat, and as in the past quality will count. Our principle farmers should make every effort to produce crops that are true to variety and so of high quality. The "Crop Testing Plan" now again this year finds that many farmers are growing wheat crops that are of mixed varieties and so of poor quality. In every district there are some farmers who have true-to-variety crops which have been classified "A" by "Crop Testing Plan" tests These farmers, therefore, who are doubtful about the quality of their crops should realize they need the cheap source of good seed would be their neighbors who have produced an "A" quality crop of some variety.

A House With A Home Inside It

Are you looking for a home?

Homes for all. It's a great program. Prefabricated or reconstructed, temporary or battery fitted but they have to wear for men and materials.

Homes for all. We need not wait for them. You can build a new home without moving a brick. The people to build them are the ordinary men and women.

The materials for the home building cannot be ordered from the catalogues. They are inside it the heart. They have made the homes of the country unassailable throughout history. Will-ing hands, warm hearts, steady tempers and honest minds are the foundations of every true home.

Building must start now if we are to be ready for the men coming back. We must crowd out the ideas that break up homes—ideas of "everyone for himself" and "pioneers at any price" More homes have been destroyed by selfishness than by bombs. They become filling stations by day and tombs by night.

The homes of tomorrow can be built now in the planes where we live and in the factories and offices where we work. A home begins in any place where someone starts living for others This is the secret that will guarantee the happiness of our post-war homes and their value to the community.

Those who master the art of home building will be master-builders for the nation. They will see to it that in our reconstruction program every home has a home inside it.

EGG STORAGE TO COST $75,000

Plans have been prepared and contract awarded for a new cold storage building in Edmonton for Alberta Poultry Marketers, Ltd. Cost of the building will be over $75,000. C. R. Christenson, general manager says it is made necessary by the opening next spring of the government of shell eggs to Britain, of which the Alberta quota is 150 carloads.

The 3-storey building will be placed next to the company's present plant where the egg drying unit is housed.

It is expected the building will be ready by March, when the storing of shell eggs for export will commence.

The change from forwarding eggs in their dried form to the shell, is permitted by the improved ocean shipping situation.

"Invest In Victory" The Need Is Urgent

By TOM SHANDRO

I am a Canadian, yes, a Canadian, born right here on the Prairies in Alberta. But, the roots of my immediate ancestry reach far beyond Canada's shores, right into the heart of war torn Europe.

I, therefore, have a double stake, in this war to help preserve the free-dom of life that my forefathers were so generously offered when they came to Canada; and to do all possible to help free my relatives caught in the trap of cruel Nazism in Central Europe.

When I was a small boy, my grandfather used to tell me tales of hard ship, tyranny, famine, disease and oppression that prevailed in Central Europe a couple of generations ago. He told me why he came to Canada. He wanted freedom of speech. He found it. He wanted to worship in his own simple way, in his own temple. He found that too. He wanted to be able to own a piece of land . . . he found it, large or small . . . but a piece of land he could proudly call his own. This he got. He wanted to raise a family in peace and quietly, free from want, free from fear. This he did. That was 70 years ago.

We are now in the sixth year of war. This past year has been a happy one exact to the first four. Many of my relatives of Central Europe are now free. Many other Europeans are free too. Why? Because of the courage and preparedness of France, Holland, Poland, Norway, and other countries who suffered unbelievably, but refused to give up at the bloodiest hour . . . be-hind-hand-in-the-war . . . with Canada . . . and the United States . . . to resist the Nazi threat at Leningrad . . . Odessa.

How does my sacrifice stack up against theirs . . . against the sacrifices of those right around me, who have lost sons, husbands, fathers? Very small indeed . . . Oh yes, I've invested in Victory Bonds every time . . . have a fair stack of War Savings Certificates, . . . have been rejected after volunteering for military service . . . support all war fund drives . . . have refrained from hoarding war materials. Did that I've done my share . . . the war is nearly over Have enough savings to keep me going for a-while.

BUT ? Suddenly I think . . . IS THE WAR NEARLY OVER!

At the gates of Stalingrad, Hitler thought Russia was his . . . then England, then Canada and the United States.

On the shores of Dunkirk, Hitler thought England was within his greedy grasp.

The tide turned at the right moment . . . thanks to the stick-to-it-iveness of the Russians, the British.

We can't afford to think now that the war is won. After Europe what about Japan?

After Japan, what about the Peace in Canada . . . the permanent setting of the War in our minds and ours.

There's much yet to be done . . . much to consider, much to plan for the Post-Hostilities Period. Canada must not be caught flat-footed. I continue to urge Canadians to back the hilt every effort to bring the whole of the war to a speedy conclusion.

Yes, there's still much to be done and WE CAN HELP . . . by supporting to the hilt, who have the British connection to make the Money here Let's keep the home fires burning, and take the form of a bonding . . . or a gift now to help and aid our Department of funds available under the various financing

Out of the Past

The Edmonton Bulletin

October 14th, 1931

The Thanksgiving supper and dance, sponsored by the St. George's W.A., which was held October 12th, was well attended.

At a meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Clover Bar, Mr. R. H. Peters was again unanimously elected deputy reeve for the ensuing six months.

With better weather prevailing during the past two days, threshing outfits are again at work. According to indications the yield will be fairly heavy.

At the first meeting of the year of the Josephburg Red Cross, the young people decided to send a cheque to the Edmonton Branch for distribution to the residents of the South of Alberta.

Young pigs require a certain amount of iron. Usually enough iron can be obtained from the ground and in autumn nods should be stored away for the use of young pigs during wintertime.

District Home Economists To Visit Schools

Assistance in the important work of encouraging suitable lunches for school children in the rural areas is one of the many services provided by the Home Economics Division of the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

Unless the school could receive a well balanced and nutritious meal it is almost impossible to make up the requirements for health protective and essential foods in the other two meals. The child cannot be expected to attend to sums and other commendable studies. Growth is stunted, and the depleted nervous system results in retarded progress in the classroom.

Organized effort is required on the part of parents and local organizations to sponsor the establishment of a suitable system of planning proper lunches, and serving at least one hot food at the school. The work being done in some of the school districts is commendable, and it is with a view to extending these practices to other districts that the services of the Home Economists are being utilized.

T.B. Death Rate Slowly Rising

Alberta's death rate from tuberculosis has risen during the past year, but still remains third lowest in Canada, according to C. Robert Dieboy, general secretary of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, which he figures released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

"There has been no alarming increase in tuberculosis in Canada as a result of the war," said Mr. Dieboy, "but we are not quite holding our own. The 1943 Canadian death rate of 51.7 is slightly above the best prewar rate 50.1.

"Even in war-time our defensive against this disease has been strong. We must intensify the preventive the other in the northern part.

Man To Meet Our Needs

A plane neared over the Alps. It carried a member of the Swiss Press Department, heading for America to negotiate a news pact. But he did not head for Washington, the Brown Woods conference or Dumbarton Oaks. He went to Manhattan Island to see the Hotel Re-Armament Publicity center. There, Swiss newspaper's leaders are trained, not by just reading plane but by reading men honest, sound and talented and confident enough to carry out a plan. That is to where I am going, said the plane depend on people. That is where it has been seen that sound impressions are made, and where and do not come into being just because they have chosen a diplomatic career.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..
Rev. Elliott N. Birdsall, M.A.

Thousands of times in our Lord's life we read of them coming to Him. No one ever came to Him in vain. He never refused anyone who came to Him. Among the many interesting people He met, we read of a rich young ruler. He came to Jesus and asked Him what he must do to inherit eternal life. He was very religious and had kept the commandments from his youth up. He was sincere and wanted to know what he must do to be saved. He was willing to do anything that Jesus told him to do. He was willing to give up all his money and follow Jesus. He was willing to do anything that Jesus told him to do. He was willing to give up all his money and follow Jesus. He was willing to do anything that Jesus told him to do. He was willing to give up all his money and follow Jesus.

Erection of Public Rest Room Planned by Local Town Council

At the regular meeting of the Town Council, held Monday October 16th, with all councillors present, it was decided to call a public rail vote regarding the erection of a Rest Room. It was instructed to write to the public health department for plans and information for a building of this type. It was the opinion of the council that this was necessary to accommodate farmers and visitors to the town.

The question as raised regarding the community Hall not being ready for use by January 1st. The town could see no use of the time, also as the basement is not penetrated by water. It was decided to install a fan in the basement to draw some of the heat from the hall and thus have a more equal temperature throughout the building.

Buy Bonds Now

The most important thing in Canada today is the 7th Victory Loan over the top. Keep this in mind when the bond salesman calls on you by greeting him with a check to purchase more bonds than ever before.

Salesmen in various districts have already started selling bonds and are getting results. The receptions they are getting from the people whom they contact.

Partridge Hill News

With the advent of few barren weather again, farmers are working early and late thus perfect Indian summer days, to finish the remainder of the harvesting. If the weather man will continue to favour us for a few more days, there will be very little more combining or threshing left in the district. This means a very early and will be breathing easier; the product of this year's bumper crop will be out of the way.

At a meeting of the W.A. held recently at the home of Mrs. Ward Lorenson, plans were made to hold a Hallowe'en supper at the hall on the 31st of November, please watch the Fort paper for further announcements.

Last Saturday to many young people of this district it was the occasion of the marriage of Mr. Boyd Brent and Jean Creek to Miss Jessie Harrold of Lamont. The wedding took place at Lamont on Thursday, October 12.

Mr. C. H. Pickett is removing his implements in this district, having arrived here from the coast this week. We are always glad to see her fine again in our midst; many of the old timers here; she has been greatly missed since moving away.

Mr. and Mrs. Willson Allen of Lamont, spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Willson Allen.

Fire Destroys Home Of District Farmer

Early Wednesday morning fire from an overheated stove pipe destroyed the home of Jack Lucas who farms in the Pleasant View district, 4 miles South-East of Fort Saskatchewan. At the time the fire broke out Mr. Lucas was helping thrash on a neighbors farm. One of his children jumped on horseback to tell his father who raced back on a tractor, but by the time he arrived the house had burned so quickly that even with the help of a few neighbors who were near, practically everything was lost.

After a long summer holiday, classes were resumed at East Edmonton Public School on the 2nd of October, with our three favorite teachers, Mrs. I. D. Scot, Miss H. Olson, and Miss M. Ennard supervising the work of the ninety seven pupils who are enrolled for the fall term. Both patients are after treatment and care in the hospital, are reported to be making satisfactory recovery.

Picking Up the Threads Again

"What will it be like—when we get back?" say the boys overseas. "What will it be like when they get back?" say the people here at home. Then we are caught in a question that is assuming top priority in the post-war thinking of the average person.

The homecoming, now that it looks like a reality, has suddenly become loaded with fears and doubts that never seemed to exist before. Beyond question the men will be different when they get back. The man who spends $500 "entertaining" his new job acquaintances will have changed quite a bit from the fellow who had only $100 to spend on his whole furlough.

You must and listen to many people who are full of problems these days, so it is all the more encouraging when you meet someone who seems to have at least some of the answers. The place was the Naval Re-Armament Training Centre at Mackinac Island, Michigan, the person the wife of a fighter pilot. They had married suddenly when he had joined up and had enjoyed their short spell of married life together when he was in training and instructing before going overseas.

She was well aware of the many changes and adjustments that she would have to make when he got back and of his difficulty in getting settled back into a world which left only a year or so out of mind—of her job to make ends meet on probably much less than they had been getting before. But—still so all.

Moreover, she realized that there were many very definite things that she could do to meet the situation when it arose. In the first place, she said "I can change from my old ideas that when my husband gets back it will be up here to have some fun and expect him to take an out and "whoop it up" "Getting at home," she went on "and thinking that you've had the rough end of the deal and being sorry for yourself is just as far off the mark as leaving home and having a good time." Both these attitudes she said, are frustrating and offered no solution. The only really satisfying answer was to put into a satisfied fight here on the home front to prosecute and maintain the things that her husband was risking his life for overseas. She pointed out that there were many opportunities to fight mentally for sound home based on honest principles against black reaction or bolshevism, for sound community and local government.

Enlistment in such programmes as these, she said, were worthwhile and intriguing to offer her husband. Picking up the threads again with mutual determination and adjustment, as outlined by this fighter pilot's wife, surely offer a real basis for re-habilitation in the post-war world.

There's MORE to do

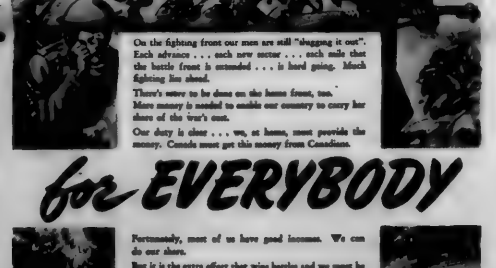
On the fighting front our men are still "slugging it out". Each advance . . . each new sector . . . each mile that the battle front is extended . . . is hard going. Much fighting lies ahead.

There's more to be done on the home front, too.

More money is needed to enable our economy to carry her share of the war's cost.

Our duty is clear . . . we, at home, must provide the money. Canada must get this money from Canadians.

for EVERYBODY



Fortunately, most of us have good incomes. We can do our share.

But it is the extra effort that wins battles and we must be prepared to make extra effort on the home front. Canada's borrowing needs have been increased by some three hundred and twenty million dollars. That's extra effort that we, at home, must make. We must provide the money that is needed . . . more money than ever before.

We must keep faith with our fighting men. We must continue to work and save . . . and lend. We must all lend more.

A Dangerous Guessing Contest

The probable date when cease fire the cessation of hostilities in Europe is a question that is assuming more and more importance as the days go by. Everywhere one goes in this country has a vital interest in the ending of hostilities. Given the approximate date families of men overseas can begin to estimate the time which must elapse before they receive their loved ones back home again. Labor has an additional interest in the date, in planning for the transition period overlapping war industries will be produced and the new production of peace-time goods. Business men who are the future of their establishments with great care are especially keen to have some one give them an approximate date of the cessation of hostilities in Europe.

Then there are various times Mr. Churchill, Leonard Eaton and General Montgomery, Admiral Mallory and others have attempted to give the public an idea of the length of time it would take to finish up the military campaign, their words have been read avidly.

But in the wake of such statements there has been a wave of other predictions from the ten thousand soothsayers. Especially to be heard are those who set a definite date for the end of the war. Some are optimistic and some are pessimistic.

All of this might be harmless, even interesting but for the psychological effect that the content has on people at home. For one thing, many are led into the belief that the war is almost over and that the time has come for some relaxation at home. Further, when the war hangs its fortunes pure for weeks after "V" day dates are simply predicted, the morale of many people is unsettled.

In these crucial days preceding the final knock-out, Canadians at home may again take their cue from Canadians on the battle fronts. Over optimistic date of the end, waiting for Germany to collapse They are all on their toes, fighting as energetically as at any previous period of the war. Over here our duty seems not so clear cut—a duty which calls us to work as hard as we have ever worked before, and to keep our production rate as vigorous as they have ever been before—through the purchase of Victory Loan bonds.

The chief post-war problem will be to keep living for our country and since "D" day, almost every man is not as it.

Truce Needed To Win The War

The Wheat Pools and Line Elevator Companies announce that will handle wheat at one cent a bushel instead of the official rate of three cents. The Pools have not paid Dominion income taxes for years, and so perhaps have the savings with which to do this for a month's time. The Line Elevator Companies however have been paying part year's tax income taxes.

I am not part I think this action by Pools and Elevator Companies is wrong and unpatriotic, and will have the war effort, and I believe many farmers, after careful consideration, will agree with me This means handling grain at a loss, and on the fixed result will be to deprive the Government of large sums of tax money at new badly needs to buy foodstuffs and munitions to support our fighting men in the dreadful battles now going on. To collect taxes at first hand from Companies in the quiet and economical way for the Government to obtain a large part of the money it must have if the Government cannot collect taxes on grain from Grain companies it may put on a special [illegible] duty to collect the same [illegible] from farmers individually [illegible] farmers thereof etc, will pay these taxes as are owed, as they patriotically will want to do It is quicker and cheaper, economical for the Government to collect these taxes from farmers later.

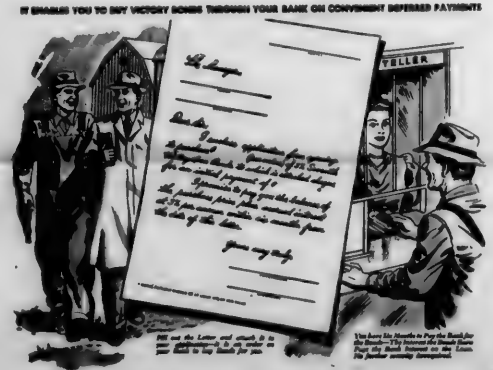
Your Victory Loan Salesman Has This Letter

IT ENABLES YOU TO BUY VICTORY BONDS THROUGH YOUR PAY ALLOTMENT OR CONVENIENT DEFERRED PAYMENTS



Fill out the Letter and attach it to your [illegible] Book for me

You have Six Months to Pay the Bank for the Bonds—The Interest the Bonds Earn Pays the Bank Interest on the Loan. So you don't actually invest a cent

• You say you want to do all you can to help Canada's war effort. Then you will keep on buying Victory Bonds. You will buy all you can.

You recognize the obligation that we, at home, owe to our men overseas. You know that months of munitions which our fighting men need are being depleted and must be replaced. You know that more munitions must go forward—and you will buy Victory Bonds to help pay for them.

You would like to be able to buy more bonds, you say. Well here is how you can do it. You can buy more bonds with money as you get it. Any bank will loan you the money to do this and the interest on the bonds will pay the cost of the bank loan. All you have to do is to sign the letter shown here—which you can get from your Victory Loan Salesman. You make a first payment of 10% or more when you apply for the bonds, and pay the balance or any time over a period of six months.

You will be doing an important war job when you do this. You will be helping your country and backing up her fighting men. You will get another reward, too, that will benefit yourself. You will have money, later on, when the war has been won—to do things you plan to do—money to improve your farm and your home.

An English girl, Ida Lupino, marries a Polish Count, Paul Henreid, a very much against the wishes of his aristocratic family. They go to live in the ancestral home near Warsaw, with the expected struggle against tradition and an uncle who holds the purse strings. The uncle favors appeasement with Germany and lives in a genteel world of class and privilege. The mother, Henry Hull, and the daughter, Nancy Coleman, follow the lead of the thought. Old uncle Leopold (Herbert Cathbert), dependent on his brother and influential, feels differently, however, and sticks the lovers in everything. Jan (Ida Lupino) and Paul have understood the estate and made it pay for the first time in 80 years the German army has P-Land and bomb Warsaw. Paul joins the regiment and comes back wounded. Then the Mayor of Warsaw calls for a last stand. His small tanks come to get the family and escape, but Paul and Ida gather the peasants of the estate together. They supply the small small arms and then have for Warsaw to defend Poland to the last.

Victory! What Is It Costing You

—By A. A. Skiver—

A letter received from a friend today related a story as shocking.

Of two young friends whom we knew as well

And of Victory bought so dearly.

Not long ago (it seems) they went to school

Together daily to our door,

Completed, suffered, laughed, prattle

Their feet and literally soar.

Cubs, Tenderfoot and Scouts

They took them in their stride

Absorbing in many lessons of life

That in others were denied.

Their countrys' call they answered

When the need was old or great.

Yet now they are both home again

Stricken by cruel fate.

For in the world's great drama

There have suffered a terrible robot

And won for us the Victory;

The tools dotted within their souls.

With limbs lopped off and pain unspoken

(Dear God why must this be?)

They are now slowly bleeding eyes

Gazing into eternity.

We are just asked to lean money

Most of which we will hardly miss

But a posterous system.

Parish intonements was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday afternoon, October 25th, 2 p.m., when Margaret, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lynn of New Westminster became the bride of Mr. Chester Norman Geary, son of Mrs. J. Geary and the late Mr. Geary of South Edmonton.

Rev. E. J. Jaque performed the ceremony. Mrs. G. C. Steen played the wedding march and Miss Joyce Lee sang "A Wedding Prayer", during the signing of the register.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, was lovely in a floor length gown of white taffeta, fitted with bracelet length sleeves, long bodice, frilled and buttoned to the waistline She wore a matron style head-dress of calla lilies, also white lace gloves and carried a shower bouquet of roses and carnations.

Her attendant, Miss Zella Drader also looked lovely in a floor length model in cornflower blue sheer. She wore a pink shaped veil with pink flowers in her hair and carried pink carnations.

The charming little flower girls were Shirley Love, sister of the bride and Lilah Jaque. They wore floor length dresses of floral silk in pink and blue respectively, carrying tiny nosegays of pink flowers and contrasting ribbons.

Mr. Lester Geary, brother of the groom acted as best man.

Ushers were Mr. Arthur Jaque and Mr. Norman Draper.

REGULATIONS FOR HONEY PRODUCERS

Under the rationing regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, beekeepers who produce less than 4,000 pounds of honey per year are required to register with their local ration board. Coupons collected on sales of honey must be turned in once a month to the local ration board in an envelope provided by the Board at the time of registration. It is illegal for farmers to use for their own purchases coupons collected through the sale of any rationed product.

Producers of more than 4,000 pounds of honey per year must register either by mail or in person at the nearest branch of the ration administration. The class of producer must also open a ration coupon bank account and file monthly reports of sales. Those who registered in 1943 do not need to register again.

Venereal Disease or Victory over Disease

A statement on the general policy of Canada's national Venereal Disease control program

D. B. SMITH,
Lieutenant-Colonel, R.C.A.M.C.

For Canada the outcome of the present conflict is largely dependent upon strength of body, wholesomeness of mind and steadfastness of purpose. Of these, sound standards of vitality, health is our particular concern in this presentation. To fight, Canada must be fit. To win the war, Canada must be strong While we are engaged resolutely in waging battle against the enemies without, we must not neglect the enemies within. Of all these murderous influences which from within must corrode and undermine our efficiency to fight, disease is the most serious, and of all diseases enemies venereal diseases, syphilis and gonorrhoea, are the most which can wreck the most havoc.

The roots of the problem of venereal disease lie buried deep in inherent defects of human behavior, in remediable misunderstanding, conditions, and in a failure to apply modern knowledge to certain social problems. No people are in a better position to overcome the threat of venereal disease than our fighting men today. The will to banish this "Fifth Column" from our midst must accompany a concerted attack. With the Home and Church lie the responsibility for strengthening the bonds of family life and fortifying individual character. On citizens generally, and on civilian organizations in particular, rests the onus for removing unwholesome influences which predispose to the spread of venereal infection. These entrusted with the administration of public health must see them strictly and aggressively.

Of the six known diseases, syphilis and gonorrhoea are the only ones which result from important transmission from the public health standpoint in Canada. Syphilis the killer, gonorrhoea the sterilizer, strike at youth. Three-quarters of those infected are under thirty, clustered between the ages of 16 and 30 years. Let us not forget whatever the efforts of organized disease may be to the individual, collectively it is the home and home life that suffer the brunt of the attack.

The really preventable human tragedy of syphilis and gonorrhoea in hospitals is heartless to neglect, prudery and a failure to face squarely the problem of its venereal background. What other countries have done, Canada also can do. Great Britain is reporting cases of the syphilis rate is half. In twenty years the Scandinavian countries conquered syphilis and reduced it to the status of a rare disease. For the past thirty years public health personnel and the armed services, supported by the people of the United States and their voluntary agencies, has reduced venereal disease in the Armed Forces to unprecedented low rates. A similar government agency, the Social Protection Division, has been set up, whose duty it is to lead the attack against human suffering, disease disposition, death and family disorganization which venereal infection. In the words of Surgeon General Parran, "The greatest thing we can do with syphilis is to crush it."

Eradication of venereal disease is a campaign that have had the satisfaction of experience. It is a campaign that goes hand in hand with public enlightenment and education; with general improvement of social and economic factors as profoundly influencing the prevalence; with a reduction in mobility and migration, where unrest, food, security and adequate housing with a high regard for the dignity and the individuality of human demand against the third-party participants in commercialized prostitution.

It Canada determined to keep strong, to keep her fighting men fit, how to destroy or mar the heritage for which they are waging war? Facts are weapons in the fight to keep her war workers sound in body and to guard her national health against V D. Arm yourself with knowledge on the most precious heritage the past hedge—knowledge of how V D affects has given, the most precious trust the the community. Learn how you and present hostess, and her greatest your community can conquer V.D.

Yes . . . Six Victory Loans have been successful

But . . . we can never tell what results will be until all returns are in.

That Saskatchewan and District is asked to buy $300,000 worth of 7th Victory Loan Bonds.

We have to buy $300,000 to enable Canada to get $1,000,000,000.

We cannot . . . suppose that this loan will go over the top . . . and leave it to other communities to do their share.

Right now . . . it looks as though a lot of people in this community are taking it for granted that other communities will do more than their share.

Just suppose . . . other communities left it to us . . .

CANADA . . . would not get the money required.

(Bear in mind that Canada's all-over borrowing needs are increased by over three hundred and twenty million dollars at this time.)

The 7th Victory Loan

Troops For Reconstruction

Bomber-fighter formations for the air, landing boats and paratroops for the invasion, tank crews for the break through Men of vision long forms the need to train crews for the break through Men of vision. Some people said it would not be necessary They were wrong. Our thoroughly trained and well equipped troops have answered the need of the hour.

Now another hour now says that Canada will need homes fit for her men to come back to, industry stepped up to win the peace, a people alert and united. Men of vision see the need to train fresh troops to fight and win this battle of reconstruction. And there are those who think this won't be necessary—that ordinary men, equipped only with an engineer's transit or a road machine can win the peace.

But the greater need in reconstruction of man's spirit. The new situation after the war will require a new sense of purpose. Loneliness and apathy, homeless, sad, guilt and worse That might so recommend it!

The Thanksgiving Service Held at Josephburg

The Reformed Church held its Thanksgiving Service on October 21. The congregation turned out in force and the building was filled to capacity for Rev. Ledeboer, the Pastor, presided and introduced the guest speakers, Rev. Buller from Bergen and acting in loco parentis for Rev. Henry Beemer from Vegreville who occupied the pulpit in the forenoon and Rev. Ledeboer in the afternoon at Saskatchewan and Rev. Redburger of Bruderheim who spoke in the afternoon.

An old friend Rev. Bergert of Stony Plain spoke in the evening. Nothing new to the congregation here, since he is leaving his present charge.

The choir of the congregation favoured with spells of the harvest and the choir gave a number of special selections.

At noon a congregational dinner at which some 300 people sat down to tables set in the church basement and Ladies Aid served a bountiful supper. You are urged to come also regularly. A Perfect teacher greatly assisted the undersigned.

Rev. Taylor, a native of the Edmonton district, underwent the rural changes occasioned by the Second World War. Called Church. He has been recently honorably discharged from the Canadian Army and hopes, if he can regain his impaired health, to resume his pastorate.

It seems that the community is going to lose some families of the district. Namely Mr and Mrs Rudolph Krebs, Mr. and Mrs. Val Wenzel and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Weber. Not only will they be a loss to the district so far as social events and good fellowship are concerned but it will also diminish our school population.

S S S

There are rumours that Mr Lovatt-Dolmage will be leaving the district in our community, taking over the position of Mr. Ross at Vegreville who is departing for Stony Plain.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Mohr are the proud parents of a baby daughter, born October 20 at the Royal Alexander hospital. Both mother and daughter are doing well.

Franklin School News

It seems that the nerves of the Clover Bar Health Unit were severely popular at Franklin school, for there was a full attendance on Monday, Oct. 22nd, when the ladies paid their first visit of this year. Not one pupil was absent!

This popularity was not shown however by the ladies present, for they filled up their time by a good deal of protest at the tender administrations of the nurses, and strange to say, the boy holden were the louder and angrier of all protest!

Prizes? Sure is the favorite game these days, quite depending difficult from the varied high places in the affections of our boys and girls. Though not requiring the sheer co-ordination of hand and eye demanded by the latter game, yet Prisoners' Base is excellent for the cold days of autumn, for fulness, speed and clever strategy. Moreover, it takes in more players—a definite point for it, too. What a game for inter-school rivalry! How about it, Fultonvale?

Ellerslie News

A farewell party was held at the home of Mr and Mrs. Bowtin on Oct. 26th in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wennenberg who are leaving the district to reside at Barnhead. A beautiful gift was presented to the couple by all those present.

After an enjoyable evening of playing cards a buffet supper was served and a good time was enjoyed by all.

Fort Saskatchewan and District has a job to do. A job to which everyone must pitch in and Buy One More Victory Bond then ever before in order to get the districts over the top.

Each one is still needed to meet the objective set.

There are just two days left in which to raise this money, so lets all get behind this Victory Loan and try to make our quota and then help in rounding the grand total of $1,500,000. Let's make every man, woman and child people are asked to loan.

Remember you are not asked to give your money you are only asked to loan it with a fair rate of interest.

By investing in a Victory Bond you are again in Victory Bonds from now on, more wages over the world and factories manufacturing the products of peace instead of war. Again there will be more time goods, you will be able to buy many of the things you once dreamed of owning.

If you boys and girls who are not old enough to buy Bonds, ask your parents to help you. Tell them that the prosperity all over the world, but not at the cost that they receive are able to Buy Victory Bonds and help to give our boys everywhere. Tell them that the sooner we get them by loans purchased the sooner they will be home where danger from bullets and bombs won't reach us, and by having One More Victory Bond they will bring the day of victory and home-coming of our boys everywhere.

Clover Bar Couple Wed

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lebrecht, Clover Bar, on Saturday, October 27th, when their daughter Ruth Elizabeth became the bride of Mr. Ernest Ludwig Schaffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schaffer, of Clover Bar. The Rev. E. E. Harry, of Edmonton, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white satin with long fitted sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. The veil, posed in a coronet, fell modestly to the floor. She carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations.

Miss Dorothy Lebrecht, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She was attired in a floor-length gown of pink satin and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Schaffer, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride's table was set with a Madeira linen table cloth. The three-tiered wedding cake was banked in pink and white carnations.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Vancouver. The bride travelled in a navy blue suit with white accessories.

A Message From The Victory Loan Committee

The members of the Fort Saskatchewan Victory Loan Committee and the chairmen Unit have been closely following the Victory Loan Campaign but it is regret to say that we are still far from our objective. While many contributions have been received from in the Shell Valley Unit, many more dollars is still far from the amount we expected by this time.

On behalf of the Unit, we urge everyone to subscribe to the limit during the business of the week. As you know, we challenged Stony Plain to raise $200,000 and we will have to double to get this sum. At least $80,000 will have to be raised during the next three days to win.

Don't let us down now.

Thos. F. Lowe, Chairman
W. J. Graham, Unit Organizer
Emil Winkelath, Chairman of Bruderheim Sub-Unit.

Order Fertilizers and Take Delivery

With three cell to a bagger supply of fertilizers available for use in 1945 than there was in 1944, the need for farmers to place their orders is even more urgent, the Fertilizer Administrator states. The labor problem in fertilizer plants is even more acute than at this time last year, transportation facilities are still over-taxed to meet war-time demands for a wide variety of goods and manufacturers "continue their war duties as top priority effort to overwhelm."

If fertilizers can be kept moving quickly from the plants to farmers during the next few months it will be possible to provide more even distribution. A policy of first come first served is to be followed by the fertilizer administrator.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture policy of paying freight subventions on fertilizers shipped to farmers is still in effect.

LOCAL COMMITTEE MEET

The regular meeting of the Odd Fellows was held on Wednesday evening in the Union Hall. Brother, District Deputy, read his communications. He was accompanied by brothers Percy Giles, Jack Chaney here and Mr Hightower, all of Edmonton. After the meeting a lunch was served at the Port Confectionary.

Remembrance Day 1944

"They shall not grow old as we that are left grow old.
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them."

Wherever, on this Remembrance Day those words are uttered they will voice the tribute of remembrance rendered jointly to those who paid the supreme sacrifice twenty five years ago, and those of the present conflict.

In the brilliant autumn sunshine Time's tide will mark this pause a quarter of a century. We see the gallant, dwindling company of veterans, grey-haired, bent and erect, tramped shoulder to shoulder, swap smartly into line before the cenotaph at the old familiar "Mons" re-living for this brief hour, scenes of those other days.

The torch they carried has been thrown to younger stronger hands, who today, bear it high for Freedom, and the building of the "brave new world" that must come out of the crucible of the past five years.

As the poignant strains of Last Post float out their challenge, we are called again in humble pride, to grateful remembrance of all that we have today, and to a re-dedication of ourselves, to more worthily play our part.

"Ill, valiant hearts, who to you glory came Through dust of conflict and through battle flame
Tranquil you lie, your haughty virtue proved,
Your memory hallowed in the land you loved."

Splendid you passed, the great surrender made,
Into the light that never runs shall fade."

Miss Doris Schreiter Honored At Showers

Miss Doris Schreiter was guest of honor at two Bronner affairs. Mrs. Ray Schreiter gave a cup and saucer shower for her home and Mrs. Sarah Williamson was hostess at a shower at her home where Doris received many gifts.

Mr. Wm Schreiter was surprised by a yield of 110 bushels per acre in a 25 acre field of oats. Yields of 80 and 90 bushels per acre were quite common.

The Bronner C.G.I.T. girls invited boys to a Hallowe'en party at the hall. Each enjoyed was a hold hour treasure hunt where houses near were scoured of such riches as children homes, toothpicks, old newspapers and other interesting things. A good time was had by all.

Barley Growers Losing Money

"GAS Tooling Pips" this year offered the unique spectacle of barley growers as it has done for fourteen years past to hand growers. A large number of farmers were cut over Black Harvest with very up wind barley with the hope of saving the Malting premium. The samples were grown and were analyzed by some patent plant breeders. The results are disappointing. It was found that no less than 62% of these samples graded as either "C" or "Mixtures". The bulk of them "Mixtures". This means that their minimum of moisture of varieties which spoils unfitted the grain to make malt.

Mr. H. L. Strange, Brewers who tried to make malting barley, after putting in his two carloads were very modest in harvesting and therefore failed because they had not taken the one first sample precaution of testing to it that the seed they sowed was true to one variety acceptable to the malt ters. This simply means that if a farmer wishes to secure the premium for malting barley he must first sow a variety that is acceptable to the maltster, and must next see to it that the seed he sows is relatively pure and does not consist of mixtures of other varieties. There are several varieties that will produce good malt, but of them all perhaps O.A.C. 21 is most acceptable; and registered seed is the best to buy.

What is This War of Ideas?

"Homework is drudgery. Purity is sometimes Authority should be under mined." These maxims, often unconsciously assimilated, and on attack on the Canadian home. We can defend our homes only if we believe sound home life is basic to healthy society That home is the guardian of the nation's purity. That home is the foundation of democracy.

"Freedom does struggle. Stir up rows conflict. Work only for gain." These are thoughts buried in the war by the Nazi of ideas to divide and conquer Canadian industry. But the plan should not be who's right but what's right. Fight for teamwork. Work for the nation. We must really the countryfree farmer is indicated these positive ideas and launch a nation-wide counter attack.

"Home power by any means. Stir up controversy. Discredit our leaders". These words are developed on the political front to shatter Canadian democracy We must fight them off with intransigent ideas. Everyone responsible. The will of God the will of the people. Inquire our leaders.

"Corrupt the youth. Teach them to blame other people. Teach them the materialistic theory of science, history and other studies." Unless we recognize the danger of this sort of thinking, it is an intellectual barrage that will break down the foundation of Canadian education. We can only smoke our schools and colleges impregnable if we teach young people to build character Teach them to start with themselves instead of blaming others. Teach them to understand the moral and spiritual motives which inspired the great men in Canadian History.

These are just a few of the flashes from different fronts of the war of ideas. The battle line runs through

"C" Company Plans Training Program

The entire personnel of "C" Company gathered at their headquarters at Fort Saskatchewan on Friday night to participate in the opening event of the training season now getting under way. The men came in from Bruderheim, Chipman and Lamont. The early part of the evening was taken up in the beginning program for the season, and at the same time Major F. G. Byron, the officer commanding the company, announced a number of interesting features that would be presented to members of the personnel and enthusiasm in the Reserve army is being particularly pointed out that in addition to performing a duty by being a member of the Reserve, it was possible to get much enjoyment out of the training and association with the fellow members of the unit. A program of entertainment followed in which Jimmy Dunn and Bill Nese put on an excellent show. Refreshments were during the entertainment.

Trees Distributed by the Forest Service

Trees, free of all charges excepting the express charges covering shipment, are to be given by the Forest Service to farmers in the Province for the following purposes:

1 For planting within natural poplar or willow bluffs.
2 For replacements in established windbreaks or shelterbelts.
3 For additions to established windbreaks or shelterbelts, where the trees to be planted are set out close enough to the old plantation that they receive protection against wind, and in the case of conifers, against the sun, by the established trees.

Applications for rural schools and consolidated will be given consideration.

Trees are not available for beautification only, nor for the establishment of new windbreaks or shelterbelts. Persons requiring trees for the for purposes should narrow them from commercial nurseries, and the latter apply to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Tree Planting Division, Indian Head, Saskatchewan.

Trees available for distribution in the spring of 1945 include the following: White Spruce, Colorado Spruce, Norway Spruce (not more than 4 to each applicant); Ladgepole Pine, Red Pine (not more than 3 to each applicant), Yellow Pine (not more than 3 to each applicant), Scotch Pine, Douglas Fir, Siberian Dog Oak, Red Oak.

In addition to the above, cuttings of laurel leaf willow, golden willow and northwest poplar will be available.

In connection with each application it must be noted that a map has been pinned on the shipment of Norway Spruce, Red Pine, Yellow Pine and Siberia Pine.

The quantities of these species are very limited and it might be necessary to effect applicants smaller numbers, or entirely delete from some applications when a number of these species are requested in addition to the limitations of each available, the number of applications sometimes renders it impossible to send to all the trees for which applications are received.

All applications must be filled in and received in the office of the Director of Forestry, Administration Building, Saskatoon, before January 31st, 1945, otherwise they will not be given consideration.

World of Wheat

by

S. S. L. Savage

SCARCITY AND ABUNDANCE

Some time ago in this column I remarked that there never had been an instance of an unsatisfactory price to farmers for their wheat when no great wheat surplus existed.

A publication in Alberta comments on this, saying "That is the trouble with the speculative system of grain marketing: It cannot tolerate surpluses. It can only operate on an economy of scarcity. Then the state is further "That the aim should be to obtain an abundance for all."

I am surprised to hear this for I have always thought that the real business of any marketing system was to market surpluses, and so move the wheat available to hungry consumers.

All systems of grain marketing have always operated on an economy of scarcity, for the simple reason that wheat has always been scarce in the world. There never has been enough wheat produced to feed all the people, and never will be in our time. I venture to say, however, that if ever the world should be fortunate enough to enjoy a real abundance of wheat, then we may be sure the open "futures" system of marketing would do a thorough job, so long as it is not interfered with by Governments, in disregarding that abundance from producer to consumer, so ensuring that producers would obtain a satisfactory price and that consumers could enjoy the abundance.

The worst inflation came AFTER the war the last time . . . to be followed by disastrous deflation, unemployment and confusion. For Canada to manage successfully the change back to peace, maintain employment, and meet the world's competition . . . we must continue to have stable economic conditions. To protect the individual from rising costs of living and later unemployment we must continue to prevent inflation.

To prevent a repetition of the conditions following the last war

PRICE CONTROL MUST BE MAINTAINED

AS LONG AS INFLATION THREATENS US.

The aim only be done if production is efficient and economical, costs are kept down and consumers refuse to pay more than ceiling prices.

THIS IS ONE OF A SERIES ISSUED BY THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA TO EXPLAIN THE IMPORTANCE OF PREVENTING A PERIOD LIKE THE ONE OF UNDUE PRICE AND SUBSEQUENT LOSS

One person can start it!

When one person demands more for goods or services he compels others to do the same and Price Control goes out the window.

Free - for Rebuilding the World

"That all men might be free!" This has been our main objective during the past five years of the greatest war in history. We are fighting for freedom from the tyranny of totalitarian forces and materialistic philosophies fighting indeed for Christian civilization itself. In each one of our minds, however, freedom can mean an entirely different thing. For to many it means "Freedom to do as I please", "to the other fellow before he does me", to preach "equality of mankind" and practice dictatorship in home and office.

This has been a war of ideas as well as of arms. The idea of a superman and super-nation where the ordinary man doesn't count and God doesn't even exist; against the more sound and secure truth that the ordinary man counts, and that it is his privilege, under God, to make the world a family of nations. This is the freedom for which men have died. This is the freedom for which every thinking and caring Canadian today must live.

The world is being liberated but her people, through the strain of years of conflict are drained physically, materially and spiritually. To millions there are years have given a determination to see sanity restored to the world, but to other millions of war have instilled in their hearts nothing but hate and vengeance. If the peace treaties are based on revenge and hatred, we will become a part of what we have been fighting to destroy.

The new world can only be built of the sound character and real courage of the ordinary man. It will mean a life-long effort and a daily fight to build into our homes, industry and nation the principles of honesty, tolerance, selflessness and faith in God. To be a true Canadian means living so that Canada will fulfil her destiny and will make the vision of her founders a living reality. For a nation led by God can lead the world. That nation can be Canada!

The Dominion Bureaucracy of Statistics That's a phrase you can't find in this column. Yet few of us realize the importance of the bureaucracy which was established in 1918. The average Canadian citizen answers the census taker, but the answers are [illegible] the census taker, but the answers and those of eleven million others are probably forgotten. But they are not forgotten by the 1,500 persons employed by the Bureau of Statistics. To compile a mass of pertinent facts on a multitude of subjects and make them available on demand.

For instance, if a Canadian wrote to the Bureau asking how many sheepskin had passed through the London banks in July of this year, and then a flash the Bureau would reply that 4,[illegible],000 were received in Canada in July 1944. And that's the truth.

The vast amount of data collected by the Dominion Bureaucrat [illegible] has been used by every department and agency of the government engaged in directing the war effort, and there has been an increasing demand for information from non-war departments and from the general public. Under the statistical data the Bureau assists war departments by lending services of trained statistical [illegible] and by [illegible] work of scarcely war jobs was compilation of National Registration facts and figures taken over in the early days. Dealing with many problems including cost-of-living, wholesale and retail trade and financial statistics. The Department which is so much taken for granted, does a big job.

In order to ease the difficult problem which exists in obtaining sufficient professional and non-professional workers for hospitals, the Dominion Department of Labour has announced that in future such workers can be hired direct without having to pass through the local employment offices of Selective Service. However, employment offices will continue to assure help for hospitals and will be kept advised of placements by the hospital authorities.

Thousands of women all over Canada work for the Canadian Red Cross and many have been doing so since the outbreak of the war. It should give them warm feeling of a job well done to know the splendid results of that collective effort.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS AND THEIR MALE EMPLOYEES— Including Farmers

By an order signed on August 15th, 1944, by the undersigned Minister of Labour under authority of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, 1944:

1. Commencing August 22nd, 1944, every employer is required to check the documents held by each newly engaged male employee, within 7 days of the employee's engagement, to determine if such employee possess documents to show that he is in good standing under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations, 1944 (Order No. 1) in relation to the Military Call-up(s) of impositions;

2. Every employer must report on Schedule 9 to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division, concerning any employee found not to possess documents as required by;

3. Every employer is required similarly to check the documents held by each male employee who fails to comply with these Regulations;

4. Penalties are provided for any employer or male employee who fails to comply with these Regulations.

By an earlier order, employers were required to check the documents held by their male employees, and to report by May 1st, 1944, on doubtful cases as well as cases where employees did not pass documents.

Employers are asked to remember that they do not report on men who do possess the necessary documents—only on those who fail to present documents for examination, or about there is doubt that the document presented actually proves good standing.

The employers of Canada, including farmers, co-operated very satisfactorily on the first check, made up to May 1st, last. This co-operation was decidedly helpful, and is very much appreciated. Further co-operation is now earnestly requested.

Schedule 9, for reporting to the Registrar, and details as to documents which prove good standing, are available through the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Farmers not needed on the farm during the winter, who answer the urgent call for winter workers in other essential industries, will be given a continuance of postponement of military training while away from the farm.

There are twelve new students in the High School, many of which you may not know. From week to week we shall tell you something of them, and hence introduce them to you;

Irene Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thomas, hails from Joseph Burg. She is the tall and slender blonde, in grade 12. Her favourite subject, she says, is English, while her sports are softball and skating. Her one ambition is to become a teacher. Here's wishing you success in your future career, Irene!

Lucille Barber, also in grade 12 and lodges from Josephburg, is the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Adolph Barber. This little brunette is also very fond of history, full of dismay and interest. Lucille's favourite sports are basketball and English but [illegible] while cooking and sewing seem to rate [illegible] Her ambition? To become a nurse. We wish you the best of luck Lucille!

Mr. H. A. Craig is Guest Speaker at Victory Loan Banquet

On Friday evening, November 17th, a banquet was held in the United Church class room for the Fort Saskatchewan and district Victory Loan Committee and salesmen and their wives.

Mr. Lees, the Chairman of the committee thanked the salesmen most heartily for the fine work they did in achieving the objective, set at $200,000. He then called on Mr Bill Graham, Unit Organizer, who quoted figures and amounts raised.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mr H. A. Craig, district chairman of the Educational Section, who also praised the fine work which had been done and quoted figures showing how Fort Saskatchewan and district had from the first been, always achieved their objective. He said it was through co-operation of the committee, salesmen and the citizens from every rank and in every walk of life, which made the loan successful and if this co-operation was carried on after this world conflict there would be unity and understanding among the people of Canada.

Mr. Craig also praised the girls of the Y.P.U. who did all the work in connection with the banquet, decorating the tables and in waiting and serving the excellent dinner. He also commented on the place cards, made in figure servers, symbolizing the 7th Victory Loan.

The evening came to a close with the showing of moving pictures by Mr. Jim Grant, a member of the Massey-Harris firm of Edmonton.

A Source of Cheap Good Food

Wise farmers are beginning even now to think about their seed requirements for this coming spring. The results of the analyses of thousands of farmers' crops recently conducted by the "Crop Testing Plan" reveal among other things that these crops were true-to-variety to a high degree of excellence, and so should be quite suitable for use as seed.

One way then for a farmer to obtain good seed cheaply then would be for him to find a neighbor who has a crop tested by the "Crop Testing Plan" and who has received an "A" classification. Grain that reach a farmer now has on his farm, provided it is representative of the sample tested, should be suitable for use as seed so far as treatment-to-variety is concerned.

Farmers having "A" seed are under more than willing to sell it to their neighbors at a few cents premium over the market price.

The following month seed should make an early application to their neighbors who have the "A" seed so those neighbors need their grain to market. It would still, however, be advisable for any farmer to purchase his seed from a few bushels of good Registered of Certified seed mailed in the sack next to new this on a clean piece of ground.

Farm Auction

by G. M. Flintoff

What is it about a farm auction that plunks at the heart-strings? Present in full measure are the elements of tragedy, pathos, humor.

This year an unprecedented number of sales have been heralded by bogus pastures from post-office walls, store windows and board fences in towns and villages across the Canadian province.

Because the trend is country wide, and the causes and effects cut so deeply into the fabric of our economic and social life, humour is much that is vital to our existence and well being stems from the soil, and the men and women on the land, thinking people are concerned, and deplore the apparent disintegration of rural life which is epitomized by this exodus from the farms.

Behind the hearty revival at dawn when the "call to arms" is the realization on the part of many farm folk, that, with sons and daughters in the services, some way of help must be found, others gone to work in war industries, pressure of extra work, the difficulty of getting help, and in many cases they have come to the place where they can no longer carry on.

Others, who through fat years and lean have worked early and late, reaped their families and their land, made valuable contribution to the building of their communities, with the blight of the "Grapes of Wrath" years behind them, still upon them, are unable to cope with the demands of mortgage companies, high taxations, rising commodity prices, etc., etc., compelled in the autumn of their lives to leave their homes and life work, and start afresh in another. Her ways and phases and hardest of all for country-folk among strangers.

The farm auction is an institution in the sense that the environment of a sale is the signal for a "day-off" be in the short season before seeding begins.

People attend auction sales for various reasons in the foreground is the need to meet and talk with their neighbors, talk that runs the gamut from Bill Brown who is looking for a new strain of seed-wheat for his summer-fallow and came to talk it over with Joe Smith, to the large forum of twelve or twenty who get together to discuss people, events, trends of

On Monday last the Directorate of the Sherbrook Mutual Telephone Co. met in our school house. There were fifteen subscribers present. Officers were elected for the ensuing year. A considerable volume of business was transacted during the busy harvest months and the Board met to work with a will to succeed it.

Reginald Kenzie, Chairman of the Public Utilities Division, attended the other evening's meeting of the Board of Trade. It was decided that the "Christmas Concert" to be held in the school this year, instead of the one held down for 1945, namely that the last school day only is to be dispensed with, the children to be entertained in this festival, the choice of days-time or evening celebration is to be left to the individual teacher and that a minimum of school time is to be utilized for the preparation of members. A statement to this effect will be sent to each school in the district.

Brownie News

The Brownies held their monthly week-before-last, in the form of a Hallowe'en party. All had a merry time and they were so very good that Brown Owl decided to have a "treat" could not be allowed. We have not been able to secure suitable ones.

x x x

With our member Pauli Leader, Jean Weir arranging the games, all went very smoothly. One important event in the party was the initiation of Mary Simpson in pantomime. The young sailor "Jack and Jill" were chosen by the Brownies and they walked in the room Shirley Wilson, Carmella Latour, Rita Cote, Helen Latour and Rosella Lemon. The prize when these performances took place, was hidden from the audience by some Brownies and Brown Owl, and when a rope, and the flashlights were Jack O'Lantern. Judging from the applause each time all seemed to enjoy Pumpkin Pie immensely, so there must still be some "magic" left.

After the above was over came the Fairy Ring, which centred around the Court Mrs. the Jack O'Lantern serving this purpose. It was a bit spooky as the fire was the only one light. With we were sitting around the fire Brownie stories were served and Brownie Handbook had a most interesting story.

The meeting was closed by dashing for supper and also trying to eat them off suspended strings. If you could not get an apple one way you tried the other.

We are very pleased to see so many "Brownie Bits" and hope they will enjoy coming. They are, Julia Hlidiuk, Rita Gale, Theresa Lemon, Marion Thomas, Shirley Ann Whitford, Olive Chalifoux, Chadwick Fossil, Hilda Hunt, Jacqueline Smith, Evelyn Watson and Helen Wedgewood.

We take our leave of Brownie Lore here left, namely, Pauline Lamoureux, Margaret Moore, Gladys Mercer and Annie Lamoureux. We would enjoy hearing from them anytime.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Birchall, M.A.

"I can not send peace but a sword." "He that hath no sword let him sell his garment and buy one."

"They that take the sword shall perish with the sword."

"I am come to set a man at variance against his father."

These saying of Jesus are hard to understand. The simple way is to choose those that fit your understanding of Jesus and discard or ignore the others; but the simple way is not necessarily the right way.

However we understand all these and similar sayings of Jesus, one thing is clear. Jesus did not expect that his teaching would immediately bring world-wide harmony among men. In fact he believed it would naturally increase the tensions and the strife.

When a person discovers that he has a loyalty that is not always identical with his loyalty to revered family customs a happy, respectable home may be divided into two factions at loggerheads. Introduce into a monopoly a man who believes that institutions were made for men and not men for institutions, and the directors' room may cease to be the scene of friendly unanimity and become a battle ground. Introduce into any state, satisfying situation the dynamic presence of a man who believes that honor is more important than comfort, and watch the vested interests rush for their swords. Awaken men to the knowledge that they are sons of God, and those who have profited from treating them like cows or sheep will long opposition and believe that in doing so they are defending God.

History shows that Jesus was right. His teaching has not given man the contentment of even "knee-deep in June", but has rather startled them into an awareness of their own worth and their neighbors worth, and as a result they have deliberately opened up and entered into fields of controversy and opposition and risk. Not the least of the risks is that of coming into open conflict not only with those who resent change but also with those who have other plans for changing things.

Is it not better to die as men in a dynamic society, than to live like well-fed cattle in a dead world? Is it not better to be stricken down while claiming for self and neighbor the right to be persons, than to be stupidly content with animal comforts?

A man unconscious of the "image of God" within him is less than a man; a man conscious of that image is more than a man. Between these two ere cannot expect harmony. The only possible answer to those who place harmony above all else would be a society in which men, in search of security, were satisfied with mere existence.

We live in the centre of the strange paradox that the Prince of Peace let loose in the world forces that bring men into opposition and will continue to do so until the Kingdom of this world become the Kingdom of our Lord.

English Widow Gives Praise to Canadian Men

"What splendid men the Canadians are!" So writes a widowed English lady of 55 years, once upon a time tomahter, the principal, of an "infant" School in the heart of England to one of the "Dear Infants", himself a teacher remembering her with a full heart of affection and gratitude.

"What splendid men the Canadians are! My dear husband," she continues, "would have been so proud of them, for he lived in Winnipeg 12 years and was coach to the Winnipeg Rowing Club. His sayings have picked up all the prizes in the United States in 1916 and in 1914 he brought a team over to Henley. Then they joined up for service when war broke out that year."

The remainder of this gracious lady's letter may be an inspiration to the readers of the Fort Record, especially to those in the "inner" ranks of the profession, engaging in isolated schools against conditions which sometimes, in hours of doubt and discouragement, loom up as impossible mountains of prejudice, ignorance, misunderstanding and melancholy gossip.

This gradness lady, writing of a famous "infant" of hers, the Hon. Walter Nash, Vice Premier of New Zealand and Ambassador sent by that land to represent her at Washington. This lady tells proudly how the Hon. Walter Nash has sent her a copy of his recently written book on New Zealand.

And then she says, "What brilliant 'infants' I have had pass through my hand!—Ambassadors, Deans, Clergy Solicitors, Teachers and Gentlemen in the humbler walks of life: all praising God in their uprightness and integrity! God bless them all."

NEW MOBILE X-RAY UNIT TO FIGHT T.B.

CHRISTMAS SEALS BUY $25,000.00 T.B. CLINIC

Heavy artillery in the war against tuberculosis was delivered to-day to the Hon. Dr. W W Cross, Minister of Health, when the Alberta Tuberculosis Association turned over the second Mobile Chest X-ray Clinic, bought with Christmas Seal Funds.

Success of the first Mobile X-ray Unit was so remarkable in helping to light early cases of tuberculosis that it was decided to enlarge and expand the Early Diagnosis Campaign by purchasing another Unit.

The Alberta Department of Health in one year's operation of the first Unit, had X-rayed nearly 60 000 Albertans, to discover about 100 cases of active tuberculosis most of them in the early stages, when recovery is almost certain. The first Unit cost $15,000.00. The second Unit is valued at $60,000.00, and represents the very last word in mechanical and scientific achievement.

This No. 2 is considered to a less degree, upon loyalty by General Motors Ltd and the Victor X-ray Corporation. It has a higher capacities than Unit No. 1, so that it can negotiate more difficult roads, and it hauls with a trailer containing a complete generating unit, allowing it to operate anywhere in the province, providing its own power where necessary.

Dr Cross said, "We are grateful to the Alberta Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated Christmas Seal Committees for their assistance. The solution to the problem of tuberculosis seems to lie in discovering tuberculosis in the earliest stages, and the only way to do this is to X-ray large groups of apparently healthy people."

Rotary Clubs and Kinsmen Clubs in Alberta have made Christmas Seals and anti-tuberculosis work their main community service. Committees are arranged in Banff, Calgary, Cochrane, Drumheller, Edmonton, High River, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat and Red Deer.

Christmas Seals provide the only source of revenue for the local committees and also for the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, which operates under the Department of Health and with the tuberculosis officials, whose director is Dr A. H. Baker, Superintendent of the Central Alberta Sanitarium at Claresholm.

Dr Baker said, "Our chief aim is to get control of all spreaders of tuberculosis. Approximately three out of every thousand apparently well persons have active T.B., and a large proportion of these people are infecting others without being aware of it. The more spreaders we find, the sooner we can bring under control the oldest scourge of mankind."

The Alberta Tuberculosis Association is affiliated with the Canadian Tuberculosis Association and the National Association of the U. S. Its activities embrace all forms of anti-tuberculosis work in Alberta. The X-ray survey work is known as Early Diagnosis, or case finding. It also sponsors and helps to pay for occupational therapy in Sanatoria, hospitals in Calgary and Edmonton, whereby patients are taught to make useful and saleable articles.

Vocational training and rehabilitation of ex-service men and women of the A.T.A.'s program. New and suitable skills and trades are taught to patients so that they will not be handicapped when they have to return to civil life.

East Edmonton Notes

An unusual manifestation of weather for sunny Alberta was the heavy blanket of fog that enveloped the country side on the evening of November 20th. Driving became a hazardous adventure, but in spite of the fog a number of card enthusiasts gathered at the Community Hall for the first whist drive of the season. Eight tables played, the winners being Mrs. S. Hawkins, Miss Gladys Cunningham, Mr. Andy Adamson and Mr. G. Briggs. Supper followed the game, served by a number of young girls under the direction of Mrs. F. Pulsan.

Proceeds of the evening, together with donations from absentees, amounted to nearly fifteen dollars.

STRAIT IS THE GATE..

Rev. Elliott H. Bielsmit, M.A.

Now & again re-arity I have been asked my opinion about lotteries, raffles and other "minor" forms of gambling.

The Dominion Government forbids nearly all forms of gambling, but exempts Churches and Charities from the regulations of the Act. It is the carefully considered opinion of our legislators that it is not in the interest of rational welfare of good citizenship, that gambling should be made a patient. Why then have they done this? Such organizations persuade society on gambling projects? I am wondering if these exceptions, making it be courteous extended to Charities and Charities, are not the thin edge of the wedge by which certain forces hope eventually to open Canada to extensive commercial gambling.

In the so-called mild forms of gambling used now, and in the flagrant Dollar Bungalow appeals and Treasure Chest campaigns, it is commonly thought that they are solely money-raising devices, and are defended by two arguments: first, no other method will raise so much, and, second this method will get money from people who will not help community interprise in comparison with its educative power in the community. Among adults it creates talk tinged with the desire to get a large prize for a small outlay of money and without any expenditure of energy or time on the part of the ticket-holders. This emotional situation awakens a desire to get something without creative output of energy. This is true of the adults in the community and even more true of the children. When adults are excited children learn fast. Furthermore, in some cases, children and youths, more emotional than rational, sell tickets and are rewarded with a commission in either money or "chances". That is education of the most effective kind. When a child's ticket is the "lucky" one, just think of all the education that goes on in the whole child population.

Because I am a Canadian and covet only the best for Canada and my fellow citizens, because I am a member of the Church, the moral and spiritual consciousness of the Nation, and because I am ordained a Minister of the Gospel, for these three reasons I oppose all gambling as a negative education, decline to buy "chances" of any kind or battery, and seek other ways of helping worthy causes.

There are some symbol people who say, "All life is a gamble", or "Life is just a battery", and by such remarks and the tone of voice in which they say them put themselves on the side of complete liberty of gambling, commercial and otherwise. To them one has only to reply: You are wrong, life is not a gamble; it is a risk.

Gambling is artificially setting up a risk that does not exist in the nature of things. The farmer takes the risk of hail, drouth, etc., but that does not make farming a gamble; it is a risk. If a group of land-owners, without expending any time or energy on their land, were to lay bets on the weather, the "bet" to go at the end of the season to the one whose land had been most kindly treated by the elements, then they would be gambling, not farming.

People who take risks, though they sometimes suffer in the long run add to the world's supply of goods. People who gamble waste time and energy on it, and by their gambling add absolutely nothing to the world's wealth.

I covet for Canada citizens, both now and in the future, who will so vigorously enter into the creative risks of abundant life that the spurious, deceptive thrills of gambling will not interest them.

Dunn-Waters Nuptials Held

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Bethel Church, Redwater, on November 25th, at 2:30 p.m., in the Holy Trinity Church, South Edmonton, when Alice, daughter of Mrs. A. Waters of South Edmonton, was united in marriage to William Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dunn of Fort Saskatchewan.

Rev. Canon Naisby performed the ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white chenet, her coupet veil held in place by a wreath of tiny white flowers. She carried a bouquet of large pink roses.

She was attended by her sister Miss Lorraine Waters, who was dressed in a floor length gown of pastel blue rayon crepe and wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by Walter Waters.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home for the immediate family.

A toast was proposed to the bride, to which the groom responded.

The three-tier wedding cake was the centre piece with silver leaves and candles on dainty rosebuds and topped with a Good Luck Horse Shoe and Cupid.

The couple will make their home on the groom's farm at New Sarepta, after a brief honeymoon in the city.

The preparation of the soil at the proper time for the 1945 crop should really begin now with fall ploughing and ploughing. If this is not done, the work will have to be over-taken in the early spring as soon as the ground is dry enough to be properly worked.

World of Wheat

by
H. G. L. Strange

Registered Seed—What is it?

Many people are puzzled by the words Registered Seed. "What does it mean?" they ask.

Let us take an example. Canadian wheat is the highest quality wheat in the world. This high quality does not come from the soil and climate of our prairies alone but is mainly the result of high milling and baking values which have been bred into certain varieties. It is obvious, therefore, that a crop of wheat should consist of one or the other of these varieties. The Registered tag on a sack of grain guarantees that the seed is ready of high seed variety testing, and that it does not contain mixtures of other varieties. When a farmer sows Registered seed, therefore, he is assured that he will produce a crop of wheat that contains all the high qualities that the plant breeders have bred into that variety.

Both the growing fields and the seed in the sack are inspected. Land up each year is placed a Government Certificate, and the sack is sealed. It takes extra care and an extra entry money to produce Registered seed. The farmer should not think of the extra cost of this seed only of the extra cost per bushel of the crop he will harvest. This will be, on the average, around 5 cents a bushel, belonging to the farmer, however, a return of many times the extra cost of the seed.

A special fibre now being manufactured in Britain is claimed to be the strongest in the world. The new fibre called "Fortisan", is manufactured by British Celanese, Limited, England. Its many wartime uses include parachute canopies and cords for dropping supplies from aircraft.

Educational Rehabilitation

The Alberta Department of Education has arranged in cooperation with the Federal Department of Labor to establish special schools for ex-service personnel who expect to complete matriculation for university entrance or other educational training. The first of these schools will be opened in Edmonton on January 2nd, 1945.

Ex-service personnel desiring to enter this school should write without delay to Mr. C. P. Thomas, 10025-101 A Ave., Edmonton, for particulars and advice. With the first letter an applicant should give particulars as to length of service, place and time of last school attendance, age and course which applicant desires to enter at University.

This school is part of the Federal Plan for educational rehabilitation of ex-service personnel and will be considered in such a way as to enable those attending to complete their high school work in the shortest possible time.

The University of Alberta is planning to establish for ex-service personnel early in the year 1945, courses covering the work of the first university year following senior matriculation. It is intended to enable students now eligible to enter university to complete the first year before the opening of the University session in September, 1945.

Those interested should immediately write to the Registrar of the University of Alberta, Edmonton, giving the following information:

1. Age and length of service.
2. Time when and place where last high school examinations were written.
3. The course to which admission is sought.

Crisis and Cure

The eyes of the whole nation and much of the world have been centred for two months on these last days on [illegible] correspondent [illegible] the dramatic sitting [illegible] Chamber has ever proved [illegible] most likely to witness."

[illegible] was no emotional [illegible] There wasn't much talking [illegible] the days after day after [illegible] members of the Parliament [illegible] The gravity of the situation [illegible] the faces of those [illegible] and hoping for a [illegible] to the spectator's [illegible] whether they [illegible] the names were day [illegible] at then the question [illegible] was being decided on the floor [illegible] Here. All the arguments and [illegible] being were only eruptions [illegible] of something much [illegible] underneath.

The immediate issue facing the members of the House was the need for reinforcements for our fighting men and this issue had to be met. But the stark starting fact that burst itself, almost with a physical pain, into this writer was our failure since 1919 to build a nation. This is the issue that confronts every thinking Canadian today. For that failure could not have been more clearly evident if it had been emblazoned on a [illegible] banner from the rafters of the Commons Chamber itself.

Why did it happen? Well, that's a question that each person must ask himself and answer for himself.

Now is a good time to take honest stock of ourselves. For what has been going on in the House of Commons here in Ottawa only magnifies the lack of responsibility and deep failure of each one of us over the last twenty-five years. What sort of nation builders were we between 1919 and 1939? Where did most of our energies go. To build a nation? Or to build a bank balance, a reputation of a business?

These days emotions are running high. Racial bitterness, prejudice and hate smolder and burst into flame. We blame the other fellow. Yet by giving way to these emotions we only pave the way for the complete breakdown of confederation and the end of Canada. The horror at strife are greater than the deepest personal feelings of any living Canadian. For they concern the future of every Canadian.

Not long ago a great British philosopher, Dr Streeter of Oxford, said, "A race that has grown up intellectually must grow up morally or perish. Is there a parallel between the present and the days when Canada was born? Is there a parallel between the present and the days when Canada was born? Is there a parallel between the present and the days when Canada was born?

South Cooking Lake New

South Cooking Lake sympathizes with "Jack" Porter and his family on the passing of their grandmother Porter, who passed away in Edmonton on November 25th, and whose funeral took place on the 28th at Mount Pleasant Cemetery. It is only two years since Jack and his family suffered a similar loss, when Grandfather Porter passed on and left them. Now they are doubly bereft.

Farming is happier things. Mrs. Bob Bell is home again, looking little the worse for her serious illness. We all share in the happiness of this family reunion.

"Dempsey" Bell, in a recent letter to his parents tells of a visit (what we say a pilgrimage) to Vimy Ridge and the hallowed Vimy Memorial. No doubt, as he stood there and gazed on that shrine and thought of the men who fought on that Dumb-crest ridge, he said to himself, though he does not say so, "Dad was here, too".

Pte George Porter, undoubtedly disconcerted at the absence of his wife "Pat" and his baby on Kenneth, came here from Suffield last week and took them away with him. We regret their going, but we all agree that George has first claim on them.

The Gideons came out from Edmonton again last Sunday to lead us in worship at St. Mark's Church. They were Mr. and Mrs. Dawson and Mr. Marsh. The congregation to welcome these friends was respectably small, but splendid boys and girls of the Sunday School. For these young people Mrs. Marsh and Mr. Dawson had a delightful hour of song and happy programme. The lady, who is a teacher in an Edmonton Sunday School, told their class something of the interesting and well-told Bible story, each of the more real and clear by a colorful back-up picture illustrating the outstanding events of the story Mr. Dawson taught several new songs to add to their repertoire two years ago. Mrs. Dawson accompanied Mrs. Marsh in one of her favorite solos.

We extend again for a more grateful response to those friends from Edmonton, who drive out here to minister to us and to our children without asking or even for the promises one they are. Indeed, they confer the favor by their very use of the offering. If we let pass this privilege of Christian worship and fellowship in this community on this side of the highway we are quite unworthy of that church serving us. Even the Master Himself is a standing reproach to us.

This is the first of a series of biographies of the pioneers of the Josephsburg district.

Mr. Valentine Gerof was born in 1858 in Josephsburg, Austria. He was the youngest of a family of six—four girls and two boys. His father died in his infancy and all his sisters and his brother have since passed on. His mother died at the age of 72.

75 years Young!

Portraits of The T. EATON Co. Limited 1869 - 1944

December 8th, 1869... Timothy Eaton, young new Canadian from the North of Ireland opens dry goods store at south-west corner of Yonge and Queen Streets, Toronto. Indefinite sign reads: "Cheap for Cash". Store is 25 feet wide, 80 feet deep, with two floors and basement. No window dressing. But before the day's end, Toronto knows something unique's been started. SOME THINGS ONLY ... PRICES IN PLAIN FIGURES ... ENTIRE SATISFACTION OR MONEY REFUNDED—at the counter or by mail. Mail Order Department promises to bring right grocery and meat prices to town. They're announced in Toronto's first newspaper advertisement. Eaton's is founded on policies to suit and the devious practice of "chiseling." Accustomed to the check of quarterly bills after three months of blind shopping, Timothy Eaton's bid for business ties all the dramatic elements of suspense, daring and fine human relationships. Here's a merchant who puts himself on the side of the customer ... in the opening lines did he proclaim values to Toronto store-keeping.

Twenty Eaton understand people. It was his happy destiny to serve mounting multitudes. He lived to see his small dry goods business sprawl out and become a city in itself, with its own population of homes, churches, factories, hospitals, farms, parks, transportation, employment and industry. He saw others adopt his institutions of shorter hours and weekly half-holiday for his store workers. He was called the father of the Early Closing Movement ... Eaton's pre-eminent selling philosophy after forty years held fast to his business and humanitarian principles.

December 8th, 1944... Canada and EATON'S have grown up together. For a dozen years more across very close to the centenary. Across the Dominion, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, are Eaton centres of supply and service. The record personnel that of the 32,000 men and women employed in Eaton Stores, Factories, Mail Order and Distributing Warehouses, 9170 have served or are still serving in the Navy, Army and Air Force.

Seventy-five years of serving the public is one of the most treasured lands on the lore of the globe! Serving through peace and wars, through prosperity and depression, EATON'S knows the unmeasured honour that is a story of high opportunity and mighty responsibility.

PREPARING FOR CHRISTMAS"

(The following meditation prepared by Miss Marjorie Luther, is worth reading and re-reading.)

What must to keep Christmas"

To glow with excitement over the Christ-preparation of little parcels for [illegible]

To be sorry for all unkindnesses, all misunderstandings, all unbelievableness of thought or speech—this is to keep Christmas.

To have the heart overflowing with forgiveness and goodwill—this is to keep Christmas. Pray to keep it thus.

To remember the poverty of the world, its suffering, its need, and to give until the giving hurts, until one really has to go without something oneself in order to share with others who need—this is to keep Christmas. Pray to keep it thus.

To scatter abroad generous deeds and words, and to keep on doing it when December twenty-fifth is past—this is to keep Christmas. Pray to keep it thus.

To laugh to and sing, to frolic and to be foolish; to have the heart made tender and alive to all loveliness—this is to keep Christmas. Pray to keep it thus.

For masters of industry to bend their energies towards a more just distribution of profits—this is to keep Christmas. For those who are employed to give full measure of honest service, and to keep the heart from bitterness, even while struggling for better conditions of work—this is to keep Christmas. Pray to keep it thus.

For people of every race to strive to understand those of other colour and custom—this is to keep Christmas. Pray to keep it thus.

For governments to set aside national ambition, national pride, and desire of every day, that Christmas may keep its people to the pursuit of lasting peace among the nations—this is to keep Christmas. Pray to keep it thus.

Wherever one person sees a shining vision of Christ-mas, pauses to follow it, and, passed away, but the Kingdom of birth, passed away, but the Kingdom the Christ, and sets himself to the of that little child, that man of slow building of that Kingdom in the land areth, shall never pass away.

Partridge Hill Elect Officers

Pres. Mrs. Wesley Attewell.
Vice-Pres. Mrs. Verd Lawrence.
Sec.-Treas. Mr. Wilmot Alton.
Directors, Mrs. J. Fischer, Mrs. A E. Frey, Mrs. Frank Kulak, Mrs Geo. Osbaldeston.

We were fortunate in having Mr Birdsall with us, and we enjoyed his interesting and informative talk on Russia and Russian religion.

Reports were heard from the committee who went to Edmonton to investigate into the possibilities of "Rural Electrification", a matter about which our members are very interested.

The friends and neighbors of Mr. Morgan Alton honored him and his bride, the former Miss Jean Stuart of Lamont, recently at a shower held in the Community hall. The evening was spent in dancing, music supplied by local talent, after which the bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful gifts and loads of good wishes for their future happiness

The interior of our church has been painted, the work being done by Mr. Bill Johnston, of Edmonton, who has done a very good job of brightening up the walls and ceiling. No doubt both minister and congregation will appreciate this renovation, and although the ceiling is a good deal of pleasure from it for years to come

Annual meeting of the church W.A. and the War Service Guild was held at the home of Mrs. Garnet Houston last Thursday. Election of officers took place for both societies. After the meetings the hostess served a lovely lunch.

This reporter was fortunate in being able to attend the Wesley United church evening of entertainment at the Josephsburg school recently. It was a full two hours packed with fun and laughter, the kind of performances that make everyone forget all his cares and worries for that long at least, and indulge in a good laugh, something of which all of us do far too seldom.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl of Edmonton, and Mrs. Nash of Vancouver were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Alexander.

Baker School held a very successful whist drive on the 1st of December. Mrs. Barnfield won the ladies first and Mr. E. Jacques won the men's first prize. Mr. Neil Walsh was fortunate in getting the booby prize.

UNITY

We have a good deal these days about the necessity for unity; what ever that may mean, and some people talk about disunity which is supposed to exist among the people of many different racial origins which make up our population of 11 millions.

My own experience [illegible] in Western Canada has not revealed to me this disunity that people talk so much about. I have been in almost every district in the province where people of different racial origins, living and working in the utmost friendliness as good neighbors and as good Canadians. Here, I see threshing outfits, or if farm owned, can people be called disunited if phone, they work, visit, sometimes eat, and often dance together as friends, and whose children all regard themselves as Canadians!

Those who talk of disunity might be interested in the Unity which we have now in battle. Invites, Department of Agriculture, Canadian lads of every racial group Edmonton are doing their full patriotic duty, side by side, on the battlefields, and often each has his son dying, to safeguard this, our country of Canada. Is it not reasonable to assume that the national unity made up of the good characteristics and virtues of the many races living in Canada, has been firmly cemented for all time by the blood of our sons who have made, and will make, the supreme sacrifice!

Joy-Grayson Nuptials Held

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at Holy Trinity Church of the Ascension, November 27, at 2 o'clock, when Ada May, daughter of Mr. W. J. Joy, was united in marriage to William Frederick Grayson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Grayson, all of Ardrossan.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, looking very graceful in a two-length gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, and a matching bolero with lace trim. Her toe-length veil was held in place by a Queen's pearl headdress and orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a two string pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of roses and fern.

The bridesmaid, Miss Gladys Grayson, sister of the groom, was dressed in a tea-length gown of white sheer with sequin trimmings, her chaplet veil of pink was held in place by a Queen's pearl headdress. She carried a bouquet of ivy bon vons and fern.

Attending the groom was Mr. Frank Hosking, brother-in-law of the groom.

Mr. R. Thomson and Mrs. W. Joy were ushers.

A reception was held at the Fairridge Hills Community Hall, and a dance was held in the evening, when many friends gathered to extend best wishes and congratulations to the young couple.

Wesley Group of Edmonton Entertain Josephburg Residents

Wesley Group No. 4 of Edmonton enrolled itself when it paid Josephburg a professional visit on the night of December 6th, ably assisted by Messrs. Baker, Robinson and Pritchard. Nine members of the group, under the capitancy of Mrs. Castle, rendered the programme. From start to finish the entertainment went over with a bang; encores were spontaneous and insistent, and the cast never failed to respond. The evening was filled to capacity with patrons prepared to enjoy themselves.

A few community ups, led by the indomitable Mr. Robinson, supplied the first touches of warmth, and, from then on, the several items presented, kept the fire ablaze. The evening was brought to a close with a play which produced uproarious mirth.

Those who purchased tickets felt that they had made a sound investment and personally we should have no hesitation in recommending these talented amateurs to anyone requiring their services.

Our sincere gratitude goes out to those of our resident good scouts, male and female, whose assistance contributed largely to the success of the evening.

Bruhs-Monchak Pledge Vows

A very lovely church wedding took place on Thursday, the 23rd of November at 10:30 a.m. at St. Joseph Cathedral, North Edmonton, when Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Monchak, of South Cooking Lake became the bride of Mr. Frank Bruhs of Tofield.

A. D. O'Brien performed the ceremony.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She looked lovely in a floor-length gown of white sheer. Her floor-length veil was held in place by a wreath of small carnations and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Katherine Monchak and Miss Anne Monchak, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They were dressed in floor-length gowns of pale blue and pink respectively. Both were pink and blue flowers in their hair.

The groom was attended by Mr. Dennis McGinnis and Mr. Wm. Bowie.

Following the ceremony a very lovely supper was served, at the home of the bride's parents. Many friends and relatives attended.

The four layer wedding cake, which centered the table, was topped with two good luck horse shoes and decorated with Orange Blossoms.

After the reception a dance was held in the Minnith hall.

CUT, HAUL OWN CHRISTMAS TREES

Shortage of rail equipment, manpower and restrictions on the use of trucks result in a scarcity of Christmas trees this year unless people haul their own, according to official information.

Farmers who cut trees on their own farms, and haul them to town in the course of their usual farm operations may sell Christmas trees. But truckers will receive no special permit to cut and haul Christmas trees this year.

In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are ever near.
Oh, how long and sad the day,
Since from earth you passed away,
We miss your sweet and smiling face,
We miss you everywhere,
Forgotten by the world by none you may be,
But dear to our memory, you will always be.

THE FORT RECORD

VOL. 38, No. 38 FORT SASKATCHEWAN, ALBERTA, CANADA Subscriptions $1.50 year; U.S. $2.00

The sweet hush of peace fills the air—to be broken only by the warm, chattery greetings of neighbors meeting on their way to Church . . . and by the children's laughter as they make merry in the snow. All the ground is mantled with the snow's whiteness, and again-as-white is the little house of worship illumined by the early morning sun. It is Christmas in Canada. Christmas, 1944. And from coast to coast, many millions of the people will be observing the holiday, each in his own fashion. Far from each native land, and from each denomination's tenets, have come down varying customs in raiment, in food, in the exchange of gifts—and in the very spiritual observance itself. Yet such is the heart and spirit of Canada—that the gracious sharing of good things at Christmas time has been adopted as a custom too, even by those whose forbears' origin and faith did not call for Christmas observances. And such is the soul and zeal of Canadians that in every heart this Christmas will rise the common prayer of—"Peace on Earth: Good Will toward Men." For this is the Temple of Democracy, where all men, all women, and all children are meant to live in love and tolerance for each other's habits, traditions . . . and failings. This is where the arms of friendship open wide—to sustain the weak as they embrace the strong, whatever a man's race, religion or creed; so long as he too is true to the meaning of Democracy. For He whose blessed birth is so joyously remembered at this time was verily the most ardent teacher of democracy the world has ever known. And as we re-read the story of His life and re-hear the words He spoke, there will only be reaffirmed the fact that those are the teachings which must be again carried around the world—and this is the land that now has the very sacred obligation of bringing about the vigorous and everlasting re-birth of democracy.—Bury deep under their own iniquities those who, with the insidious means of fascism, would make the world again pagan—bereft of the holiness and beauty of brotherly love! Let the churches and homes of the nation be filled with prayer and song in praise of Him! Let us do more: let each one of us go forth from this day on, and in His name become an unflagging crusader for the regeneration of the brotherhood of man, as He taught it, and still lives to teach it in the hearts of those who understand that Love and Democracy are one! And next Christmas may the hands and hearts of all God's children be joined in peace.

Allow Income-Tax Deduction for Student Nurses

"Parents ill student nurses may now assume an income-tax deduction of $90 of the amount contributed (but not exceeding $400.00) to the support of a daughter under twenty-one years of age training as a nurse at a public or provincially-licensed private hospital." The announcement is made by Miss Fanny Munroe, President of the Canadian Nurses Association, following the passing of a clause in the bill at national finance at the last session of the House of Commons.

"This income-tax deduction is applicable also to the sister or brother of a dependent sister under twenty-one training at such a hospital," added Miss Munroe.

The provision for income-tax deduction will meet with strong approval on the part of many parents who have been concerned about the lack of recognition of this type of student training. It is also strongly approved by directors of Schools of Nursing who have encountered this objection from parents of prospective students.

It is pointed out that a larger exemption is not allowed because major expenses of student nurses are provided by the hospitals at which they receive training.

On the subject of income-tax deductions for parents of student nurses, Mr. C. P. Elliott, Deputy Minister of National Revenue (Taxation) stated "We are at should be very conscious of the splendid work done by hospitals and of the unanimity between training which prevent exemptions require be given to student nurses."

"Perhaps nurses above all others fill a place that should receive sympathetic consideration and parents should be encouraged to send their children to this kind of work which is daily required and is of such great human value.

"But only the medical profession, but others are conscious of their splendid service, their high education, and ever increasing requirements as citizens and the increasing professional progress."

Rev. R. M. Boas Former St. George's Rector Relates Mission Work Experiences

Dear Friends,

By the time this is prepared for sending, I and mine will have spent five months within our new sphere of life and work. They have been very happy months. There have been so many new experiences to relish that I hardly know where to begin but, begin I must, as most all my friends to whom this open letter is addressed, might know a little more about what Kay, Louise, Yvonne and Bella have been doing.

When I mention the whole family, it is just that, for we have all lived on board the Rendezvous for over two months. And, my love it, and give room by no good offices. Yes, just that; nobody scratch yet. Early in November we successfully endured a less than three and a half hours south-east's storm. It was bad enough to hasten our return back to Whale cove. I had to go further south, with the storm on my "stern", but we made another safe port. To say the least, we were very pressed of ourselves, and above all of our 25 foot gas boat that performed so beautifully. Dangerous? sure it is, but so no worse than some of the fast trips we made by car. On top of it we all have good life belts and a strong life boat always at hand. Yes, the children always wear their life belts, they are outside on the wharfs, and they are never on deck while a new one running.

Our living quarters are quite good. Not too cramped. We are not piled one on top of the other. Kay and I enjoy a semi-double bed in the forecastle, (the front part of the living quarters of the boat!) Yvonne sleeps in the pilot house and Louise in the main cabin. Then, we have a good oil-burning stove with which we cook and heat the boat. Oh yes, I have a good cook, too! There is a flush toilet, folding wash basin, lots of clothes and shelves, radio and electric lights. Most of the boats up here accomodate fish better than the ones we possess, but not so with the Rendezvous. In many ways she is the envy of many a fisherman. And too, they all know that she is non-wooden! Not to forget the engine; it is a 6 cylinder Chrysler, which has been found to produce 95 hp. With the size of the boat and its cargo I can attain the magnificent speed of 9 land miles an hour. One can imagine what a downdown this has meant to me! To go to sea happily which is 25 miles Petty, though I have to go through three rapids, it takes me three and a half to four hours to get there. The other hospital is only two hours away, but it is over the worst waters around here. Already we acted as ambulance for 6 or 7 people. We are equipped with a stretcher, bunks and first-aid medicine to meet the need.

Above all, I have in the family a first-class nurse to do her stuff. And she is doing it too. Queen I married the right girl after all! We have all been through a hospital together, and now we can, and with two more years to go until Louise needs to go to school all the better.

But all this does not mean that we have to stay on the boat all the time we can, that helps a lot. We have at our disposal a very neat and conveniently laid-out cottage here at Whalebone Boarding water, beds and stoke, and "armstrong" toilet. As our mail comes in and out twice a week, and we do not have to go to Churchill, our new home is a welcome place. We have the power plant now and when we got it in we will have the lights installed. We also have a young orchard, and quite nice grounds. Can you wonder at our happiness? Our stock for the right place within the Church was not in vain. We are very thankful for all that it means to be here. We still feel that is in a life's work that lies ahead of us.

In all it has meant a very big change from the type of life and work from which we have come, but the thing that appeals to me so much is that within the circle of the work of the church I have found and been given a job and place that brings with it so much that I need; Out-door life, roughing it, dealing with the elements. Working with my hands, and above all the work of a clergyman among settlers, fishermen and loggers. Navigation is very well here

"This penny on earth good will bemord men stuff gives me a pain." Dart said. He laughed cynically, looking down into the penny nestled on it. "It gets me how you get handed in a Pan. Why don't you look the thing squarely in the face and real s- it's the bunk!"

"You must be blind!" Pamela cried. "There are thousands and thousands of people who give things."

"O.K., honey." He ruffled "Wo- look at it differently. The way I look at it a man never does something for nothing. If he isn't rewarded with material gain, then he's rewarded by having his vanity salved. There's always a selfish motive behind a seemingly act of kindness. I'll tell you which way you figure it. But it isn't important. What is important is that it's Christmas and you can't escape it. love and we ought to think of celebrating."

"It is important, Dart." Her voice was suddenly vibrant. "It's important to me to show you that you're wrong. I couldn't be happy with a man who had those ideas." And then, seeing the expression on his face, her voice softened. "Why, I never in all my life to you—quarreling about something so trite, but to me it isn't trite. Oh, Dart, no one does you how wrong you are!"

The corners were festive. Colored lights and evergreen adorned it on every window. Lighted trees were on every street corner Pam stopped the giving back gratitude and warmth of feeling and love

They left Mrs. Kimball and drove back to the city. They stopped near the park to listen to the carol sing- to it and smiled and said, "Merry ex- Christmas."

They left the gaily lighted streets behind. Pam turned into a side street. She stopped before a house and nestled her hand. A moment later a tired, middle-aged lady came hurrying out. She carried a basket. Pam opened the door for her and approached Dart. Her voice was kindled.

"Well" said the little lady. "This is mine. I suppose you're the person I'm to whom Miss Tripp is engaged."

"Yes, we're engaged," Dart said. He wondered what she had in the basket. She was so poorly dressed, so frail and appeared so undernourished. But there was a sparkle in her eye.

But instead of driving back to the city, Pam drove across the railroad tracks and into the Junkets, ill-lighted thoroughfares of Jayrown.

At last they stopped before a dilapidated tenement house. They entered a dark, cold hall, mounted stairs and rapped on a door. A weak voice bade them enter.

The room was warmer than the hall outside, lighted with a kerosene lamp. A woman lay in bed, a child cuddled to her breast. Mrs. Kimball mother-of-family relieved up the floor. Pamela straightened things in the room with surprising efficiency. The woman in the bed watched from heavy eyes while Mrs Kimball emptied the basket, set out a pint- fully small supply of foodstuffs, some strings of popcorn, the green bough and tinsel, oranges, two apples, a bottle of milk.

The sick woman's eyes were eager, grateful as the things appeared. By the time at all the pine bough was propped on the table, the strings of popcorn draped over it, oranges placed at its base, two candles on either side

Dart thought of the women in the bed and Mrs. Kimball. It's a selfish world, he thought. And suddenly he said; "I never thought about it this way before, but isn't it nice we have such selfish people, and Mrs. Kimball and Pamela Tripp?"

Pamela nestled against his arm for "And Dart Holloway," she added.

South Cooking Lake News

The Sanitary Inspector and the school was the subject of an informal discussion at the Griffin Hall on Saturday evening, when Mr. C. Evoy, of the Provincial Department of Health, was the speaker invited. The department regretted the absence of Mrs. Evoy, not then recovered from a severe attack of flu.

The discussion brought to light a number of school problems and suggestions for their solution, also covering the combined interest of school boards, parents, boys and girls, teachers and pupils, especially from the advice of the Sanitary Inspector, in solving these problems. It was felt, that the parents should take more interest and help in the matter of school lunches. Mrs. Evoy, not then recovered from a severe attack of flu.

Our Gideon friends came from Edmonton again last Sunday to lead us in our Sunday School and Worship. They were Miss Bennet and Mr. Percival. Miss Bennet had a story for the children and also a story on temperance, illustrated nightly, they not only the children but the adults, who have been coming so freely and giving themselves as generously, for the opportunity last the page of the year leaders notified Gideon Lioons and Boston Corners Bond. We regret to be able, therefore, to enjoy the company and leadership of the Gideon friends as often as we should like, or ever possible they will come to us, and timely notice of their visit will be given.

World of Wheat

by

H.G.L. Strange

A Remarkable Achievement

The Government informs us that the shipments of wheat from the Lakehead Ports of Fort William and Port Arthur exports to the many markets of the world, during the present season season, has broken all previous records. The total amount of grain shipped has been 641 million bushels, made up of 291 million bushels of wheat, 89 million of oats, 35 million of barley, 7 million of rye and 7 million of flax.

This is a remarkable achievement in the face of the fruit of the efforts which have been made by our prairie farmers, the Grain Trade, the Wheat Board, the transportation companies, all working smoothly together just like a well-oiled highly-efficient machine, to receive and to move essential foodstuffs to our Allies in war and to civilians in war areas.

This little item, and, be it be said, should be highly gratified with these results. It has been done quickly, with 30 million of a crop, and, be it be said, for only quite moderate regards to all concerned.

It is interesting to note, too, that while General Eisenhower has had to complain of a shortage of ammunition, he has not uttered any complaint about a shortage of food! No group concerned with this astonishing production has suffered any measure of hardship has ever gone on strike, or has even threatened to strike, for increased wages. Everybody, it seems to us, has a reward and a feel of human satisfaction, of which we can be justly proud.

It is proposed to establish a central buying and manufacturing plant which will supply hundreds of small shops operated by soldier members throughout the country. Those shops will do plumbing, electrical work, refrigeration, air conditioning, etc. Everyone participating will be a co-operative man and all will share in the profits.

A Merry Christmas

Once again Christmas is upon us and with it many of the things that bring us real happiness Christmas trees with their silver ornaments and tinsel which sparkles and glitters from the coloured tree lights. The Christmas stockings hanging from the mantel and parcels all wrapped in tissue and tied with fancy ribbons that eager hands are itching to unwrap to see what Santa brought. The Christmas turkey with cranberry sauce and all the trimmings, plum pudding and Christmas cake these are the things that make Christmas such a wish fest, while many go around with their happy smiles, their thoughts will be far away, thinking of their loved ones and the battle fronts of the world and hoping that by next Christmas there will be peace on earth.

We wish at this time to thank our advertisers, correspondents and many new friends for their support and cooperation and to one and all a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year

Does the Star Still Shine?

Rev. J. F. Krieger

The story of Bethlehem had just been told in pictures by a group of high school students. Beautifully coloured transparencies slides of recent photographs of scenes and events had been had been admired. It all seemed more real as the group looked upon the traditional shepherd field and saw in a remarkable out-door flashlight picture the little group of worshippers at the ruins of the old Church of the Shepherds, just outside of Bethlehem where tradition says the shepherd boys' hills among which echoed the song of the angels, above, the star-lit Syrian sky and, in the distance, the flickering lights of Bethlehem.

The reverent silence of the group was suddenly broken by the startling question of a high school girl, who asked, "And does the star still shine?"

Each Christmas season sees hearts still ask, "Does the star still shine?" Does it? Or have the centuries lost the star?

As quietly and yet as surely as that first Christmas, so the star still shines. Sometimes it is that guiding star of conscience, deep in the heart of man, that leads to the cradle. Or life's pilgrimage the star of trust in the heavenly guidance always leads to Christ. Then it is the handclasp and the quiet influence of a Christian life which inspires to a height star that leads to Him. Often it is in hardship and disappointment, where we least expect to find it, that this guiding star appears that leads to Him. His word is still the unfailing light which in the stillness of the night becomes a beaming star. And finally in unselfish, sacrificial service, even as Andrew, we shall find the wholehearted joy to be found in the following of the star.

Then, the star still shines and leads to the Christ Child. "And when they caught sight of the star, they were intensely glad."

The Game

Lets' play it out—this little game called Life,
Where we are listed for so brief a spell:
Not just to win, amid the tumult rife;
Or where acclaim and gay applauses swell:
Nor just to conquer where some one must lose,
Or reach the goal whatever be the cost;
For there are other, better ways to choose,
Though in the end the battle may be lost.

Let's play it out as if it were a sport
Wherein the game is better than the goal,
And never mind the detailed "score's" report
Of errors made, of each with dauntless soul
But stick it out until the day is done,
Nor wasting fairness for success or fame,
So when the battle has been lost or won,
The world at least can say: "He played the game."

Dear Friends,

Again, it is my sincere pleasure to thank you for a lovely parcel, in fact a Christmas parcel minus the "Do not open 'till Christmas" stickers. I was relieved when I noticed there were no stickers and that I could open it immediately. It was only a matter of minutes and I was overjoyed by [illegible] friends. The parcel arrived in A1 condition and the contents were truly a real Canadian treat. There is nothing like a Canadian likes better than Canadian food, Canadian products, Canadian Hospitality and Canadian people.

It was very thoughtful of you to send the parcel to me and I appreciate it more than words can express.

A Merry Christmas to you all and continued success in your good work in the name of the "Institute."

Again, many thanks.

[illegible]
Arnold

[illegible]
Nothing new for this month's letter. I am [illegible] and visited many strange places and talked to many strange people. I ran truthfully say it [illegible] power of imagination to try to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] very, very much and the air was different in that way and appreciated it. I believe I should like very much to be able to visit with these people after the war, they are very friendly toward us and love [illegible] that we have us into their homes. I can however, say that I am not enjoying the trip nearly so much as if I had my wife and son along with me. My life seems very empty without them and I most certainly hope this war soon ends so I may return to them safely. I am hoping and praying that soon the war shall end and we all can return home to our loved ones. I hope to hear more from you ladies soon. Now I must close and say cheers for this time. Carry on with your excellent work that we all appreciate so much. A very merry Christmas and the very brightest and most prosperous New Year ever. Once again I say thanks.

Your very sincerely,
Les. Pinnell.

Christmas Awakens Noblest Traits

Christmas is a fine old tonic. It revitalizes the earth and brings the pleasures of youth to all mankind: it brings hope and cheer to a weary and [illegible] world. It brings happiness to the heads of the poor and the mansions of the rich. It weaves evergreens into garlands of eternal hope: it hangs a blazing star above the corners of despair.

Christmas is needed everywhere to change the drab and gloom to bright- er colors and joy

There is no charm like Christmas to drive out greed and self-love, to soften hate, temper and malice. It revives the lawless spirit and brings to life and action the noblest traits of men. Christmas is the best and richest grace given to the dying years

Urge Support of T.B. Seals

The Honourable Dr W. W. Cross, Minister of Health, today issued a statement commending the work of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association and urged support of the annual Christmas seal sale.

"Free treatment is provided in Alberta for Tuberculosis patients," said Dr Cross, "but the additional assistance of the Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated local committees have been of immeasurable benefit to every man, woman and child in the province."

The total number of Albertans X rayed by the Association's mobile X ray unit is nearing 70,000. Its new $25,000 unit will soon be in action, operated by the Dept. of Health.

Dr Cross emphasized the value of the rehabilitation program made possible through Christmas Seals. He said, "These young men and women who have been stricken by tuberculosis deserve a chance to make good in a field that is suited to their physical condition. There is no doubt that the Alberta Tuberculosis Association is administering Christmas Seal funds capably and soundly."

The Association also maintains following tuberculosis clinics and subsidizes local health units for after-care of discharged patients and their families.

Christmas

It is easy enough to forget, in the preceding maelstrom of shopping and activity, the religious significance of the tender and lovely Christian festival which falls Monday, the celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ But, in the perspective of history, it is easier to understand how this neglect began—a neglect that is not modern as some people believe, but one that has been a source of worry and perturbation to the church down through every century of the Christian era.

In a way the early Christian fathers have only themselves to blame, for they adapted to their purposes the old winter festival of the human race, which was always a day of feasting and rejoicing. In the north it was the feast of Odin, with great blazing log fires and bowls of mead and roasted oxen In the south it was the feast of Saturn, marked by masquering and gift-giving—the Saturnalia which on occasion led to excesses that might well have been done without. This was the festival which the early Christians chose to adapt for the celebration of the birth of the Babe, and it is no wonder at all that, from its very beginning, it mingled with the old pagan rejoicings over the turn of another of the seasons.

At its heart lay always the story and legend surrounding the birthday in the stable of the inn at Bethlehem, the vision brought to the shepherds, the advent of the star that guided the kings and wise men to the manger where He lay. But, just as those first visitors brought with them gifts, so each race brought also from its tribal heritage its own version of how best to hold the day in honor and remembrance.

The Teutonic races brought their wassail and the festivities surrounding the evergreen tree. The southern races carried forward their habit of making gifts to children (would that the gift-giving was still confined to them) and the German legend of Santa Claus and the stockings filled with good things was added to it. England brought its elaborations of food and drink. The French it was who first broke into carol-singing. Last of all, the Pilgrim Fathers began the splendid habit of turkey-eating which now has spread far from New England.

Yet in despite of all these carnal delights at Christmas time, the spirit of the Christ Child, sturdy and eternal, broods steadfastly over the day, and the message of Christmas remains to bring its hope to the world, as real today as in that quiet night when the angels first addressed their joyful song to the shepherds on the Judaean hills. To some of us it may seem as if the perils that now threaten and surround the world are greater than ever, that the gospel of Christ and the ethic of the great faith He founded are in dangers worse than those which ever confronted the world.

The fact is that this is not so. The Babe of Bethlehem was born into a world far more turbulent and restless even than the world today. The great Augustus then sat upon the imperial throne of Rome, and his legions were bloodily cutting their way to triumph wherever, though they served for a time to establish Roman rule, laid the foundation for further wars and uprisings, rebellion and slaughter. Augustus had established relative peace in the south and east of his empire, but even in Palestine itself the mutterings were already to be heard which not long afterwards ended in the massacres of the Jewish leaders and the razing of the historic temple. On the northern frontiers, among the Germanic tribes, the problem that faces every expansionist leader from Augustus to Hitler, was already vexing the Roman generals: where and how to call a halt to conquest. The grim fate of Varus, ambushed and killed in the Rhenish forests, was only a few short years away.

To that world, as to the world of 1944, the words of Bethlehem were sorely needed. Peace and goodwill were lacking then as they are lacking today; but before despair sets in we should consider what kind of world we would have been living in without the story of Bethlehem to guide us through the darkest years of the last centuries. The Babe, lying helpless in His manger so very long ago, has proved more potent than the powerful Augustus who ruled the world into which He was born, and upon the maintenance of the spirit of Christmas truly depends the safety and happiness of generations still unborn.

What festival then can we more honestly celebrate than Christmas, and how right the instinct of mankind to make it chiefly a day of rejoicing for the children of today upon whom, tomorrow, the duties and responsibilities of mankind will fall.

Letters to the W.I. From Boys in Forces

Halifax, N.S.

Dear Mrs. Sherman,

It is with the greatest pleasure I hereby wish to convey my thanks to the ladies of the Women's Institute for the delightful Christmas parcel. I might further add the friends of the boys in the area, as we all share any parcels received.

I haven't much I can tell you about myself as a great deal is happening. Since joining the ship I have been kept very busy and like the life very much.

With Christmas just around the corner I'm sure all the boys from the Fort will, just as myself, be wishing they could be back in the good old Fort. However, if we can't be there our Lord also will be.

Very appreciatively,
Sam.

Dear Ladies,

I received your parcel yesterday and the 300 cigarettes the day before. I take pleasure in writing these few lines thanking you for all your kindness, everything was just tops in the parcel. The soap was greatly appreciated as it is very hard to get. We have no trouble getting our clothes washed here in Holland but we have to supply the soap as the people haven't any.

Right now my unit is having a rest, the first since we came here. The weather is very cold and wet now, and there's a lot of water and mud everywhere. I guess it will be getting pretty cold over there now too. Some of the fellows will be home for Christmas, they have already left here to go to England. I have three months more to put in and I will have been overseas for five years. I hope the war is over by then so we all may go home.

There isn't much more I can say except to wish you a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year, and thank you again for the cigarettes and the parcel.

Your truly,
Noble Hare.

Ernie Hurlbut Former Fort School Teacher Praised by Crew Members

With Canadians in the R.A.F.—A name against a persistent, sharp-shooting enemy night fighter in the [illegible] aircraft skies over Germany was earned and by five Canadian members of a Halifax crew when they returned home to England.

The Halifax, one of hundreds which attacked Essen late in November, was shippered by Flt.-Lieut. Ernie Hurlbut, former school teacher of Fort Saskatchewan, whose work at the controls saved the lives of all four members of his crew despite a fire which blazed most of the aircraft's petrol tanks and destroyed [illegible] radio equipment, instruments and other parts of the plane.

Hurlbut's aircraft had turned away from the target and travelled for about 30 minutes on the homeward course when a German night fighter, an Me 110, jumped the Halifax out of the moon. The enemy was not seen until he was about 500 yards from the Halifax.

The German was coming in dead astern and his cannon and machine guns were blazing when the Canadian rear gunner caught sight of him.

Only one burst was fired from the Canadian's guns before a German cannon shell crashed into the tail of the Halifax and exploded, rendering the rear gun turret inoperviceable, but the gunner had seen some of his tracer plowing into the night fighter [illegible]

Shells and bullets from the German chewed away half of the Halifax's port elevator and rudder before the enemy broke off the attack and turned away.

A few moments later the ME 110 renewed the attack coming in again from the bottom of the moon. The Canadian mid-upper gunner of the Halifax managed to get in a short burst before the enemy got out of range, but the German's guns were spewing steel which ripped away part of the starboard flap and slashed below the broke off the attack.

Hurlbut, throughout the two attacks weaved and dove the aircraft, but his efforts failed to shake off the persistent gunner who started a third attack.

Enemy bullets smashed into the port wing of the wounded Halifax and started a fire in one of the fuel tanks, a second before Hurlbut dived his aircraft into a mass of cloud.

Hurlbut sailed around in the cloud for more than a minute, but evidently the fire in his port wing tank was a beacon, for when Hurlbut pulled his Halifax out of the protective cloud the German was waiting for him.

Again the enemy's guns blazed, but back was with Hurlbut and his crew. All the shells and bullets missed the Halifax and the skipper dove to 8000 feet, finally losing his enemy.

Navigation instruments were unserviceable as a result of the beating taken by the Halifax, but Hurlbut and his Canadian navigator got the aircraft over French territory.

Friendly ground troops saw Hurlbut pop down through a hole in the clouds to 500 feet and fired mortar bombs to indicate the location of an airfield. They also set out lights at the end of a runway and Hurlbut brought his battered aircraft safely in with the fire still blazing in the port wing.

A search of the Halifax after the fire still blazing in the port wing.

American soldiers entertained all over the Halifax and extinguished the flames. It was only then that the crew discovered the 2000-pound bomb they had carried to the target had failed to leave the aircraft and was brought back through the fight intact.

"The crew was grand all the way they co-operated," said Hurlbut, who was recently promoted to his present rank. Meanwhile crew members had the highest praise for the cool manner in which Hurlbut handled his badly damaged aircraft.

Other special functions of the municipality were discussed such as, supervision over the cattle tuberculosis restricted area and a contract with the city of Edmonton whereby the municipality is paying part of the burial expenses for the patients from the district. Several questions brought out a very instructive discussion which proved the audience's interest in a very timely subject.

Alberta Post-War Survey Plan Goes Into Action In Mid-January

Most advanced snow conditions in any part of Canada to obtain accurate facts and figures to aid Albertans in meeting their post-war problems realistically will get underway in mid-January.

The plan is a sweeping one. The Alberta Post-War Reconstruction Committee knows that if it is to meet success, the farmer, businessman and householders of this province must give the plan their complete co-operation. To administer the plan, the committee has set up a survey management committee with the official support and backing of the Alberta Government.

Leading the appeal for public support and co-operation with the province-wide survey is Premier Manning. Mr. Manning has stressed the immediate need now of "appraising accurately the possibilities of our people and our production machine." This will be done through the survey.

Thousands of Alberta farmers, big and small businessmen and labor leaders are in all salary groups will be asked to provide detailed and accurate information on their post-war needs and plans. The information will be held in strict confidence by the survey management and its voluntary workers. The information will only be used in bulk with other details—a code number prevents individual's name.

Here, in summary form is what the people of Alberta will be asked to provide:

1. A report of the changes effected by them, which have occured during the five years of war.

2. A statement of their expectations and plans for the post-war years.

3. Their suggestions of ways and means of facilitating the transition from a wartime to a peacetime economy.

4. Their factory, production, for converting industry, production for employment in the province in the post-war period.

The overall survey has been divided into three general sections: farm, business and household. In each division, a representative number of the public will be asked to provide the information needed to best learn the needs and plans of that group.

To facilitate the enormous job of gathering the most information, the provincial survey management committee under Roy Jones, commissioner of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, has divided the province into 68 districts. In each district will be called the aid of a public-spirited group such as boards of trade, agricultural groups and other such organizations.

It will be men of these groups who will personally tackle the task of gathering the detailed information through questionnaires and personal interviews. It is essential that real co-operation be given these volunteer workers.

Hon. A. J. Hooke, chairman of the Post-War Reconstruction committee, has stated the survey cannot be done unless Albertans, as individuals and as organized groups, lend their wholehearted support.

"As individuals they can help by assisting in the work that must be done by giving the information asked of them," he has declared. "As organized groups they can help by declaring their support of the survey and by encouraging their members to participate. The committee believes the people will see the usefulness of the survey and will cooperate to success.

"Their support will be a measure of their desire to meet the needs of effective reconstruction for peace," the minister says.

Prime objective of the survey is to build a "workable"—a reservoir of facts for post-war servicemen. Next to winning the war, this is Canada's most vital thought and Alberta intends to be the first to do this. It is first and the president's job-making potentialities.

Successful employment will centralize rehabilitation of the returning servicemen be gained. Through the survey it is hoped to find out the employment opportunities Alberta can provide in respect to the number of returning Alberta servicemen.

The plan that the province the survey is scheduled to start Jan. 15. Regional committees have been set up in each of the 68 centers and a representative of the regional committee will make his first call to business households or business within a few days after that date.

More details of the various types of questions will announced soon. Farmers, householders and businessmen should familiarize themselves with the general questions so that answers given to the representatives either verbally or on the questionnaire form will be as accurate as possible.

Representatives of both city and country points are on the survey committee.

Appointed to carry out the survey are: Mr. Ross, on loan to manage the survey from the Edmonton Chamber; Andrew Stewart, department of political economy at the University of Alberta; William Anderson, of Canadian Utilities Ltd.; Rudolph Hendig, United Farmers of Alberta; Dave Dallas, Calgary, Association of Municipal districts; R. J. Gibb, Edmonton paymaster and representative of the Union of Alberta Municipalities; V. Hawrelak, Jr., Alberta Farmers' Union; J. E. Christenson, Edmonton Chamber of Commerce; Dr. C. C. Brown, Provincial Department of Agriculture; Fred Chalk, Calgary alderman; E. J. Martin and H. B. Cartright of the Reconstruction Committee.

NEW R.A.F GYRO GUN SIGHT

The new R.A.F. gyro gun sight for fighter aircraft, the Marklid, has produced revolutionary changes in air fighting on the French battlefronts. It is an ingenious electrical mechanism which automatically provides the pilot with the correct target at which to aim as soon as he has made two simple adjustments, and then happily mitigates the chances of human error. It has been estimated that the introduction of the sight will double the efficiency of R.A.F. fighter aircraft. Picture shows the pilot's view of the new gun sight showing the dial on which are marked the settings for different types of enemy aircraft.

GREATER EFFORTS NEEDED

The New Year starts with a most unexpected German assault. This is a strategy opened for a battlefield recovery to undertake; a desperate effort to throw the attackers off balance; for no army such as ours with its long communications, its mechanical munitions, and poised for an offensive, cannot at the same time be well organized for defence.

It will be remembered that the Germans used exactly the same strategy in March, 1918, when they over-ran the British Fifth Army and captured 70,000 of our men.

There is a simple lesson to be learned from it all. We cannot indulge in false optimism. Our enemy is still strong, still resourceful, courageous, determined and well fed. He will only be safe when disarmed and placed behind a barbed wire fence.

We have undoubtedly lost large numbers of men and vast stores of instruments and equipment. Our answer to consequences must immediate help. We must all, therefore, make every possible effort to send reinforcements to the battle lines and to supply our fighting men with even larger quantities of food, munitions, clothing and munitions. In the end victory is assured, but the time it will take to achieve it will depend largely upon the extra efforts we at home put forth upon how well each and every part of our own and of all Allied countries can carry on enemy and really engage in "all out" war.

The Underlying Struggle

For the moment the German counter offensive on the Western Front has distracted [illegible] background more of that underlying struggle of ideas which has been coming out into the open recently in Greece and the other liberated countries of Europe. In the war of arms, the battlelines in a clearly defined one. But in the war of ideas there are no frontlines. The enemy is not merely the German people. For the battle of right [illegible] against a materialistic conception of living against a God centred life, must be fought in the heart of man everywhere.

All round the world there are signs that this battle of ideas is coming to a climax. If we don't watch out we shall be caught unprepared for the war as we were for the war of arms in 1939. There is the same air [illegible] and complacency now as there was then. We did everything in the thirties but introduce the material and moral rearmament that was needed. Today there is talk about new systems, and new adjustments and so on, but these are all fundamentally materialistic weapons with which to meet the storm of materialistic ideas. They alone will never do the trick.

What do we mean? First of all, people who can see the issue clearly and who will then do something about it.

Many of us are easily fooled by those materialistic ideas and often unwittingly and the enemy becomes we really don't know what we're shooting for People whose ideas are guided by their own selfish interests and their own comfort will quickly become the tools of forces out to create the division and disunity on which they can build their power.

Men, on the other hand, who put the interests of the country first. Those faith in God is real and who put these principles to work in home and business run quickly produce a working answer to the most complicated problems.

Many members, particularly those in the rural areas of Canada, have cause to be grateful to their children's school teacher. Not only do she at tend to the scholastic needs of her young pupils but frequently looks after their physical welfare by serving hot beverages to the children who bring their lunch. Some teachers even provide soup and bread and butter on cold days. To help these foster mothers cater to their young charges, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has made arrangements for them to obtain the necessary ration coupons to buy rationed sugar, butter and preserves. To do so the teacher must register with the nearest branch of the ration administration as a quasi user. They are required to state clearly the number of children they wish to serve during the hour, always remembering that rations cannot be provided for those who live close enough to go home for their mid-day meal.

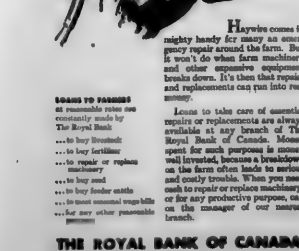
HAYWIRE'S A HELP... BUT



Haywire comes in mighty handy for many an emergency repair around the farm. But it won't do when farm machinery and other expensive equipment breaks down. It's then that repairs and replacements can run into real money.

Loans to take care of essential repairs or replacements are always available at any branch of The Royal Bank of Canada. Money spent for such purposes is money well invested, because a breakdown on the farm often leads to serious and costly trouble. When you need cash to repair or replace machinery, or for any productive purpose, call on the manager of our nearest branch.

Renewed Demands For License Cut

As the provincial government soon will be considering its estimates for the 1945-46 fiscal year which opens on April 1, it is essential that representations as to the need of low car licenses should be made early.

There are strong demands for a substantial reduction in Alberta fees, as these are claimed to be the highest in the dominion. While a reduction was given this year for older models, it is contended that 50,000 or more owners of these cars are entitled to should receive a material cut in the fees and that these should be merely a nominal sum.

T.C.A. Preparing for Post-War Air Services

By H. J. Symington (M.G. R.C.

The outstanding trend in commercial air affairs during the past year has been the consideration given to post-war civil aviation. The war has determined to a great extent economic factors, encouragement on the future of post war commercial aviation and the encouragement economically induced such activity in a present economy because the economic foundations of a peaceful world will undoubtedly find much of their strength on their soundness in the way in which mankind puts its duties, while entertainment goodwill and the avoidance of future armed conflicts will likewise be dependent upon sane organization of the air.

At Montreal a conference of the Commonwealth and Empire nations was held to deal with Canada-wealth organization and communications and immediately thereafter at Chicago a World Conference, composed of representatives of 55 United Nations and Neutrals, sat for over six weeks. At these major conferences great work was done both on the organization

In July, some adjustments were made in Maritime services in an effort to bring more than operations closer to the cities of Saint John and Fredericton, and to provide direct flights between Halifax and Montreal.

Domestic routes now total 5,000 miles, including an east-west service from St. John's Newfoundland to Victoria, B.C. and north-south branches reaching into New York, London, Windsor, Calgary and Edmonton. During 1944, T.C.A. aircraft flew 9,144,000 revenue miles.

The total of T.C.A. personnel increased 15% during the year. Many of the newcomers were repatriated and discharged members of the armed forces and this trend is expected to become more pronounced. In particular, the Company facilities and employ repatriated R.C.A.F. personnel in selecting candidates for its flight training classes.

Prospects for 1945 are conditioned upon the overall war picture. T.C.A. although operating under great difficulties, the addition of more modified Lancaster-type aircraft, more flight crews and more improved maintenance personnel resulted in increased scheduled. Individual mail loads of as much as three tons were commonplaces. Existing non-stop flight records were bettered on several occasions.

Prospects for 1945 are conditioned upon the overall war picture. T.C.A. although operating under great difficulties, the addition of more modified Lancaster-type aircraft, more flight crews and more improved maintenance personnel resulted in increased scheduled. Individual mail loads of as much as three tons were commonplaces. Existing non-stop flight records were bettered on several occasions.

The P.H.S. sponsored a dance on December 29th to serve as a get-together for the young people on their Christmas holidays. The dance held in the Fort Community Hall proved a huge success. The local orchestra provided excellent music. A silver collection was taken to defray expenses of the hall and orchestra. Everyone reports having had a hilarious time.

WIDE HEARD

The old idea that cattle with wide heads and muzzles make the best feeders and rustlers make the best is now founded on fact. Some wide-headed cattle, and some do not, say veterinary authorities. The surest way of making gains in cattle, they say, is to observe which animals make the best gains, then follow through to keep others of the same breed.

British Grateful for Canada's Help

While the Dominion-Provincial Agricultural Conference held in Ottawa Dec. 4 to 6 was in session, Hon. James G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, received a cable from Colonel, the Right Hon. J. J. Lloyd-Jo, British Minister of Food which read in part:

"I am deeply grateful to you and all concerned in Canada for the splendid help given to the United Kingdom in sending food supplies. They have been of utmost value to this nation throughout the long years of war.

"I am particularly anxious that my grateful thanks should be expressed for the most helpful manner to the requests to the special which I made last year in regard to the supply of bacon from Canada to United Kingdom in 1945. I hope that all those who are co-operating with the Canadian Food will take whatever steps are required to enable the bacon exports in 1945 to reach the figure of not less than 600 million pounds. We shall need these supplies from Canada if our small ration of 4 ounces per week is to be maintained throughout the years.

"I am also very glad that arrangements are now going forward for the purchase of contracts for 1945 for bacon and meat, and trust that contracts which should provide purchasers in Canada with assured market and enable them to maintain production on a level required for both home consumption and export will shortly be completed on lines satisfactory to both countries."

End Orange Subsidy

Canadian orange subsidy was discontinued on December 30th the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced. The subsidy Canadian public to be based on the O.P.A. ceiling in the U.S. growing area plus a controlled mark-up.

Designed to protect prices to Canadian consumers the subsidy was introduced two years ago when there was no U.S. ceiling on oranges. Carried out on the American ceiling which has since operated for over a year now has had to members of O.P.A. ceiling as a basis for the Canadian ceiling, said Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman.

Prices to Canadian consumers may increase from 3 to 4 cents a dozen although small merchandising of California's large crop might result in sale below ceiling at prices nearer present level. Supply and quantity of oranges should not be affected, the Prices Board says.

COLOR OR EGGS

The quality of an egg cannot be judged by the color of the shell because the color of an egg shell has nothing to do with the quality of the egg inside. Some breeds of poultry lay white eggs; others, brown. On the other hand, the color of the yolk depends on the feed given the hen. Pale yellow or rich golden yolks are equal in quality and feed value.

Distribution of Post-War Questionaires Starts on Monday

The thousands of questionnaires to be distributed in Alberta next week are designed to accurately determine the direct and indirect job-making stimulation of farmers, householders and businessmen in the immediate post-war years.

Distribution of the questionnaires will start Monday and Ray Reed, survey manager of the task set out by the Alberta Post-War Reconstruction committee, has stated that each questionnaire form will be followed up by a personal interview. The distribution of questionnaires and interviews will be done by hundreds of volunteer workers all members of public, civic and organizations heading their communities support to the survey plan.

All answers given on the questionnaire forms and those given verbally to interviewers will be kept in strict confidence and will only be used in connection with answers given by the other hundreds of farmers, householders and business men. Each answer is protected by a code number known only to the committee members and workers.

Not every citizen or farmer or home will be canvassed in the survey. But the committee has stressed the importance of every citizen knowing the fundamental cause of the details of the questions that will be asked in case he is, one of the thousands approached in the survey. Knowing generally what will be asked of him, the farmer, business man or householder can prepare his answers just that much more accurately.

Householders will be asked to list their planned equipment and appliances, furniture, clothing and other needs. They will also be asked for information on how they plan or hope to finance the purchase of these items either through savings, current income, instalment credit or borrowing.

It also asks householders information on anticipations members of the family and what occupation various adult or near-adult members hope to marry on after the war.

Farmers will be asked to give their post-war plans for their farms including expenditures, possible purchases and for a listing of the post-war plans of other members of the family. They will be required for detailed facts on present farm equipment and on what they hope to obtain in the immediate post-war years. Their planned financing of this also will be asked.

Alberta businessmen, both large and small, will be asked for the most detailed questions. The survey seeks to learn salary schedules paid, number of employees, number or carriesons employees returning, what type of employment can be offered disabled veterans and the number of additional skilled workers required to operate the business at full capacity.

Other questions to the businessmen will seek out their planned business expansions after the war and if involved, new buildings or extensions to present plants. Other planned questions deal with pl ned production and equipment, what various types of equipment will be sought and how all this will be financed.

Questions and questions on each questionaire is a cross-check on answers given to other questions. For example, the committee can judge fairly accurately whether or not a farmer's equipment purchasing plans are in line with cost by comparing his plans with his present financial standing and what he has stated away in Victory Bonds and other savings.

In this way the survey management hopes to gain a mass of information that can be used for post-war plans but also information that will be thoroughly correct. If it is accurate, the committee can accurately estimate Alberta's post-war future by compiling details of the survey.

Detailed instructions have been given to each volunteer canvasser in the province. He knows what is wanted in the survey and for what it will be used and will be answered with complete co-operation.

Each member of the committee and each volunteer worker is doing his part to securing the province's post-war future and the committee in turn is asking each Albertan to do his share.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

Editor, Leader, and the Leader newspapers of Canada

This year's Christmas mail to the armed forces overseas was "unsatisfactory", postal authorities state. During the busy November-October handling the base post office handled 2,000,000 bags of letters and parcels which would require enough railway cars to form a train three and one half miles in length. This included 1,200,000 cigarette labels flown overseas, each representing one box of 300 cigarettes. Surely a great job for Santa. Some 18,000 extra helpers were on the job the Christmas season, and many of them were high school girls and boys.

Our overseas men are definitely thinking of their post war future, most of them very seriously. Here is one instance: At a recent British post the Canadian Legion Educational Services have 700 Canadian authors listed for correspondence courses. Of these courses, which are on a voluntary basis, such as are encouraged under provision of Instructor Lieutenant Hugh E. Hamilton, R.C.N.V.R., of Saskatoon. As an example, through the medium of directed reading, a man who has had to pursue his course in criminology; another seller was able to obtain books on "Sedition" and "Treason" and accommodated with the book "Interior Security Husbandry"; an insurance canvasser was supplied for another Requests for books on plastics have been numerous, with books on national forestry, diesel and jet propulsion and other subjects sought and delivered. It gives you an idea that behind the fighting there is living.

Reason for a 50% decrease in cigarette tax more than 15,000 industrial users in the first quarter of 1945 is that the Canadian Food Board, which allocates all available sugar for the United Kingdom, United States and Canada, finds that available supply is going to be less than requirements calculated on the 1944 basis of needs. Sugar production is reported to be less next year than this, while military and war relief needs will be greater. Sovereign in Canada will be about 10,000,000 pounds a quarter.

That leap, who stole a short time ago a quilt that belonged to the town pound to pasture, will be coming home from the town monday, coming home to appear in his own farm, to learn his own fields boy to milk the cows and help do the chores. Mothers of these noble youths will be glad to welcome them to farms of their own. In anticipation of that day, says the customer branch of the Prices Board, applications by these members of soldiers have given control of prices a No. 1 priority on their list and they have been granted. As in the last two years, they will continue not to pay more than ceiling prices, but they will know they need not invest in war savings that will pay for their own post war farm implements.

Canada has been doing research work on a substitute for gasoline motor fuel in a synthetic product manufactured from coal. The National Research Council, Ottawa, brought 27 professor gas units for the purpose to Saskatchewan. Dr. A. S. Cornell's laboratories at McGill University, using trucks carrying retort units.

It is estimated that installation of gas producers on 10,000 trucks in Canada would give a yearly saving of 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline. President of chemical fuel for the producers could burn part of a wartime industry of 15 different types of producers tested, 9 were made in Canada, 3 in Great Britain and 2 in Sweden.

The Department of Agriculture provides an analysis showing that co-operatives in Canada have extended to about every field of production and consumption in this country. In the period 1942-43 we had, among other various unions: 441 dairy co-operatives; fruits and vegetables 161; grain and seed 164; livestock 260; feed products 131; clothing and home furnishings 42; fuel 17; fishing 20; and miscellaneous 108.

World of Wheat

REAL HELP FOR AGRICULTURE

All kinds of people these days are making great and grand promises "to save" agriculture. Judging by the past many of these promises will never mature.

There is a kind of quest help, however, going forward day by day that certainly brings real help to farmers and to agriculture. It is the overwhelming work of our skilled Plant Breeders. Our prairie farmers are pleading for certain new varieties of crops. Their requirements without fail will resist the scarcity. A wheat for use in northerly areas that will be so early on Garnet, which could not be rust-resistant, but which will be more acceptable to the millers than Garnet. Then a wheat which will be earlier than existing rust-resistant varieties, and which therefore would be more suitable for cultivation in the northern and southern parts. Our farmers require, too, a new variety of oats that will not shatter so readily, so that the crop can be combined without so much loss.

The fact is that our Plant Breeders, aided by governmental support and grants, have for some time been consequently working on the problems of just such new varieties. Increased bags 329; coal, wood and building material, 433; other goods, 1,709; fire insured fire insurance associations 460 The Agriculture Department reports that there are 1,161 municipalities and territories throughout the world there are more than 800,000 co-operative societies, with a membership of more than 143,850,000.

The demand for services of women in industry is now less acute, which accounts for the recent ruling of the Selective Service that 1,000 female university students will not in future require a permit to return to their courses when they have fulfilled the university term. The change in production of these new and badly needed crops is going to be a good monthly return fine dividends to this country, and would therefore bring real and timely help to our farmers.

Letters Recieved by W.I. From Boys Overseas

Dear Ladies:

May I express my sincere thanks for the opposition I have just received. Your kindness and generosity have been a great help to many of us here as the "other side" who are hoping daily, with you at home, that this job will soon end.

Having spent last winter in Scotland, I have been more or less hoping and expecting much better conditions here, for most people contend that weather in Scotland is unbearable. Moreover, I should not venture an opinion at all for my hopes came to have been sadly misguided. I'm convinced you cannot surpass conditions in good old Canada at any period of the year.

Things are well with me and I hope you are all enjoying a fine month of November. I should enjoy a white Christmas again. Rain at that time of the year seems to me all out of proportion.

I would like to wish you all in the Fort the very best of everything both at Christmas and during the New Year.

Meanwhile may your work continue to be as worthwhile and helpful as it has been in the past.

Yours respectively,
Ernie Hurlbut

Cheerio and best wishes for the New Year and God Bless all you ladies of Canada.

Yours sincerely,
Norman C. Wright.

Appeal for Accurate Information on Post-War Questionaire Form

The huge questionnaire sent out on survey is in full swing this week and officials of the Albert a Post War Reconstruction committee have issued an appeal to Albertans for complete cooperation in filling out accurately the questionnaire forms and answering readily the questions of value for canvassers.

"This job is for Albertans, by Albertans, and it is up to Albertans to ensure that our jobs for all who want them. Every business man, every farmer and every householder hoping to go forward in the survey should feel it his job too. This survey is the first fact finding one to be made provincially to ensure that jobs are available and the importance of the outstanding success cannot be overestimated."

They again emphasized that all answers given on the questionnaire forms and those verbally to canvassers will be treated confidentially. Findings of the survey are not available to any other department of either provincial or federal governments and the information given by any individual is hidden behind a number—no names are used.

The questionnaires are being distributed to various groups of farmers, businessmen, householders (through out the province so that the complete findings of the survey will be representative of every type of community), of all salary brackets, of large and small businesses.

The committee asks that all interested in the survey to have appropriate in their mind when answering the questions that the prime purpose of the survey is to build a "new deal" —a reservoir of jobs for returning servicemen and women. The committee believes that if such persons can be told of happy this thought uppermost it will answer the questions in detail, frankly and accurately.

If a representative of the committee has not already called, he may call soon. Bank farmer, householder or businessman should be prepared to answer detailed questions about his post war plans and how he plans to finance those plans.

If the committee can find out these facts it will know where post war jobs are for returning servicemen and women and ways and means of increasing employment.

Personal questions will be asked but this is how the committee protects any individual's name from being connected with the answers on the questionaire. The province has been divided into 25 sectors and each sector numbered. Each town, village or hamlet in the sector is also numbered. Each businessman in the sector is designated by a letter — usually the first initial of his type of business. The questionaire answered by a businessman does not go under his name. It merely bears the code number made of his sector number, town number and his business letter designation.

Similar shielding code numbers have been worked out for householders and farmers.

Information on farms is being taken from a sample of 8,000 farms distributed throughout the province. It seeks to discover the changes in farm organizations which have occurred in the years of war, to record post-war buying intentions and preferences and to gather suggestions for facilitating the changeover from wartime to peacetime organization on the farm.

Personal information is being gathered from 5,000 families in cities, towns, villages and hamlets.

Purpose of the business survey is to secure from firms engaged in retail and wholesale trade, from hotels, restaurants, financial institutions and from many others, a statement of their plans for employment and a listing of new or increased maintenance and repair projects which they expect to proceed with after the war.

It is hoped to complete this phase of the survey by the month's end. Committee officials say this objective can be reached only if all farmers, householders and businessmen give the survey their complete co-operation.

Mr. Howard Walker of Prince Rupert, B. C., a former resident of this district, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Peters for the past few days.

Contact to an increased membership and renewed interest on the part of some others is in order because of gas rationing and long distances to journey to many of the meetings, a decision of the Fort Saskatchewan U. F. W. A. Local has been deemed necessary. The organization meeting from the new local was held at Mrs. R. Shackleton's residence. The local will be known as Gresebach U. F. W. A. Local No. .....

Its officers are as follows:
President: Mrs. R. Shackleton.
Vice-President: Mrs. R. Tesluk.
Secretary: Mrs. S. Melville.
Red Cross Committee: Mrs. J. Allanach and Mrs. J. Albiston.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. Tesluk on Feb. 14th.

The officers of the Fort Saskatchewan Local for 1946 are as follows:
President: Mrs. H. A. Stetson.
Vice-President: Mrs. J. Williams.
Secretary-Treasurer: Mrs. R. Peters.
Red Cross conveners: Mrs. R Peters and Mrs. K. Galloway.

A friend of one of the members made this remark: "I would like to know what causes the sudden glow of pleasure in the faces of your members when there is any mention of your organization?"

We invite you to join us and find out.

Mrs. F. Galloway is attending the U. F. W. A. convention in Edmonton as one of the delegates from Mundare. Mrs. Elliot Stetson is also attending as a member of the Provincial Board.

The community wish to take this opportunity of expressing their deepest sympathy to Mrs. Arthur Galloway who recently lost her brother overseas.

The winner of the quilt which was raffled recently by the Fort Saskatchewan U. F. W. A. was Mr. Wm. Kennedy. The draw took place at the regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. H. O. Arps. Mrs. T. F. Stetson will be the hostess on Feb. 21st.

Letters Recieved by W. I. From Boys Overseas

Dear Mrs. Black

With a very few lines I wish to thank you and the women of the (illegible) for the send parcel which I received this week. As you will notice from the above address, I am away from my unit just now on the parcel was sent much more welcome. In the five years I have been away from my home town, I am very proud to say that never have I failed to receive a parcel and cigarettes from home. I feel very proud of your club Mrs. Black and I'm sure you will extend my thanks to my very best wishes to every member.

I remain sincerely,
Henry Lamoureux

Dear Mrs. Black

I (illegible) to thank you all (illegible) behalf of the boys (illegible) lovely gift this Christmas. (illegible) was simply delicious and (illegible) were more than welcome—I have not seen such a sheer pair for some years. They are certainly very much appreciated.

I have started to write this letter of thanks to you but then three times (illegible) but something or other has always come up and have not been able to get it done—but here I am all alone in the office this stormy Sunday afternoon, so I hope to be able to continue uninterrupted.

We had a delightful time here over the festive season. Christmas eve was spent in singing carols in the sergeant's lounge. Our "Y" girl supervisor is the most beautiful pianist and has a voice to match, so the very ably accompanied the carol service. I was amazed at the number who turned out for it, and all seemed to enjoy it to the full. It was such a pleasant way to spend Christmas eve.

Christmas day was one of those scenes you see on a Christmas card—huge flakes of snow fell gently on all buildings, and the temperature was not so mild. Of course it was a very busy day for all—mostly the chaps—they turned out the most delicious dinner over in the airmen's mess. It is the (illegible) tradition at Christmas and New Year's, that the officers and warrant N.C.O.'s serve the airmen and otherwise (illegible) dinner, or at noon we all march down to the mess, decked white aprons and caps and served the dinner. The C.O. carved the turkey, while the rest of us, on round tabling dinners, served the (illegible) etc., etc. and merry-ing away (illegible) of dirty plates and for an extra fee, we signed umpteen (illegible) cards. It was really much fun.

In the afternoon, they had a tea dance in the W.D. Canteen. It started at 4 and ended at 11. Actually I've never been so thoroughly bored for a long time—dancing continuously from 4.30 until 11 is hard on a poor (illegible) but an excellent way to digest a huge Christmas dinner.

New Year's was slightly different. On New Year's eve at my quarters I had 12 dancing concessions. All W.D.'s were allowed to wear evening dress that night, so they had a ball. At 12 (illegible) sharks) and so on. The evening was made for them as they also passed. I do think it is to parents, which entails such a great kind of all the ladies of the W.I. to deal of work as I (illegible) so much trouble of collecting (illegible) you (illegible) materials for the boxes, making the cakes and packing and sending off the (illegible)

Yours (illegible)
Mary Lamoureux

Dear Mrs. Black

About ten days ago the mailman whipped around with a lovely parcel and cigarettes from the W.I. ladies at Fort. Everything was perfect from Mrs. Black and mother tells me you've just the person to extend my thanks and appreciation to the other ladies responsible for the generous gift. What you do that for me.

This is the second time I've heard from the Institute and if all the fellows over here feel the same as I do, we have a pretty high opinion of the ladies at the Fort.

I spent a very nice but quiet Christmas on the station, the main reason

South Cooking Lake is a resort highly favored not only by cottagers and campers but by the "Stork", who evidently considers it a particularly suitable place for babies to grow up. Only last week we had the good news that this innocent bird had brought a baby boy to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Salesman. Now we announce his visit to the Norman home, where he has left another brand-new boy baby. By the way, Mr. Stork (or is it Mrs. Stork?) seems to consider our climate especially suitable for boys, for he has been very partial to them lately —a Wemlich boy, a Meyer, a Cosmir, a Salesman and now a Norman. What all these will bring to some distant teacher is not evident yet.

N E W S

The first of the winter's card socials was held at the Griffin home on Saturday evening last, in spite of short notice there was a fair gathering of whist players—adult and near-adult. At the close of play the highest scores were found on the cards of Charlie Neve (who played a lady's hand) and the last (certain veterans of 1914-18 would call it completely bare). These two lucky ones were rewarded with suitable prizes supplied by Mr. Cohn, who, strange to relate, contented himself with the lowest score of the evening.

After the usual refreshments served by the ladies, and the social hour which went with it so good a time, the host put before the company a suggestion received from several friends, namely, that instead of forwarding our collections to the Red Cross Fund, as heretofore, we send parcels to local boys overseas. This entailing a more personal contact than through the Red Cross.

N E W S

Then followed a short discussion of a letter received by the host from Mr. Rivey, of the Provincial Dept. of Health, who kindly offers to come to us on some Friday or Saturday evening, tentatively the 9th or 10th of February bringing with him two speakers on "Health and the Importance of Health Discussion Groups." One of the speakers will be Dr. Salmon, successor to Dr. Adamson and the other speaker will probably be a lady well known in this work. Mr. Rivey will also bring with him health films illustrative of the addresses given. Further notice will be given of this social evening.

The Provincial Housing Scheme was up for discussion but after careful thought, in which it was opined that the District did not have sufficient reserve funds to make it worthwhile, it was left in abeyance pending further developments.

By Law No. 38, a by-law to provide for the consolidation of arrears of taxes was given three readings and duly passed.

Principles on Two Feet

The common complaint in the Province of Quebec is that in most cases the first clause in the agreement between employers are English and the second clause is that employers are French, and that this fact helps to keep the two races apart.

There really much more of an opportunity than a problem. It all depends on how you look at it. The president of a paper company once addressed last month by the unions, which was in a position to negotiate with him, welcomed the chance as just such an opportunity.

He offered to meet the representatives of the union on the following Sunday and suggested that all employees and their wives should meet at the parish hall on the Sunday afternoon for "coffee and a bun." His suggestion was welcomed and he was accompanied him on the 300-mile trip.

The negotiations went forward in a friendly spirit. They dorded the principles that in most cases the first clause in the agreement should hold both parties to abide by the spirit of the agreement as well as the letter. The parties sat through out the discussions was simply "what is right." The result was an agreement which the head of the union called the best in the province.

Before Sunday afternoon arrived, word had gone round the village what had happened the previous day. all the employees and their wives started to play enthusiastically when the head of the company approached Addressing the gathering in Micks he spoke of the unnerving spread of class conflict elsewhere in the country and expressed his sincere desire that honest teamwork and Christian principles should characterize all labor dealings. The parish priest and the head of the union said that for their part they wanted the same. The head of the union also combined in the new agreement.

It does indeed be a matter of the union, most representatives of the company, consider the [illegible] is much better [illegible] negotiations. With the management and the parish priest they are working on ways to improve the health and well being of the community and practical steps have already been taken.

EXTEND CONTROL OF "SERVICES"

Postponement of house buying goods and the [illegible] parking of goods in a [illegible] recession [illegible] are now designated as "services" and therefore subject to price ceiling regulations. Price must not exceed those charged in the 1941 basic period, the Prices Board says.

Red Cross Magic Show Successful

The concert put on by Edward James and Fred Betts of Edmonton on behalf of the Red Cross last Friday night turned out to be a big success. The magic tricks of these gentlemen entertained the full house to the last act. Bringing a live rabbit out of a hat both sang on the stage and this and other feats just as entertaining kept the audiences thrilled all evening. Between acts music was supplied by Simon Mercin of Wostok.

Before the concert started, Mr. J. D. McLean gave a review of the requirements necessary in Fort Saskatchewan to continue the purchase of wool for the work done at the Jail. The report showed that no town in Alberta supplied as much work in the way of socks and other garments for the forces than Fort Saskatchewan. On this account funds are constantly required to assist the local organization in carrying out its work. He thanked the large audience for their attendance and gave his report so that they would be fully advised of the necessity of raising funds here.

"Time bleed is in the fight."

This is the slogan you read on your card as you leave the Blood Donor Clinic after your first voluntary gift of the life-saving fluid.

You have been registered, tested, typed, catalogued, passed from one pair of skilled, gentle hands to another: accepted as a contributory donor.

The practically painless operation is over. You have been moved along with assembly line precision, one of like-minded hundreds being divided through the clinic with machine-like regularity, day after day.

You have been rested after the plotting, fed, receipted for the donation, overcreated, and checked out into the cold morning air.

A bit weary you may be in the upper story, somewhat nonchalant in the under pinning. But Starry-eyed. Set apart

For have you not just been through a new regenerating, spiritual experience? Have you not for the moment put your hand into the hand of God? Your blood is in the fight!

Need For Sidewalks

The need for sidewalks in and around sections of the town is a disgrace to any community

The financial statement of the town's affairs for 1944 shows the town in good standing, a little money spent in the laying of sidewalks would certainly be a benefit to both town and citizens.

The work authorized by the council last summer in improving the drainage of streets is to be commended, but they would receive a further pat on the back if during this coming spring and summer some cement sidewalks were layed. Materials needed for this construction are not restricted by the War Time Prices and Trade Board.

It is about time an old established town like the Fort started to modernize.

Universities to Exchange Students

As the result of negotiations with the Canadian-American Committee on International Relations, an exchange of students between the University of Alberta and New Haven's State Teachers' College has been arranged. Two students from New Haven Colleges will be registered regularly in classes in the University of Alberta during the month of March, while University of Alberta students will visit Connecticut for the month of May.

The Faculty of Education has announced the names of the two students from this University who are to visit Connecticut: Miss Anne Herman, Camrose, second-year Education student, and Miss Catherine Pierce, Edmonton, a student in the third year of the course leading to the combined degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Education.

While in New Haven, Miss Herman and Miss Pierce will be registered in programs of their choice, and will have an opportunity to observe in the schools and educational and health clinics of the city. They will spend a week-end in New York as guests of the Canadian-American Committee.

To Issue Road Maps

Preparing to meet needs of motorists in this province, the Alberta Motor Association will issue about 100,000 strip or sectional maps before the spring driving season opens.

Full information is being obtained from the provincial public works department concerning the highways and the province, covering changes and improvements that were made in 1944.

This information will be at hand in making up the strip maps. Each will cover a section of the highway system, showing road mileages, type of surfacing, routes, holiday spots and all pleasure resorts and the official appointments of the A.M.A. in the province.

Visiting motorists have found that these maps contain valuable information and prove of great help in their motoring to the comfort and enjoyment of a motor tour to any section of the province.

Supplies of these maps are made available at branches of the A.M.A. in Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge, at official appointments, hotels, chambers of commerce offices and other offices where they are invariably in big demand each season.

All Families Will Recieve F.A. Cheques

Ottawa—Registrations for family allowances begins this week in Prince Edward Island and next month registration will get under way in the other provinces. This is the first step toward start of family allowance payments in July. More than 1,500,000 cheques will go out each month for Canada's 2,500,000 children and up wards of $30,000,000 will be distributed monthly to Canadian families. In most cases the cheques will be made payable to the mother and the act requires that the money be spent for the welfare of the children.

To be eligible for the allowance, the birth of each child must be registered with the proper vital statistic authority. It is estimated that there are 70,000 children in Canada whose births are not registered. Hon. Brooke Claxton, minister of National Health and Welfare, is urging all parents to see that the births of their children are registered so that they can receive the plan from the start. The scale of payments is: $5 a month for children up to five years; $6 for children from six to nine; $7 for children from 10 to 13 and $8 for children from 13 to 15 years of age. In families where there are more than four children there is a reduction of $1 from the scale for the fifth child; a reduction of $2 each for the sixth and seventh child and a $3 for each additional child.

All families will receive payment. For example, a family with two children, age 4 and 7, will receive $11 per month. Where there are four children, ages 2, 6, 9 and 12 years of age, the monthly payment will be $26 in all.

Application forms will be delivered through the post office to every household in Canada where Children under 16 are known to be living. Those with eligible children who do not receive the forms can get them at any post office. Family allowances will be paid to people receiving mothers allowances dependents' allowances, war pensions, rehabilitation grants, unemployment insurance or workmen's compensation. The payments are not to be split all families with children under 16 years of age.

The application forms are simple, requiring merely listing of the names and birth of the children, information as to where the children are living and the signature of one or both of the parents. In most cases the seven questions can be answered with a simple "Yes" or "No".

$16,000 Short of T.B. Seal Objective

$14,000.00 short of last year, but $16,000.00 short of this year's objective. That is the position of the 1944-45 T. B. Seal campaign, according to a statement just issued by R. W. Reeson, president of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association

"The $16,000.00 we are short of our objective represents a large proportion of the cost of Another mobile X-ray unit," said Mr. Reeson. A unit will X-ray over 50,000 people in a year, and discover about 150 early, curable cases of active tuberculosis.

"We now have $4,000.00. Our objective for this year is $20,000.00. Our present mobile unit has X-rayed more than 70,000 Albertans. If each of these people gave as only a dollar, we should now have gone over the top."

Mr Reeson expressed gratitude to all who had contributed, but emphasized that free chest X-ray should be made available to more and more citizens, since early diagnosis of the disease is the only way to ensure recovery, and prevent its spread.Many who have already contributed are making further donations.

Contributions may be addressed to Tuberculosis Seal Sale Committee in the Herald, Calgary, Cordston, Drumheller, Edmonton, High River, Lethbridge Medicine Hat or Red Deer, or direct to the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, Calgary.

NEED FALL EGGS

In 1944, chicks were produced early in the year, with the result that there was the greatest fall production of eggs on record. Early chicks (February and March) are necessary for the highest production of eggs when Britain needs them most. Early chicks also make the best foundation for Canada's post-war export trade in eggs.

New Agricultural Bulletins Published

A new University bulletin designed scientifically for Alberta farmers is now available under the title Cropping for Profit and Permanency. It is written by W. E. Bowser, Senior Soil Specialist, Dominion Department of Agriculture, and A. G. McCalla, Professor of Field Crops, University of Alberta. It contains a summary of soil and climate factors affecting crop production in each of the main agricultural areas of Alberta, and offers suggestions for production programs that should prove most advantageous to farmers in each area.

Another bulletin recently published by the University of Alberta is Care and Feeding of Dairy Cattle, written by Dr. J. E. Bowstead. It contains practical advice on the selection and raising of calves, the feeding of cows during winter and summer, as well as a discussion on breeding for milk. Fifteen pages also give advice on the cause and treatment of the common diseases of dairy cattle by Dr. P. B. Talbot, Provincial Veterinarian.

Copies of both bulletins may be secured free of charge by writing to the Department of Extension, University of Alberta.

Calcium and phosphorus are the minerals most likely to be lacking in a dairy cow's ration. Alfalfa, if available, will furnish calcium, and wheat bran, or cottonseed meal will supply the phosphorus. Steamed bone meal will provide calcium and phosphorus at a low cost.

South Cooking Lake

Mrs Cook, convalescing at home after the accident in which she fractured an ankle, was taken again ill last week-end, but is now recovering from this illness too.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Neumann have lost another of their tall daughters. A certain Mr. Schoreman, of Calgary came, saw, and conquered. The wedding took place last Saturday, Jan. 6th. We cannot give any further details of the happy event, but we do know that the beaming couple have left for Calgary where they are to make their home.

The Provincial family is greatly happy in the glad news from England that Pte. and Mrs. Donald Provencal have a baby daughter. We haven't had the pleasure of congratulating in person Mr and Mrs. Provencal on their promotion to the proud state of grand parenthood, so we take this opportunity of offering our felicitations, to which we know all Cooking Lake will join. And we particularly want Don and his wife to know that we share in their rejoicing in this happy event.

Miss Uglow is home for two weeks. We will expect our rural skins to make her winter holiday a pleasant one.

The writer of this column, like Jonah, the Roman god from whose name we get our January, is fooling two ways; not to see the past as well as the future, as did the Roman divinity, but to learn who was responsible for the misspelling of South Cooking Lake News under the supplanting headline—Good Hope Gleanings. Was the Editor, sore beset by the irregularities of his reporters, upgrading of this one; or was it (and the alternate is more acceptable here) was it due to that genial Josephburg writer, who last week playfully mentioned, second and meaning, through lady-like strategems—Josephburg Jottings, Yorkville Yeddings, East Cheapside Earfuls, Partridge Hill Partingtons, Good Hope Gleanings, and the like. This latter alternative, we suspect, seems to us to locate the spot for that rethinking of our news, for what Editor could remain a consecrated supporter while labouring with those Josephburg Jottings. Under such a trial it is not strange that our Editor now, should get only misspellings for columns, but, more than that should substitute Gleanings for Gleanings. No doubt, here'abouts as he must have been and longing for light, there came to him a call to follow the Gleam, with the result that we discover ourselves under Good Hope Gleanings.

Small Turnout at Ratepayers Meeting

The annual ratepayers meeting for Fort Saskatchewan was held Friday, Jan. 19 in the Community Hall.

As usual the turnout was not large and those present didn't ask many questions regarding the items in the report. It all goes to prove that the citizens must be satisfied with the present council who are doing what they think best for the good of the town.

Questions were raised regarding the cleaning of sidewalks and sewerage and water in-stalation.

In answer to the sidewalk question Mayor Magee, who was chairman of the meeting, stated that last year the council spent more money on some of the roads and this year they planned repairing some of the sidewalks.

In reference to the water and sewerage the Mayor stated that nothing definite could be said at present as negotiations were just getting underway, but when anything definite was known the citizens would be notified.

The meeting was also asked about the 50-50 split on organizations in the town wanting to rent the Community Hall in Committee this evening, and but the 50-50 split was on the net receipts and not on the gross receipts. If any organization wishing to make use of the hall other than charitable organizations, which paid the regular rent of $12.50 per night.

Fifteen Million Orphans Look to Canada for Aid

Hundreds of thousands of Russian refugees, many of whom saw their parents tortured and slain. For other four years of war are now guilty of the remnants of their families. The Germans destroyed their homes, stole their animals and farm equipment. They killed fathers and sons, surrounded and enslaved young daughters.

Now the Russian people are returning to their homes. What they find are heaps of rubble where they once lived. Even in the Ukraine and White Russia, in the Crimea and other districts, Germans turned gardens into roads, and fences and trenches all over Europe are filled with thousands of young and old whom they had slaughtered. Millions of children were made orphans.

But now the people are the great farming areas of the Soviet Union have taken up their work. The country is being cleared across Europe by displaced persons, and the older people and women are beginning to work the land again. They are beginning to repair the terrible damage wrought by the Nazis, and it is for these heroic people that the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund is appealing for help.

In all the liberated areas of Russia, the survivors are taking orphans into their homes. What little they have is being shared with those forlorn, shoeless and ragged youngsters, many of whom have never known a decent meal since the days before the war began.

Clothing donations may be sent free, addressed to warehouses of Canadian Aid to Russia Fund, at Vancouver, Winnipeg, Montreal or Toronto, providing the total weight of one shipment exceeds 100 pounds and no one parcel weighs less than 50 pounds.

Further information may be obtained from the Clothing Division, Canadian Aid to Russia Fund, 14 Bloor St. W., Toronto, Ont.

Ivy Taylor and Mrs. Powell Address U.F.W.A.

EDUCATION

By Ivy McAfee Taylor, Edgerton

Several locals report the use of moving pictures as an educational medium. The other day I read in McCall's magazine that army instructors have cut learning time from 20½ to 6½ with movies, recordings and visual aids.

If it isn't possible to establish the new methods in our country schools why not make a fulltime movie studio in organizing Canadian schools?

Another pet project of mine is the introducing of patriotic music in our schools. You have all read about the systems now used by the armed services and view and plans in the most latest ability. All this talk of post war planning is fine but in the meantime years are passing and children are blundering along trying to find the life-work for which they are best fitted, many a failure in a white collar worker"—which leads to something else—What is wrong with our ability to train a soldier when we give more honor to a mediocre lawyer, doctor or teacher than we do to a soldier who is practically a genius? What a waste our system has been! If poor on theory aptitude as a farmer, electrician or mechanic instead of a minister or dentist as you might have desired, why not look at it this way. Any man or woman who creates something from very little or order from chaos, must feel a bond of fellowship with his Creator and should be given a place of honor and respect in our nation. Remember Christ was a carpenter.

HORTICULTURE

By Mrs. F. Powell of Beaumont

The best way to store your gladiolus bulbs is in a dry, well ventilated place, in a shallow slat-bottomed box or air can get at them, in a temperature around 40 degrees.

For diseased bulbs the best known disinfectant is mercurous chloride, using 1 to 4 ounces to 5 gallons of water. This chemical should not be mixed in a metal container and should be stirred occasionally as it does not dissolve in water but will be effective if kept moving. Dip the bulbs in and out of the mixture for several minutes, the purpose being to cover them with a thin even coat then drain and plant. Other chemicals may be obtained in the same ground more than once in four years.

To prevent thrips, an insect which being active since in a temperature below 50 degrees but not below 32 degrees. In storing the bulbs as planned in brown paper bags and sprinkled with napthalene flakes, a level tablespoon for every 100 bulbs. Let the bulbs remain with the naphthalene flakes at least four weeks if treated in the fall or early spring if treated in the late fall or early winter. Don't give this treatment in spring as it takes the sprout then. Don't put your bulbs in air tight containers as the bulbs may sweat.

The Lethbridge experimental station recommends the seeding of Trebi barley in areas where rainfall is fairly plentiful and of Newall barley in drouthy areas. If barley is grown for feeding purposes O.A.C. 21 is still the best variety but O58 is also acceptable.

Radiograms

Criticism of radio thrillers was discussed recently by Howard B. Chase, chairman of the CBC Board of Governors. He said that those who object to the effects of these programs on children should be more specific in their charges

Mr. Chase made a statement on behalf of the CBC and the Canadian Association of Broadcasters. He says both groups are anxious to co-operate in eliminating from the air any programs harmful to children, but must criticism is so general in character as to be of little assistance.

He says it would help if those complaining would specify the programs to which they object and give specific instances of the harm being done.

He agreed that no children's program should be broadcast which would in any sense excite fear, or which would by example or suggestions cause or promote juvenile delinquency.

Mr. Chase adds, however, that the public should remember all programs must be made interesting if they are to maintain an audience. It will always be a matter of opinion where the line between audience appeal and undue excitement is drawn.

He says the CBC is opposed to anything in the nature of censorship of radio stations, but with all listeners co-operating this should not be necessary.

To offset too extensive a prevalence of the so-called "Horror" programs for children, CJCA has introduced a new series of programs recently. The series is called "Books Bring Adventure" and consists of dramatic productions of the most popular books for children.

The plays are produced in New York and the transcriptions are shipped direct to CJCA. This is the only station in Canada carrying this program, which is brought the listeners jointly by the Edmonton Public Library and CJCA.

MOISTURE RESERVES LESS THAN USUAL

An analysis of the rainfall which occurred over the prairies between harvest and freeze-up usually termed "fall rains" taking into account also the moisture conserved on land that was summerfallowed last year and makes that moisture reserve who will be available for the crop to succeeded this coming spring are not than normal The chart I gives this that reserves available for the coming crop will be 88 .. of normal This means that if a normal or average yield is to be expected from the coming year, better than average rain will have to fall during the crop months.

Such better than normal precipitation during the summer months sometimes does occur It did for instance notably happen this last summer when the reserves at seeding time last year were only 80 of normal What we can say, however, is that the odds are somewhat against such better than normal rainfall occuring, which leads to the conclusion, from the evidence available at this moment, that the chances are we shall harvest a less than average yield per acre on our prairies this coming year This leads to another thought This would be a good year, apparently, for those who can manage it to increase somewhat their acreage to be summerfallowed

— NOT HOPELESS

An old knitted garment so shrunk and matted that unravelling is impossible is not a dead loss — not by a long shot. When the seams are unpicked the pieces can be used as though they were cloth. Sew round the edges by machine before stitching seams and be careful not to stretch There may be a parka, a child's warm shirt or panties in that old sweater of yours.

A GOOD BULL IS "HALF THE HERD"

The quality of your whole herd can be raised, with profit to you, by careful breeding with a well-bred bull. The same principle applies with every kind of livestock.

Realizing the importance of good male animals, you may wish to purchase superior individuals but lack the cash to do so.

Under such circumstances, the wise course is to discuss a loan for the purpose with your local bank manager. The Royal Bank of Canada is constantly making loans to farmers for this and many other productive purposes. If you have your eye on some desirable animal and need cash to make an advantageous "buy", talk your proposition over with the manager of our nearest branch.

BANKING BY MAIL

If there is no branch conveniently to your farm, you can still enjoy all the facilities of this bank by conducting your banking affairs by mail. For this purpose The Royal Bank supplies a special form which explains the simple procedure whereby you can make deposits, withdraw money, purchase drafts and money orders, etc., all by mail. Just write to any branch of The Royal Bank of Canada and ask for our Banking By Mail form BP 252.

What is Our Notion of a Nation?

In discussing the question of national framework the other day a French speaking Canadian remarked that he felt that part of the trouble was that we had "too little notion of nation." Illustrating his point he took the case of a recently married couple. A perfect marriage, he pointed out, would mean blotting down and scheming and planning how to achieve it. Particular emphasis would be laid on the two living together in complete harmony, mutual respect and understanding.

This in turn depended, he maintained not only on the quality of the system for getting on that they worked out together, but rather on the standards and principles on which both agreed to conduct their marriage. The higher The standards and principles, the greater the perfection that would result.

What goes for these two people certainly goes for our nation A true conception of Canada's destiny and mission hood cannot come alone from French speaking Canadians or alone from the English speaking. It is something far richer and greater than either can conceive It will be the inspired result of people all over the country living out certain principles of citizenship which are so fundamental that they are unaffected by differences of creed, race or any point of view.

Today this question is more than an academic one on which we can spend a pleasant half-hour's discussion. You have only to follow the papers to be quickly disabused of any notion that Canada is emerging from the war stronger externally than when she entered it Countries in Europe are going down like nine pins and being taken over by alien ideas, afflicted by the very disease from which we're suffering They had no national war aim to speak of.

Do we believe in honesty enough to admit to the family or the office staff the places we just didn't put the right "fit" in front of it? Do we believe in it enough to give 36 inches to the yard and 16 ounces to the pound, regardless of whether our competitors or anyone else does? Do we care for teamwork enough to change and apologize to the person with whom we find it the most difficult to get on?

If the answer to these two questions is YES, then we have the secret of national teamwork and Canada will begin to demonstrate the answer for what is happening in Europe today.

CANOL-NORMAN WELLS

Oil wells completed in the Norman Wells field are now reported to total 66, of which 37 were either on, or capable of being on, production. Only a comparatively small part of the field is said to have been intensively developed so far, but product from such development is keeping the pipeline to Whitehorse working at capacity at an approximate rate of one and a half million barrels per annum.

Record Demand for Eastern Sides

For several years the Eastern Slide Service has been an important entertainment feature of the Publicity and Extension Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Since its inception its popularity has increased remarkably. In 1944 the demand for the slides reached a total figure of 513 compared with 295 in 1943.

The Eastern Slide Service is becoming widely known appreciated over a wide circuit which embraces social and educational meetings of agricultural societies, clubs, schools, churches, and other institutions interested in the national field of endeavour in connection with the beautification of the surroundings of homes, schools and community centres, in the production of food and other agricultural products and by-products.

The service comprises colored slides of various series illustrating all the main phases of agriculture and horticulture. For example, in the home subjects there are series of slides on planning and planting of home grounds; planting and care of city home grounds; trees, shrubs and vines in home improvement; and homes in Canada from coast to coast made attractive with little expense in purely agricultural subjects, the slides deal with field crop experiments, profitable poultry keeping, improvement of pasture varieties, important factors concerning horses, cattle, dairy cows, sheep, swine, seed potato certification, bee-keeping, control of weeds, garden insect control, types and breeds of farm animals forage plants, and practically every phase of agriculture.

A catalogue of the slides may be obtained by writing to the Publicity and Extension Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. This catalogue also contains full information regarding the terms upon which the slides are sent out

He said, "Can it be that this only worthwhile network service is by some miracle concentrated in a handful of cities? Me-I would like CBC's obvious judgment that Hamilton, Calgary, Edmonton, Windsor, Regina, Saint John, Saskatoon, Moncton and Corner are almost completely lacking in worthwhile talent? The CBC says they are, because only 1.1% of their originating network programs last year came from all these cities combined."

A Dollar Can't See Through a Telescope

When it comes to a long distance view your lifes saving for the future, dollars alone can't see very far ahead.

Left alone, dollars are busy by nature.

They lose life sensed in people's pockets until they are spent.

But the moment a dollar is paid on a life insurance policy, it starts to work.

The hundreds of millions of policyholders' dollars invested in Canada today are performing a three-fold service:

1. They are adding up financial reserves here for the policyholders' old age or the future security of their families.
2. They are building Canadian lighting once wherever our forces are in action.
3. Their investment here for future use cuts, immediately, at a brake on your present spending and so helps to fight inflation which would threaten our fighting men and steadiest dollar.

Actually life insurance dollars are among the busiest dollars in the world.

Such dollars are never idle. They are always slaving for the benefit of all.

It is good citizenship to own

Wings over Canada

By Russell L. Gilmore and Robert Bondy

Canada's aircraft industry is playing an important part in the Job of bombing Japan. The big Boeing Aircraft of Canada's Sea Island plant near Vancouver, B.C. is making sections of B-29 Super Fortress bombers. The section made in Canada becomes the just forward of the front bomb bay doors and extends to just back of the rear bomb bay doors. Maybe this business of making just part of a plane doesn't sound exciting but even that bit of aircraft stands for some 8 feet or a little over a third of the Super Fortress' 100 foot length. If you placed the top of one super B-29 rear wing on a street, and [illegible] other wing tip stood straight, it would extend above the top of many a 10 storey building.

Many a Canadian municipality is already planning energetically for after war flying. In Ontario alone a hundred delegates from towns and boards should protect themselves when engaging substitutes to replace tenchers who have gone into the Armed Services, by inserting a clause in the contract that the engagement of the substitutes may be terminated after the return of the teacher from the Forces."

The Minister said that some school boards have taken the unnecessary precautions, ambitious so far cases where difficulties have arisen are rare.

However, Hon. Dr. Kitchen expressed the hope that all [illegible] would make the necessary provision for engaging teachers as replacements for those with the Services.

"Boards might well consult with the Employment and Selective Service Offices, which administer the Reinstatement in Civil Employment Act the Labor Minister added

The Big Three

A thousand years of history may be [illegible] by the Big Three meet to find a common plan. The happiness, lives and freedom of hundreds of millions of people depend on the decisions they make. They have to find their way through a welter of opposing interests. Yugoslavia, Poland, Belgium already show the clash of economic views. Food crops and textiles which must be pooled mood with The Big Three have to find a plan which may not please everyone but will be acceptable to all.

We expect them to do it. But we can do more than have great expectations. We can undergird their efforts.

It is a tough matter of multiplication: The Big Three are expected to find a common mind, to work together. But there are little things in every country, every office, every farm, round every fireside. They have a part to play in the work of The Three achievement would only be won by the pull together spirit of all the little things. The Big Three find a plan but it has to be translated in terms of people. That is a real job.

President Roosevelt said recently "Peace can be made and kept only by the united determination of free and peace loving people, who are willing to work and fight together in perfect co-operation and harmony."

We have got to get together with the people on each side of us. That makes three. The problems are the same for all—differences of personality, background, point of view, nationality.

Reinstatement of School Teachers

[illegible] saying that school boards must be prepared to reinstate any of their teachers who have been serving with the Armed Services, who wounded today by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor, in a statement issued to the press.

"In a few cases which have come to the notice of the Department of Labor," the Labor Minister said, "it appears that some school boards have got into difficulties by forgetting that the Reinstatement in Civil Employment Act requires them to reinstate their teachers after discharge from the Armed Services just as other employees must be reinstated. THIS is a year of rapid movement. Overseas mail must be handled many times before it reaches your man. If you write a wrong or incomplete address, it may cause weeks of delay in spite of all your Post Office or Canadian Postal Corps can do to speed delivery. You can save much heart-ache by following these simple rules:

1. Write clearly or print full address in block letters.
2. Make sure the address is COMPLETE, many delays are caused in Army mail by senders omitting name and number of unit.
3. If you are writing to a wounded man in hospital Overseas, write the word COMPLETE address, then ADD the words "IN HOSPITAL" to keep letters on the envelope.

YOUR PARCEL MUST FACE THE RIGORS OF WAR . . .

Your parcel must stand the weight of thousands more pressing down on it in the hold of a lurching ship at sea. It must stand rough transport, often under fire, over shell-torn roads. Pack your parcels in corrugated containers, wrap in several layers of heavy paper and tie with strong twine.

DON'TS for SENDERS: Don't pack matches or lighter fluids. Don't send foods that can spoil. Don't send liquids in cartons or glass. Don't forget to affix completed customs declaration. Don't use "shoe boxes", they crush easily.

Josephburg To Present Play March 5th and 6th

Things have been pretty quiet around our school house during the past week. King winter has reigned supreme and nothing could be heard above the howling of Arctic blasts.

There is some sickness around the neighborhood and few of the pupils have been absent from their accustomed places. Fred Hennig is the most constant casualty for he had to be rushed to the Misericordia Hospital suffering from pneumonia. Latest bulletins tell us that he is doing as well as can be expected and we hope to hear he is discharged in due time.

Meanwhile practising for the coming play sponsored by the Josephburg Red Cross proceeds apace and the artists are about their daily tasks wondering what their "lines" or spring out of them when "the word" is given. Especially wildly. We ourselves have been privileged to see "Pickle Perlane" in the making and we wonder whether anyone else will be able to recognize the plot a good one.

There will be two presentations thereof in the school house on the evenings, the 5th and 6th of March, and it is not known at present on which evening Santa Claus will honor us. We were unable to take up the challenge of a command performance at Buckingham Palace owing to the proverbial scarcity of rubber and gas coupons so Mohammed now needs come to the mountain instead. Phone or telegraph for reservations in case any of the standard booking offices are sold out of tickets. We have a capable staff working on a 24 hour shift to cope with the inrush of orders.

The Sunday hockey game had to be called off owing to casualties among the players. On the whole the district has been remarkably free of illness this winter and—we are touching wood—we trust this visitation will prove but a flash in the pan. The sun grows stronger daily and the epsom ration has not been decreased so we are in hopes. The farmers that blow in the Spring Tru-ice are beginning to push up and we are already eying the old garden tools and greasing the old grindstone for its advent.

Grade six benefits by an additional pupil from the Wetzelwin neighborhood in the person of Helen Aldwin who will be living with the Rammsood Mohr family.

The school Post Office in spite of a cold spell which has prevented it its temporary staff was almost swamped under in honor of the good St. Valentine. The office closed its doors at 4:00 p.m. after a hectic day's work.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mohr were hosts to the inmat of the senior room on St. Valentine's Day. Their daughter Helen who joined that august body for the beginning of the year did the honors of her home.

The combined schools of Josephburg, Good Hope, Mossfield put the first edition of their paper "Jos Good Hope's Bought" to the newstands this week. In case you were unable to secure your copy, phone or write to the Publicity Secretary, Josephburg.

The Girl Guide organization which he would wish is commemorating the Chief Scout's birthday. He gave us a wonderful program to follow. It is really a way of living to know and to follow that program. It isn't easy. Baden Powell did not mean it to be easy. It is a lot of fun but it is a lot of work too. Often it means rowing upstream against a strong current but the satisfaction in reaching your destination is worth all the effort.

REPORTED MISSING

Word was received last Saturday by Mr and Mrs Selby Thorne that their son Flying Officer Bob Thorne was missing after taking part in air operations on Feb 11th. Bob attended the Fort Public and High School and took a very active part in all sports. He was President of the Students for one year. He remained his studies at the University of Alberta, breaking them off after two years to join the R.C.A.F. at the age of 19. He graduated at Chatham N. B. in 1942 and went overseas in October of the same year and up to the time he was reported missing had completed 70 operational flights.

M. D. of Strathcona held Annual Ratepayer's Meeting Saturday

The annual meeting of the ratepayers of the M.D. of Strathcona was held in Mannine Temple, Edmonton on the 17th instant, with a very disappointing attendance, only some 25 residents turning out.

After the Returning Officer called the meeting to order the election of a chairman was held, Mr. J. B. Mackay of South Edmonton was unanimously elected to fill the chair.

After the reading of the last annual meeting's minutes and adoption of the Auditor's financial statement was read and explained by the Reeve. The meeting was of all other sections were read and explanations given when requested. After discussion the meeting adopted the report.

The question of the ward re-arranging to represent a division for which he was elected after he had assured them that the ratio in number of voters in the District was discussed. Finally the following resolution was moved and carried: That the following request the Provincial Government to amend the Municipal District Act that a committee meet continue to reside in the Division for which he was elected if he wishes to complete his term of office.

In the matter of discounts on current taxes the meeting suggested in the form of a resolution that the Council consider granting a 7 percent discount on all current taxes paid before the 1st of June and 2 per cent from the 1st of May to the 1st of June the 1st of September.

Following a recommendation made at the previous meeting, Mr. Mr. Keith made a report on the matter of hospitalization for all residents of the District. In his remarks he pointed out that it was only during the past few weeks that statistical information had been obtained, and that from only one Edmonton hospital, concerning the total cost of hospital care and treatment of patients from the District who had been admitted to that hospital. With this information to hand he observed that the Council was now in a better way of definite costs on which to base a scheme or to make a study of group hospitalization. Coupled with a motion to adopt the report was a suggestion that the Council continue its studies in this direction. While the meeting endorsed this suggestion, it was quite apparent from opinions expressed that group hospitalization was not a subject until Canada has a complete scheme of "State Medicine". Such an expression of opinion from these present the Council introduced the question of gravelling main market roads in the District. It was moved and sustained at the outset that there were three ways to finance the gravelling of roads; (1) Increase the mill rate; (2) Debenture issue and an increase in the mill rate. While the meeting appeared to favor an increase in the mill rate in preference to the other two suggestions it was felt that the council should first undertake a definite policy and submit it to the ratepayers for discussion. A number of those present felt that the matter should be with-held until a better system of high graded roads and have established, while others felt that a gravelling policy should be undertaken as the roads already built.

In the absence of the Chairman of the School Division who was unavoidably absent a very brief discussion was centered around the financing of the schools.

At four o'clock the Returning Officer, Mr. Letson, declared the meeting closed for the reception of nomination

Edmonton Pupils Visit Kent Coal Mines

Not all education is book learning as the pupils of Mrs. Vogel's rinsroom discovered to their entertainment last week, when they, with their teacher were welcomed by the management of the Kent Coal Mine. They had received permission to visit and study the workings of the mine in the vicinity of the school. For several hours the students plunged into a delightful adventure examining coal above and below ground, watching the miners at work with the intricate powerful machinery that coal mining necessitates, and learning something at first hand of the labor involved in putting coal into their homes.

Mrs. Vogel is to be complimented on the enterprise shown in this method of practical education, and to the staff of the Kent Coal Mines for their good natured co-operation gave the thanks of the delighted children.

Mrs. Kay Dunn was hostess at her father's home to the Willing Workers Club Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 14. FLOUR PRICES

The Government has passed an Act to support the prices of agricultural products during the transition period from war to peace. The sum of five million dollars has been appropriated by Parliament to cover the expenditures for the period The object of the Act is to endeavour to ensure a fair relationship between the returns to agricultural producers and those of other occupations.

According to the Searle Index the present price of wheat gives a basket of wheat a purchasing power over the things farmers have to buy of 1.9 greater than a basket had in 1913-14 but pounds of bogs now have a purchasing power of 2.2 percent less than a hogs had in 1913-14, 100 pounds of lambs now have a purchasing power of 17.6 per cent greater than 1913-14 and 100 pounds of cheese now have a purchasing power of 71 percent greater than in the same period. Scanty supply created by people in industrial occupations, however, have a considerably higher purchasing power over the things labour has to buy than each wages had in 1913-14.

If farmers, therefore, are to have a fair relationship with those of other occupations, their agricultural prices during the transition period would have to be not far away from present levels. Much, however, will depend upon the quantities of agricultural products the Government can sell abroad, and upon the prices received.

The Argentine wheat crop is estimated at only 150,000,000 bushels compared with 240,000,000 bushels last year. German farmers have been ordered to relinquish all their stocks of wheat, rye and barley for bread production, even if their livestock should starve as a result

Dear Sir!

It is not my usual custom to write letters to radio stations in regard to radio programs, good or otherwise, inasmuch as most of these are advertising. However, I have just been listening to your radio presentation this evening of "Our United Family".

The War Finance Committee and station CJCA are to be commended for the presentation of material such as this. I judge that the author has some knowledge of her subject

I have met many people hailing school as this province of Alberta, and one of my objectives has been "Canadianism" and true cooperation. I have come first hand knowledge of the people whom "Fred" and "Marie" and "Mike" and "Jim" represent. They have no better Canadians than they. I think they show us how a Democracy works.

I hope these programs will continue and that they can include some heading as to how we can maintain democratic work even better, so that useful information and clean distinctions may be heralded forever.

Letters to the W.I.

Dear Ladies of the Institute:

I wish to extend my greatest appreciation for the package of cigarettes you sent me. They arrived on time for Christmas and it was a real lovely gift from home. Very many thanks to you all.

I thought of the whole Christmas back home and of our cheerful Christmas and New Year season.

Here it was a little different. May I tell you about it.

To begin with we are in the jungle and all the birds and animals which go to make a jungle. Yet it's nice, we are in a palm grove and its cool with fresh green grass and water by the sea. On Christmas day we ate quite a bit and the food was grand. After dinner we lay on the beach and added a little more to our dark tan. As the lagoon where we swim is crystal clear its nice to dive to the bottom and view a new world may I say of the undersea creatures, all sizes, shapes and colors. It's beautiful and so many things I never thought I'd ever see in my life. Of course you must be on the lookout for some creatures which may think that you would make a good Christmas dinner as I have found to my cost for that matter.

After our swim we rested awhile then it was time to eat again. We had a number of real tasty eats. May I add that our air-cooled plane is slightly out of tune.

Then it was well past midnight and as another Christmas overseas had passed.

But New Year was about the same but I guess our thought were of those back home and the dances and celebrations going on. That New Year will be some night.

As I returning home for repatriation, this will be my last letter from here. May I wish all of you the very best for this New Year and I want to thank all the ladies very very kindly in all that they have done for me, for me but for all the others of the home town who are away serving their country in this great war.

God bless you all and may the year bring us the victory we have looked and fought for, and for the freedom and love we Canadians know of as our native land.

Yours very respectfully
Hugh J Watt

CANADA'S VETERANS
Their Post-War Opportunities

An advertisement explaining to the people of Canada the re-establishment credit available to men and women of the Armed Forces.

The Re-establishment Credit—
AN EXPLANATION OF THE GRANT

In planning the means to confirm life of men and women in the service of Canada, Canada's parliament outlined the principles of assistance in re-establishment credit and a wide variety of rehabilitation measures. Following instructions from parliament re-establishment will be through the regular members of the forces—the best method of effecting a smooth transfer from the disciplines of service life to the responsibilities of civilian employment. In many cases a combination of training in the services and vocational education. Others may be assisted to take up their pre-war occupations or to enter new ones. Still others may benefit from a course of training or through an opportunity to enter business or a small holding. Some regular forces of land settlement will be provided with some regular farms of their own. In many cases a combination of these things in succession and land settlement—will be necessary. In every case a combination of these things will be provided early in the war.

Legislation for this type of re-establishment was provided early in the war.

ANOTHER LARGE GROUP

There is, however, another very large group who do not need training and who are not suited for land settlement as provided under the Veterans' Land Act. After long months or years in uniform, under the veterans will need assistance also. There will be those who sometimes would need their own homes but will not have for normally would have owned their own homes but who have their service There will be those who own homes but who have been unable to carry out needed repairs and alterations. There will be veterans who still homeless in cities and towns, and others who are found for a business of their own but need assistance in financing. The Re-establishment Credit is designed for this home group, and primarily is an alternative to training and land settlement benefits.

PAID UNDER WAR SERVICE GRANTS ACT

The Re-establishment Credit is made available under the new Re-establishment Credits Act, Veterans Guidance. It is an Act of Parliament which provides War Service Gratuities. It is not a loan but an outright grant, paid to an eligible veteran to aid him in re-establishment of the veteran decides not to use land settlement or re-establishment in Canada, only at any time in the veteran's life. It may be used in Canada, only at any time in the ten years following discharge for certain specified purposes as the ten years following discharge for certain specified purposes as outlined in this advertisement. The grant is called a "credit" because it is in essence carried on the ledger to the credit of the veteran for ten years and used by him for a re-establishment purpose.

HOW TO APPLY FOR RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT

The re-establishment credit is an amount equal to the basic War Service Gratuity—that is $7.20 for each 30 days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each 30 days' service overseas. This amount is computed by the branch of the armed forces with which the veteran served, and for that reason applications first must be made for the War Service Gratuity. When a statement showing the amount of the basic gratuity has been received by the veteran, application for the re-establishment credit may be made to the Department of Veterans Affairs on a form which may be secured from any district office of the department. Application for the war service gratuity is made to the branch of the armed forces with which the veteran served and forms may be secured at any armed forces depot or at any office of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

STUDY ALL MEASURES BEFORE APPLYING

It is important that every veteran shall have made a definite decision as to what purpose before applying for the re-establishment credit. Payment of the re-establishment credit cannot be made for certain educational and training purposes and under the Veterans' Land Act, under an application for the credit the veteran elects not to take advantage of these other benefits. Any benefits under the Veterans' Land Act and payments under the re-establishment credit for training at a conservation of education already granted are charged against the credit. Do not apply for your re-establishment credit until you have studied all other rehabilitation measures. Advice of department officials is available to assist you.

PURPOSES FOR WHICH CREDIT MAY BE USED

Grant of the credit may be authorized for the following purposes:

(a) To assist in home ownership;
(b) To assist in farming;
(c) To assist in business, commercial or professional;
(d) To buy household equipment or furniture;
(e) To buy livestock, implements, etc., for trade, profession, or business;
(f) To pay for improvements, etc., for trade, profession, or business;
(g) To provide working capital for profession or business;
(h) To buy a business;
(i) To pay premiums on Dominion of Canada insurance;
(j) To buy special equipment required for educational or vocational training.

In the case of (a), (b), (d) and (g) above, the veteran must pay at least one dollar for every two dollars said from the re-establishment credit. If expenditure shows a breakdown of these purposes is needed, provision has been made for it.

Jobs for Tomorrow

By ALEX M. MILLER

Those who expect our Governments, municipal, provincial and federal, together with what is vaguely known as "big business" to provide a utopia of jobs for all at top rates after the war, are living on a fool's paradise. Those who have come first hand knowledge of the people whom "Fred" and "Marie" and "Mike" and "Jim" represent. They have no better Canadians than they. I think they show us how a Democracy works.

I hope these programs will continue and that they can include some heading as to how we can maintain democratic work even better, so that useful information and clean distinctions may be heralded forever.

[illegible] as long as we have a dollar to spend or save.

Here we should remember that every dollar we control is the power to make others work a dollar's worth (or we at the job we want them to work at for us.

We don't need to spend reckless[illegible] nor to keep our fellow workers employed when half our national income is going to keep us free.

This is the time to hang on like grim death to our war bond and cash savings, so that we will have them to create jobs when the war is over.

Then, when victory is complete, it will be our privilege to put our fellow workers to work for us growing and making the necessities of life first and the conveniences of life second, leaving the fads and frills a work third.

Everyone who does this will be a bulwark of national prosperity and a have decided simply to make a business.

Canada and The World

Canada [illegible] in the international affairs is evidenced by the [illegible] nations except [illegible] Nations [illegible] of the most [illegible] world history and out of it will likely emerge a United Nations Organization [illegible] progress of the post-war world.

Premier King is expected to head the Canadian delegation in his capacity as secretary of state for international affairs. Already Ottawa has been informed that smaller nations of the world are looking to Canada to play a leading role in their behalf and in the framing of a world plan for post war security and prosperity.

It is significant that the international monetary plan adopted at the Bretton Woods conference is the main feature of Canadian proposals Likewise the Air Conference at Chicago resulted in a compromise agreement some features of which have based on suggestions originally made by Canada. Hon. D. M. Isley, minister of finance and Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and [illegible] reconstruction, were the respective chief representatives of Canada at those two conferences. A Canadian, Lester B. Pearson, ambassador to Washington, already heads the important Interim Commission on Food and Agriculture which will function under the new United Nations Organization.

Canada will go to the San Francisco parley not only to work for security but also for lowering of trade barriers to permit free exchange of commerce between world nations and provide export markets for Canadian produce and manufactured goods.

A Crisis of Spirit

A recent dispatch from London reports the visit of Sir Walter Citrine, chairman of the Trades Union Congress to Greece. Heading a mixed delegation investigating the true situation in Greece, Sir Walter quotes from British Tommies stationed there. If here is any person likely to be sympathetic to the cause of the ordinary man it is the British Tommy.

The delegation found a "grand resentment amongst the British troops at what they consider the inadequate and unfair manner in which events in Greece have been misrepresented to the British public." Many of them apparently dreaded that Britons might throw away very hard won responsibility for a premature withdrawal of troops and leave the Greeks to settle their internecine quarrels unaided.

These are extremely interesting facts in the light of the wishy-washy attitude widely taken towards the current happenings in Greece. Back of the attitude is an idea that Democracy means that we should keep our hands off, like spectators of the other fellow. That's the law of the jungle — not Democracy.

Democracy presupposes of certain moral standards and principles of living. Which the free-born of this old world of ideas people are free to choose, but once they sovereign these bounds, then free has got to be brought to heel.

There will be new alignments in the next years that will confuse all who do not have a moral yardstick of judgment. As military victory becomes

Burn and Sink Them If You Must

Yes, if you really feel you must burn up a pile of mailings, endanger a great many lives, perhaps even sink a ship, the quickest and surest way you can do it, without trouble to yourself, is to push a few matches into your overseas parcel. Push them home, and Hitler himself could not make a better job of it. The parcel will then be thrown by the sorter into the proper bag and even that may be enough to ignite these matches. Or Bretton Woods adopted the main features of Canadian proposals Likewise the Air Conference at Chicago resulted in a compromise agreement some features of which have based on suggestions originally made by Canada. Hon. D. M. Isley, minister of finance and Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and [illegible] reconstruction, were the respective chief representatives of Canada at those two conferences. South Cooking Lake to Start Health Groups

On Friday evening February 9th a gratifying company of adults and romping youngsters gathered at the Griffin home to meet and listen to Dr. Simmons, our new medical officer; Miss McArthur, supervisor of nurses and Mr. C. Bruy of the Dept. of Health—all to speak on the advisability, the manner of organizing discussion groups to study the problems of fighting diseases, particularly Tuberculosis and Venereal Disease.

The regret we feel on learning that unforseen delay, due to professional matters, would deprive us of the privilege of meeting Dr. Simmons, was forgotten for the time when Miss McArthur, with her informal, frank, and wise words, lit up by incidents drawn from a vast store of experience; and Mr. Bruy, with his too highly intelligent humor, soon had us in a humor interest and a resolve to be more active to meet the problems created by the two dread diseases mentioned above.

Owing to the absence of many interested, the newly-formed Health Discussion Group postponed its planning of a program outlining a series of meetings to be held from time to time through the Spring and early Summer. This tentative program will be worked up next for whist party, when we anticipate more genial temperatures.

Good Hope Gleanings

The Annual General Meeting of Presbyterian Church Ratepayers will be held Saturday afternoon. A sub-zero temperature was responsible for a few attendance. Mr. Ellis was elected trustee to fill the place of Mr. Chadwick, who, after many years of service on this board is moving, owing to failing health, to carry on as he would wish. The members of the board are Mr. Kenneth Cowell, Mr. A. Cook, and Mr. Robt. Bell, also sec.

The low mercury was accompanied by another low phenomenon—the whist party at the Bellis home on the evening of last Saturday. Only those who were present know what a good company that braved the cold.

It is no slam at just the same cards to say that Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cattle, playing a lady's hand, beat all the competitors. The very good prizes of Mrs. Kephart, jr. and Miss Bessie Howe.

What's going to happen to all the thousands of R.C.A.F. trained pilots after the war? Will they be useful for post-war private and commercial flying?

The answer is NO. Mr. As C. B. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, has pointed out, the type of required aircraft need for training bomber and crews, aside from the fact that most of them will be pretty well worn out, are not designed as commercial ships for commercial use. Because the cost of flying a plane and its performance are far more important than its initial cost, commercial airline operators will much prefer new planes.

And what about the private plane? Thousands of airmen are wondering about this question now. Canada has thousands of comparatively small single-engine two-seater trainers, the likes of which was the first plane flown using Cornell. This was a Fairchild design, manufactured in Canada, under license.

Even this lightest and newest of all air force training planes is much heavier and harder to fly than the light civilian planes which have been used by the people and fliers at about the same speed.

This is because the air force needs much more difficult-to-fly planes if men were to be graduated quickly onto souped-up fighters and bombers. In other words, the commercial private plane which the average man will be able to afford to buy and own was not to fly from the air force's standpoint.

Nevertheless the thousands of men learning to fly in air force overseas, particularly those who fought in those early desperate days of the war, did get their first taste on the light planes which have since been used as Grasshopper ambulances and artillery spotting planes.

Actually, the biggest hurdle in converting air force light trainers to civilian use is the fact that every pilot licensed for civilian flying must carry a certificate of airworthiness from the Department of Transport. This is an elemental, common sense safety precaution for civilian flying. Most of the air force trainers have logged many hours in the air, and before an inspector will give them certificates of airworthiness he must be satisfied that he given completed overhauls. Such overhauls, as a Cornell, for instance, cost almost as much as the total cost of a brand new light plane, which can be flown at about the same speed and with a fraction of the cost.

In other words, there isn't much point in selling an air force trainer-type plane to a civilian when he could also guide to overhaul, when he could buy a brand new one for the latter price perhaps.

A few of the newer trainers, however, will be able to secure certificates of airworthiness without overhaul, and these, it is reported will be given to flying clubs throughout the Dominion by the government.

Right now, nobody knows exactly how many companies will be building light planes in Canada after the war, the industry is full of rumors. Before the war, only one company—Cub at Hamilton, Ont.—built light planes in Canada. Other makes were imported. One thing about it is certain—its going to be a wild, competitive scramble and the public will have planes—inexpensive, safe and easy to fly.

Letters to the Ladies of Josephburg Box Feed

Dear Mrs. Underwatcher:

I wish to thank you all for the lovely parcel I received a week ago. It arrived in good condition and count any I really enjoyed each item in it.

I'm looking forward to spending an enjoyable Christmas this year. I'll be on leave from Dec. 12 to the 22 and then seven days nights without being on duty. That should give me a chance to get around to places I wish to visit at that time.

It seems as though I'll have to be content to stay in some place until the end now. For awhile I had hopes of a posting to France or Belfund but just didn't have the luck. A change of climate was one of the reasons I wanted to serve but I'll have to make the best of another cold winter here. By next year it should be all over so we'll have that to look forward to at least.

There's not much news as nothing happens around here. Plenty of work as well alone for that time.

Thanks again and hope to see you all again in the near future.

Yours truly,
S. J. Lundy.

I wish to thank the Josephburg Box Fund and you Mrs. C. W. Underwatchers for the lovely gifts and hope you all have a very nice Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Doreen Cranston.

I must thank you for the grand Christmas parcel which I received in perfect condition.

I'm sure it was to eat the good old Christmas cake and I assure you it didn't get a chance to breathe once it was unpacked, although I got my share of it.

Your contributions will remain in our memories for years to come.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year.

Yours sincerely,
Allan Schneider.

Dear Mrs. Underwatcher:

Just a line to let you know I have received the parcel. It arrived in good order and everything was very nice.

I wish to thank everyone very much for it. It is very nice to think that everyone there are still thinking of you. I often wish I could see everybody again. I hope it is not so long any more now.

I am at good health and hope everyone over there is the same.

Once again thanks very much for the parcel. Wishing you all the compliments greetings and a Happy New Year.

Sincerely yours,
Cpl. L. A. Thomas.

Radiograms

The camp owned by a radio station's community service features a weekly broadcast of camp news, services offered by CJCA during January has just been completed and the most interesting from standpoint of volume, scope and results.

Beginning "Cash Calendar", a special program, CJCA's airwaves carried 1,500 individual community service appeals during the month of January. This service reached out to 160 organizations. Among some of the more unique appeals were the following:

A hospital exhausted its supply of blood in an emergency operation. An urgent appeal over the air brought two hundred responses in one afternoon.

Four new-born puppies lost their mother. A foster mother was found a few minutes after one appeal.

A winter rain, followed by a frost, made the highways precarious. Several motorists phoned the station the next day thanking us for reminding them to drive slowly.

Canadian Air Effort

Nearly 1,400 awards have been conferred on Canadian airmen for their daring, endurance and devotion to duty. From the start of the war to late November 1st, Canadian airmen won 16 D.S.O., 916 D.F.C.'s, and 628 D.F.M.'s.

Best Business Year

Every year the Canadian taxpayer drove a 1,360 per cent dividend on his investment in wheat cost research, according to Dominion Economist J. H. Craigie. He states that between 1929 and 1945, farmers in Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan increased their farm income by more than $27 million by growing rust resistant wheats. This, says he, is 13 times what Canada spent in developing and introducing this improved grain.

Fighting Rot in the Pacific

The National Research Council here in Ottawa has been at war for months against—the brandish! The unsanitary jungles of the Pacific with their tropical rainfall and high humidity and temperature are prime to attack cotton or uniforms. But rots in, and in a few months the material just falls to pieces. The Council came up with three protective coatings for cloth. Aluminum salts or a stiff wax containing a [illegible] of copper naphthenate. Salts of copper turned out to be a first-class rot-proofer. And for fire-proofing and fungus, a mixture of salts mixed with chlorinated wax does the trick.

Treating cloth with the three protective coatings makes it about 60 per cent heavier, but it is well worth it in the tropics.

Drift from the Farm

I don't doubt for a moment that men have been moving from farming to industry, but the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in its 1944 report, says D.B.S., 39 of every 100 Canadian wage-earners were farmers, by 1941 the proportion had fallen to 23. This is the first time in the history of Canada that farmers have formed less than a third of the working population.

Yorkville News

Miss Allen Galloway spent the week-end as the guest of Miss Doris Galloway of Edmonton.

The Junior U.F.A. held a meeting at Mr. Roy Shackleton's on Sunday afternoon. Games were served and all report having a good time.

Ronald Galloway received a letter from Trooper Douglas Jenkins who is in Holland, stating he had received a birthday box from Yorkville U.F.W.A. Douglas has been in hospital convalescing from an attack of diphtheria.

TO CONTROL CORN BORER

The Canadian Department of Agriculture in the early spring (before May 20) or in the preceding autumn cill re-move all corn stalks and stubble from European corn borer. To be effective this practice should be carried out by all growers over the whole area, otherwise moths from farms where no clean-up was made will fly to and re-infest farms where proper precautions had been taken.

Jo-Jo . . . CJCA's egotistical bird and Uncle Hal, its creator, are celebrating Jo-Jo's first birthday this month. Both are very proud of the occasion and have great reason to be.

Working in co-operation with the Sports Player Mills of Edmonton and the Northern Alberta Branch of the Red Cross, Jo-Jo and Uncle Hal have been directly responsible for raising $6,302.11 for the Red Cross during the past eleven month. The funds have been earmarked for Prisoners-of-War parcels and for blood plasma distribution.

The funds came in the major contributions and by minor amounts as follows: Proceeds of pictures of Jo-Jo and Uncle Hal and from funds from social functions by schools, societies, etc. Donations received by mail amounted to $4,407.21. Total received at the various Northern Alberta towns visited on remote control broadcasts between November 4, 1944 and February 17, 1945, amounted to $1,894.90. Highest contributions was made at Lamont January 6, when the audience donated $199.39. Westlaketon was second with $166.26.

Each Saturday the Sports Flour Mills program 5:15 to 5:45 p.m., was broadcast from the stage of a community hall or theatre. The broadcast took the form of a talent show, with local boys and girls participating.

CANADIAN CHEESE

Camembert cheese was originally the work of Madame Harel, a French farmer's wife. She left all the women in her path instead of skimming it, so now she is held in high esteem as the local custom. Gradually people all over Normandy began making the Madame Harel's cheese. Her home town, Camembert, was so pleased with the fame and prosperity it brought to that town through the cheese that the citizens erected a statue to Madame Harel as the founder of Camembert cheese.

Canada has certainly made her mark among the nations of the world by the achievements of her aircraft industry and the skill of her flyers.

Canada's air force and Canada's aircraft workers will in all probability keep working until the war against Japan is over because distances in the Far East are greater, long-range bombers like the Superfortress B29, and long range fighter-bombers like the Mosquito take on add importance in that theatre. On Canada's west coast, Boeing's work on a 35-foot section of the B-29 (assembled south of the border), will likely go on indefinitely until Japan hollers "Uncle".

You get some idea of the size of Canada's Mosquito program when you learn that the big assembly plant outside Toronto there can only turn out one of the work. Literally hundreds of other Canadian firms turn out everything from rivets to complete sub-assembly. The other Canadian-built types will likely play an important part in the fight against Japan.

Generally accepted as the finest single-engine transport plane in the world is the de Havilland Mosquito Norseman. Already it has done yeoman work from the Arctic to the equator, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, hauling heavy cargo and passenger loads out of short landing strips.

The other type is the light Grasshopper plane. With many new industries put in the prairies and air-fields to be put into operation in a matter of hours, it will come into use more and more, especially after allied forces make the first landings on the China coast.

Cub Grasshoppers are usually the first planes to land on new strips. As often as not they operate without airfields of any kind, using any of many clearings, broad streets in cities, almost any place where they can get a run of a few feet. They carry a pilot and one passenger and serve as artillery spotters or ambulance planes. The death toll on many a Pacific island would be far higher were it not for the Grasshopper taking off from landing barges to flash out hidden Japanese strong points.

Yes, we said landing barges. Recent pictures from Europe showed landing craft with special flat tops acting as tiny aircraft carriers for those light military planes.

Canada's part in the Grasshopper program centers at Hamilton, Ont., where the Cub factory has just turned out the first new planes built in Canada since the start of the war. Up until now the Hamilton plant has been overhauling and repairing light air force trainers and it's now making engine mounts and other parts for the Mosquito program.

Flying is potentially the cheapest possible form of transportation for long distances. Already light planes do 30 miles to a gallon of gasoline, and if jet propulsion, which uses kerosene, is applied to light private planes in the near future private flying will become even faster, safer and cheaper.

But more about this jet propulsion in another article.

One of the most conscientiously output planes in the Far Reaches way is not built in Canada at all. It is the Grumman Hellcat, the first carrier-based fighter capable of standing up to and knocking down landbased interceptors. The British now have a seagoing version of the Spitfire with folding wings, called the Seafire, and it will become increasingly useful in the Far East.

FARMERS AND FIGHTERS—THE FORGOTTEN MEN

During wartime two groups of men are held in the highest esteem: The soldiers who fight the battles and risk their lives, and the farmers who grow the essential foodstuffs to feed the fighting men. When peace comes, history tells us these two groups are usually sadly forgotten.

Let us hope that after this war the soldiers and farmers alike will be better remembered. Many promises are being made to give assistance to farmers, but in my humble opinion none made put together to help farmers are nothing like as important as the one simple act of freeing all trade from government obstruction, so that the farmers products can be sold without hindrance to the people of the world who need the food.

Trade is not war. Canada is free from trade and has a reason to better each other's interests by the trades they exchange. The more commodities they exchange, the more prosperous they are. Farmers always are one of the best customers they have. Wherever there are any plans, suggestions or proposals made, any organization formed, we can easily eliminate some or one half the evil tariffs. I suppose it will cost us an 8% being free.

WHAT'S all this talk about high insurance being a monopoly?

ANSWER: It's just not true. If you want to shop around in Canada for insurance, you can pick on American company, or a British company, or a Canadian company. You may choose a stock company, or an strictly mutual company. You may select either a participating or a non-participating policy.

You mean there's real competition?

ANSWER: There is, indeed. Anyone who has let it be known that he is in the market for insurance realizes just how keen competition is between the different companies. He knows they offer a wide variety of plans and premium rates. Monopoly is a term which can never be fairly applied to the life insurance business in Canada.

Berlin . . . And Beyond

With the crushing victories in the [illegible] and the offensives in the West, [illegible] strategists are already mentally [illegible] their bets for Berlin. [illegible] hope they are right. As the [illegible] succeed to be reminded of their [illegible] Berlin, and beyond, [illegible] the "beyond" which so urgently [illegible] clear thinking. After armed [illegible] Have we seen any more [illegible] recent works of the years of [illegible]? Hatred between man [illegible] ever-growing [illegible] with passion backed by bul[illegible] the places of reason and ju[illegible]

[illegible] and more, events will force [illegible] go-dwell to cut through the [illegible] of politics to the simple moral [illegible] to one member of Parliament [illegible] remarked, it is no longer a [illegible] of Right against Left, but [illegible] against wrong. The men who [illegible] their way through the ever-[illegible] confusion will tackle every problem in the light of one consideration [illegible] will ask, "Is it right?", "Is it [illegible] the good of the country?" and not, "How will it affect me?"

They will be the pioneers of a new [illegible]. They will not a new fashion of [illegible] leadership in very country. They will spread to the nation [illegible] morality that makes men great and forever outmodes the resentments [illegible] stone of materialism. They will sweep [illegible] the country with a living, loving and [illegible] passion that will dethrone the great god "I want" from the hearts of men.

It will be the part of statesmanship in the coming days to throw all people of goodwill how they can enlist in this battle. We cannot afford to be "Too little and too late" in the war of the spirit. Indeed, we are produce from the assembly-line of national character the morally re-armed men and women who will win the new world for which our sons have died.

RUM RESILIENCE

A new headlamp which goes far to wards solving the problems of night motoring has been produced by an English firm. The beam has a flat top with a very definite cut-off level. Divert dazzle is completely eliminated at ordinary eye level, and the beam itself is in perfect focus, giving not only a distant view of the roadway ahead, but a sharply defined picture of the road sides. The range of the lamp is stated to be well over 1,000 feet, and it is further claimed that the special lens used makes falling rain or snow invisible to the driver

—V—

Hold your temper and you hold the answer to the chief problems of our civilization.

Gleanings from Ottawa

Week before last I had the pleasure of meeting the directors of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association while they were in Ottawa. And it really was a pleasure, they were right on their toes discussing national problems and planning better things for your papers.

Naturally I asked them for [illegible] and suggestions. They thought you would be interested in hearing about the different government departments, what they do, how they do, and how they spend your money. They themselves found the federal setup in Ottawa an interesting one. They were sure you would be, so, in answer to their request [illegible] you something about one or more departments each week.

Canada's Biggest Single Business

The government of Canada is the country's biggest employer. It has 143,000 people working for it, and [illegible] out in salaries $17½ million every month. (It has ballooned during the war; in 1939 it had only [illegible] people.)

There are 18 different departments, as well as a great many boards [illegible] commissions, corporations and publicly owned corporations. The departments are Agriculture, External Affairs, Fisheries, Justice, Health and Welfare, Labor, Mines and Resources, Munitions and Supply, National Defence, National War Services, Post Office, Public Works, Reconstruction, Trade and Commerce, Transport, and Veterans Affairs.

The vast organization carries on far-flung activities. It operates a railroad, a string of hotels, an airline, a national radio setup, a film studio and a world-famous mounted police force.

Through it, too, the people of Canada are putting up a war effort that is second to none in proportion to the country's resources, [illegible] and productive capacity.

More next week.

The Sun, No Sheep!

It's summer in Australia and "down under" farmers are experiencing an unprecedented drought, and their wheat crops are in great danger. This means that millions of head of sheep may die. This year there has not been enough of the feed normally used for feeding livestock, and they have been [illegible] the materials gathered by the Folklore and Local History Project to the people of the province, and thus it may be something to familiarize the Alberta people with the love and treasury of the region. It is hoped that the magazine may ultimately become the official organ of an Alberta Folklore Society.

Subscription rate for the publication is $1.00 per year, and single copies may be obtained for 25c each. Correspondence should be addressed to Editor, Alberta Folklore Quarterly, University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta.

Again THE RED CROSS ASKS YOUR HELP!

TO HEAL A WAR-TORN WORLD GIVE!

Wherever the great destroyer, War, has passed, pain, suffering and sorrow follow in its wake. Young men on the battlefield or in hospitals are tortured by sickness or wounds. Little children, mothers, aged people are homeless, hungry, cold. In every theatre of war, whole cities lie in ruins. Millions are suffering the pangs of disease, starvation and dire want.

So the Red Cross will continue to reach out a helping hand. It must heal and comfort our own sick and wounded. It must send food, clothing, medical supplies to war-torn lands.

And the Canadian Red Cross will answer this urgent call. For the Canadian Red Cross is you and your friends and neighbors gathered, and all the good folks up and down the fair Dominion of ours. The will and help — yes, life itself — of the united people of other lands. We will stand unanimously behind your Red Cross, and — GIVE!

Good Hope Couple Honard at Party

The Happy Gang and Goodwill Sewing Circle honored Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas and family at a shower in the school recently.

The social evening was spent enjoyably with a good old sing song and special readings.

Mr. Gordon Meyer on behalf of the many friends and neighbors presented the Thomas family with a great number of eatables and very useful presents. Mr. Thomas very appropriately thanked everyone for their kind hearts shown towards them.

The two clubs served a very dainty lunch which brought the evening to a close.

Miss Esther Thomas spent most of last week in the Consort hospital, suffering with infection in her thumb.

Mr. and Mrs. Claire Millenbacher of Edmonton, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Johnston on Sunday.

The Happy Gang have been entertained to quite an extent lately, at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Crunstone, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. E. Miller and just last Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thomas with the regular meeting.

The treasurer's report was definitely in the red due to the Thomas fire, so it was decided to pitch in and make our dance and amateur night an overwhelming success.

The president, Lorraine Frey generously donated a new minute book, and Milton Meyer a treasurer's book.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Thomas on Thursday, April 12.

Miss Velma Meyer returned to her duties at the telephone office last Saturday following a lengthy illness.

Miss Pauline Rinehart spent the week-end in Edmonton.

Gordon Whale who has returned from action in Italy, has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Torvene.

Mr. Albert Cripps of Nakamun, Alberta, visited last Thursday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cripps.

It isn't only the big shots that need to be square shooters.

Mrs. Leo Piercy Honored at Party

The cast of Fickle Fortune foregathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mohr in honor of its director Mrs. Piercy. A program of games was implemented (we have always longed to use that word which politicians handle so glibly but which to our lower mentality has always appeared a type of verbal T.N.T.) we repeat, was implemented by the hostess, after which a delicious lunch provided by the members at large was discussed. At its conclusion the hostess presented to Mrs. Piercy a token of appreciation from the crew Mrs. Piercy thanked the group for its co-operation during practices and for the honor it had seen fit to bestow upon her.

Colds and flu are causing some absenteeism in our ranks but so far there have been no stretcher cases. In most of it, a slight predisposition toward the bi-nal mental, the common task is apparent.

A gopher has been seen in the Elk Island region. He was apparently making a routine inspection of C.P.R. trackage and was surprised to discover the large number of sleepers on the road bed.

Hockey boys gathered on Sunday afternoon for the final game which was to decide the league victor.

Just about that moment the weather man took control and in less than no time, the ice was impossible. Reluctantly the fans returned home to think up some other means of "selling the cow."

Some thirty guests were present at the luncheon held on Saturday by the Clover Bar teachers. Among the number were Mr. and Mrs. Griffin, Mrs. Klink and Miss Lil'ian Aasgor, all of whose names would be household words to residents of Castle and Josephburg. Rev. Stanley Scott of Clover Bar was the first guest speaker, his topic being the fitting observance of V-day to our schools. The second speaker, Supt. Le Maue in a few well-chosen words, congratulated the gathering upon its numerical strength. The third speaker, Dr. Siemens of Clover Bar Health Unit, made his first acquaintance with many of our group. He outlined the possibilities and the limitations of Health Services and stressed the point that Health and Education must always go hand in hand.

The big event leading up this week is the banquet to be held by the Hockey Club on Friday next but of this we shall hear more lately.

Gustav Weber and family have finally left our neighborhood to take up residence in North Edmonton. The school will miss them but widens them welcome in their new home. Mr. Weber is on the Otter Institution staff.

School Flashes

The F.H.S. and grade 9 are anticipating a visit to Edmonton this month to see the legislature in session. The date, however, is as yet undecided.

Having first smashed their $50 objective in the War Savings Drive, the grades 3 and 4 students will be awarded a free show as a prize offered by Mr. Magor. The film, "The Ballroom", will be shown on March 20 in the Fort Community Hall.

Due to the fact that too much time is being spent on the War Savings, handling of this project by the high school will be discontinued. Hereafter, each room will handle its own War Savings.

The War Savings quota of each room is as follows: Room 1, $26.35; room 2, $62.52; room 3, $15.26; room 4, $67.20.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Briggs Married Fifty Years

Because they had reached a milestone on the journey of life that called for a celebration, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Briggs were the centre of attraction this past week, golden wedding ceremonies being the order of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Briggs were married fifty years ago, March 9th, 1895, at Leeds, Neb U.S.A. They came to Canada in 1901, and since that time have been honored and respected residents of Elk Island, where they have all through the years played an active and important part in the life of the community.

Four of their five children Ralph, George Robert and Ada (Mrs. Roy Trimble) have their homes within a short radius of the parental home. The fifth member of the family Mrs. Isabel rame from Vancouver to be present at the anniversary.

On Tuesday evening, March 6th, a reception for fifty invited guests was held at the farm residence. A shower of gifts including a beautiful upholstered chair, joint gift from the family, expressed in some measure the esteem in which the recipients are held.

Supper refreshments were served from a daffodil-decked candle-lit table, centered by a three tier wedding cake, presided over by Mrs. J. Anderson and Miss Jean Lang.

A toast to the bride and groom of yester year was proposed by the Rev. W. T. Young of Norwood United Church, and was gracefully responded to by both husband and wife. The eldest son, Mr. Ralph Briggs, reviewed the history of their early lives, and paid fitting tributes to their qualities, both as parents, and as pioneer community builders.

The singing of Auld Lang Syne at the conclusion of a sing-song brought an end to a memorable evening.

On Friday evening, March 9th, the East Edmonton Community Hall was taxed to capacity when the residents foregathered to do honor to Mr. and Mrs. Briggs. An informal program, with Mr. J. Anderson as master of ceremonies, and Mrs. W. R. Chamberlain at the piano, took the form of community singing, solos and duets.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation by Mrs. J. Hislop, on behalf of the gathering, of a gold brooch to Mrs. Briggs and a gold headed walking stick to Mr. Briggs, in a complimentary address. Mr. W. F. Hawkins gave vivid word pictures of pioneer days, and expressed to the honored guests the regard and good wishes of the community.

Refreshments were convened by Mrs. J. Anderson, and served by members of the Willing Workers Club of East Edmonton.

A final hour for visiting and reminiscing among the old timers proved not the least enjoyable part of the golden wedding day.

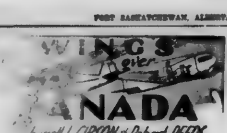
PROPER SANDY LOAM

Observations carried out over a long series of years have indicated that root maggots more particularly the onion maggot and the cabbage maggot, are much more serious pests when the plants they attack are given big or sandy soil. Heather gentlemen, knowing that fact, take care to plant onions, cabbages, radishes and turnips in heavy ground where it is available.

The vegetables grown for the troops at Labrador by the Division of Horticulture, Dominion Experimental Farms service, have been reasonably successful. They are reared by soilless culture methods, in the absence of ordinary soil conditions.



E.W.A.C. Dental Assistants Needed

The urgent need to fill vacancies for two hundred C.W.A.C. dental assistants was stressed this week by recruiting officials of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, Regional Defence Headquarters announced.

Girls, 18 to 43, who are qualified to study Army cooking course have priority in present needs if the C.W.A.C. (Dental), however, the Corps are anxious to enlist women who have had past experience as dental assistants as well as women with qualifications that would equip them to learn the art of chair assistant to officers of the Canadian Dental Corps. These positions are said to be at present held by male soldiers, of a category that would permit them to be released to the establishment almost for overseas personnel, but these men cannot be released until replacements are found for them, the Canadian Dental Corps advises.

The youth of the dental assistant, in civilian practice, has long been described as women. In the Army, it was necessary to employ male soldiers in order to supply adequate reinforcement for C.D.C. overseas services. Although a member of C.W.A.C. were assigned Service, it was considered on the formation of their Corps, it was necessary to retain the services of men to support active units in the field, for women in the C.D.C. have never been detailed for duty in advanced positions.

"We have all we have had two fine dentists in Canada," one officer stated "Also a great many people will have become dentally senseless, as a result of the present war."

"Nobody knows what that war has developed in the way of radar and electronics," he said. "What they can spot the exact location of a submarine miles away to the darkness under the water there is no reason why they cannot give us something which will bring planes through poor weather for safe landings when visibility is limited.

"If aviation is going anywhere, we must have fewer regulations," he said, outlining many rules which he claimed limited the opportunities for private flying.

"Almost a quarter of the space in our cities is devoted to transportation—on foot and in cars—but none to aircraft," he said. "The average home in the average little town has more money invested in a space grasser than is needed to build a small airport."

"A telephone is no good if no one else has one. One airport is useless without others to fly to."

Charging that there was too much control of air traffic, Mr. Piper stated that if ground traffic were similarly controlled, "you could not travel from Boston to New York in two months."

Canada, with territories greater than the United States and fewer roads would find the airplane of tremendous value, he said.

"The big airliner can't go into small towns," he said. Feeder lines, he believed would be secondary in importance to non-scheduled private flying. "Private flying will eventually be the cheapest way to go," he added.

"It took a $25,000 investment in a railroad to provide one job. A flat [illegible] would do this to [illegible]."

Russell L. Gibson, co-author of the column and President of Cole Aircraft of Hamilton, introduced Mr. Piper as the man who manufactured the first planes to land in Sicily, Italy, Prance and many of the islands of the Pacific. He was referring to the Cub Commodore artillery - spotting planes, which had taken off from the decks of battleship Warspite and Valiant and pastures and clearings all over the world.

When tabulation is completed a report will be sent to industries, municipalities and others asking them to report their post-war plans, so that information the record or requirements as a base for their estimates.

Rabbits [illegible] was the cry emanating from the House of Blackstone a few days ago as he scheduled appearances in Edmonton Herald's story.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Of most interest to farmers, the Department of Agriculture also comes first alphabetically. So here's the story.

The purpose of the Department of Agriculture is to assist in the improvement and development of agriculture, the chief industry of the country. This it does through five principal services, namely Science, Production, Marketing, Experimental Farms and Administration.

The Science Service deals with the practical problems of agriculture through scientific investigation. It studies insects pests, diseases affecting plants and animals, the deterioration of plant and animal products caused by fungi and bacteria, the nutritional requirements of animals and plants and the chemistry of soils and dairy products.

The Production Service gives national leadership in organizing agricultural production, and administers the acts standardizing the Canadian export of live stock products, and also the acts framed to fight diseases of animals.

The Marketing Service works toward the efficient marketing and gardening of agricultural products.

The Experimental Farms Service operates a national chain of farms and stations conducting and demonstrating experimental work on farm problems.

Under the Administration Service comes the Publicity and Extension Division which has charge of exhibits, distribution of publications and general information. It is in this service that Miss Laura Pepper, head of their Consumer Section, whose name is a household word in so many farms across Canada, works.

Stormy Weather

[illegible] AY to the attitude of the life insurance agencies toward policyholders enlisting in the Services.

ANSWER: They do everything they can to avoid such policy surrenders. They have special departments devoted to the conservation of existing business and they encourage that their best agents in the field are those who help people to keep themselves and their families protected.

But don't cash values in policies encourage [illegible]

ANSWER: [illegible] The cash value provisions should be considered a form of real need when sudden misfortune may force a man to raise all the money he can. His life insurance is one place to which he can turn. If the need is not too extreme he may obtain a loan on his policy and so keep his insurance in force. Because of the cash value and loan benefits in policies many a home has been kept together, many a business saved in time of storm and stress.

The Marketing Service works toward the efficient marketing and gardening of agricultural products.

The Experimental Farms Service operates a national chain of farms and stations conducting and demonstrating experimental work on farm problems.

Under the Administration Service comes the Publicity and Extension Division which has charge of exhibits, distribution of publications and general information. It is in this service that Miss Laura Pepper, head of their Consumer Section, whose name is a household word in so many farms across Canada, works.

ANY MINING PROSPECTORS?

Saskatchewan is short of experienced mining prospectors. So Resources Minister Phelps has announced a plan by which the Saskatchewan government will give free air transportation to qualified prospectors who will examine mineral areas in the northern part of the province.

SPRAY EQUIPMENT

All producers should be equipped with the proper utensils for measuring spray and dust materials. Thus, any reliability incompetent and will be found very convenient. Some questions are often asked. The first of utensils include a dozen set of cards, graduated to ounces, a gallon and pint measure, as well as a set of measuring spoons. A strong wooden tub or half-barrel will be found useful in which to mix or dissolve the various ingredients which are included in many of the compounds of spray materials. A large funnel, equipped with a strainer, is also a necessity to prevent big particles from entering the spray tank and clogging the nozzle.

Careless talk is dangerous, but so does an then careless thinking.

POOL PAYMENTS HELD UP

There will be no payments of patronage dividends by the Alberta Wheat Pool this spring. Neither will there be any purchase of reserves. Nothing can be done in that regard until the federal government makes a decision on the question of taxing co-operatives.

For some years past the Alberta Wheat Pool has been issuing substantial sums in the form of patronage dividends and for the purchase of reserves at about this time of the year. Members who may be looking forward to the same will undoubtedly be disappointed to hear that these payments will not be forthcoming. Until it is made clear whether the federal government will tax such earnings or not these payments will have to be held up. If it is decided to tax the earnings the amount of the payment will be lessened by the amount of the tax.

The Continuing Job of the CANADIAN RED CROSS

THE EUROPEAN WAR is entering its end. That is obvious. Many people, including members of the Canadian Red Cross, have asked us what our job will be if the war should suddenly end.

We reply that we can only see almost greater responsibilities than ever. Both in Europe and at home the work of the Red Cross must go on. The war will not bring an end to suffering and worry, to the care of our Prisoners of War, to our Wounded, and to the millions whose homes and way of life have been dislocated by strife.

We therefore feel that every Canadian has a right to some knowledge of what our responsibilities will be in the event of peace, and just how we propose to discharge those responsibilities. We must each of us make ourselves ready for the task.

PRISONERS OF WAR—With the end of hostilities our Prisoners of War will automatically cease to be Prisoners. Cases and breakdowns in Germany will probably ensue. The Canadian nurse will return to Canada. They will become wards of the Allied General in command of the Occupation. Transportation will be difficult, and it will probably take a minimum of six months to repatriate the 1,500,000 Canadian, British and Allied Prisoners in German camps. The need of Prisoners' Parcels and Medical Supplies will be doubled. They will be distributed by the Allied Command, and will play a vital part in finishing our war-pending requirements. After the magnificent job we have done throughout the last five years we cannot let our boys in German prison camps down. Our Prisoners in the far East will also be a continuing responsibility for many years, as until every man is back home.

RED CROSS BLOOD SERVICE—Red Cross Blood Donor has saved countless lives in the past year. The end of the war is not the end of painful war wounds. The demand for serum on the battling front, except the Far East, will come. But the Red Cross Blood Donor Service should be conserved for civilian use. The Red Cross should cease to take part. Proceeds to help replace loss by Bingo Gang in Fultonvale Dec. Dance. Lunch and coffee.

RED CROSS AND RELIEF SERVICES—One of the most prominent activities of the Canadian Red Cross. It is truly a world-wide work and will be so.

INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE WORK TO BE GIVEN ATTENTION—In one of these visits with the Red Cross it always does so the job. For this reason alone we must continue our support.

ASSISTANCE TO OTHER SYSTEMS OF RELIEF—In one of these visits with the Red Cross it always does so the job. For this reason alone we must continue our support.

AND ONE THING MORE AND ALWAYS FOREMOST—Until the last Canadian soldier has left hospital and has been discharged from hospital, there will be important work for the Red Cross to do. Here then is the task that we do not know, but one thing we are certain of and that is that every Canadian at home will want to make sure that no one will be overlooked after the war is over. Let us not be behind after the war is over. Let us not be behind after the war is over. The care of the wounded lads in Europe and Canada is a paramount responsibility in which we cannot evade. No Canadian wants to evade it. Here again the Red Cross must go on!

The Division of Horticulture, Experimental Farms Service, during 1944 distributed 169 cuttings rooted in the research greenhouses, and 34 illustrated pages for the collection of milkweed experiment stations, carrying on work pods, the floss from which is used in on 201 points throughout all the provinces. This milkweed, which has an attachment of 35, is located at Shelburne, Simcoe County, Ontario. The principal of the school is Miss Gladys Hawkins and her assistant is Mrs. Ada L. Montgomery. With the encouragement of these teachers the pupils collected a total of 400 bags of pods for which the Agricultural Supplies Board paid $91.00. The weight of the 20 to 1 bag. When the bags of milk weed pods were first built, they surrounded the frame along one side of the five-acre colored pond. The milkweed remained from this activity and will be sufficient to make more than $10 life jackets.

MORE LIFE JACKETS

One of the most significant points glen, or Vancouver, or Montreal, or Halifax, would, however, be able to quit in the latest airport and say: "Hey, Toronto to the airport. I can eat Sudbury. I get away from there, I have to leave until just before Zero. So I drive my car to the east subway is over 30 minutes and then I'll have to wait for a while I'm away. At this point a cable to drive my car to Toronto and an airport so much to assume. Oh, and by the way, Bill, I think I'll bring my car with me and use it for the trip back. Now that you have a four-seater car, you'll have room for another one or out with, they might as well have the ride over and back.

If the weather is going to be thick for a flight plan our Caledonia friend will simply have to motor or take a train. In that case he simply proceeds to leave earlier, and to fly later off than if he had never investigated the flying possibilities.

It is his destination is Weyburn or Fort Western Canadian comes to it? He simply hires another air taxi or a fly-it-yourself flight plane at the nearest T.C.A. office and so completes his trip more quickly, pleasantly and eventually at lower cost.

J. D. McLean, controller of Civil Aviation, one of the conference speakers, said the government will do its best to get present R.C.A.F. airports to good use after the war. Unfortunately most such airports are simply not for from the people who want to fly to anywhere anything but long haul airline work.

So far, judging by a little chat we had with Mr. McLean, the government has no intention at the moment of drastically changing the set minimums for runway lengths and widths. Mr. McLean feels a municipality should buy or acquire all the land it can get its hands on in order to look after possible future expansions and to prevent buildings which might prove hazardous as obstructions, going up near an airport.

John A. Wilson, Director of Air Services is often called the father of civil aviation in Canada and he got a great praise from the almost 300 delegates who had assembled from towns and cities throughout Canada. His viewpoint was as puzzled as ever: "All that is needed is public opinion and guidance of airport facilities, and airports will be used to the same extent that the motor car is used today," he said.

Private automobiles, inconvenient during the war to use except on popular prices, may continue after this war. At present 650,000 people are fed daily at an average cost of 25 cents for a three-course meal.

You've often watched the roller stamp your cheque. Every day, in every branch of every bank in Canada, cheques are being maintained, managed and recorded. During the war years, this daily flow of cheques through your bank has swollen to a torrent. Deposit accounts are more numerous and active than ever before. This increase reflects the tremendous activity of Canadian life and business. Production, purchases and payrolls have all reached record levels.
In addition, three-quarters of a million men and women in the armed services must get their pay, and their dependents receive allowances regularly.
The handling of this wartime volume of cheques is quite apart from numerous special services which the banks have undertaken—the delivery of millions of Victory Bonds and the sale of countless War Savings Certificates; rather complex banking; scarcely paperwork to produce; foreign exchange operations.
Yet all this extra work has been carried out at a time when our help has had to be reduced to take the place of more than 8,500 bank workers now in uniform.

Expect Big Demand For Poultry Meat

The following notice has been issued by A. F. Barnell, Senior Dominion Poultry Products Inspector Bedfordshire, that the present poor will show the greatest demand for poultry meats the Province has ever experienced. Export commitments, especially from the United States, will require at least 20 million pounds of poultry at Grades of A and B during 1945, and unless arrangements have been made at attractive prices levels.

Poultry killing and dressing plants have been revamped over the year, which should provide a much better killing service during 1945.

Broilers Wanted

The market for broilers is so firm that wholesale dealers are now guaranteed to August 31st next, covering weights of from 1½ to 2½ pounds live. Day old White Leghorn cockerels can be purchased from Approved Tatcheries at $0.05 per bird, and day old heavy breed cockerels at $0.09 per bird. Experience has shown that from 3 to 4 pounds of feed are required for each pound of gain in broilers. Feed prices are guaranteed to August 31st next, and prices quoted on broiler meat by producers to allow a good margin of profit provided reasonable attention is given to feeding and management. From 1st to 15th March will produce desirable weight broilers.

Straw for Quality

Producers should strive to produce Grade A Milkfed, Grade B Milkfed or Grade B to realize best returns. For 1944 Alberta only marketed 1.5 per cent Milkfed A chicken, $4.80 per cent Milkfed B chicken, 62.72 per cent Grade B chicken and 31.48 per cent Grade C chicken. If we are to hold our export markets during the post-war period a very considerable improvement in quality must result. Milkfed poultry as well as Grade A poultry on a cull graded basis, with a premium for quality, should provide the necessary incentive for increased flock.

Producers are urged to watch the ANSWER: Because it just happens to be human nature to put off until tomorrow the things we should do today. Practically everyone knows that the need for Mike is there again, but few people actually do anything about it without some incentive to action. Josephburg News

Another milestone in the life of Josephburg School was reached on Friday night when the Hockey Club staged a banquet in the school house at which 70 odds participated under the able chairmanship of an ex-pupil Irvin Thomas. A sumptuous supper satisfied the guests, to which all did ample justice. Toasts to "Our Guests" and to the League Teams were drunk. Ernest Mohr, H. Cyre and Rudolph Gabert, the fate of the League Trophy has yet to be decided as two teams stand equal in games and scores. It warmed our navel pedagogic heart to see an ex-pupil as M.C. Irvin Thomas capably, ably marshalling the serving staff and three pupils Violet and Helen Mohr and Esther Mohr and Esther Geisinger deftly toasting tables. Flavia Josephinegirl was the next on to forget our efficient emcee. Albert Thomas, who ... proudly boast his goods were good enough. And let us not omit to mention the audience which both applauded and in applause was responsible to the fare.

The banquet over, the young folks formed a fitting conclusion to a highly successful evening.

The Josephburg Red Cross held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. "Harry" Lawrence on Friday. A good number attended and two new members were signed up. A "raffle" was conducted and proved a success by Mrs. Lyle and Mrs. E. Sippel is to be raffled in the near future, the proceeds of which will be devoted to a deficit upon our last bombing and the balance to send for "Bomber" Harris' autograph to their doubtless proud parents! Arrangements were made for a Red Cross Dance to be held in this school in the near future, and dance to take the form of a ... The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Hamilton home.

During the evening a presentation of a flowering plant was made to Mrs. Piercy in his name of the Red Cross as an acknowledgment of her services in engineering the recent play.

We many friends rejoiced to welcome back Fred Hennig who has recently returned from hospital after a severe attack of pneumonia.

Farm sales proceed merrily. A large crowd attended the Geo. Mohr sale, George and his family has left for Chilliwack, B.C. where he has already located.

Mrs. Wes Fisher has left for Bentley, Alberta where she will attend a family anniversary.

"They'll get worse before they get better." Three guesses and you hit it first crack.

We learn that an election is likely to loom up in the near future to fill a vacancy on the Josephburg civic slate, Canada is now entering the throes of one of the city fathers. We trust that the rumor is false and that the official in question will reconsider his decision. We realize that the duties are arduous but the honorarium leaves a "note of confidence" in the present executive.

In the Edmonton Arena on Monday night, March 19, Mansfield defeated Josephburg by a narrow margin of 1 goal after a hard fought 60 minute game which ended in the score 5-4. Mansfield won the 1st playoff 5-3, but Josephburg came back with a 5-4 victory in the second game, leaving each team with one game and nine goals to its credit. However, Mansfield emerged the victor in the third game, but with no power to spare. It may well be seen how equal or near to equality the two teams' strengths were.

Following is a summary.

First Period—(J) Dan Frey (Wilbert Frey) 13 min.

Second Period—(M) Vic Schneider, 4 min; (M) Irvin Thomas, 12 min; (J) Wilbert Frey (L. REGISTRATION FORMS WILL BE MAILED SHORTLY FOR which will be paid for

EVERY ELIGIBLE CHILD UNDER 16 in Canada

The payment of these allowances to parents or other persons who are maintaining children will commence in July, 1945, and the registration of children for this purpose is to begin immediately.

To aid parents in the raising of their children, the Family Allowance Act was passed at the last session of Parliament. Under the Family Allowances Act, eligible family in Canada will receive a monthly cheque beginning July, 1945. These monthly payments are to help provide children with medical, dental and nursing services, more adequate food, garments clothing and shelter, and to give parents of Canada a chance to equalize the opportunities for their children.

WHEN PAID? Family Allowance cheques will be mailed out to parents each month beginning July, 1945.

TO WHOM PAID? Allowances will be paid to the parents, or to any person who maintains a child.

INCOME TAX: No one will benefit from both Family Allowances and a full income tax deduction for their children. Parents have the choice of applying for their Family Allowances or not claiming the allowance and claiming the full deduction for their children under Income Tax. If they claim the Family Allowance the amount of deduction from tax allowed for children under the Income War Tax Act will be reduced by the amount of any Family Allowances received.

Anyone who is uncertain whether or not he or she will benefit from Family Allowances move then from Tax Deduction should register for the Family Allowance and in this way be on the safe side. Incomes may change during the course of a year.

South Cooking Lake

The Red Cross drive at South Cooking Lake was a great success. The community entered into it with the best of their ability with the result that the sum of $56.00 was realized for this worthy fund. Five and all came prepared to work and raindale quota. The only expenditure was for ice cream.

The drive took the form of a cash bonspiel of which party, sale of goods, and a dance. Human Nature

W HY [illegible] ?

ANSWER Because it just happens to be human nature to put off until tomorrow the things we should do today. Essential services [illegible] fuel, groceries, life insurance but few people actually BUY about it without some outside assistance to action. The agent not only brings home the goods to you, he sells them to you; he budget to get the protection they want — why certain policies are best for certain conditions—how to build an estate.

What would you consider the most asset of the life insurance business?

ANSWER Human assets are always among the most valuable in the life insurance business the agents who help people to protect themselves in the emergencies that may arise. Such men as the people this locality is most interested in.

Josephburg W. I. Stage Mock Trial

"We find you guilty in the first degree and hereby sentence you to the two years hard labor in Fort and Saskatchewan Gaol."

This was the verdict given by Mr. Jack Cairns, foreman of the jury, at ending the colorful "court trial" which formed part of the Josephburg Church Social Credit representative, Floyd Women's Institute meeting on Wednesday evening.

The defendant was Gladys Wiseman who was charged with stealing four new aprotonite rubber tires from Allan Thomas' car on New Year's Eve.

The plaintiff was cleverly upheld by his lawyer Irvin Thomas, assisted by Mrs. Ted Bryant, and cross-examining witnesses, Miss Dot Riegel, clerk of the proceedings; Dan Fray as assistant director of the Tire Baron Board and Merle Mohn, a well-read Indian Judge.

The defendant was ably defended by Carl Schlosser, who after sparely plead-for Miss Thomas' own lawyer Elmer Thomas, who had been called out of town, Mr. Thomas' client was sentenced by Wilma Holt and three witnesses, Jean Mohn, Lorraine Fray and Mrs. Wilfred Wiseman testified on her behalf.

The court then adjourned for sentence shortly and began her sentence immediately by serving lunch.

Candies wheel and floor supports had been constructed and proved to be the largest in several months, with the United Kingdom reported purchasing over 11 million rubber.

The Soviet Union plans to increase the total crop area in 1949 by 20 million acres over 1948.

Guns you have hoisted your own temptations you can fish anything.

School Flashes

On the afternoon of March 23rd, twelve brimming cardcads of cherry cargo vended their way to the city The grades 5, 10, 11 and 12 students and teachers, who made this trip for the purpose of seeing the Legislature in its closing session, numbered 61 in all. It was also our privilege to be conducted through the library by our Mrs. Patton. To round out the afternoon's education with a bit of entertainment, everyone met at the Royal George for a "Snow Ice Cream" party, which was followed by roller skating at a rink to the students' preference. This joyous entertainment drawn to a close the pre Easter school term.

On March 29th, Ed. Pozzo, a grade 12 student, underwent an appendix operation in the General Hospital. We all wish him a speedy recovery and hope to see him soon back at school.

All students are anticipating the Spring holiday which Easter Sunday is to set on March 28th and will resume on April 5th.

POCKET LOUDSPEAKERS

Tight headquarters scarcely bigger than pocket watches are among parts of miniature sets specially made in Britain for the Far Eastern War.

Many of the parts have to be "sophisticated" to withstand the climatic effects of monsoons, jungles, and heat. Valves have been developed of only after extensive tests in "arti-ficial jungles" built in sealed rooms in modern radio factories.

The range of miniature components was specially designed to withstand tropical conditions so that complete apparatus can be transported easily by air or on the backs of men. Batteries are used in some of these components so that they can be made invisible in the naked eye; it has to be examined through a microscope.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Ernest T. Flowerdew who passed away March 31, 1948.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent the voice we loved to hear;
The fond heart stilled that beat for me,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

Ever remembered by his loving Wife and family.

Annual Ratepayers' Meet Held at Josephburg

The Annual Ratepayers' Meeting of Josephburg was held in the school house on Tuesday evening. The main item of discussion was the election of a new trustee to take the place of Frank Hoenig who has moved to Edmonton. Mr. [illegible] was elected by acclamation to fill the vacancy. Mr. Hoenig has been a faithful worker in the interests of the school and his services will be missed by the Josephburg School Board. He was presented with a gift from the district.

Mr. [illegible] was re-elected secretary-treasurer for the ensuing year.

Trustees Mary will have work until [illegible] of Mrs. Alfred [illegible] Mrs. Ralph Hoenig then read the financial statement, and undertook to answer any questions in connection with it. It always fascinates us to see how with which some people can [illegible] to grapple with such intricate figures. Our feeble brain finds itself utterly in such a labyrinth of figures. We console ourselves with the thought that "it is not given to every man to go to Corinth" Bruce" he is evidently about the limit of our journeyings.

By motion it was decided that the auditor be remunerated to the amount of $50.00 for the ensuing year.

Its motion had this meeting adjourned, than a second one ensued. This time it was the hockey boys. Owing to the fact that our school rink is no full size and is incapable of being extended to full size, they are in favor of changing the site to one nearer the city of Josephburg where space and water could be more easily obtained. They do not wish to carry any ill-feeling by their movement and so brought the matter up for discussion before school authorities and parents. The latter feel that there is neither effort nor funds to keep two rinks going and naturally hate the thought of hotting the school [illegible]

The hockey boys finally decided to leave all fixtures in use at the school and generously donated fifty dollars towards the maintenance of the school rink, leaving themselves free to go wherever they wished. They will be starting a new rink themselves. Good luck to them! We wish their project every success.

Mrs. Gerald Gerbig and Donald Macwell were week-end visitors at the home of Mrs. Macwell.

The final game of the season for the Bremner Comets was played at the Arena, Wednesday afternoon March 30th. An usual after a very exciting and leather tearing game the Comets defeated the Westwood High-landers by a score of 3 to 2.

Mr. J. McCue and wife have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. Jackson. Mr. McCue has now left for overseas duty.

Donald Davies has been staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Jackson. Mrs. Marlor has also been their guest.

On Wednesday evening a meeting of the promoters of the Bremner Consolidated Josephburg Bremner Camp for pupils of both schools was held at the Bigood home. Wilbert Fray presented the idea last year and with the untiring help of Mr. and Mrs. Bigood and Miss Hole, managed it through to a successful conclusion and that, despite every effort on the part of the weatherman to wreck things. The same high command is anxious to repeat and even better last year's effort. Such an ambitious program requires a wealth of detail in the planning. It does not just happen. These street sprints are mere details, school time and the pressure should not be absent for want of effort on their part. Persons of youngsters for-gotten enough to romp the streets owe a deep debt of gratitude to the and promotion.

The Fort Sask. Rural Home Economics Club will hold its annual meeting on Monday, April 9th at Josephburg school, 8 p.m.

Sickness seems to be making its rounds among the younger members of the families. A type of throat infection seems to be the cause.

Miss Ella Schmitz of Edmonton is spending the Easter holiday with her brother-in-law and sister, Rev. and Mrs. C. Baron.

This picture of an air [illegible] of London citizens is taken from a moving picture film, "V-1" which will be shown in many rural areas of Canada as part of the Eighth Victory Loan program. OLD CHUM

FOR PIPE OR ROLLING YOUR OWN

Before the war Canada exerted more freight by air than any other nation. Everyone knows that mining was responsible for most of our world famous bush flying.

The other day we met a young woman with ideas, a woman who has perhaps done more for mining in Canada in the last two years than any other living person. She is Mrs. Vicki MacMillan, president of the Prospectors and Developers association.

Just after Pearl Harbor, when Canadian mining was ready in the danger through labor shortages, etc., Mrs. Vicki MacMillan got one of her ideas. She hoped a train for Ottawa and a few hours later had official approval of her plan.

Prospectors, she had reasoned needed to know more about geology and unexplored parts of Canada where they might find new deposits of base metals to help in our war effort. So the Prospectors and Developers association sponsored lectures in Toronto, Kirkland Lake and Sudbury with a panel of some of the Dominion's best known scientists participating, and the prospectors turned out in droves.

The result was a new Canadian mining discovery boom in which millions of tons of new found ore have been estimated by diamond drilling and new exact peacetime development.

The mining industry figures that as a result of the new prospecting wave there will be 20,000 new jobs in mining the moment the war ends. Government officials, both in Canada and the States, estimate that one job in mining means 20 other jobs in other industries ranging from transportation to agriculture. At that rate Mrs. MacMillan's prospectors will mean new jobs for close to 1,000,000 Canadians.

But this a column about flying, and here is how aviation is flying in 1945. The post-war mining boom will require many planes more than ever. This alone means employment for hundreds of farmer air force personnel flying and servicing Wacos, Fairchilds, Noorduyn Norsemen, Beechcraft and other machines used in bush operations.

One of the Dominion [illegible] staff geologists tells us that the survey has only been scratched so far as Canada's mine future is concerned, that for every mine so far discovered there are dozens more in the country as yet unexplored. In the past new mines have been found by prospectors working on foot, travelling by canoe and generally tied down by transportation difficulties to a few square miles of territory. True, bush planes can sometimes fly a prospector to his starting point and pick him up there a few months later, but even this is an expensive, difficult, procedure.

But after the war, with the new, thoroughly dependable bush aeroplanes in light planes, the prospector will fly his own. He can learn to fly in a two-seater Cub or Aeronca, for instance, with five to eight hours of instruction before he solos. Along with 200 pounds of equipment he can take off and go where he will.

In bad weather he'll sit down on a lake, tie up to the shore, do a little prospecting while waiting for conditions to change. At night his plane will be his bed and his home.

Already some young air force veterans are studying mining and prospecting. But even oldtimers in their fifty's can learn to fly, and mining engineer Mrs. MacMillan, will do for the prospector what an automobile would do for a farmer—enhance if the latter were tied down to travel in foot.

Wool-like Textile Fibre is Made From Peanuts

Starting metaphorically with a ton of peanuts and an idea, chemists of Imperial Chemical Industries Limited have developed a new textile fibre, known as "Ardil," the name not arbitrary, and is not attached by mohr known as Ardil, this new material is made from the protein content of the ground nut vegetable protein, while most is of course an animal protein fibre.

After extraction of the oil, which constitutes 50 per cent of the peanut, the protein content is extracted with dilute alkali, reprecipitated and then made into a spinning solution. The solution is pressured like rayon to give a cream-colored, crimped, resistant staple fibre which resembles wool. It may be blended with wool, cotton, staple rayon, and yarns may be made on the worsted, woollen or cotton systems according to the type of fibre required.

Fabrics have been made purely of Ardil, the I.C.I. chemists report, but its best use is likely to be in combination with wool to produce fabrics of handle, resilience and a crease resistance to the cloth. Suits, coats and dresses have been made from such blended yarns and have bolstered normally in wear.

Large-scale consumption of woollen goods in Canada is stimulated by our northern climate. At the same time, we rank among the world's largest producers of peanuts, which grow in various districts throughout the British Empire.

The fuller utilization of the peanut as demonstrated in the development of Ardil, suggests interesting possibilities of value to Canadians. Already

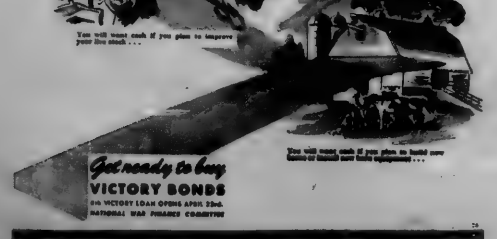
IN MANY WAYS BETTER THAN Cash

You will want cash if you plan to improve your home when the war ends

You will want cash if you plan to improve your live stock . . .



You will want cash if you plan to build new farm or launch new farm equipment . . .

● Managing a farm is in many ways similar to managing any other business. That is why reserve savings in liquid form are so helpful to a farmer.

Victory Bonds provide the handiest form in which savings can be kept with safety. Their security is without question. They represent money owing to you by the Dominion of Canada, just as dollar bills do. And . . . better than dollar bills . . . they earn interest for you every day you hold them; a thing you cannot say for safe keeping in a bank vault or in a safe. They pay double bank interest.

You can get cash for Victory Bonds if you need cash in an emergency. Any bank will buy them from you. You can turn them over to others, without any formality. Simply take them to any bank and get the loan you need. The interest the bonds earn pays a large part of the bank interest on the loan.

So, realize this fact, Victory Bonds are better than cash because they earn interest.

Buy Victory Bonds to have cash where you need it, when you may need it. Buy Victory Bonds to help maintain your country's war effort.

This Golden Age!

By R. J. DEACHMAN

Brigadier C. C. Hepburn, prospective commander of the Canadian Army made this statement on Saturday, March 17. before a meeting of the Ottawa Youth Institute.

Normally no government need tell us they can't afford anything they can afford anything the people want done. What it takes to make a program would build a fairly good house. It is how people may not want to pay for it. Taxes are not popular.

Make sure that you bring every pressure to bear on the Government to get what you want."

Life is a struggle for a higher standard of living. The national income goes up about 1 2 3 - per year. Hurrah, cries the Treasury boy, here comes new jobs for those to 1,000,000 Canadians.

When mixed with cotton or rayon Ardil changes the character of the finished fabric. Ardil adds full, rich notes of handle, resilience and a crease resistance to the cloth. Suits, coats and dresses have been made from such blended yarns and have bolstered normally in wear.

Large-scale consumption of woollen goods in Canada is stimulated by our northern climate. At the same time, we rank among the world's largest producers of peanuts, which grow in various districts throughout the British Empire.

World of Wheat

A BRIEFING OF WHEAT

The people of Britain are facing a serious shortage of meat and other livestock products. The reason for the shortage is that Britain is cropping larger quantities of her own resources to alleviate the distress suffering brought about by the lack of food, of the European people in countries which have been liberated by the Allies.

We are informed that the United States had to cut down on her own shipments of meat and some other products to Britain. This means that Canada will have to ship more meat and other livestock products to Britain than she has been doing. The ration ing of meats, therefore, will have to be resumed in Canada. Farmers will be asked to ship all the meat they possibly can, which also means that farmers will have to feed more hogs. Consumers in Eastern Canada will have to do without beef for a time. Western consumers will have to be content with less beef than they have been getting.

Here are some of the latest developments of the home front in the war effort which farmers may not know: Shells from 3-inch incendiary shells from 6-inch incendiary filler from flax fibre; air conditioning filter put on a good vegetable garden; for lubricants from rape seed oven; molasses from beet; for "war meat" in the form of baked beans; plywood glue from lentil pea; pain flakes from whey; soybean sausage and cocoanut meat in the form of a breakfast food; from eggs; dried whole milk powder; photographic film from waste fats; dextrin, of which the A.P.C. warned Mr. Gardiner in 1941. The following is an extract from a letter written to the Minister of Agriculture, on 20th December, 1943

"If a drastic reduction in hogs from Alberta is what the Government wants the policy they are now following is the right way to get it and we consider it our duty to make this fact so plain to you that there shall be no possibility of being misunderstood; because yours is the responsibility."

If the Dominion Government wishes to rectify its mistakes it will have to make arrangements to pay the present bonus on feed grain to all the growers and feeders alike and not just to those who sell their grain and also make such an adjustment in the price of hogs as will put the Alberta hog raiser in the same relative position as the Eastern hog raiser.

Yours truly,

Letter to the Editor

The Editor,
Dear Sir:

RE HOG SITUATION

No doubt a large number of people other than farmers are wondering what has gone wrong with the hog situation and why there is now a threat of meat rationing after the Western Provinces have demonstrated the extent to which they can raise hogs.

The present situation has been brought about by actions of the Dominion Government which have left the Western farmers completely mystified as to what is really required of them.

Without passing the story too long here is the reason: The Western farmers in the early fall fed grain cheaply to the extent of 10c per bushel on oats, 15c on barley and 25c on wheat if he feeds these grains to hogs as compared to the Eastern feeder who can buy these grains at three times the price and also get free from the Dominion Government a bonus of $5.00 per ton on screenings from Eastern farmers getting from $5.00 to $6.00 more per hog than Western farmers.

The Dominion Minister of Agriculture argues that the Western farmer should not be disturbed about this because if he does not wish to feed hogs at these low prices he can sell and thus get the bonus. This is true, but does not encourage hog production and we are now seeing the results of the policy in threatened shortages, of which the A.F.U. warned Mr. Gardiner in 1941. The following is an extract from a letter written to the Minister of Agriculture, on 20th December, 1943

"If a drastic reduction in hogs from Alberta is what the Government wants the policy they are now following is the right way to get it and we consider it our duty to make this fact so plain to you that there shall be no possibility of being misunderstood; because yours is the responsibility."

Mass Pay Dividends

The Farm Improvement Loans Act passed at the last session of the House of Commons has been brought into operation. It enables farmers to borrow up to $2,500 from their local banks, extending over terms up to ten years at 5 per cent simple interest for the purchasing of new farm implements, livestock for breeding purposes, purchase and installation of agricultural equipment or electric systems, fencing, drainage, improvement or development of a farm. On all these the farmer can borrow up to 5 per cent of the cost. On construction, repairs and alteration of buildings the amount borrowed may run up to 1 per cent of cost.

The total amount which can be loaned under this act is $300 million and the banks receive a guarantee from the government against loss to the extent of 1 per cent of the amount loaned.

The new world we all want may be just around the corner, but we'll have to go straight to get there.

THIS IS AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT BY YOUR GOVERNMENT ABOUT

COAL

This year the mines must be kept working during the Spring and Summer. Unless they get a steady flow of orders, they will lose their miners to other employment. It is absolutely imperative that the miners keep at work in the mines.

The transportation situation also is likely to become serious. The railways are now in a position to load coal from the mines to the dealers' yards, but later will be busy hauling grain.

The coal dealers have had difficulties this past winter with delivery labour, and if they are to deliver all the coal required by their customers, it will be necessary to keep their employees busy every working day in the year.

So that your dealer may do his part in keeping the mines busy during this your emergency, get him to fill your bin so soo - - possible.

Josephburg News

Josephburg has a new slogan "Put on your gingham dress and keep cool". Anyone beholding the damsel of Josephburg, married and unmarried, arrayed in rainbow-hued ginghams would have wondered if Mother Nature's trapped butterflies had mistaken Alberta for Nicaragua. Health Unit is going to need a lot more vaccine, could it resist some pangs of pea-nuts to think that he too was a member of the Josephburg Ladies' Softball Club? Well, with a switch outlook patted our hearts back and replaced at the conclusion, inwardly calculating the number of cigars the changes might run to. Our guess was nearly recommended in his better half upon the financial benefits her purchases were conferring upon the exchequer. "Sorry to disappoint you," was his spouse's reply, "but they were on sale, that I bought three of them." The fond husband felt like a murderer upon whom a full stop had been applied a boot ear full of cement. We, ourselves have at times enjoyed a remade in favor of the fair sex substituting bottled sun-tan for sheer stockings; we have heard a well-known preacher's husband quietly hoist a cold, but nothing to the way business is done in those overworked artisane grinding out rayon bags.

Your reporter, Mr. Editor, called upon Dr. Hawkens to learn the progress of Josephburg's entry in the Notelle Chest Clinic in action on our Front. This is the situation. There are certain words that ought well, I suppose, be deleted from use by our commentators in describing the advance of our troops. They are... DASHING, BURNING, PLUNGING, WRAPPING, RUSHING, RACING. The truth is that very seldom, and never for very long, does any advance warrant any of these words. "Old soldiers," laugh when they read them. Advances by an army are never greater for long than the speed at which infantry can march and that is at the most twenty miles a day. Tanks and trucks can, it is true, go forward faster for a few hours, but then they have to stop for supplies and until the infantry catch up. Over-optimistic words and descriptions give a false impression to people. Such words make the people think that the war will be ended tomorrow and then many are bitterly bonnies and blue when the shadow off their wee efforts. War actually is a grim, grinding, and very business. Well-trained troops such as the Germans can always put up a fight when they feel inclined to do so. The war will never be won until the enemy is disarmed and behind bolted bars, and no one knows how long that will take. In the meantime, therefore, we must continue to the end of the road, working and producing to the very best of our ability.

WINGS over CANADA

...Bugsy" I. GIBSON

...Robert REEDS.

So flying is a dangerous business and you'd just as soon keep one foot on the ground." Well motoring is no even more dangerous business if you are ready to accept the best available figures on the subject. In 1941 before gasoline rationing, somebody was killed in a private automobile every 25 million passenger miles. In scheduled airline operation on the other hand, there was only one death for every 45 million passenger miles.

Figures on passenger miles per fatality in private flying are not available, but admittedly it is many dangerous than scheduled flying. The reasons are not as mysterious as one might suppose. In fact, few plane accidents are mysterious. Government investigators usually get to the bottom of them. Your newspaper stories of the crash may give you the impression that often the reason never does out first. Often when private flying accidents are morally certain of the cause, the proof is not sufficient to warrant seizure of their registers.

Actually it might be a good thing for flying if the public was told promptly exactly what was believed to be the cause of each accident, even if it did reflect on a man whose life had been lost, for the essential truth is that most private flying accidents are caused by almost criminal foolishness. Likewise, the greatest safety in one of the recent causes of private flying accidents.

Low level flying probably causes more private plane crashes than anything else. Motorists often lose their lives by drunken driving. Drunken flying has not been unknown either, but aviation has taken it on the chin for the mistakes which the motorcade crashes caused by such flying.

But need private flying crashes continue? Yes, in some measure, as accidents sometimes do continue. But as a more stable type of individual begins to fly the number of crashes already rare, will become very rare.

Before the war, by the law of averages, with few landing facilities available, with most private flying confined to circling an airport, the type of individual attracted to flying was the type who was looking for thrills. The kind of kid who enjoyed 60 miles an hour on a motorcycle.

Well this young chap got up to a plane and found it wasn't a bit exciting. At even 100 miles an hour the ground moves by very, very slowly when you're a reasonable distance up. So in order to get the thrill which does not exist in normal, safe, utility flying, this type of person had to try skimming the roof tops, circling the church steeple or the girl friend's house.

Then there was always the chap who had to do a loop at 900 or 600 spring vaccination must be in not later than May 1st, advises Dr. P. E. Talbot, Provincial Veterinarian. The prevalence of contagious abortion demands that everyone concerned make every effort to eliminate this disease, which is perhaps responsible for greatest losses to the stockmen than any of our other cattle diseases.

Services offered by the Alberta Department of Agriculture include vaccine and ear tattooing, a record of officially vaccinated animals, and laboratory examination of blood samples. Veterinary expenses are borne by the owner, who also assists the Veterinary Surgeon in any way possible. The control of Bang's Disease in this province is important, and all farmers should obtain full information from their District Agriculturist regarding assistance available. Application forms may be obtained either from the office of the District Agriculturist, from any Registered Veterinarian in the Province of Alberta or direct from the office of the Provincial Veterinarian, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton. Application forms should be obtained as soon as the work may be completed and mailed to the Provincial Veterinarian well in advance of the cut-off date, May 1st.

Perhaps you've been wondering if several other manufacturers will go in for the same general style. The Evonne is nearly all metal and there are also cars driven on automobile licenses to be able to step into one and start flying. The controls are different, from those in a conventional motor.

One's first impulse would be to get all out for the tricycle landing gear type of plane, but there are a couple of catches. In the first place they cost almost twice as much, and by the time you pay Canadian duties on top of that . . . Secondly, nobody has yet shown how to fly them with the old Fleets and until they are licensed for that type of performance they won't be much used in Canada.

In addition to a variety of models very similar to the latest pre-war models, one or two manufacturers are working on radical plans for new ships. These again are divided into two categories, those for the more orthodox, but with flaps and flaps and there will be a choice of power, or design shape.

Among those already flown, and the one which is the pride of the industry on its car is a new amphibian built in the States by Republic. With modifications of ordinary machinery four. It is a pusher type with the propeller behind and looks like a miniature flying boat. It's all rigged up to take off from a land airport and land on a lake with a special apparatus to fish from, dive from or to help in tying up to a dock. Now that would do this were available before the war at $20,000 and up, mostly up.

Republic claims it's going to sell for not much more than $5,000 in the States, which means closer to $6,000 here, but at least one leading plane manufacturer with more experience than Republic in the small plane field has promised to start at the bill and not the plane plane by plane forward to the men if it can be sold profitably in the States for less than $6,000.

Other manufacturers . . . Fairchild, Waco, Luscombe, Culver, have all been talking family planes, a plane to carry four at over 100 miles an hour with the economy of a good automobile. So far it looks as if this type of plane will be ready a couple of years after hostilities cease. But which also hopes to have one in this category but meanwhile already designed and flown a single motor called the Skyquin.

It's going to retail for $995 in the States and cruise at more than 150 miles an hour with a 65 horsepower engine and do about 65 miles to a gallon. Most of the industry thinks Piper is crazy, that a single-seater won't sell, but Piper argues that the average motorist drives alone almost all the time he does with passengers, that much post-war flying will be done in rented planes, so . . .

Oh, and the balance of the performance of the conventional two and three-seater light plane. They'll cruise at from 70 to 120 miles an hour and land at 35 to 45, do 15 to 20 miles on

Farm Workers Part in War Effort

The use of the products of Canadian farmers and farmers' workers for direct war purposes may be less obvious than in some other cases but they are many and varied. Woodenship alone is used extensively in the making of high explosives, such as cordite and gun cotton, replacing cotton linters at about half the cost. From the same wood, millions of surgical dressings and hospital supplies are made to heal the wounds of soldiers. The so-called "dissolving" pulps are also transformed into rayon, cellophane, and pulp-based plastics, from which are produced synthetic gums for tires and paints, chester, gas-impervious clothing, imperviousness machines, wrappings for perishable drugs, chemists and food, because are made to lend

Pte. Frankie Ireland District was well represented at the Chest X-ray Clinic, held in the South Side Fire Hall on Wednesday afternoon, April 11. Our seniors helped generously in transportation, and all these models to find accommodation in one room before and after the X-raying but that day, had to see after himself was absent, for he had been called away on the sad occasion of the passing of his mother's funeral Calgary way, but, very appropriately, Ed. came home from the East on a three-week furlough, and therefore was on hand to take his father's place at the clinic.

We were glad to see Ron Gibb at the Clinic, getting chest so ably as his grandson. Not only did Ron go to the Clinic, but he also went to see his doctor and persuaded him to set him free of his cast. Here's hoping that the next casting bank to school.

The Tuesday afternoon tea, held in the Senior room on behalf of the Red Cross for parcels for our local boys overseas, was a success already been acknowledged as was anticipated by the hostesses, Mrs. Purton, Hocking and Griffith-Jones, who did yeoman service in the cause. Of these few who did patronize the tea, a total of $6.10 was realized. This brought the total of the fund to $24.50. Not received parcels, will lead-us with an assortment of good things known to be warmly acceptable to boys overseas. Two have already been despatched, and others are to be sent on their way Contributions to this fund could be left at either store or with the teacher at Franklin school.

New Weed Killer

A new and revolutionary weed-killer, which kills weeds while leaving grass and sowed crops unharmed, has been discovered by scientists of Imperial Chemical Industries, England.

The weed-killer, which is known as Methoxone, is now being tried out on a station—wide basis by I.C.I. and the Ministry of Agriculture.

Trials already carried out have shown that the new weed-killer is applied at the rate of one pound per acre, weeds such as pellett charlock, wild mustard and pennycress, growing in grain, are killed but the crop is unharmed.

An outstanding factor in this remarkable discovery is that weeds can be killed in the early stages of growth so that they have no chance to rob the crop of the food available in the soil.

Another important advantage is that the new weed-killer is harmless to humans, it is not poisonous, and plants were eaten immediately after spraying. The new meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harker

Special Placement Service for Executives

In order to assist men and women in the higher wage brackets in obtaining suitable employment, the Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labour has directed that executive and professional placement officers be established in the five regions across Canada. Regional officers will supervise the placement work of local offices in their area. The local offices in the larger centres will have corresponding special divisions to deal with this type of employee. While technical scientific and technical personnel will continue to come under the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel, the Bureau will work closely with the new executive division.

The Executive and Professional office will handle the placement of men qualified for executive and office positions, who do not come under Unemployment Insurance. In the case of veterans, the officers will handle the same type of assistance as the Veterans Land Act gives $1,800 a year or over. Officers will also deal with persons with university graduation, or graduation from other institutions of higher learning, and other persons with technical or professional training who customarily earn over $1,800 a year.

Commenting on this new step, the Labor Minister said: "This is not to be a new employment service, but a division of the existing National Employment Service. Their experienced personnel will be drafted to the new division."

Jacks is another part of CBC's morning zone is the Penny Pinchers Club which followed 3,000 pennies for Jacks's Red Cross Fund.

The Army Amateur Group does its share regularly, as does the Navy Hour, The Piano and Harmony Association, The Willing Helpers, the Goodwill Clubs, The Victory Club and scores of others.

Lend-Lease and "Exploited" Colonies

To The Christian Science Monitor.

I believe your paper to be anxious to spread the truth. As one eager for Anglo-American friendship, I ask your aid in the dispelling of untrue legend.

First, there is the current idea in the United States that Lend-Lease is but an arrangement whereby Great Britain receives all and gives nothing. Could not more publicity be given to President Roosevelt's Seventh Report to Congress on Lend-Lease operations? Let me quote these facts from that American document:

Lend-Lease to the U.S.A. from Great Britain for the year ended June 30, 1944 $2,417,000,000. Total Lend-Lease from Great Britain, Australia, India, and the Colonies up to that date $3,340,197,000.

Next, there is the belief that, as an American friend of mine wrote "We, the Americans, are practically fighting the Japanese war alone."

Suffice it to say that (a) Britain has the biggest single front of any Allied force in the Pacific war. (b) Britain has the largest army in combat with the Japs. Figures are secret, but a correspondent recently attached to puts our fighting forces at a quarter of a million and our supporting forces at a million and a quarter. (c) British forces engaged more Japanese in 1944 than any other Ally's.

Finally, let me say a word against the American belief that Britain has a huge Empire from which we receive millions of pounds annually. Isn't it time that America realize that the British "Empire" is a thin way, a wonderful brotherhood or Commonwealth? Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa do not belong to us. They are self-governing dominions, members of the British Commonwealth of Nations, and it is we who have to pay for our freedom.

Backward colonies such as Nigeria, Gold Coast, etc., we do not rule, but lend civilization. We encourage the arts to form the British way of life onto those native people. Forty-five years ago, Nigeria was the land of slave-trading, liquor trading among natives, rampant cannibalism, warfare. Look at it today—an orderly community in which cannibals and slaves are entirely unknown.

India, to which we will gladly give freedom after this war, is a problem on which I dare not touch, or I should write forever! There, too, our taxpayers sacrifices and service laborers wonderfully well with our mission.

As for all the money which years from our "exploited" colonies into our Treasury (from lands such as the West Africa colonies, where no white man is allowed by our Government to own land!), let me say that not one penny comes to the British Treasury from our Colonial Empire! Actually, we, who are already paying 9% or 10% (% and %) to the £1 in income tax, have just voluntary imposed on ourselves a gift to the colonies from our Treasury of £150,000,000.

In 1944 the Company sold nearly one billion 600 million gallons of petroleum products in Canada. For this it received 163 million dollars, out of which it paid 138 million for raw materials, freight and sales taxes, 16 million for income taxes. Its net profit from producing, transporting, refining and distributing these products was just under ten million dollars or equivalent to a little less than a cent per gallon.

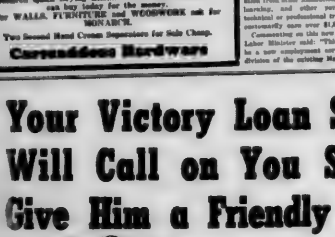
Your Victory Loan Salesman Will Call on You Soon . . . Give Him a Friendly Welcome



Everybody knows what a comforting thing it is to have money where you can get it when you need it. So, for many fathers, the Victory Loan salesman got a cordial welcome. He offers an opportunity so you can help your country's war effort by just saving your money. In case of emergency you can get cash for your bonds at any bank . . . but you know that when you put savings into Victory Bonds they will likely stay there, intact . . . drawing good interest. Your savings are protected from your own temptation to use them. Buy all the Victory Bonds you can, with all the cash you have.

Buy More Victory Bonds on the Deferred Payment Plan With Money as You Get It!

And, to give yourself an objective to add to your savings, obligate yourself to buy more Victory Bonds on the deferred payment plan. Make a first payment of 10% or more when you order the bonds . . . and pay the balance with money as you get it, over a period of six months. Your Victory Loan salesman will give you a copy of the letter on the right. It is a request to your bank to buy bonds for you. Any bank will lend you the money to do this and the interest the bonds earn pays the interest on the bank loan.

There's a lot more than high quality tractor fuel in that familiar Imperial Oil drum . . . there's the ability to get almost any kind of farm work done in record time, with fewer men on the job. That's why Canadian farmers who own labour-saving power machinery look on Imperial Fuels and Lubricants as the equivalent of an extra, versatile "hired man".

Keep your equipment at top efficiency by using only the correct grades of Imperial Oil Fuels and Lubricants—brought to your door by your friendly Imperial Oil Agent. And place your order NOW . . . so that you may have the correct grades and quantities on hand when you need them.

Good Citizenship

The home front has an important battle to win: it is the Victory Loan Campaign. Victory Loans provide the sinews of war. The obligation to strictly up to every individual to "dig down to the last nickel" to see that every last ounce of equipment is provided for the men overseas from the dollars that are available here in Canada.

Victory Loan campaigns are a wartime activity into which any citizen should throw every last degree of energy without considering the personal implications of his action. Victory Loan bonds represent the contribution means by which all can harvest, in practical fashion, the common goal and wish for victory.

The Victory Loan Campaign is sponsored by our government—every government of every elected—and no effort should be shirked—and traces of political considerations. The election date [illegible] over and any antipathy to the government should be expressed [illegible] before parts darkly in response to the Victory Loan appeal.

There is much [illegible] done in our efforts on the home front. The prize [illegible] great, and in view of the superb organization and the [illegible] at stake, let no one on the home front do less than [illegible] best effort.

In the [illegible] battle moment of reaching for victory, let it not be said [illegible] on the home front faltered or failed.

All modern advice to farmers about seed still modern simple confirm the age-old advice. The very latest advice by the Dominion Experimental Farms on the subject of a farmer is in any doubt about the rate of seeding, however sowing will give him a better assurance of a higher yield than lighter sowing. This applies especially to large bearded varieties such as Red Bobs, Marquis and Regent wheat. Plush, Newal, Sunalta, Rex and Hannchen barley when should be sown at a higher rate than the smaller bearded varieties such as Thatcher, Wren, Gartons, Olli 21, Mercury, Webster 20, Regal, Prospect and Lion barley. It is found further that seeding is delayed then a higher rate of seeding is required to obtain a good yield.

The Cracker Barrel

Ottawa. The election date, made known last week, has sent a ripple through the country which even now has reached out until the most distant village and homestead have felt its existence. Perhaps the excitement over the declaration of an election is not so frenzied with us Canadians as it would be in the United States, but it will be a fateful day in the history of Canada. The future of Canada for the next three years and perhaps even longer will be decided.

If a government able to leadership, skilled through experience, and forward-looking is elected, the future of Canada is bright. On the other hand, if a government is elected which lacks statesmanship and which is ill-equipped to deal with the tremendous changes the future of Canada may be in danger.

Political Picture

The political picture in Canada, at this time, is revealing. There are 245 seats in the House of Commons, and an over-all majority of those is needed by any one political party in order to secure stable government. At the dissolution 11 Conservative seats and 182 Liberal, 10 Conservatives, 19 Social Creditors, 10 C.C.F.ers, 5 Bloc Populaire members, and 10 others. Bye-election seats were vacant by resignations or death.

The Social Credit party are running candidates only in about a quarter of the constituencies.

The Conservatives are running candidates in only about three-quarters of the constituencies.

The C.C.F.ers have no adequate organization in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and they are not running candidates in Quebec. The Liberals are running candidates in nearly all of the 245 seats.

The extreme danger of a parliamentary stalemate resulting from the Liberals, the Tories, and the C.C.F.ers having approximately the same number of winners is a topic of very lively political discussions here. The request need for one party to have an over-all majority and then have sufficient support to get things done is acknowledged.

The [illegible] Canadian troops of American servicemen will leave Canada for Australia early in May. The party will include 20 wives and [illegible] children. More will follow.

For tasty, nourishing and economical winter dishes, most Canadian homes will continue to use home preserving this year . . . jams, jellies and all kinds of fresh fruits.

Sugar is still very scarce. We must continue to conserve our supplies.

This year, the allowance for home canning will be the same up to 1946—ten pounds per person. Be sure to use your ration sparingly.

HOW TO GET SUGAR FOR CANNING

Instead of special home canning sugar coupons, twenty units (ration coupons) in Ration Book No. 1 are being made available for the purchase of sugar for canning.

These coupons are good for half a pound of sugar each or the stated value in commercial preserves, for they use the same as any of your ration coupons.

You may use any other valid ration coupons to purchase sugar, also at half a pound each.

No exchange is necessary. Your grocer will accept any valid preserved coupons when you purchase sugar for canning.

Thank you now only two kinds of coupons to sugar. The first is your special sugar coupon for canning sugar, and the preserved coupons, which had a pound of sugar.

SUGAR FOR CANNING COUPON CALENDAR

YOU ONLY NEED COUPONS

The twenty units (coupons) are enough for canning which home canning should last the Home Administration. You do not have to use them immediately. You will be given plenty of notice of their expiry dates.

GOOD WINTER SUPPLY HOME

If you have your ration book, the same amount will be allowed. Canning sugar coupons will not be replaced. It is up to what amount to look after his or her ration book.

The question of disposing of the Hall was brought to the forefront with the advancement of the fees and time necessary to make a decision. Who are the trustees, who are the trustees, who are the trustees,

Mr Blake was associated with Taylor and Pearson for more than seven years coming to Edmonton from a Winnipeg station. He was first a salesman, then sales manager and for the past two years assistant manager.

Mr Barlow joined Taylor and Pearson Broadcasting Ltd. at Calgary in 1936, the year later he came to CJCA as salesman. Two years ago he was promoted to the position of commercial manager. He has now taken over duties as assistant manager.

WING'S over CANADA

By Russell L. GIBSON and Robert REEDS

[illegible] what do you think is the safest age after you have inserted." The answer is 40 to 45 for beginners, and 30 to 45 for those who have already learned.

Three answers come from the Civil Aeronautics Bureau of the United States government and are based on an investigation of over 4,000 private flying accidents, accidents ranging from [illegible] wing tips to complete washouts, though it is interesting to note that in only 1 out of 10 accidents is there a fatality.

It may take a middle-aged man an extra three or four hours to learn to solo. He might be useless as a fighter pilot, but he's just about twice as safe as a student pilot than the thrill seeking youngster of 20. And when you're not in the air, you're [illegible] do who already have been to [illegible] even safer, they tell us, quite safe on the 40 to 45 group on [illegible]

There is no reason why most of our post-war student pilots should not be men over 40, for they are the men who can best afford to learn flying.

Some of the oldsters flying today include Barney MacFadden [illegible] an active pilot, W T Piper learned when he had and has piled up [illegible] of hours since. A grandmother, 60 years old, of Ann Arbor, Mich., flies her own Cub Coupe and before the war took off by herself on a little jaunt to Cal Brown and back on the Northwest.

A. L. Martin, a farmer in New York State is 81 years old and flies his own Cub, according to Air Facts, a magazine for pilots. In Colorado, Harry Walsh is 77 and learned to fly at 73. Bill Stevenson says he knows a chap, 68, in New Jersey who took up flying because he was getting too cranky in the bones for golf.

For that matter, our old friend Major-General F. F. Worthington, who has toured in one of Canada's finest military careers and has just left his post as Commandant at Camp Borden to take over the Fort Fit army command, learned to fly a year or two ago in England. As commander of a Canadian reinforcement division he got himself a small Engish-built Miles as a personal plane.

Seen most of the other generals from Eisenhower down were following his example and grabbing off Cub Grasshoppers as fast as they could get their hands on them. Most of these generals are 60 or over, yet they nearly all fly their own from time to time.

Plain Facts

A R Edie, of Lethbridge, Alberta, a R.C.A.F. pilot and air engineer, of eighteen years experience in aviation in the north which follows. It up pearred in the Calgary Albertan and attracted much attention as a useful contribution to the discussion regarding the future of civil aviation.

The destruction of obsolete aircraft in Calgary has startled the public and drawn attention to the problems of the "clean up" which must immediately follow such an orgy of promiscuous destruction. Many have brought to them: will unnecessarily be much more destruction of equipment in the near future it seems that a little knowledge imparted now to the public will help John Q. to show easier in his feet.

I hold no brief from any govern ment and I do not propose to judge first the burning of aircraft which has taken place lately, but as a citizen and an engineer of some experience experience, I can dilate on the general theme, and possibly throw some light on why certain things happen.

First, let us take the case of two famous types of aircraft which are or soon will be in evidence at the Canadian's yard There are the Avro and Airspeed Oxford.

Both were designed some ten years ago as "feeder line aircraft" to carry local traffic to and from the great airline terminals Although they had the outline performance and the weight lifting ability for first line military aircraft they were ordered in large numbers by the Air Ministry when it became necessary to expand the R.A.F in a hurry.

At that time the prime requisite for the transport of aircraft to fit in with the high performance types were cunning short take off and landing the huge brutes and, and for trainers to teach pilots the engineless technique and to train crews for the expansion scheme.

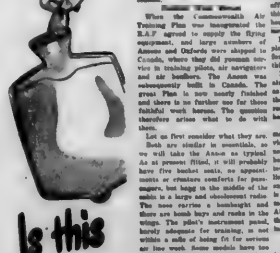
Double Task Thrust

When the Commonwealth Air Training Plan was inaugurated the R.A.F agreed to supply the flying equipment, and large numbers of Avenes and Oxfords were shipped to Canada, where they did yeoman service in training pilots, air navigators and air bombers. The Avro was subsequently built in Canada. The great Plan is now nearly finished and there is no further need for these faithful work horses. The question therefore arises what to do with them.

Let us first consider what they are Both are similar in construction, so we will take the Anson as typical As at present fitted, it will probably have five bucket seats, no appointments or creature comforts for passengers, but being designed as a feeder line aircraft, it will be necessary in return all military equipment, such as navigator cabinets, and useless armor on loan, fit the cabin with seats and an insulated lining, install an adequate heating and ventilating system, re-arrange and add to the pilot's instrument panel, including a whole new set for the co-pilot, install de-icing gear and a two radio equipment. This in addition to re-doping in some other color than "training yellow" and generally sweeping up.

We have now spent several thousand of dollars on the wing structure and what have we got?

We have a machine which on seven hundred of no turnover will carry six or eight passengers at a rather



Is this all you have put aside for next winter

The cost you will have spent whether will have to be added this Spring and Summer and hauled by the railroads to dealers' yards before harvest.

There will be plenty of coal if everybody cooperates by buying at once — and keeping the mines in operation.

New Meaning To Old Words

The one thing [illegible] the San Francisco conference from others is that there is assuming a real importance and assurance that never was possible before. Words are needed to build [illegible] Points realized.

What is good for San Francisco will also apply [illegible] more modest Federal conference [illegible] to pollution that this country [illegible] as these men [illegible] of they are there you have to negotiate with people and force them to be on-off [illegible] in order to maintain order and stability. Russia, Germany, Italy and Japan have done just this.

Either we can give this new meaning and reality—put the stress to the words of our Christmas ideas on which the heartbeat of democracy, or will we have to accept dictatorship of one form or the other, from the right or from the left.

There are really the issues that we are facing us today. The election likely to be discussed on the election platforms or in the conference rooms of San Francisco. But this is the way of ideas that everyone, whether he likes it or not, is part of.

Millions have died in order to give Democracy a chance to try again. What sort of attempt are we going to make?

Filipino Women Guerillas

Filipino women have for centuries fought side by side with their men. Here are stories of two of them, both former school teachers. The first, living on Leyte, fled to the hills when the Japanese came. Given a carbine brought by a U.S. submarine, she accounted for 55 Japanese soldiers. Her comment was, "I could have doubled it if I'd been given my carbine sooner."

Another famed woman guerilla is the Philippine dentist [illegible] who is conducting [illegible] dispatching them with [illegible] and rifle. She maintained regular contact with [illegible] headquarters by the [illegible] route from Australia. It was she who arranged at least one of the night rendezvous with American submarines in Leyte just before General MacArthur's landing.

Midlands Gunner Awarded C.G.M.

From the Birmingham Gazette
by Air Correspondent

[illegible] Sgt. Fred Tompkins, a fill-puncher and mid-upper gunner, whose home is at Broom Inn, Tenbury Wells, has been awarded the Conspicuous Gallantry Medal, one of the highest awards [illegible] to a non-commissioned officer can receive.

He is a nephew of C. H. Williams and a cousin of Mrs. A. B. Davies, A. C. Williams, Mrs. Bigbut and Mr. McLean [illegible] Rectorage, and Mrs. H. Rowe of Beaver Lodge. He also has a cousin G. F. Williams in Edmonton.

It was at a medium-bomber airfield in Belgium that I met Freddie Tomkins. He told me a few things about himself, such as that he had been in the R.A.F. three years, that he was a transport clerk, and that he had flown 26 operational flights in the past 18 months.

Then he mentioned that he was going home on "Survivors leave" and I persuaded him to tell me the story of his flight, which brought a message of congratulation to him from the Air Officer Commanding the Group, saying:

"Your courage and determination on the occasion was up to the very highest standard of the R.A.F.—good show."

It happened a few days ago, when the Marauders were attacking a target near Venlo in close support of the ground forces.

"Just after bombing we received a direct hit from heavy flak. The starboard engine caught fire and both the pilot and the navigator were wounded, he said.

"The aircraft was full of smoke and the pilot ordered us to bale out. I was about to jump when my harness got caught on, so I suggested that the other gunner should go first. He jumped, but by this time the smoke had cleared a bit and things looked more hopeful, so I got in touch with the pilot, and we thought that between us we might be able to keep the machine going.

"I sat down beside him and, taking his directions, I started to fly home. With one hand I held the stick, and with the other my sternpiece— the strap had broken and I had to keep talking to try to prevent the pilot losing consciousness. The navigator, although wounded, stood up behind me and gave us bearings to the nearest airfield. It was a bit tricky, but the other fighters stuck by wonderfully. All I had to do was obey instructions.

"We got to an aerodrome but the engine began to pack up, so we had to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

How to Control Cabbage Maggot

Cabbages, cauliflowers, cottage, and radishes are the favorite food of the cabbage maggot. The adults of the maggot are two-winged flies which lay their eggs on the stems of the plants about the time the European plum flood comes into bloom in dry spring. These insects are controlled by the use of corrosive sublimate, says Alex C. Davison, Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

The corrosive sublimate is bought at most seed houses, and, when used

Nearly everybody who's thinking of post-war flying these days is thinking of the helicopter. So far several models have flown successfully, though only the Sikorsky model has been manufactured in limited quantities for actual use.

The imagination of the whole world has been caught by the dramatic ability of this new type of aircraft to rise and descend vertically, to deliver doctors where emergencies have isolated homes from other means of transportation, snatch ship-wrecked victims from the sea, to land or pick up men or supplies in the middle of almost impenetrable bush.

Many lurid, fanciful accounts of what the helicopter can do has led millions to believe that such machines will be parked in every backyard not long after the war is over. Practical, hard-headed aeronautical engineers, even those most closely associated with the development of the helicopt[illegible]

One noted aeronautical engineer told us the other day that the little copter is neither an airplane nor an automobile, that it cannot replace either, that it's place is a brand new one He said the helicopter has reached the same stage of development that the airplane [illegible]

Today a helicopter is expensive. The motor which powers it is already in mass production and has been for a long time. Yet the size of it makes it expensive too. Right now the helicopter is harder to fly than a conventional airplane. It is a dangerous machine when within a hundred feet of the ground because if the motor quits it needs at least a hundred feet for the rotors to start moving on their [illegible]

As at present conceived, the helicopter could do many things which the airplane because the airplane is primarily useful for long distance transportation. Over any reasonably long distance the airplane with the same power is an inherently more efficient machine. The helicopter and many times more expensive to fly, that the helicopter does not stand a chance in competition.

Over short distances of one hundred miles or less the helicopter cannot compete with an automobile. Though it flies faster than the automobile travels, the takeoff and landing time and the comparative inconveniences of parking it, together with the fee and expense, make it unlikely that anyone would buy a helicopter to replace an automobile.

This does not mean that some day the helicopter will not be able to hold its own. Perhaps jet propulsion working from the ends of the rotor blades will supply sufficient economy and efficiency to make the machine practical for long distances. But the men who are responsible for solving these problems do not expect a solution of any help to you or I for at least 15 or 20 years.

Meanwhile though few individuals or organizations will have enough cash to keep a twenty thousand dollar helicopter employed, flying services will undoubtedly use them for getting their customers in and out of places which can be roughed in no other way. Forestry patrol, rangers, for these the helicopter will have a limited but invaluable use. Meanwhile, the strange men will do his post-war flying in regular scheduled airliner and the long-experienced operated private light plane.

THE WAR CONTINUES

Our gallant lads have successfully finished their war in Europe against our enemies the Fascists and the Nazis After a short spell many of our lads will no doubt be travelling to the Pacific to help to finish the war against Canada's other vicious and aggressive enemy, the determined Japanese. But there will be no spell for our farmers, for the farmers' war must be fought with energy "Homegrown on; and the struggle against malnutrition and suffering among the people in Europe will continues for some time yet.

There will undoubtedly, therefore, be heavy demands on our farmers for most of the foodstuffs they now produce, particularly for such high vitamin foods as meats, eggs, butter, powdered milk and cheese which, the growing children of Europe so badly need.

The credit for ending the war satisfactorily in Europe unquestionably goes first and foremost to our brave young men who have endured the trials and sufferings of battle; but in this hour of justifiable rejoicing, we must not forget the valuable work done by our farmers who have produced and made available such large quantities of essential foodstuffs; foodstuffs which enabled our fighting men, and the civilian peoples of Britain and other countries, to "carry on" during those long war years of stress, strife and difficulty.

Big plans need plenty of little people to carry them out.

At last—

Fair Play for the Farmer

"Canadian farmers have never had a fair return for their labour. They are forced to buy in a protected market at relatively high prices and to sell in a world market at generally low prices. What agriculture needs is not restriction to carry its disability; it needs to have the disability removed. This can only be accomplished by permanent measures and long range planning."

John Bracken

At last—a farmer fights for fair play for farmers! For more than twenty years John Bracken, the Farmer, was the undefeated leader of a Farmers' Party. To-day, as leader of a great, national, progressive party, he is determined that throughout the length and breadth of Canada there shall be a square deal for agriculture . . . fair play for the farmer . . . on a permanent basis!

Farmers have seldom had a fair share of the nation's income. Rarely do they receive a just reward for their endless labours. John Bracken means to stop, once and for all, the unfair discrimination against farmers, the unjust economic conditions which make it impossible for farmers to obtain fair prices for the fruits of their labour.

"It is the responsibility of the nation," says the leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, "to see that this great inequity shall not be perpetuated . . . I know where I stand in the matter. Let me make that position clear. It is not force-ordained that farmers shall work for less pay than anybody else; or have their children receive only one-quarter the chance of a secondary education or one-tenth of the chance of a university education that other children get; or see their wives forced into lives of toil, often 12 but sometimes 14 hours a day—Sundays and holidays included. . . . The trouble is that no one with the necessary authority has determined to correct the basic economic ills of Agriculture."

To-day, John Bracken, the Farmer, seeks the necessary authority to put into immediate operation the far-reaching Progressive Conservative policies that will permanently ensure fair play for the farmer. Here are just some of the points in the Progressive Conservative plan for the definite, continuous and permanent protection of farmer against income collapse and wide extremes of income fluctuation:

The Farmer shall be guaranteed a proportionate share of the nation's income.

A permanent policy for forward contract prices shall be guaranteed to farmers—by law.

The prices guaranteed will be calculated by a non-political council, and will be based on the farmer's proportionate share of the national income. These prices will be announced before the production season begin.

This policy will guarantee present average farm income by not less than twenty per cent.

It takes a farmer to understand farmers' problems. Only a farmer knows the full economic injustices from which farmers suffer. To-day, John Bracken is fighting for fair play for every farmer. The leader of the Progressive Conservatives is determined to bring security and prosperity to farmers permanently. Join in the fight. Help him to win his life-long struggle to give Agriculture a place in Canada's prosperity, not for a day—but for all time to come.

A Farmer fights for you . . . He needs your help.

Dynamics of Peace

By [illegible]

[illegible] Prime Minister has warned [illegible] that the danger of war on the Axis in order to be wasted in the San Francisco Conference. But what nature has hurried to declare war on selfishness to find [illegible] that can give it moral backbone at the Conference.

A [illegible] Council is proposed, made up of the [illegible] to deal with future agreements. But what higher moral authority can these strong nations turn to if they themselves be [illegible] or disunited?

[illegible] whose you and I come in as the [illegible] people to [illegible] that [illegible] will come [illegible] and selfish motive [illegible] speak to each of us in [illegible] Then ours will be a united nation in the Safety Council. A nation which, united within, can speak with authority at the Conference of United Nations. A nation the [illegible] which, in an age of force, is governed by the forgiveness of an all-powerful God. A nation which thus answers the old question "Who is going to police the policemen?" A nation which has not only the mechanism but the most [illegible] which make peace

TIMELY FARM NOTES

SEED FORAGE CROPS

When sowing forage crops, attention to depth and time of seeding may make all the difference between failure and success. One of the most frequent causes of failure to obtain a satisfactory stand is that seed has been sown too deeply. The ideal depth for most small seeds is to [illegible] below the surface. Some covering is desirable but seeds are much better on the surface where they might germinate than if they are down so deep that they can't possibly grow. Broadcast seeding followed by packing usually proves most successful.

In considering the best time for seeding forage crops, N. N. Bentley, supervisor of Crop Improvement advises that proper seeding of mixtures and [illegible] are [illegible] tal. Young seedling plants of grasses and legumes cannot withstand drought and heat until they become well rooted. Satisfactory stands are usually obtained when [illegible]

New Cloth

The Prime Minister of the United Kingdom announced in the House of Commons that the first consignment of new cloth, weighing only 11½ ounces to the square yard, has been produced in the Lancashire-Yorkshire area.

It is understood a new process is involved in knotless woollen cloth, which the manufacturers say is stronger and more durable than ordinary cloth. The new cloth has been given the name of "Utility" and will be available in limited quantities for the summer season with rigidly controlled prices and fabrics.

Eight hundred coupons have been allocated for a complete outfit of clothing, including underwear, and the cloth will be produced in a variety of colours, designs and weights.

With a view to curbing more effectively luxury lines entered and wasteful use of materials, the scheme does not apply to the making of uniforms for the Services, civil defence, nursing, the police, the fire services and the Merchant Navy. Two basic hessian cloths are to be produced, fifty coupons and fifty pounds respectively.

Help save Canada from post - war unemployment and another Depression.

A C.C.F. Government at Ottawa will . . .

1. Maintain full production
2. Provide Jobs for all.
3. Guarantee security of the farmer on his own farm and establish parity prices for farm products.
4. Provide social security with free health and medical services for everyone and adequate old age pensions at the age of sixty.

C.C.F. supports the building of a democratic world organization.

M. J. Coldwell has given effective leadership at San Francisco in this great task.

Social Credit is opposed to this organization. Norman Jacques in his letter to the Wetaskiwin Times of May 2nd, says, "I refused to vote for the motion to send a delegation to the San Francisco Conference".

The isolationism of Jacques and Social Credit is bound to pave the way for another war.

Two silver tens have been held recently in aid of the Red Cross. The first at the home of Mrs. J. Geary on April 18 and sponsored by Mrs. J. Geary, Mrs. E. Dreaper, Mrs. Mabel Geary, Mrs. C. Geary and Miss Delia Dreaper was well attended and a most delightful luncheon was served with much despatch. $8.50 was collected. Mrs. Valentine and "Grandmother's moments" were enjoyed by all present. Perhaps the story told by Mrs. Curtis about the baby laugh.

It is one Mr. Currie belongs to the clan of husband trainers to knock at the door for the fun of losing the look of disgust on friend wife's face when the husband of the day Mrs. Currie, on hearing the usual knock restrained by throwing out the door mat. Imagine her chagrin to discover on the back step, one of her neighbors wearing the door mat.

On May 3, Mrs. Currie opened her home to a tea and bun bake and a very pleasant afternoon was passed by taking part in contests and in reading letters from the boys overseas. Mrs. Chester Geary won the contests and the prize, a most attractive kitchen tea co. The lunch prepared and served by Mrs. W. Currie, Mrs. T. Beach and Mrs. R. Sommers fulfilled our food

Students of the High School are planning to collect waste paper for the war effort. Citizens of the town are requested to contribute their utmost to this effort and to arrange their papers in 35-lb. bundles. The F.H.S. will arrange for a truck to call for these bundles for delivery to the Edmonton Salvage Depot.

A Biology field day was held by grade eleven Thursday afternoon. The students had a very interesting session under the supervision of Mr. Larson, leadership of Mr. Larson.

Classes were dismissed at 11.30 on the afternoon of May 4th to enable the students to attend a meeting in the interests of the Victory Bonds. Mr. Hall, the principal, was the speaker.

The High School was offered the chance to have a graduation banquet and dance this year on a reserve basis but the students decided against it, preferring to keep the money for the purpose of assisting the majority of the students preferred the latter.

Brookville News

V-E Day came to our district in the same manner as it did to every other small district in the world, with surpressed elation and thankfulness, but with anxiety for the concern we still with us.

The majority of the district attended the Victory Service held at the Brookville United Church where two of the school children from Spiro and Anne Spiller each splendid part in the service with pupils of other schools.

Perhaps this distract felt the meaning of the day a little more keenly than others by the fact that we have twenty-six young people (2 girls) in the service.

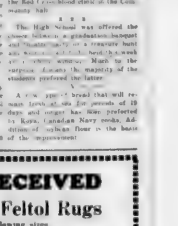
Bob Williston Relates Story of Belgian Underground

BOURNEMOUTH, ENGLAND — A story of intrigue, danger, hardship and ultimate liberation was told here recently by W.O.R.O. Williston of Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., a navigator on the RCAF bomber which flew over Belgium on August 1944. It was the story of the Belgian underground movement as told to a German spy by a Belgian girl.



W/O R. O. WILLISTON

Last Trip of Year

It was [illegible] that [illegible] German fighters screwed attended [illegible] Williston in which he was flying was [illegible] and when the hole-out [illegible] and [illegible] jumped into the night [illegible].

He landed himself on to find that he was in a field [illegible] and he [illegible] all next day [illegible] approached a small [illegible] and [illegible] knocking [illegible] door he couldn't stand the [illegible] of him for another [illegible] He approached a farmer and asked for matches The farmer was wary of the strange figure in flying clothes and after a consultation in French Williston could speak a smattering of French he was provided with matches.

Deciding to wait all, the young Canuck ventured into a Belgium town in daylight. As he walked down one of the principal main streets he met a swain called out in perfect English, "Are you a British flier?" The young man came from a man who sat in the doorway of the pub.

"I went boozed off", said Bob. "I was sore and tired and thought to myself, 'If this is a trap, I'm for it'". I walked over to the street and approached the man at the pub. He took me in to his living room where was looking for the reminder of my crew and assured me that all was well. "You can stay as long as you like", he said. "Merely give me your rank, name and number." I did it, although I smelled a rat."

Joins Underground

W/O Williston was not convinced of the man's sincerity, and when he insisted on calling his nephew, the Canadian felt even more suspicious. He was frank to admit that he thought it was "the end". However, the nephew arrived and arrangements to procure civilian clothes and he, too, merely asked for his name, rank and number. He was also assured that his home station would be notified of his whereabouts by radio and every night. It seemed too good to be true, the girl told him his crew had been spared—was in the hands of the underground, and that he would be taken to him on the following day.

Unable to believe his luck, W/O Williston was given a bicycle and the address of the underground radio station in Louvaine. He started out on the next morning. He "passed" many with civilian clothes, a forged passport and the information necessary to find his journey, in the company of two members of the underground and was taken to the next hide-out which proved to be another pub. And as promised, his wireless operator was there. It was a grand reunion.

Chase Getting Warm

After a few days, they were informed that the chase was getting a bit warm and that one of the members of the organization had been picked up. "Make way and take no chance or go on on their own. Someone came to their rooms and they were directed to the house of an underground member and for three weeks they lived in town, moving on to move, with the Belgian's mother-in-law. She was elderly, had lost a son in the war, and even though she was jeopardizing her life, she kept the two Canadians.

It was while there that they were visited by a woman who purported to be the wife of an Allied Naval Captain who had served in the last war. She claimed to have spent many years in England and seemed suspiciously anxious to prove her identity. She showed pictures of punishment to the boys, all with the official British Government stamp on them and insisted to go out of her way to prove her bona fides. To this day, they do not know whether she was genuine or not.

Through this woman they contacted a man who said he would be in the next stage of their journey home. He appeared to be genuine, and when he gave them interrogation forms to fill in, it seemed "on the up and up." The form contained such questions as: "What is Wakefield Machine?" Who and where is FO Prune?", etc. It seemed as though it was a legal interrogation to establish their identity. The boys filled in the forms.

Next morning, having proven their legitimacy, they were turned over to the Belgian Resistance Movement "Big Captain". He was to arrange transport for them and in ten that they got through to the Allied lines. It looked as though the end of the road was in sight. It was even promised they would be flown to England but still a lingering doubt remained in their minds.

Taken Prisoners

In a few days they were put in a car driven by a man. They memorized identification cards, and personal belongings were removed with the promise that they would be transported separately across the border. The logical answer for the separate transport was that it would be safer to be carrying and identification. It seemed reasonable—but then again it didn't.

The journey was begun and the driver stopped. The girl and Bob disengaged themselves on ice cream. It was a pleasant interlude, and they began again.

As an obviously prearranged spot, the car stopped into a clearing and the vehicle was surrounded by members of the Gestapo. Revolvers and guns and took the car. Bob Williston saw the driver hand over the interpreter-guide his card. They had filled in the form.

With guns at their backs they were driven to the jail in Brussels and deposited with civilian prisoners. It wasn't a nice experience. As they entered the jail, Giles pointed to Belgian woman was coming out. She saw them and began to cry. It was the signal for the last indication of the German brutality to which they were to become inured. A guard struck her across the face and knocked her down.

For sixty-nine days they stayed in the jail. Then one morning they called them Bob "committed an offense". In one of the visits that were distributed to the prisoners he wrote an encouraging word to anyone else who might find it. This is what was written: "Don't worry boys, we'll be home before Christmas. We've got the Hun on the run."

When it was discovered, Bob was put in a cell where he languished for weeks. That was the most difficult period of his internment and, after 69 days, he was sent to Frankfort where he remained for five days. From there he was taken to another prison camp and with his wireless operator, he settled down to the prison routine. While in this camp was where was known as an Escape Committee, composed of men who had escaped and recaptured, and who had been recaptured. Each one had certain information to give to the newcomers who would dare to attempt a breakout. At least a try for freedom was made. Bob was one of the party. They made their attempt in December, 1944.

Escape Frees

Felling the guards, with the help of the escape committee, we over their keys and with their clothing. They proceeded to a farmhouse occupied by French workers and were fitted out with civilian clothes. They walked for 19 hours in Dresden and attempted to find the address of a alleged helping hand, to no avail. They were hungry, cold and generally miserable but found in summer houses that seemed to abound at the rear of the houses in the city of Dresden. For three days they combed the town, never nothing the elusive address. The food they had was practically nil and what they came upon soon gone. French soldiers who were in a working party they decided to take a chance and ask for food. It worked, and they got a cache of bread and then met some Serbians who were also in a working party, but the Serbs

Congratulations to our Jr. room teacher, Miss Mason, who has been advised that she has passed the University courses she has lately undertaken. She is working hard upon two additional courses and she hopes to pass this summer.

The "farmer" agreed but he took them knob toward Dresden. They were escorted to a German soldiers billeted to a door, and as the "farmer" opened it shouted "Heil Hitler!" It was the office of the local constabulary.

Here the boys, it was the end of the road. They returned to their prison camp where they received the penalty of a week on bread and water and a week's confinement in Stralfe Hungaba—a form of punishment in which they were confined with many other men in a small room. They say they were lucky.

Liberated

When the Allies closed in, the camp was marched west and then east and finally they were liberated by the Americans recently.

Today Bob Williston is in Bournemouth waiting to go Home. He will be going home within the next few days and understandably, he claims he will never forget the past two years. He hopes to see in Canada will, either

Welcoming Home Committee Hold Tea

The Welcoming Home Committee of the citizens of Fort Saskatchewan entertained a reception held a tea in the Union Hall on Sunday afternoon in honour of Mrs. R. Wild, wife of Dr. Wild and Mrs. A. E. Lacey, wife of Cpl. A. E. Lacey who have arrived recently from England. Many were present to welcome the brides and to greet of honor a cup and saucer.

Mesdames E. Graham, P. Morel and C. A. Love presided at the tea table with Mesdames C. P. Brabbins, H. Fisher, Y. Holt, R. Magny, T. Smith and L. Schreiner assisting.

Mrs. C. P. Brabbins, president of the committee, in a few well-chosen words expressed the hope that the brides didn't treat them. It was hard going.

When they left Dresden, it was to the accompaniment of the Russian guns which were closing in from the east. They "borrowed" bicycles and headed for the country. It was bitterly cold and they were inadequately clothed but they pushed on, determined to taste the sweet of freedom.

Recaptured

In the country, with nothing to eat but raw potatoes, they approached a farmer and asked for help. "We are French workers", said Bob, and we need food." The farmer was sympathetic and claimed that he had been a prisoner in the last war. He spoke fluent French, having lived for a number of years in France. Wild, Bob's inadequate knowledge of the language, he decided to say his confession. "Bless you my son", the farmer he said, "and we need help. We have coffee and cigarettes and will share them for some food. Take us home to your Frau, get us a meal, and the coffee is yours."

The "farmer" agreed but he took them knob toward Dresden. They were escorted to a German soldiers billeted to a door, and as the "farmer" opened it shouted "Heil Hitler!" It was the office of the local constabulary.

Prisoners' Base, Sandbox and dancing to the accompaniment of the gramophone were other means of entertainment. This eventful evening was concluded by a weiner roast, the climax of which were marshmallows by further dancing.

Wye Repair Parts

On July 1st, all restrictions on the import and manufacture of repair parts for farm machinery and equipment are to be lifted, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced. It is likely that, as war economies are relaxed and raw materials are in better supply, additional quantities will be available for farm machinery manufacturers. At the same time, the new order maintains machine prices at ceiling levels 90 per cent of the 1944-45 rate, although previously a reduction of about 27½ per cent had been expected.

Quotas in the past were split between Eastern and Western Canada but this feature has been eliminated and equitable distribution to be made according to the needs of each province for all districts in addition to new machines, repairs and other parts which are made available to farmers, the Department of Veterans Affairs is being provided with 17,262 tons of farm implements for distribution under the Veterans' Land Act.

Expect Increase Farm Machinery

Re-allocation of materials for an estimated 30 percent increase in the production of farm machinery and parts for the 1942 farm year is announced by H. H. Bloom, administrator of farm and construction machinery and municipal service equipment for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The program to increase tonnage of materials in the industry, announced in both Canada and the United States, will help meet the continued demand of high 1941 production for domestic, UNRRA and lend-lease as well as purchases of farm machinery for the returned veterans, H. Bloom stated.

Rationing of farm machinery will continue throughout the 1942 season, Mr. Bloom said, pointing out that it will take some months for manufacturers to secure enough materials for noticeable increases.

Mr. Bloom, who commenced that farm machinery prices had been at lower period levels in Canada despite increases in [illegible] said the heavy drop in value [illegible] when new machinery becomes available.

All across Canada towns and cities and villages are thinking in terms of post-war flying and landing facilities which will put these on the air map.

Just south of Cobalt, Ont., the other day we noticed, for instance, a fine little airfield. One of the runways, we noticed on our way by, paralleled the main highway not far south of the town. How handy it could be, we reflected, to drop in for a few minutes on our way north to Kirkland Lake, Timmins or Val d'Or, after the war! And then we thought some more.

Its a good landing field. Landing there would be simple enough, but what then? Would we have to have our plane unattended at the mercy of souvenir hunters while we thumbed a ride into town for a bite to eat and spend a couple of hours trying to round up some aviation gasoline?

Obviously, the airport alone is not enough. Without comment to provide a welcome and necessary service, one would easily waste as much time at unattended fields as it would take to drive 60 or 100 miles.

What a beautiful opportunity the Cobalt field presents to some young air force veteran or veterans to build a combination highway service station and airport hangar at one end of the runway beside the highway.

So when a community begins to think of landing facilities, it should also think in terms of a man settled a living on the spot. Not only will such airports duce business from visiting there, but the people of almost any Canadian town or city will drive in dozens to visit their own airport, to hang around watching their own neighbors learning to fly, to buy hot dogs at the airport stand and have their accordion gassed up at the [illegible] concession.

[illegible] ed years ago that literally thousands of people would drive many miles to stand and gape at planes arriving and departing. By this time one would think that people would be sufficiently accustomed to flying and to seeing planes overhead that they would no longer bother. But still the crowds are visiting airports.

Already the committee to Aid Post-War Flying in Canada, which spearhead the scheme, is prepared to offer advice and guidance to young air force veterans interested in starting their own flying school and airport service stations. The Committee does not care what make or type of aircraft a veteran is interested in flying. That is something which a flier is quite competent to decide for himself, but it is prepared to help steer him on the right path, providing him with information and suggestions.

Small flying schools and airport service stations need not be expensive propositions. There are still in operation ready to instal tanks and other necessary equipment. The average pilot and save-engine mechanic in partnership will have little difficulty raising the necessary funds to get started. Even the planes will be available on the same easy terms* by which one buys an automobile.

There's never a dull moment at and around the playground in CJCA's reception room. There are bonfires galore at such times as Kiddies' Hike and studio participation broadcasts. The grief is intensified if the visits coincide with some major broadcast feature which is cause of immense [illegible] calls.

The other day, Peggy Miller, an RCAF, now a switchboard operator and receptionist at CJCA, had a few quiet moments. The time had come for me the results of her "spare moments" efforts.

I'm just a little plague,

I've gotta know my history,
Geography, and verse
I've gotta be a walking

The speaker, or some system
The music or the news.
I must soothe the public ba
The most relentless times,
But still it's fun, tho' so hectic
It leaves you in a daze,
It's still the topic, and that's for sure
In oh so many ways.

So now you know the inside story
Cause you're a listener too
And I betcha that you'd like to be
A crazy plugger, too.

Good intentions, translated into action, are understood in any language.

JOBS! Jobs with bright futures for the young men and women coming out of the Armed Services with the best part of their lives before them! Jobs for all! Jobs with big prospects and good, reliable money that will keep in buying power! After all the hard work, sacrifice and self-discipline which has brought us through the war, the people of this country have earned a brighter future in a better, juster, greater Canada than we have ever known!

LOOK how much Canadians have accomplished, here on the home front, ever since the energy and initiative of all the veterans young people now in uniform, and their zest for daring! What is there Canada can't do with them back on the home team? Why, with their help, we Canadians can handed full speed for the greatest period in our history!

THIS all-important question today is the division sault-work and leadership which we call "government." The Liberals have a working plan. It's big and bold! Parts of it are outlined for your judgment in the left-hand columns. It has been designed with the aid of the keenest minds in every phase of industry, agriculture, labour and learning. The plan will work. In fact it is already bringing results. It will continue so do so! The Liberals can tell you this with confidence because they have had successful experience in squeezing nation-wide plans.

Lift Bars Orders Household Goods

Ascending renovation of 32 Prices Board orders restricting manufacture of various items, Hon. J. L. Ilsley warned that immediate increases on the civilian market cannot be expected since supplies depend upon converting shifted labor and raw materials without jeopardizing war requirements.

Price ceilings will be retained. In general, articles, will reappear at 1941 prices and manufacturers producing the new types of goods must obtain price approval.

Removal of the controls will facilitate the conversion of industry from war to civilian production and outlines the gradual conversion policy initiated last fall when, in a three-month period, more than 80 orders were removed.

In the civilian clothing sphere, restrictions extend to air force and naval officers' shirts which civilians now will be able to buy, orders of industrial sewing thread, and use of elastic in men's women's and children's clothing and medical garments although allocation controls remain.

In addition to domestic linens now existing gasolines, vacuum cleaners, sewing machines and bicycles, manufacturing relaxation will affect office radios and similar equipment, commercial refrigerating and air conditioning equipment, commercial laundry and dry cleaning equipment, glass containers, cartons and wrappers, nylon of hockey sticks, use of metal in trunks and other types of luggage, use of palladium and rhodium in jewellery and specifications for greeting cards.

'small business' ISN'T SO SMALL!

Suddenly on Canadian in every six gainfully employed, owns his livelihood in a "small business." It may be a farm, a store or a lumber-yard, an architect's office or a service station. Taken together, these individual enterprises provide a very substantial part of Canada's total jobs—must continue to do so after the war.

During the years ahead many people who dropped small business for war reasons will want to return to their accustomed or new ways of making a living. Then old businesses will be revived. Many new ones will be started by returned men and people new in war industries. The commercial banks will do their part to afford assurance that no sound credit requirement need be left unserved in the field of small business.

As such businesses grow, they create additional job openings; that has been the pattern of Canadian enterprise. Most large companies began in a small way. And practically all could name some bank which played a part in their growth by providing the loans they needed to finance their day-to-day operations.

Your bank stands ready to serve businesses, small or large, well established or just starting out. Banks do not interfere with businesses—but they do furnish encouraging capital and many other forms of banking service.

It's fewer than 90 out of every hundred established men in the continental Dominion who celebrate their 21st birthday after 1975, of all the active men and women in these nations of Europe.

Faster Aircraft

Mr. Lewis-Boyd, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Aircraft Production, stated that Britain is on the verge of designing aircraft travelling at over 700 m.p.h. faster than the speed of sound.

Mr Lewis-Boyd disclosed that a gigantic 100,000 h.p. wind tunnel 30 times more powerful than any existing tunnel is to be built at the new English air research station in Bedfordshire. Plans will also be several tunnels of 60,000 h.p. This station, which will be the largest in the world will be equipped with all the latest research plant needed for revolutionary development in post-war aviation.

The electrical plant needed to operate the new station will be so large as that serving the industrial city of Manchester which has close on one million inhabitants.

To the Electors of the Vegreville Constituency, Resident in Clover Bar Municipal District

Please accept my thanks for your kind support in the election of 1940. I did not appear to be your candidate at this time but our local plans did not materialize and it seemed to be necessary that I take it on. We only lost by around 470 votes last time and about 9,000 people did not vote.

There are three main reasons why I consented to be your Candidate:-

FIRST—In my opinion, it is very important for Canada to have the present Government returned. Whoever is the Prime Minister of Canada, after the election, must provide the leadership for Canadians.

Furthermore, it is necessary to have a strong Government and experienced leadership in working out the new policies, which are being planned for Canada. Those in close touch with this work believe that it will be possible to avoid a post-war depression. The present Government has made extensive plans to this end; and it is in our interest that they should have a chance to work them out.

SECOND—It is high time that this constituency elects a representative who is a supporter of the Government. For over 20 years this constituency has been represented by a member of one of the minor groups, always in opposition. This type of representation is not good enough.

THIRD—This is a personal reason. While I did not want to be your candidate this time, I could not refuse the requests of my friends. I have lived in this constituency most of my active life and if there is anything I can do for this Constituency, I want to do it in this important period in the life of Canada, everyone has to do their part. Decisions made by the next Parliament will determine the "shape of things to come", and will make for prosperity or disaster.

It will not be possible for me to see many of you personally. A public meeting will be held in Fort Saskatchewan on the evening of June 5th.

The Honorable Mr. Hoolihans and I will be present.

In the next issue of the Record, I will tell you some of the things for which I stand. I will appreciate your support on June 11th.

Yours sincerely,

A. E. ARCHER.

What Would You Do?

by

H. S. Bradshaw

I went early to the Mourners' Club last Thursday and set there, reading editorials, the kind I do not like to read, a waste for days then, a speak. By the time I had finished ... soup the boys had arrived.

You may have heard of the Mourners' Club before. It was born in May 1940. We, I mean three or four friends, had met at a little hotel on a side street to discuss something no one now remembers what it was. That was a cruel day. Holland had been crushed by the German war machine, Belgium was almost gone. The shadow of Dunkirk was upon us. Only the slightest threads of light relieved the gloom of the mental pictures. When we started to go someone suggestion of optimism was an admission of defeat. I want a sensible cup of coffee.

Then the boys began to talk. The average Mourner has an opinion. He will, in fact, volunteer his opinion between mouthfuls of food, if he can find a better one. "Demand the enemy within ten days. If he isn't turned on select a time or a set of it, give the people notice, level it. The Reich must be raised to the ground." Nazi has a high regard for property, mighty little for human life. He has his bombed cities now, given time or force of arms he wants to substitute private murder for legal war.

Then came suggestion number three. It was very simple "Catch the Germans, shoot them on sight, bury him in an unmarked grave." Isn't that the better way? In Britain, few murderers escape. Punishment is almost inevitable. It is the inevitability of punishment which restrains crime, not the violence of the punishment. Isn't that the wisest way—the only road we can follow?

These plans may meet the test of action. Methods of the controlling powers will vary. Russia, the United States, Britain and France, each will use its own method. It will be interesting to see what happens. The victory is overwhelming. Never before in modern history has a great nation, one of the greatest in the world, been seized and put into a strait-jacket by organized force. That fact must be overwhelming, Germany may be quiet meek and obedient for a term of years, but in life may be the dominating note. What we must do is show them a different way of life, prove that we are strong enough to be just and that nothing in the world can make us afraid. The man rests, but with all the Mourners had to say there may be another way. Think it over. What is your opinion?

A Change to Peace

Any bushman will tell you that if to be two schools of thought abroad a man doesn't know where he is then today. The one that believes and it's a sure thing that he doesn't know hopes and prays for a new and better where he is going. A banker was world and they want this, feel it is impossible once heard to put it that way. "I don't to build Many who fall into this batcare where a man's bank balance is, ter group do so through lack of a it's where he's heading that is important."

It is important today that people know where they're heading. That's true of our political and social measures, but this also necessary for the ordinary voter. Much of the planning of our citizens is done unconsciously in the living of the ordinary person.

Where are we heading? There seem only one thing I can say", he answered "to accept the method which the Germans have used to great purpose—push up leading Nazis and shoot them after a fair trial and move to the next. That is the way I see it."

I don't like it I said "There give us something better", he answered I don't know the answer so I made my confession "I was lying awake this morning somewhere around 5 o'clock and I put myself in the position I have now put you and my answer was the same as yours regretted, meet murder with murder if you like to call it so, then I got up and had my breakfast and I felt better Hot cereal, boiled oatmeal, cleared the mind, and helped me to think that a generous of fairplay was an admission of defeat. I want a constructive solution."

Then the boys began to talk. The average Mourner has an opinion. He will, in fact, volunteer his opinion between mouthfuls of food, if he can find a better one "Demand the enemy within ten days. If he isn't turned on select a time or a set of it, give the people notice, level it. The Reich must be raised to the ground." Nazi has a high regard for property, mighty little for human life. He has his bombed cities now, given time or force of arms he wants to substitute private murder for legal war.

Then came suggestion number three. It was very simple "Catch the Germans, shoot them on sight, bury him in an unmarked grave." Isn't that the better way" In Britain, few murderers escape. Punishment is almost inevitable. It is the inevitability of punishment which restrains crime, not the violence of the punishment. Isn't that the wisest way—the only road we can follow?

These plans may meet the test of action. Methods of the controlling powers will vary. Russia, the United States, Britain and France, each will use its own method. It will be interesting to see what happens. The victory is overwhelming. Never before in modern history has a great nation, one of the greatest in the world, been seized and put into a strait-jacket by organized force. That fact must be overwhelming, Germany may be quiet meek and obedient for a term of years, but in life may be the dominating note. What we must do is show them a different way of life, prove that we are strong enough to be just and that nothing in the world can make us afraid. The man rests, but with all the Mourners had to say there may be another way. Think it over. What is your opinion?

John Bracken—The Farmer

On the 11th of December, 1942, John Bracken stood in the Auditorium in Winnipeg before a great concourse of people. John Bracken — the Farmer — was accepting the leadership of a great resurgent people's party. In ringing tones he was speaking of "The People's Charter". And the soul-searching sincerity of this man of the soil, with his vision of Canada, of Canadians and the "world of plenty that lies within our grasp" was deeply moving.

Picture the background of this man — this moment. John Bracken, the farm boy, on his father's farm in Ontario, milking, haying, carrying in the wood, plowing ... then young Bracken, honours student at the Ontario Agricultural College going to Manitoba as representative of the Department of Agriculture ... on to Saskatchewan as Superintendent of Fairs and Farmers' Institutes and Secretary of the Provincial Livestock Association . . . then, later, John Bracken, author, writing books about farms, farming, farmers . . .

And now years later, in Winnipeg, John Bracken, the farmer, is speaking of "the right of farmers and other primary producers to a fair share of the nation's income." Notice the simplicity of the language he uses, clear, concise — sincere.

"During the last decade," he is saying, "farm income fell to such a low average as to become of very grave concern in our Canadian economy. It is the responsibility of the nation to see that this great tragedy shall not be repeated."

Then, suddenly his voice rises, becomes even clearer, more incisive. "I may say quite frankly that if it had not been for that plank in your platform which provides for a square deal for agriculture, I would not be here."

Two years later, in Alliston, Ontario, — again the same simplicity, the moving sincerity.

"I am an agrarian," said John Bracken, "and I am a Canadian . . . who seeks to correct the major social injustice of our day — the unfairly small share of the national income that goes to farmers and farm women and farm workers." Then, with a statesman's grasp of vision, he added, "When the injustice in the farmer is removed, the economy of Canada as a whole will be strengthened."

We can could be less parochial in his outlook — more deeply concerned with national welfare than John Bracken, the farmer who embarked twenty years ago on a career so successful as to be without precedent in contemporary political history within the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Waterdrome

A new British invention, the "Waterdrome" will make ... from flying-boats ... comfortable for passengers as stepping out of a train.

The waterdrome is equivalent to an airport building and hangar in one. It will eliminate the present need for ... ferrying across choppy water and transferring passengers to and from a motor-launch.

The waterdrome would be built at the edge of a constant-level lagoon or a stretch of sea sheltered by a breakwater.

By means of a special device the flying-boat, after it lands, is drawn into the hangar and trolleys are run through the shallow water to the hull to take off passengers.

A travelling crane in the roof of the hangar lifts mail and freight direct from the flying-boat's hull and transfers it to vehicles waiting near by.

It is planned to equip the waterdrome with booksstalls, sh.ps, and restaurants.

Fresh Bread For The Navy

A new type of bread that will keep fresh for three weeks has just been discovered. The product was to keep the bread from developing a bread mould after four days or so at sea. The solution was found when 5 per cent soybean flour was added to the usual mixture, with a small decrease in the amount of shortening. Now the navy bakers are working on minor mixtures so that sailors can have fresh cake at sea.

TIMELY FARM NOTES

POINTS CONNECTED WITH WHEAT SUPPLY

In discussing the world wheat situation, the Monthly Review of the Wheat Situation says: "It is becoming more and more apparent that an adequate supply of wheat in North America which are available for export next year, attention must be paid both to the position of these wheat stocks and the availability of rail, lake and ocean transportation facilities. An additional factor limiting flour exports is, of course, the capacity of the domestic flour mills. Flour mills in both Canada and the United States are booked to capacity for months ahead. Adequate supplies of wheat exist in Canada, the United States, and Argentina to meet the needs of importing countries. Famine, however, prevails in some countries with the transportation and processing of wheat to meet these needs.

PROPER WAY TO CUT POTATOES FOR SEED

What is the best way to cut potatoes when it comes time to plant them? They should not be cut into many pieces, nor planted in too large chunks.

The proper way to cut potatoes for seed is to divide them into blocks each containing from an ounce and a half to two ounces each and with each piece containing two eyes. The tuber used end, which contains the most eyes, should be split.

The number of seed pieces which should be cut from any potato depends on its variety and on its size. For example, a six to eight ounce Irish Cobbler should make four seed pieces. A five ounce tuber can be cut into three pieces—two from the seed end and the other, the stem end of the tuber.

FEEDING TEST WITH PROTEINS FOR PIGS

An interesting experiment has been carried out by the Animal Husbandry Division, Dominion Experimental Farms Service, concerning the use of protein supplements of animal and vegetable origin in the feeding of growing and finishing pigs. Groups of pigs were fed rations equal in protein level but varying in the proportion of animal and vegetable protein supplement, two-thirds of the protein-mineral supplement was of animal origin (tankage and fishmeal) in the other group, animal protein made up one-half, one-third, and one-fifth of the supplement.

In each case, linseed oil meal was the vegetable protein making up the remainder of the protein in the supplement.

The result of this test indicated practically no differences between lots in either rate of gain, feed required per unit live weight gain, or hand cost required per unit carcass gain. A study of the carcasses revealed that there were no significant differences between lots in carcasse quality. Thus, the results of this experiment indicate that the animal supplement for hog fee ing can be reduced to one fifth of the supplement and the remainder made up from a vegetable source such as linseed oil meal with no further lowering the feeding value of the supplement or influencing the quality of the carcasses produced.

Newest New Process

A new process by which millions of precision nuts, much no larger than a pin's head, which are being produced for Allied war equipment, has been invented at Cinderbrook, North Hingham.

Two ... ... new parts were started ... 1940 when developments in British armament making demanded ... high standards of accuracy even in nuts so small that 2,500 can go into one pound.

The process involved the production of a number of new tools—dies, ... tire drilling, counter-sinking and tapping machines, and gauges.

The outstanding feature of the process is that when the nuts are formed they are not punched at once from the metal strip. This means that gauging, tapping and above all, the final inspection, can be carried out on strips holding thousands of nuts.

Modern Hay Making Methods

[illegible] quality hay cannot be produced [illegible] the hay is cut at the proper stage of maturity. Wheat grasses and legumes are cut at the proper stage of maturity they can be cured with a higher percentage of green colour and food value. Growers should be cut for hay either just before or when they are in bloom. Sweet clover and alfalfa should be cut when about ten per cent in bloom; and the grasses, timothy and brome—should be cut when fifty per cent in bloom, says G. E. Delahey, [illegible] Commercial Division, Dominion Experiment Stations, Lacombe, Alberta.

Leaving hay too long in the swath results in excessive drying and bleaching and a loss of the nutrients [illegible] considerable [illegible] a fresh bed or hay will [illegible] of it is apt to wilted in the swath and raked and cured in the swath or a bit before damage from bleaching or rain begins.

Rain damage is a problem in hay making. The ideal is to make hay in little rainfall. Possibly the best way to reduce rain damage is to shorten the time hay must be in the swath and in cock as possible. Mower having speed and equipment make this possible.

One of the greatest savings which the hay can make is made by seeing that which is possible when hay is [illegible] enough to cut with a binder. A proper binder will cut and tie as much as about three horse-drawn mowers.

A small rubber-tired tractor, equipped with a power take-off cutter bar and pulling a tandem mower, will cut a 12 to 14 foot swath, and, travelling at a fast speed, will cut as much hay as three horse drawn mowers.

Most of the commercial and home made sweeps developed for rakes, trucks and tractors, are larger and will handle more hay in a shorter time than the horse-drawn sweep in general use. The tractor is usually equipped and similar of the "Aspinwall" type appears to be meeting with general approval. The various types of "reversible" and "side" [illegible] machines are all good, and their use makes it possible to cure large, well-built stacks which will reduce damage from weathering in the stack to a minimum.

The advantages of storing hay as near to the feeding floor as possible by most farmers. The cost of running the hay through a cutting box and blowing it into a barn is appreciably the same as the cost involved in stacking it outside and [illegible] silage. Further advantage of out food are that the same space will be used for a greater quantity of cut food as loose hay, that there is little or no waste when cut food is fed, that cut food can be moved and will keep in good [illegible] for several years. Last cost field storage for cut food can be provided by building a silo type structure of long poles and tarpaper wire, if necessary, in good crops and such a field storage [illegible] the necessary machinery [illegible] and cutting [illegible] makes it [illegible] for four men to mill this [illegible] thirty feet of [illegible] day.

FARM ACCIDENTS

There are far more accidents on farms than in industrial work. The chances of an accidental death are about twice as great in agriculture as in manufacturing or the trade and service industries. About 50 per cent of farm accidents are the result of careless operation of tractors. Falls are another common cause of farm accidents. Other hazards are the use of motor fuels, explosives and other combustible materials. B. F. Stephenson, agricultural engineer for the Alberta department of agriculture, says that an over-worked farmer does not have time to think and if he does not think, accidents are bound to happen. The farmer who gets things done is the man who plans ahead first.

Consumption of fresh fruits and vegetables increased sharply in Canada during the war years. Canadians consumed a total of 189 pounds of tomatoes and citrus fruit's per capita in 1943 compared with 93 pounds in 1939.

Real Social Security or Rationed Scarcity?

To the political and economic reactionary, Social Security is something to be used as a bribe to win votes — a tap to waste money. Social marketability of that kind are annually offered to-day as political substitutes for sound, economic planning for the post-war reconstruction of Canada.

To the State Socialist, on the other hand, Social Security is a bullish theory leading to prove that poverty would be unknown were nationalism if only it were much more general.

And now, listen for a moment to John Bracken, the forthright leader of the Progressive Conservative Party:— "The State here in Canada, unlike that in Germany, is the servant of the people, not its master. Finance, and economic mechanisms associated with it, must likewise be regarded as the servants, not the masters, of our economy. The underwriting of prosperity AND social security is a proper function of the State."

Notice how closely prosperity and social security are linked together.

We are determined that Social Security shall no longer be regarded as a charity but as what it is—a social obligation and national responsibility of the very first magnitude and importance. Social Security must grow with prosperity—because the degree to which social services may be provided is determined by the size of the national income. We are pledged to maintain that income at a high prosperous level. It is against the background of plenty for all, that the Progressive Conservatives see Social Security.

The Progressive Conservative Party is pledged to provide, without delay, a uniform and comprehensive social security programme for all Canadians, including:

- √Extended unemployment insurance coverage.
- √Adequate payments for the maintenance of unemployables.
- √Assistant and sickness benefits.
- √Children's allowances.
- √Maternity benefits.
- √Widows' benefits.
- √Retirement pensions.
- √Increased old age pensions at age 65.
- √Increased pensions for the blind.

Where any of these social services are administered provincially, we shall provide grants large enough to ensure adequate standards of social security for all Canadians.

Compare this positive and complete programme with the make-shift expedients of other parties. No other party can equal or even approach John Bracken's guarantee of security for all Canadians.

It's rational security—NOT rationed security.

M.D. of Strathcona Discuss Plans for Rural Electrification

The council of the Municipal District of Strathcona, No. 20, held its regular monthly meeting on the 14th instant with all members in attendance.

After the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting and the financial statement for the month of April, the council dealt with the District Engineer's Estimate, Dept. of Public Works, the matter of spending the Government's road grant of $7,500.00. This sum was included in the estimates and apportioned equally among the five divisions. After setting aside $3,000.00 for general appropriation, each division was voted $600.00 for fuel and labor costs. Any plans to grow or under expenditure brought forward from last year. The Engineer advised, in reply to a query, that material and labor for the bridge at Josephburg should improve now that the war in Europe had terminated.

The construction of a net work of electric power lines throughout the District so that residents may be served with the convenience of electricity received considerable discussion. The Committee appointed to deal with this matter arranged that they be empowered to communicate with the Hon. the Minister of Municipal Affairs, the Chairman of the City of Edmonton Power Commission regarding the City extending its power lines so as to supply power in both the Districts and they in turn distributing it to the residents either through a municipal scheme or through co-operative organization. A report of the meeting held in the East Edmonton Community Hall, were 150 people were present, was submitted. When this meeting was advertised it was not the intention to hold it as a district meeting, but rather for those living in the immediate residents as far away as Fortridge Hill put in an appearance which was conclusive evidence that people are no longer satisfied with the old oil lamp. It was intimated that another meeting with the Council would be held at an early date to ascertain the number of residents who would be in both. Councillor Keith was asked to be Power Committee, which now comprises Reeve Haythorne, Mr Keith and the Secretary

Mr. R. Hennig, Chairman of the Canora Recreational Committee, was in attendance to discuss several matters with the Council relative to school administration, one of which was the renting of municipal equipment to local school playgrounds. It was agreed that the equipment should be rented to the Board at the established and advertised hourly rate.

At three o'clock the Council adjourned to sit as a Court of Revision to hear appeals that had been made against alleged [illegible] and new assessments. Two of the three appeals were dis-allowed and the assessor's [illegible] to the other appeal was held over until the next meeting so that the Assessor could again inspect the land and report back to the Court at the next meeting. The Court then adjourned and the business of the meeting was again proceeded with.

ASSISTANCE FOR WAR

With a view to helping young men and women now at the armed forces to make good the loss of opportunities of training and experience in business life due to the war service, the Minister of Labor has set up a committee of businessmen, trade union leaders and government representatives to advise them on the subject.

Berries, Cheese And Potato Prices

Ceiling prices of strawberries and raspberries will be the same as in 1944, except for minor adjustments designed to improve distribution across Canada throughout the picking season, states the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Also, ceiling prices on new potatoes from producer through all distribution levels will remain unchanged. Owing to the supply situation in respect to old potatoes being not to November 30 in 1944, it is expected that some new potatoes will have to be brought in from the United States to certain areas where old potatoes are not available for domestic requirements. To confine importations to these areas, specific import permits will be necessary.

In regard to cheese, no change in basic prices is made in the new order, but a limit is placed on the amount which may be charged to cover storage, interest, and shrinkage. Retailers the old prices.

Change Prices Men's Clothing

Prices of men's and boy's shirts, pyjamas and flat cut underwear have been readjusted following a detailed survey of manufacturers' ceiling prices extended over several months, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced.

Effective the Friday, a Board order removes manufacturers' maximum prices for these garments sold prior to that date.

There will be an appreciable reduction to consumers on many lines of both negligee and utility (sports) shirts, but stocks on hand will sell at ceiling prices.

Security with Freedom!

Your Vote on June 11th can bring lasting security to YOU work, YOUR home, YOUR family!

Security for your WORK

There are many of the details, practical steps which the Liberal Government is going to take not only to bring and family by ensuring work—good-year jobs for everyone.

Old Veterans — The most generous plan of any United Nations to get rewarded once started to the type of work each of them chooses. The Liberal Government is determined that every man and woman coming home to Canada shall have the best opportunity in the world.

Ex-Workers — Always a chief of all Canadians depend on success for their livelihood. Liberal plans provide for increasing our exports 50% in value over those of 1939.

Ex-Farmers — Acting on the belief that all Canadians prosper when farmers do, the Liberal Government has arranged that they can improve their farms and equipment under a new farm plan and has arranged to pay a floor under the prices of farm and fishery products.

To stimulate employment for all, the Liberal Government has created a special Department of Reconstruction which is now in operation and which will co-ordinate private and public enterprise.

Security for your HOME

The Liberals believe that the home is the heart of the nation. They aim to give Canadians every possible facility to build and furnish homes. Normal War Government assistance you can build a home in the country, town or city. This will make jobs for the building trades, and those who make building supplies—and those who make household supplies—and those who

Housing for Canadians — The Liberal Government's new $400,000,000 National Housing Act, now on the statute books, enables hundreds of thousands of Canadians to get money at low interest and on long, generous terms to build, renovate or enlarge their own homes. Now that financing is assured, plans are already in many for at least 50,000 dwellings.

Other promised, workable measures for the security of your home are the Liberal Government's laws for Unemployment Insurance and Liberal Old Age Pensions.

The Liberals believe in doing what can be done, as soon as it can be done. If returned to power on June 11th, they will carry on and expand the sound, constructive work already started.

Security for your FAMILY

Family Allowances — Starting in July, parents who benefit least from income tax exemptions will receive Family Allowance cheques every month to help them get better food, clothing, shelter and education for their children as they grow from babies, through vigorous Canadian citizens. These cheques will amount to between $300,000,000 and $700,000,000 a year. As these spending powers, they will do much to help in sustaining the citizens' objective in full employment.

Health — A National Health Plan will ensure that everybody shall be taken care of while they are sick and the best insurance medical science can devise shall be employed to prevent illness.

Despite the efforts of Drew, Bracken, Hanson and other reactionaries, the Liberals are determined that human interests, the needs of ordinary people, shall be placed before "business as usual".

The Liberals have faith in Canada, a united country, and in their ability to continue to work with your support for the fullest security and greater opportunities for Canadians.

Help build this new order of security with freedom. Protect the social gains already made. Vote for your Liberal candidate on June 11th.

Nothing Unworthy

V-E Day is indeed a The range of thanksgiving and the voices of our leaders still ring in our ears. What a picture for the future in the story long words of His Majesty, the King "Let us take up our work again, resolved as a people to do nothing unworthy of those who died for us and to make the world such a place as either would have desired for their children and for ours."

"In nothing unworthy." As the elections draw near, we must find the courage of responding wisely to such challenging words. This election, especially gives us all a chance to express ourselves in the strongest terms possible whether they range from the campaign stronger and more lasting better like to succeed in our next election.

This is no time for high thinking and low living. If ever a new element was needed in Canadian politics, it is now That sort element will come not by chance but by the choice—whether the president of the candidates and the demands of the voters are based on the best interests of the nation rather than on selfish, local and personal considerations. What we ourselves demand in our homes and at work

THE POLITICAL PARTIES AND THE TARIFF

It seems rather sad to me, as I look over the published platforms of our various political parties, to notice that while they stress the vital importance to Canada of expanding our exports, none of them have so far advocated the only manner in which this can be brought about, which is by the slowly lowering, better still by the complete elimination, of Canadian tariffs which hinder, retard and strangle the importation of foreign goods and commodities into Canada, and so automatically hinder, retard and strangle the exportation of our agricultural and other products The redistribution of wealth produced by some, the granting of credits and subsidies and guaranteed prices, the setting up of Export and Import Boards, as does the concluding of trade agreements with other countries, entirely fail to touch the root of the matter.

The percentage of the working people of Canada who are employed in industries which could not continue to function unless they have high tariff protection, is but a small part of all the workers of Canada. To maintain this small group of people in industries for which Canada is not suitable, imposes a most serious and costly burden on the rest of the people, besides, of course, sharply restricting exports of all producers goods and commodities which Canada produces in excess of her own requirements.

Nine problems of tomorrow are the realization of today—that we haven't put right.

Women's Body Taken from River

The body of an unknown woman was taken from the river on the island near Fort Saskatchewan Thursday morning, May 31st.

Donald Turner and Sid Whitford who were sitting on the bank near the island saw a body floating down the river. Walking into the water they reached the body and drew it on shore. They immediately notified constable Len Thomas who with Dr. Berry went down to investigate. The body was later taken to Edmonton by the R.C.M.P.

We hope to have further news soon.

OTTAWA

GOVERNMENT BOARDS AND BODIES

Three Boards—government bodies responsible to Parliament—have had a profound influence on the war effort, they are the Foreign Exchange and Trade Board and the Wartime Information Board—were created simply to meet the needs of war. The third—the National Film Board is a permanent government body, like the Canadian National Railways and the Trans-Canada Airlines, the National Gallery and the National Research Council, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the R.C.M.P.

WPTB is a name familiar to nearly every man, woman and child in Canada, and to millions outside Canada. It is the Board which set out to fight inflation through controls on production, distribution and consumption. The Wartime Information Board set out to give Canadians and other Allies the true story of Canada's participation in the war effort. The National Film Board has shown Canadians and people in many other countries, through the medium of moving pictures, film strips and slides, how Canada works and lives, and how they have mobilized for war.

JIMMY DECIDES AN INVITATION

Every man in a while the Governor hears about propaganda shells over Allied lines. On my desk today is a leaflet sent by a Canadian soldier who found it pasted in one of these shells. It says it is an article from the Boston Globe, and concludes (if an invitation to Allied soldiers to surrender. Dublin must German propaganda, it makes a little effort to be funny.

"We do give you three square meals a day.

We do not serve a la carte.

We do give you a good bed, a place to wash and to keep clean.

We do not have any rooms with bath.

We do let you work and we pay you for it.

We do not send you to work in a Penitent.

We do give you a lot of reading material, good books, etc.

We do not have time to give you a lot of "dope."

It winds up: "So there you are, you've got the common sense, we've got the rest. Look us up when you're sorry."

Our hope showed they had the common sense all right. They sent the leaflets home for a laugh.

FEWER ACRES OF WHEAT

It looks as if Canadian farmers will seed 500,000 fewer acres of wheat this year than they did last, according to information received by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from crop correspondents on April 20. The decrease in wheat acreage will be taken up by an increase in the acreages to be seeded to oats, barley and flaxseed.

SERVICEMEN'S POSTS

We have all heard a lot about the point system, whereby the soldier overseas with the highest points gets first priority for leave, etc., but we haven't heard much detail about it. Here is how it is understood: A soldier is given two points for every month of service overseas, five points for every month of service with dependent children and ten points for every month of service in the front lines.

The point system is also going to be used to select the troops for Pacific service from those who have volunteered to fight Japan. Men with low point scores will also be used as occupation troops in Germany.

STEEL PRODUCTION UP

The total production of steel ingots and steel castings for the first three months of the present year was 784,000 net tons as compared with 747,800 in 1944, an increase of more than 6 per cent. But the power and part of this will be used in war production for the Pacific against Japan, but the surplus will be available for the manufacture of machines and consumer goods such as motor cars, domestic appliances and bicycles.

SOLDIERS' DEMANDS FOR UNIVERSITY COURSES AT UNIVERSITY

Col. F. H. Sutcliffe has been appointed Director of Rehabilitation Overseas for returned soldiers. Hundreds of soldiers have already indicated an intention to study at the University, and the University may be forced into a quarter or three-term system to take care of them. By a three-term system, students could enter and both work in September, June 1, or May. Accommodation and staff are already taxed to the limit and the University fears great difficulties confronting soldiers in the vicinity of the University.

The King Manpower Policy—
"The Greatest Hoax ever perpetrated on a Nation."

"It is a national disgrace and a blight upon the good name of Canadian citizenship. To give political considerations priority over the nation's interest is intolerable and unforgivable."

John Bracken

Dominion-wide disunity is today the gravest danger facing Canada. The political abasement of the King Government's Manpower Policy reaped in wartime the seeds it sowed in peacetime.

"King or Chaos" of the 1940 election campaign has been King AND Chaos ever since. National unity, to which the King Government has paid only lip-service, was sold for political advantage in time of gravest national emergency.

THE PRICE CANADA HAS PAID for the unequal burdens of the King Manpower Policy is beyond measure. Army statistics tell the story. Tragically, the casualty lists bear mute witness to it.

THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE PARTY HAS CONSISTENTLY CONDEMNED THE INJUSTICE OF A PURELY POLITICAL MANPOWER POLICY. We do not hesitate therefore to describe the "King Manpower Policy, and all the furtive political manipulations which characterized the administration of that policy, as a gross miscarriage of social, political and economic justice. As our forthright, progressive leader has said, it was — and is — "the greatest hoax ever perpetrated on a nation."

NATIONAL UNITY AND WELFARE MUST COME BEFORE NARROW POLITICAL ADVANTAGE. Divide-and-rule policies have no place in framing the basis for peace-time government. Only a party that will recognize equality of opportunity for all in time of peace as well as equality of service and sacrifice in time of war can solve the problem of national unity with the confidence of all Canadians.

Sky Meats Presents Dietetics Problems

How would you feel as a hostess if your spouse called unexpected and has dined? Or if your whipped cream suddenly expanded to several times its original volume?

Suppose the bubbling water poured over the tea leaves turned out to be heated not to 212 degrees Fahrenheit, but only 195? What if all your guests simultaneously developed indigestion?

These are only a few of the accidents that might happen in the cabins of speeding airliners if airways engineers were not armed with a knowledge of the effects on food of rapid changes in altitude, air pressure and humidity.

In a commissary alone by Dorval Airport meals are prepared to be served during flight on five different airlines. A staff of about a dozen experienced girls work there under the direction of Jessie McDonald, a Valleyfield-born college graduate, who helped put up one of the company's first passenger meals five years ago.

Thanks to Miss McDonald's passion for research and perfection, today's air travellers cannot expect to see cans collapsing, meats disintegrating and other disrupting phenomena at high altitudes. She now knows just what can and cannot be served aloft, just what foods will and will not stand up to flying conditions.

Plane meals are appetizing and satisfying without beholding an array of expert or spicy things that might tempt passengers to overindulge and risk the onset of indigestion while other results from a combination of a full stomach and high altitude. Always cooked are appetizing meats, whipped cream and other items which are known to behave capriciously when subjected to sudden changes in air pressure.

ALFRED BENJAMIN HAARSTAD

Alf Haarstad was born in Ransom County, North Dakota in 1888 and when 3 years of age moved with his parents to the Bentley community where his father took up a homestead The Bentley district at that time was not the thriving, modern community it now is. In fact, it was not until 1906 that school facilities were available for the Haarstad children in the form of the Stephenson School District was organized and the young Haarstads attended the Stephenson school where they acquired all their schooling Details of school hours going Alf Haarstad helped to clear and break his father's homestead by the slow and tedious oxen method However, rich virgin soil and hard work had its rewards and by the time Alf was 18 years of age he had earned enough money to buy his first threshing outfit. This he operated with satisfaction to the community and profit for himself, with the result that when he was 21 years old he was able to buy his own farm which he still operates in conjunction with the family farm which he later purchased, making his farm of 1040 acres, one that Mrs. Haarstad and their daughter are proud to call "Home".

The year that Alf Haarstad became 21 years of age was the happiest year of his life for, besides becoming entitled to a vote and purchasing his own farm, he qualified for and obtained Steam Engineer's papers and was elected secretary of the Strathcona School Board, and its Secretary

Haarstad's financial acumen is further seen in his ability to see opportunities as well as his ability to overcome difficulties He was one of the first in the district to see the advantage of feeding the grain he produced instead of selling it at the elevators, and for the past 30 years he has continuously fed all the grain raised on his farm and in many years has bought more grain than he raised in order to carry on his feeding operations.

Although always busy with his own farm and livestock operations Haarstad has found time to contribute to the welfare of his community in many ways. From 1926 until 1930 he was amalgamated in the large Municipal District of Lacombe, Haarstad was a councillor of M.D. of Lacombe. At the first election of councillors in the large Municipality Haarstad headed the poll and since its organization Haarstad has been Reeve of the large Municipality.

In 1921 Haarstad was elected delegate to the Alberta Wheat Pool for his district. This office he held continuously until he retired in 1944 to accept the nomination for John Bracken's party in the Federal House.

Alf Haarstad, although not the first to see the injustice of the rule imposed in long prices between country points and city markets, he was the first in his district to take action to cure the injustice. His action in this case was indicative of his manner in dealing with most troubles that he met in life. He made personal investigation, got the facts and then solved the trouble by suggesting the remedy. When he thought that a $2.00 spread in the price of hogs between Bentley and Calgary was too great he shipped his hogs direct to Calgary keeping a record of the cost and the returns obtained and arrived at the conclusion that the farmers of his community could increase their hog profits by shipping direct. After obtaining his neighbors on this point he was able, with the assistance of other district members, to organize the Stettler Valley Hog Pool. To-day that is one of the right best he acted as its first buyer until a successor was trained He has since then remained actively connected with this Organization either as a member of its Directorate or as representative on the Alberta Livestock Producers Association, and was recently is one of Alberta's two representatives on the Dominion Executive.

His experience in grain feeding livestock showed him the necessity for some kind of feeder organization to assemble other farmers' grain. This had been done in that line. In conjunction with Mr. Geo. Hansen and the late Charles Abbott, he organized the Alberta Feeders Association. This organization, now Province wide, promoted the scheme by which small livestock feeders were able to finance their operations when bank credit was not available for that purpose. The scheme proved so successful and so beneficial to the feeders that other financial institutions have since been started to finance feeders with the result that a livestock feeder can now obtain any needed financing his operations

In 1936 when the Alberta Government Telephone System broke down to such an extent that it was unable to give service to its rural customers Mr. Haarstad once again took the lead-ership and took the action to provide that remedy the Alberta people overturned the Minister of Telephones that his remedy was workable and purchased, on behalf of the municipality, the Government Telephone lines and assets in his area. This was the first of the first Farmers' Union that took over a telephone system and operated its own telephone system.

You will remember the parking lease crisis of a year ago last winter which resulted in the parking houses being unable to handle farmers' hogs and which in turn, resulted in long delays in shipping consignments.

The entitlement of Alberta remember it because they are still suffering from the financial losses incurred at that time. In March, 1944, about 300 Alberta cattlemen met in Lethbridge to find a remedy for this disasterous situation. They then learned that the embargo had resulted from defective Government Regulations, that attempts to remedy these Regulations through the help of Alberta's M.P.'s had failed; and that the various Government Boards making these Regulations either didn't know enough

VERMILION AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL CLOSED

The Vermilion School of Agriculture will be opening this fall. Farm boys and girls wishing to attend, should send their application in early to the Department of Agriculture at Edmonton. It might be mentioned that the Provincial Department of Agriculture is going to pay railway or bus fares for students attending the Agricultural School this fall.

AGRICULTURAL SERVICE BOARD ACT

At the last session of the Alberta Legislature an act was passed to provide for the extension of agricultural services in association with Municipal authorities. This act, known as "The Agricultural Services Board Act" was the result of a resolution introduced and passed at the Municipal Districts Convention at Calgary in November, 1944, in which it was resolved that the conference endorse and recommend the establishment of agricultural service boards in all municipal districts, and that such legislation as might be found necessary be enacted by the Legislature.

The Agricultural Service Board Act provides for the appointment and remuneration of the brains ery present to a stock board of three, when dry the brick panel is bolted into position by

IMPORTANT FACTS IN SILO PRODUCTION

Good feeding practices are important. For roughage, green cut silage, alfalfa, brome and prairie hay are desirable. The heaviest producing crops should always receive a strong amount of grain even though on pasture. Care is the most desirable of all grains for dairy cattle. Barley and wheat may be used to smaller advantage. When supplementing hay is fed, wheat bran or linseed meal should be used. Silage is important to provide the necessary protein requirement. Good water should be available.

Weaning out the poor producers is essential. This can be done on the basis of milk and butterfat production. Breeding is important to remember. Dog pound purebred sires to improve production and to establish breed type and conformation.

As mentioned above feeding practices should be improved wherever possible. Feeding practices may be based on the ability of the cow to use the feed to produce milk as indicated by the milk scales.

CALF CLUB ENDING AND SALE

The twelfth annual Calf Club show and sale will be held at the Edmonton Exhibition Grounds on Wednesday, June 13th.

Clubs participating in this competition will be Clover Bar-Fort, North Edmonton, Elk Lea, Connor and Vermilion. These calves were purchased for club members last November and have been on feed since. The district agriculturist and local club leaders instruct boys and girls how to feed and manage these calves. In the spring of the year or early summer the calves are sold by public auction.

Last year at Edmonton the grand champion calf sold at 85c a pound and the average selling price of approximately 100 calves was 34¢ cents per pound.

Visitors to this show and sale are welcome. Come and see what some of these young people are accomplishing in the matter of feeding and finishing beef cattle.

NEW REMEDY FOR TERMITES

An English firm has discovered a remedy said to be 100% effective for destroying termites. It consists of a wood preservative which renders every kind of timber, native and imported, immune from insect attack, but retains every bit of its natural grain and renders timber resistive to fire in a ratio of 4 to 1 as compared with untreated timber.

A history of the Canadian Women's Army Corps is to be done on the basis of milk and butterfat production. Breeding is important to remember. Dog pound purebred sires to improve production and to establish breed type and conformation.

As mentioned above feeding practices should be improved wherever possible. Feeding practices may be based on the ability of the cow to use

TAXATION FOR PROSPERITY

"The Government, by the conscious and deliberate exercise of its functions, can influence to a vital degree the conditions of (Canadian) life. . . . The important thing is that it should direct that influence toward the creation of a stable and prosperous community."

John Bracken

To this great end Progressive Conservative Association policies are designed. We believe the power to tax must be creative, not destructive. It must help, not hinder; stimulate, not depress. Wisely and deliberately it should be used as one of many Government controls to prevent both artificial booms and economic depression. Above all, the Progressive Conservative Party is determined that taxation shall be used henceforth as an instrument of expanding prosperity.

Taxation must be used to bridle the strong and help the weak. It must encourage and not discourage all legitimate enterprise . . . Every useful activity which gives employment at fair wages and contributes to the sum total of Canadian prosperity must be encouraged to develop its fullest potentialities.

In order that an expanding prosperity may be progressively realized, low, fair, simplified, foreseen accumulations of profits must be forced into productive effort. Capital must be dynamic and not dormant. We believe it is the responsibility of progressive Government to ensure that capital is made to work — creating jobs, wages, consumer demand — and that labour must be equal opportunity for all.

The Progressive Conservative Party's plans for an expanding Canadian economy will not tolerate a top-heavy, burdensome bureaucracy supported by the workers and producers of this Dominion. The King Government has saddled this Dominion with a gigantic and still growing bureaucracy — and the Canadian taxpayer feels the bill. To-day, Mackenzie is clamoring for absolute power, already envisions a dictatorial bureaucracy of such dimensions that Canadians would stagger helplessly under the load of their obligations to the State.

We will frame tax policies to stimulate employment, the expansion and development of industry, natural resources and international trade.

We will review and simplify the present obsolete and unscientific tax structure and consolidate the tax collecting authorities.

We will see that the power to tax is returned to Parliament, rather than left in the hands of officials, so that the taxes borne by the people are those imposed by their elected representatives. To that end we will remove the present chaos of multiple tax administration by ensuring that:

√ Assessments must be made promptly and accurately.

√ Assessments must be final, so far as the government is concerned, except in cases of fraud.

√ There must be an end to penalties and interest charges due to departmental delays.

√ There must be an end to arbitrary assessments, based on the discretionary rulings of officials.

√ There must be an end to the disciplinary powers of officials.

√ There must be a simplified procedure for appeals on assessments by every taxpayer.

We shall see that personal tax exemptions are raised to at least $1,500 for married persons and $750 for single persons, and each taxpayer shall be allowed, in addition, a personal tax exemption of $400 for each dependent, and that the personal income tax in the lower tax brackets are substantially reduced.

This sound practical Taxation Policy, we of the Progressive Conservative Party pledge to all Canadians as a forthright aid to revitalized, co-operative prosperity for all.

Bean Proposes Student Exchange

Exchange of agricultural graduate students between Canada and Mexico is proposed by Federico Sanchez, Dean of the Agricultural School of the State of Coahuila, Mexico. Mr. Sanchez who recently visited Canada to select a herd of dairy cattle for the secretary to the Mexican presidency, says that 30 of his school's graduate students are now attending agricultural schools and colleges in the United States.

The loan bean made possible by [illegible] Mexico [illegible] collaboration to Coahuila pioneers and giving them an opportunity to earn room and board by working several hours a day in the college dairy barns, experimental farms and laboratories. Mr. Sanchez told the Dominion Department of Agriculture that he is seeking a similar arrangement with Canadian agricultural colleges. He said it is not his expectation that Mexican students would obtain Canadian degrees but that they would have an opportunity to enlarge their knowledge of agriculture and of Canada.

The Dean said that in return he would endeavor to obtain similar scholarships in Mexico for Canadian graduate agricultural students and also to arrange free board and lodging for them.

Mr. Sanchez is a graduate of the Coahuila School and of Texas A and M College. He is married to a dairy farm by way of payment of dairying from 1926 until 1944 when he was appointed dean of Coahuila.

Our criticism of others is usually just building ourselves up.

How To Run Queen Bees

If a beekeeper requires a few queen bees, the following is a good method for rearing them, states C. B. Goodhue of Dominion Apiarist. First remove the colony containing the best queen, and in the center of this colony place a frame containing a full sheet of foundation. Examine this frame daily, and, as soon as it contains eggs, go to the strongest colony, preferably one that is making preparations for swarming, or is superseding its queen, remove the queen and destroy any queen cells that may be present. Now, take the frame containing the eggs from the breeding queen, gently brush the bees from it and place it in the centre of the queenless colony. Ten days later, the frame will contain a number of queen cells that may now be distributed to nuclei or hives or supplied to whoever the queen is required.

If no nucleus is available when queens are being reared, the colonies performing this work must be fed liberally with sugar syrup. When introducing cells or queens to colonies or nuclei, make sure the bees are queenless and that no queen cells are present, otherwise the new cell or queen will be destroyed.

BUY WAR SAVING STAMPS

This is the first of a number of columns which we'll be writing from time to time to deal in a general way with the farmers aviation possibilities of individual Canadian towns and cities. For our first we've chosen the town of Val d'Or, Quebec, because few communities anywhere in Canada have as much to gain from flying and because we think the story of Val d'Or will be interesting to the readers of all the 113 daily and weekly newspapers now carrying this column.

R E D

Twenty years ago where Val d'Or now stands was nothing but bush. About that time a young mining man named Lorne E. Smith arrived on the spot with a gang of men and the town has grown steadily until now it has a population of 7,500 and 5,000 new jobs waiting in its mines for the moment the labor becomes available.

R E D

Val d'Or, which means Valley of Gold, is on the C.N.R. line connecting Northwestern Quebec. Recent gold mining discoveries and Noranda interests indicate that this part of Canada will become one of our most active mining fields.

R E D

Now is the country around Val d'Or, all rock and bush. Over 20,000 people have cleared and settled farms in the area.

R E D

Right now Val d'Or has one train each way each day. To go to Val d'Or from Toronto you leave the city at 6.55 in the evening on the C.N.R.'s Northland and arrive on the T.N.O. at Noranda the next morning at 9.20. You then travel across town to another railroad station, the C.N.R. again, and leave exactly three hours later for the 69-mile, two-hour run to Val d'Or.

R E D

Your average speed from Toronto to Val d'Or has been 25 miles an hour. And that's taking the fastest train on the line out of Toronto. If you come from Montreal you pull out the night before at 6.30 and arrive in Val d'Or a little earlier, at 12.30 (this an average speed of 24 miles an hour because the distance is a little less).

R E D

It takes no great imagination to see what any one could do for a place like Val d'Or. Two or three hours, depending on the size and speed of the plane, would link the town with either Toronto or Montreal.

R E D

A businessman would be able to leave his desk for only one day to visit Val d'Or, where now he must be away at least three days. Mail and express, which have been to with a city's prosperity would be speeded, and there is no reason why service shouldn't be maintained profitably two or three times each way each day by air.

R E D

So far Val d'Or, which is one of the best planned communities in Canada, has no air facilities other than the lake a couple of miles from town. Needed there is a base for both land and seaplanes, with a second strip or air park in the middle of the town.

R E D

Perhaps Val d'Or could build an air park which would serve as fair grounds once a year, as an airport for light planes the rest of the time.

R E D

Prospectors, interlers, fur trappers, traveling salesmen—all would make use of the landing facilities.

Cheese Control Measures Resumed

The Dominion Department of Agriculture has announced that the Dairy Products Board has issued orders requiring all Cheddar Cheese made in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec on and after June 1, 1945, to be large, white and unwrapped cheese and to be sold only for export to the British Ministry of Food through exporters licensed by the Board. Provision is made for cheese factories to cut cheese for their patrons' use throughout the season.

These control measures are similar to those issued in past years.

Supplies of Cheddar Cheese available for the domestic market at the present time are equal to about 11 months' requirements.

Canned meats will be virtually removed from the domestic market in Canada by a Prices Board order. The order frees these meats only to authorities the government to purchase more than 50% of the canned meat for the allies and liberated peoples of Europe.

Hazard That Hailing Hook

Canadians who lose their ration books should save unnecessary trouble by both the applicant and the ration office if they book a few penny postcards, says J. G. McKee, regional Prices and Trade Board.

"Fill in your spaces provided for address and telephone number," Mr. McKee advises. "This will facilitate easy return to consumers by the ration office whose stamp cannot be used in future."

"It is a criminal offense to use ration books which do not belong to a consumer of the same household but ration books which do not carry the additional details of address and telephone number are more open to abuse if they fall into the wrong hands," Mr. McKee explained.

JUST PLAIN SENSE!

The Canadian people have made a magnificent contribution to the common victory in Europe.

The Liberal administration can say with honesty and justice:

This is the Government which has directed Canada's war effort at home and abroad.

This is the Government which during the war worked out a program of full employment and social reform.

These things are now a matter of record and of common knowledge.

On the basis of its record the choice of Prime Minister King's party to form the next Government of Canada is a matter of just plain sense!

Let the Liberal Government finish its work

TIMELY FARM NOTES

By Fred N. Miller, District Agriculturist, Court House, Edmonton

Tuberculosis in Swine

Farmers receiving reports from the packing plants, that their hogs have been condemned for tuberculosis should be advised that most of the T. B. in swine is contracted from tuberculous poultry.

Infected poultry spread the organism in large numbers with their droppings. This contaminates every thing with which it comes in contact and in time spreads to swine.

The obvious remedy, says Dr. T. L. Blow, Animal Pathologist, is to either get rid of the infection in the poultry or to keep the carcasses scrupulously separate from the swine. To rid the poultry of tuberculosis the old flock should be killed off. Then purchase day old chicks and rear them on clean ground and in such a manner that they cannot come in contact with any equipment or material that has been contaminated by the old birds.

University of Alberta Feeders Day

Edmonton Feeders Day has become established as an important date on the live stock calendar, and the University is looking forward to a large attendance at this event on Saturday, June 9th.

The result of experiments conducted during the past year will be discussed and will provide an interesting and profitable programme says Prof. J. P. Sackville, Department of Animal Husbandry.

Beekeepers are advised by Agnetet, to check their hives early in June to make sure that they do not become overcrowded. When a colony is occupying seven of the ten combs in the original brood chamber, a second brood chamber is added.

Colonies build up very rapidly during June if proper food supplies are available. If once they become overcrowded preparations for swarming will be made. Given ample room to expand the brood nest and store food supplies, one of the prime causes of swarming is eliminated.

Dairy Competitions

The 1945 competitions for dairy producers were announced recently from the office of the Dairy Commissioner. These include the Greater Average Butterfat Competition, the Herd Improvement Competition, and the Shorthorn Dairy Competition.

The Alberta Dairymen's Association also offers two dairy production competitions in Alberta having their herds tested under the Provincial Cow Testing Service. The Producers' Section of the Alberta Dairymen's Association has donated $75.00 in cash prizes for the owners of herds showing highest average production for the year. In addition the Department of Agriculture will donate a Silver Challenge Trophy, to the owner of the highest producing herd. This is a Challenge Trophy, and each year an engraved silver replica will be presented to the winner.

All herds under test in the Provincial Cow Testing Service Plan are eligible for entry in the Herd Improvement Competition. Entry dates in each prairie to the summer of this competition will be donated by the Dairymen's Association.

The Alberta Dairymen's Association also offers two dairy production competitions in connection with their Annual Convention. The basis for making the awards will be 40 points for thoroughness of preparation of the calf for the show, and 60 points for the manner in which the members show the calf in the ring.

Full details of any of the above competitions may be obtained from the office of the Dairy Commissioner, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Blow-Out Danger Worse in Summer

Tires are subjected to more severe strain this summer than in any other year, according to Dominion Rubber Company officials, who point out that the increased speeds at which motorists are travelling, the greater loads they are carrying and the rougher roads they are travelling over all combine to make tires more vulnerable to blow-outs than ever before.

Heavy loads and high speeds cause excessive heat to build up in the tires, and motorists are warned to watch for this danger signal.

JOBS ASSURED BEFORE DEMOBILIZATION

A Square Deal for Veterans Assured by Progressive Conservatives

The very first clause of the Progressive Conservative plans for the re-establishment of Veterans, adopted at the National Convention of December, 1942, is as follows:—

DEMOBILIZATION

In carrying out the demobilization of Canada's Armed Forces the primary consideration should be the interest of those who have served. Demobilization should be based on the principle that members of the Armed Forces should not be discharged until their economic security is assured by placement in gainful employment or by assisted training and education to like end.

Here, in this simple statement of progressive, realistic policy is the only true solution of the fundamental problem which every ex-service man and woman is faced. It is the only assurance of a square deal for all veterans. It is the very basis of the Rehabilitation Policies of the Progressive Conservative Party. No veteran will be discharged against his will until he is assured of a decent livelihood.

"Patronage will not fill empty stomachs," declares John Bracken, "nor paternalism provide jobs for those who have fought, nor surely disinterested island meetings ease the heart of the widows and children whose husbands and fathers gave life itself that we might live in peace and security."

Throughout the war, Canadian service men and women have had their fill of platitudes and generalities.

Let our veterans now ask themselves this question. Does the spirit of insincere partisanship which the King Government has consistently manifested in time of war, offer any assurance of a square deal for veterans in time of peace? Does the present manpower policy which split Canada apart reflect the right men? Remember in war, as in peace, political policies infallibly betrays party principles.

It is significant that more than half of the Progressive Conservative candidates are service and ex-service men. No other party can even approach the record. These men know that no other party has such realistic and comprehensive plans for rehabilitation. They know that the Progressive Conservative Party is the serviceman's party.

They know that John Bracken, father of three sons on active service, understands the problems, the hopes and the fears of veterans.

They say, with John Bracken

"The cost of winning the war and the cost of re-establishing those who fought for it, to one end indivisible. In the plainest words at my command, I say to you that nothing short of full-time gainful employment for every man and woman who has worn the Canadian uniform will be acceptable. Every man and woman must be given the opportunity to earn a good living. If existing enterprise cannot do this, the State must, and will."

These service and ex-service candidates, with John Bracken, pledge themselves that, under no circumstances, will existing benefits to veterans be lessened. On the contrary, they will be increased and extended.

They, with John Bracken, pledge themselves to review all out-dated pensions act, to humanize its administration, to eliminate red tape and unreasonable delays. Pension rates will be reviewed at once and increased to bring them in line with higher living costs.

Under a Progressive Conservative government, recorded condition of personnel on enlistment will be accepted as sufficient proof in determining disability pension. The veteran will be entitled to the benefit of the doubt.

The "first in, first out" principle will be followed on demobilization — with a job at decent pay assured to the veteran when he returns to "civvy" street.

In the words of our leader, we of the Progressive Conservative Party,

"accept the challenge to demonstrate to you who fought that you shall not be handicapped in days of peace because you responded to the nation's call in days of war."

LET NO ONE MISLEAD YOU!

Life Insurance is a tremendous creative force in the economic life of the country. Its funds are invested in productive enterprises of every description. Its policyholders are numbered by millions. Let no one mislead you about the nature of these funds. They are NOT "swollen fortunes" piled up by "profiteers" or "capitalists" in any sense of the word. Policy reserves are the exact counterpart of the total funds which must be held for policyholders to be paid to them when due.

There was a classic backstage panic and hair-tearing at CKRA recently when Bob Hicks was awarded a radio research scholarship upon graduation from the University of Illinois.

For the past several years Bob attended Varsity daily and took over an evening shift on CKA's announcing staff. Both took over a regular daytime shift during the five summer months each year.

Working from 9:00 a.m. to midnite paid off dividends to Bob when he graduated in honours chemistry at the University of Alberta, and was awarded the scholarship.

The staff and students wish you every success in your application to the Fellowship Board.

FULL EMPLOYMENT AT FAIR WAGES
is the Foundation of all True Progress

"The people of this nation are tired of the delay in correcting the weaknesses that have developed in our system . . . We must correct these obvious weaknesses in the economy we have, by rationalizing it — not by wrecking it. We must maintain the system which gives full play to individual initiative, and a fair return to all legitimate enterprise which provides employment; and the State, by just laws relating to workers, must see to it that at no time shall there fail to be provided the opportunity for a fair day's pay for a fair day's work for every one of our fellow-citizens in this Dominion who is able and willing to work."

John Bracken

We mean to see that every Canadian citizen able to work has the opportunity to work at fair pay.

- A NATIONAL REFORM
- MAXIMUM PRODUCTION THROUGH THE FULL DEVELOPMENT OF OUR NATURAL RESOURCES
- FULL EMPLOYMENT AT FAIR WAGES

These are the pledges of the Progressive Conservative Party.

For full employment embracing all Canadians of every Province.

WE WILL:

- Help individual and co-operative enterprise to increase employment by revising crippling tax systems, by removing controls and regulations which slow down the operation of legitimate enterprise, and by improving relationships between the Government, Labour and Management.
- Establish a National Development Board responsible for plans for full production and employment, as well as the preservation of our natural resources.
- Increase our trade by establishing an Export Board, by aggressive salesmanship abroad, by continuation of mutual aid until no longer necessary and by provision of trade credits to economically backward countries;
- See that the powers of the Bank of Canada are used to supply ample credit for an expanding economy;
- Undertake a carefully planned programme of socially desirable projects, such as low-rental rural and urban housing, rural electrification, conservation and reforestation, the development of natural resources — all on a national basis.

These Progressive Conservative policies are carefully and confidently pointed at a practical national objective — the realization in our time of an age of plenty.

Only the Progressive Conservative Party, with its far-sighted policies for the co-operative development of every part of Canada to new heights of prosperity — a prosperity in which ALL Canadians shall share fairly and honorably — only this Party faces the challenge of the future with ability and confidence in the ultimate realization of the practical objectives embodied in its practical policies for full employment at fair wages.

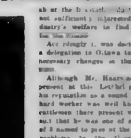
JOHN BRACKEN'S CANDIDATE FOR WETASKIWIN CONSTITUENCY



ALFRED BERGER HAARSTAD

Alf Haarstad was born in Ramsey County North Dakota in 1892 and when 9 years of age moved with his parents to the Bentley community where his father took up a homestead. The Bentley district at that time was not the thriving, modern community it now is. In fact, it was not until 1905 that school facilities were available for the Haarstad children. In that year the Stephenson School District was organized and the young Haarstads attended the Stephenson school where they acquired all their schooling. Outside of school hours young Alf Haarstad helped to clear and break his father's homestead. In this action and tells us even revised However, rich virgin soil and hard work had its rewards and by the time Alf was 18 years of age he had saved enough money to buy his first threshing outfit. This he operated with satisfaction to the community and profit for himself, with the result that when he was 21 years old he was able to buy his own farm which he still operates in conjunction with the family farm which he later purchased, making his farm of 1040 acres, one that Mrs. Haarstad and their daughter, are proud to call "Home."

The year that Alf Haarstad became 21 years of age was the highlight year of his life for, besides becoming entitled to vote and purchasing his own farm, he qualified for and obtained Steam Engineer's papers and was elected member of the Stephenson School Board, and its Secretary Treasurer. Haarstad's financial success in farming is due to his ability to see opportunities as well as his ability to overcome difficulties He was one of the first in the district to see the advantage of feeding the grain he raised instead of selling it at the elevators, and for the past 30 years he has consistently fed all the grain he raised on his farm and in many years has bought more grain that he raised in order to carry out his feeding operations.

Although always busy with his own farm and livestock operations Haarstad has found time to contribute to the welfare of his community in more ways than one. From 1923 until it was amalgamated in the large Municipal District of Leonville, Haarstad was a councillor of M.D. of Lorne. At the first election of councillors in the large Municipality Haarstad headed the poll and since its organization Haarstad has been Reeve of this large Municipality.

In 1931 Haarstad was elected delegate to the Alberta Wheat Pool for his district. This office he held continuously until he retired in 1944 to accept the nomination for John Bracken's party in the Federal House.

Alf Haarstad, although not the first to see the injustice of the wide spread in hog prices between country points and city markets, he was the first in his district to take active steps to remedy the situation. His action in this case was indicative of his manner in dealing with most troubles that he met in life. He made personal investigation, got the facts and then solved the trouble by suggesting the remedy. When he thought that a $2.00 spread in the price of hogs between Bentley and Calgary was too great he shipped his hogs direct to Calgary keeping a record of the cost and the returns obtained and arrived at the conclusion that the farmers of his community could increase their hog profits by shipping direct. After educating his neighbors on the point he was able with the assistance of some tough bears, to organize the Bindmoor Valley Stock Pool. To see that it got off on the right foot he acted as its first buyer until a competent man trained He has since then remained actively connected with this Organization either as a member of its Directorate or as representative in the Alberta Livestock Producers Association, and more recently is one of Alberta's two representatives on the Dominion Association.

His experience in grain feeding livestock showed him the necessity for some kind of feeder organization to enable other farmers to do what he had been doing in that line. So in cooperation with Mr. Sam Henderson and the late Charles Abbott, he organized the Alberta Feeders Association. This organization, now Province wide, promoted the scheme by which small livestock feeders were able to finance their operations when their credit was not available for that purpose. The scheme proved so successful and so beneficial to the feeders that other financial institutions have since been anxious to finance feeders with the result that livestock feeder does not now have any trouble financing his operations

In 1932 when the Alberta Government Telephone System broke down to such an extent that it was unable to give service to its rural customers Mr. Haarstad once again saw the need and took the action to provide that remedy. He went to Edmonton summoned the Minister of Telephones that his remedy was workable and purchased, on behalf of his community, the Government Telephone System and wrote us his story. This he used into the first Farmers' Mutual that took over Government lines and operated its own telephone system.

You will remember the parching hot summer of a year ago last July, the hot winds resulted in the parching of our crops and which in turn, was followed by an embargo on cattle shipments.

The settlement of Alberta remember is because they are still suffering from the financial losses incurred at that time. In March, 1944, about 300 Alberta cattlemen met in Lethbridge to find a remedy for this disastrous situation. They then learned that this embargo had resulted from definitive Government Regulations that attempts to remedy these Regulations through the help of Alberta's M.P.'s had failed; and that the various Government Boards making these Regulations either didn't know enough about the situation or were not sufficiently interested in the livestock industry's welfare to find a solution for him himself.

Accordingly, it was decided to send a delegation to Ottawa to obtain the necessary changes so those Regulations.

Although Mr. Haarstad was not present at this Lethbridge meeting, his reputation as a sound thinker and hard worker was well known to its originators there present with the result that he was one of a committee of 3 named to press the matter of relief by the time that the delegation reached Ottawa.

From the foregoing it can be seen that without the solemn assurance that some people have acquired Mr. Haarstad, endowed by a wealth of hard knocks and experience, has many times proved himself progressive with the necessary courage and equal to solving problems that others have failed to solve.

Mr. Haarstad's supporters submit that his experience as a successful farmer and livestock feeder, his standing, as a school trustee, as a Municipal Councillor for twenty odd years and later as Reeve of the enlarged Municipality, as delegate to the Alberta Wheat Pool for 12 years and his many years with the Provincial and Dominion Livestock Associations, and the active and prominent part he played in forming the Livestock Pool, in the Alberta Feeders Association and the Farmers' Mutual Telephone System, and in reducing the spread of hog prices between country points and market points; in addition to his effective advocacy of the cattle embargo, marks him as the only candidate in this Riding qualified to represent the voters of the Wetaskiwin Riding, in the next Parliament of Canada.

Once again Mr. Haarstad has seen a solution for the troubles facing the country and has joined the John Bracken as Premier of Canada. He did not arrive at this solution because of previous political affiliations because this is Mr. Haarstad's first venture in politics, but like other thinking people he has come to realize that John Bracken's party is the only one capable of solving the problems that now face us, or that will arise during the next Parliament of Canada. This will be the first time in Canada's history that Canada has had a farmer filling the office of Premier

SEE THAT JOHN BRACKEN GETS THE HELP OF A MAN LIKE HAARSTAD. CANVASS HAARSTAD'S RECORD WITH THAT OF ANY OPPONENT, AND WE ARE SURE YOU WILL VOTE FOR HAARSTAD.

Pocket Tractor

A new pocket tractor, low-priced and with small running costs, which enables even small fields to be mechanized, has been designed and produced by a British manufacturer.

This is a track-laying type tractor, powered by a small 5 h.p. engine. It has especially designed for work in areas of soft or water-logged ground, or steeply sloping fields—conditions in which the standard tractor is not suitable. It is now also being used with great success in small fields and in market gardens, where, owing to its small size, it is able to work nearer to the edges of fields.

Penn Boys at High School

Most Penn boys leave, roughly, what is considered as the practice of medicine, dentistry, engineering or law, but they often have very little knowledge of the fascinating studies connected with everyday agriculture. The various units of professional agriculturists request part in scientific and training or do favor of other professions. They are trained, and require the services of agricultural engineers, economic chemists, plant pathologists, entomologists, etc., as well as an army of men with broad training for agricultural experimental stations, teaching and extension work.

At present, a large proportion of the students in our agricultural colleges are ex-men back with little or no farm experience. It is true that most of our college prepare a certain minimum of farm experience, but a city student can usually meet such requirements without becoming a great deal about farming. The state of affairs is served with alarm by most professional agriculturists, including college professors. Systematic knowledge of general farm practices and problems is an advantage in all branches of the profession and an absolute necessity in many.

There will gradually be a serious shortage of well trained agriculturists for many years to come. Farm boys doing well at high school, and keen on entering professional study of one kind or another, should examine the possibilities in agriculture.

Ask your Inn Director agent for a booklet dealing more fully with the subject.

To The Electors Of Vegreville Constituency

DR. A. J. ARCHER

I am appealing to you for your vote on June 11th, as a supporter of the present Government.

In most respects our Government has provided strong, efficient leadership in our magnificent war effort. They have directed this huge enterprise with honesty and distinction. They have introduced policies which have meant much to the farmers. 90% of the value of the Canada money live on farms. They have introduced two measures as the beginning of a plan for social security.

Regarding the Family Allowance Act of 1944 every member of the House of Commons, who was present voted in favor of the Bill (1 member was in July 1945 cheques which will amount to appr. annually) ONE MILLION DOLLARS ($1,000,000.00) will be forwarded to this Constituency every year.

This Government has been active making plans for the introduction of two important measures. They are a National Health Bill, and a Bill to extend Old Age Pensions to all and to lower the age limit. These bills will be introduced into the Parliament, but it was necessary to have a Provincial Dominion Conference before they could be introduced. I strongly endorse these measures and will give them full support.

The flour level for the price of farm products, which are to be provided for under the Agricultural Prices Support Act, should at all times be high enough to be fair and adequate.

Provincial Library St Bar 44

I have lived in your midst for many years and have your problems at heart and would be an honor to try to serve you.

Sincerely
A. E. ARCHER.

Aid Servicemen To Recover Homes

If honorably discharged servicemen want veterans' land grants to help them establish themselves on farms, they must apply before March 31, 1946, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of veterans' affairs, announced recently. Dominion Government and provincial authorities have agreed on terms of the veterans' land act, he said.

Servicemen who served a very short time overseas may not be entitled to benefits under the act, Mackenzie explained, because they may not have had time to qualify for overseas service.

A hundred-acre parcel of suitable farming land, with a house, barn and other buildings, will be purchased for each veteran under the act, Mackenzie said. Veterans will be required to make a down payment of several hundred dollars, depending on the value of the land. Interest on the balance will be at 3½ per cent.

Mackenzie said that the veterans' land act administration will be empowered to buy land for veterans' settlement, to make loans to veterans for the purchase of land, stock, equipment and buildings, and to supervise the operations of veterans who receive assistance under the act.

Amos 'n' Andy are on a shopping tour of Hollywood, in search of the brightest gags and gayest nonsense to take with them on their overseas tour to the Pacific War Theatre.

Amos 'n' Andy, in the person of Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, are button-holing all their fellow comics at the recorders of NBC Hollywood to add in compiling a benefit show of stars they can spin at the hot-soles of the GI's to whom they will devote their entire term across the pond. The men's or... are a bright spot with any of Uncle Sam's fighting men who have been wearing khaki or blue for months, and even for years.

Gosden and Correll will travel alone, playing only hospitals and small units. In addition to an informal set featuring the voices of Amos, Andy, the Kingfish, Henry Van Porter and others, the boys plan to resume the GI's with jokes and feats of legerdemain, at which they are proficient.

New Washing Machine

A new revolutionary type of electric washing machine, developed in the United Kingdom, will make pressure laundering a possibility for every housewife. The machine applies to laundering the principle of the ship's screw in the form of an impeller device, which is far more efficient than the older agitator device which it replaces. Other new technical devices incorporated are an exceptionally light-weight spout reducer, a cast form of chassis and an automatic, completely foolproof safety device on the attached wringer. Starting with about 1,000 machines a week, production will be rapidly stepped up to between 300,000 and 350,000 a year.

WINGS OF CANADA

by Russell I. GIBSON and Robert REEDS

Perhaps you have that idea that jet propulsion works through a series of explosions pushing against air. It isn't so, and never was, and its not your fault, because so far there has been little resistance to the average aeroplane ever reaching a jet pipe that matters does work, and why it may well go far to change flying.

Actually the force which drives a jet-propelled plane ahead is derived from the high velocity of gases escaping at the exhaust. Other new technical devices incorporated are an exceptionally light-weight spout reducer, a cast form of chassis and an automatic, completely foolproof safety device on the attached wringer. Starting with about 1,000 machines a week, production will be rapidly stepped up to between 300,000 and 350,000 a year.

Then we'll suppose that we set out a bale of hay, and add to step from one end, but we keep up the pressure inside the can. The result is that we still have 1,000 pounds pressure per inch on the end of the can, but only 500 pounds pressure on the other end.

The difference in the pressure is the force which drives the can in one direction. There you have the whole principle of jet propulsion.

Edward G. Pen... ...ent of the Amer... ...ways to whom we are ... for information in this ... jet propulsion works better in a vacuum than in air.

For ... planing on air, the rocket or ... jet plane is held up by having ... ...ts ... from air pressure ... jet-propelled plane will travel at phenomenal speeds. Theoretically it should be able to attain thousands of miles an hour.

Some of the advantages of jet propulsion are as follows. There are almost no moving parts in the very simple motor; the motor makes far more efficient use of fuel than an internal combustion engine and very cheap fuels can be used economically.

A jet motor consists simply of a chamber in which the explosions take place and a jet or hole which acts in the same way as the square hole out of the bottom of our tin can. Because gasoline is too explosive for the motors so far developed, the planes so far developed use cheaper fuels such as kerosene. These are mixed with oxygen taken from the air by a compressor and then exploded. That's all there is to it.

Jet propulsion works more efficiently the higher the speed. It doesn't really start to get efficient until it's doing 700 miles an hour or better. It is being perfected rapidly and is probably miles nearer than practical use than the helicopter.

The big 2,500 horsepower internal combustion engine, the largest in use on an aircraft or so immensely complicated with as many thousands of precision parts that it is near its practical limit. Jet propulsion really starts where it leaves off.

But for a good many years to come we'll probably be sticking to the dependable little 65 horsepower, four-cylinder air cooled internal combustion engine for light aircraft when it comes to private flying.

HAVE YOU REGISTERED YOUR CHILDREN FOR FAMILY ALLOWANCES?

1,350,000 FAMILIES have already registered for Family Allowances. Approximately 500,000 families who are entitled to register and who will benefit, have not yet registered.

Family Allowances cheques will be mailed in July.

If you want to receive your first cheque, register now. If you delay your registration any longer, it may not be possible to deal with your application in time to send you the first cheque.

If you have children under 16 and if your income is under $3,000 a year, you will benefit from Family Allowances. If you have not registered, and intend to do so, please act at once! Family Allowances Registration forms have been mailed to every family. They can be obtained at the nearest post office or by writing to the Regional Director of Family Allowances in the capital of your province.

FAMILY ALLOWANCES AND INCOME TAX

When the Family Allowance Act was passed, Parliament approved the principle that there should be no duplication of benefits by way of Family Allowances and Income Tax credits for the same child.

Family Allowance cheques will be paid in full every month. But for the last six months of 1945 an adjustment will be made to avoid duplication of benefits. The table below shows the effect of this adjustment and will enable taxpayers to determine the extent to which they will benefit from Family Allowances.

THESE REMOVE EFFECT OF ADJUSTMENT FOR 1945

The BENEFITS: The Family Allowances Act was passed to help equalize opportunities for all children. The monthly allowances will assist in providing medical, dental and nursing services, better food, better clothing and shelter.

Family Allowances are additional to dependants' allowances for servicemen's families and military pensions.

Furthermore, Family Allowances are NOT taxable. You do not add these monthly payments to your total income when computing your income tax.

In the column at left is an explanation of the relationship between Family Allowances and Income Tax deductions for children. From the table given you can determine quickly the exact amount to which you will benefit.

REGISTER NOW!

If you intend to apply for Family Allowances but have not already done so, please act at once—in the interests of your children. Remember, the first cheques will be mailed in July, but only to those who have registered and are eligible to receive Family Allowances.

NOW is the time to BUY COAL

This year there must be no "slack season" in the Western mines. Every miner must be kept working throughout the year, if you are to be sure of your next winter's supply of coal.

So that your dealer may do his part in keeping the mines busy during this war emergency, get him to fill your bin as soon as possible.

The Dynamo of Government

"From the most perfect international co-operation can no more give man kind security than the very best of plans itself can make farming a success. It will all be dependent on the hands that are making use of the instrument, the motive power behind it and on the mind that is directing it."

This statement was made by Dr. Carl J. Hambro, President of the Norwegian Parliament and a delegate to the San Francisco Conference. Its appeals to us in our federal area of sovereignty. Some homes mould election. Men of character, whether the character of the nation elected, must will go on giving their best to the country. They have standard without saving years, they take responsibility without taking votes. From them will come the qualities that are the dynamo of our national life, honesty that grows in quarter in patronage, assemblance against Japan, but also of setting for that drains out the contributions of the world a pattern of a democracy the other party. Answered where that works.

everyone works hard regardless of who gets the credit. They have a strong drawing quality for all people how to our way of thinking is to win of good-will in the nation. The more him through our way of living.

It is especially important now that conquered a big body of enemy a dish of boiled cauliflower a dish of mashed potatoes thickened with flour and water, and, if you were lucky, an apple.

One of Miss Arnold's stories brought home one of the daily many we one doesn't think of over here. That is the dreariness of waking up every day and looking out your window on a mass of rubble. Said the Mayor of Caen to Miss Arnold: "We need food, we need clothes, we need medical supplies, yes, all those things, but what we need most is a boatload of cement. Look at all these bricks out there. We could rebuild if we had something to hold them together. Man was not made to live in the midst of ruins."

Put on the Back for CBC

Every year the Inactivate for Education by Radio of Columbus, Ohio, holds an "exhibition" of educational radio programme and grades them this year CBC took four first awards, including all the awards given in the rural programs division, and one for a broadcast in the series devoted to programs for use in schools.

Commented the judges, the CBC programs "were by far the finest submitted," "represented radio at its best," and displayed "intelligent use of radio."

Different Needs for a Different War

The change-over from the European theatre to the Pacific theatre has already made a great difference to the kind and quantity of Canada's war effort. Some goods which were in critically short supply; other goods which required thousands of workers to produce will not be needed again.

What all this means is that Canadians as a whole can look forward to a change in the things they can buy for themselves. A few things which have been plentiful may become scarce, but generally it will be the other way about. The government's policy is to relax controls as soon as possible and remove them altogether as fast as supplies become available. Rationing will be ended as soon as possible.

OTTAWA

"We Need a Boatload of Cement"

Gladys Arnold, former newspaper woman in Elyria, now attached to the Information Service of the Fighting French, has just returned from a flying visit to France her first since she had to leave the country in 1940. I listened to her tell her story the other day and I was a proud one. "The French have lost a million homes, a million children, 75 per cent of their vehicles, 2,000 miles of railway lines, and 6,000 bridges. Last winter there was no heat and no water in most offices or stores. Yet were everything you owned all the time, and broke the ice on your tub-wall before you ate tea to serve. Often there was no heat to cook it. Often there was no heat to cook it. A typical restaurant meal, costing anywhere from a dollar up, consisted of a big bowl of soup, a dish of boiled cauliflower a dish of mashed potatoes thickened with flour and water, and, if you were lucky, an apple.

New Treatment for Paralysis Cases

New and revolutionary treatment developed in Australia for infantile paralysis victims is now being introduced in the Manchester Royal Hospital. Fifty per cent of patients treated by the new method are reported to be restored to normal working capacity.

Sister Elizabeth Kenny, who is administered in the United Kingdom by Ministry of Health, has received a big part in combating the epidemic, but its greatest triumph has been in the field of orthopaedic surgery. Victims of paralysis—paralysis of the lower extremities as a result of injury to the spinal cord—are considered beyond all hope of rehabilitation. A team of British experts, aided by a distinguished French surgeon, a Jewish refugee from Nazi Germany. Their success—both qualified and the Sister Elizabeth treatment has already been adopted by other hospitals.

The new treatment makes use of all the latest discoveries in surgical and medical practice, and of new Psychology and physiotherapy also play an important part. It consists of three main stages: active treatment, splinting and employment.

Such progress has been made that already a number of paraplegics at a local wireless factory, while continuing to live in the hospital. It is planned in the near future to set up hostels during training, and subsequently permanent homes.

BEWARE INSECT DUST

In destroying plants to destroy insects, even harmless dusts, such as flour or cement, can cause injury to the human system if inhaled over long periods or in excessive amounts. Soap disinfectants are more dangerous because all of them, whether odorless or not, irritant or non-irritant, are injurious when inhaled in sufficient quantities to damage

CANADA'S COAL SHORTAGE

I have recently made the rounds of a number of towns and villages in a small area for the most part, but in all I have made calls on the chief citizens about the coal situation and I seem to be that it is largely a matter of where Canada now has and where. Another Election

The method used in the election of Alberta Wheat Pool delegates ordinarily provides that one-half of the total number of sub-districts shall be elected each year. Due to the fact that there has been a rearrangement of the boundaries of the sub-districts, seventy new delegates will have to be elected this year. The 35 delegates in the odd-numbered sub-districts will be elected for two-year terms and the 35 in the even-numbered sub-districts for one-year terms.

Nomination blanks have been forwarded to each member of the Wheat Pool together with a list of members in the sub-district; also full instructions as to the method of nomination. Nominations must be in the Alberta Wheat Pool office, Calgary, by 5 o'clock on the afternoon of June 20th, 1945.

It is important that all Pool members should interest themselves in this matter. Any ten members can nominate a candidate for the office of delegate.

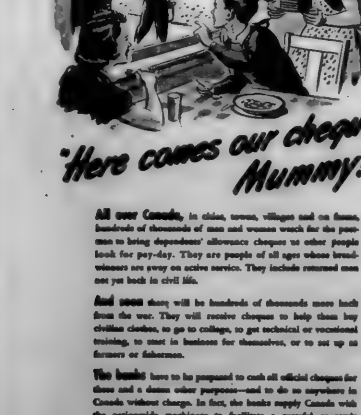
NATIONAL GRAIN CO. LTD.



All over Canada, in cities, towns, villages and on farms, hundreds of thousands of men and women watch for the postman to bring dependents' allowance cheques to other people look for pay-day. They are people of all ages whose breadwinners are away on active service. They include returned men not yet back in civil life.

And soon there will be hundreds of thousands more back from the war. They will receive cheques to help them buy civilian clothes, to go to college, to get technical or vocational training, to start in business for themselves, or to set up as farmers or fishermen.

The banks have to be prepared to cash all official cheques for these and a dozen other purposes—and to do so anywhere in Canada without charge. In fact, the banks supply Canada with the nation-wide machinery to facilitate a grateful country's plans for restoring service men and women to civilian life.

This is a tremendous task. It will entail a vast amount of bookkeeping. But you can be sure that your banks will take it in their stride without impairing regular banking service.

New Inspection Gauge

An important aid to mass precision production in United Kingdom industry is an inspection gauge of the production parts, but automatically registers the exact divergence from the normal of the parts which are being tested.

The ordinary type of gauge merely shows whether or not the parts are close enough to the required dimensions to be passed. The new gauge, called the Indi-Gauge, also gives a reading showing whether the work is undersize, when any tendency of divergence from the normal appears.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our son and brother, NIGOSKI Pte Donald Rene Jos. Canadian Parachute Battalion, who lost his life at Caen, June 9, 1944.

He is gone but not forgotten
Aside, we drove another pain,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the nerves
That lay within the heart concealed.

Sorry remembered by Mother and Dad, sisters and brother.

Immunize Against Diseases

The tables show the percentage of the total children and children of preschool age who have been immunized against the various diseases listed and also those who have been partly immunized or not at all. Especially the tables for children under school age, at which time they are most susceptible to these diseases, show that there is an inadequate response to the immunization service offered. It is important for us all to realize that much "head bash" and numerous tragedies can be prevented if parents comply avail themselves of this service for which they have already paid.

Hand Milking Is on the Way Out

Freedom from the tiring and tiresome job of hand milking twice a day has been gained by thousands of farm families through the use of a modern milking machine.

One person can milk up to 20 cows in an hour with a milking machine—it keeps a good hand milker busy to milk 7 to 9 cows in the same time.

This saving of time and labor is important, especially when good farm help is hard to get, but at any time milking is a disliked chore that the family is glad to have taken off their hands. The hours of time saved with a milking machine does mean something to children and much but it means a lot more in making farm life easier and more pleasant. Everybody welcomes the relief from the milking time blues that a milking machine brings.

The modern, practical and economical way to do things is to use machines instead of muscles wherever possible —that is why hand milking is out for dairymen who have experienced the comfort and convenience of a mechanical milker.

Among the time and labor saving machines your local Massey-Harris dealer has to offer is the Sta-Way Milker—the modern milker with the natural action. Ask him for particulars about this machine that does so much to make dairy farming easier and more profitable.

Josephburg Box Fund,
c o Mrs. B. Hicks,
R.R. 1, Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta

Dear Mrs. Hicks:

Just a note of appreciation to let you know that I received your small, neatly packed and well selected parcel. Everything in it is just grand and those cakes were very cooky broken.

It is things such as this that makes us feel much closer to our friends back home, and it also lets us know that we are not forgotten.

May we pray that it won't be much longer before we are all back home to stay, and bring ours more with our friends soon.

So let me thank you, that makes "The Josephburg Box Fund" possible, and especially those who so eagerly give up their time in getting them ready to send to me and other boys from home, who are also in the forces.

I remain yours,
Billy Berg, Sto 1 c

Reconstruction--Canada's Opportunity

REHABILITATION

Reconstruction is a big word and it stands for a big job, all over the world. We in Canada are particularly fortunate in that we have not been ravaged by war. We have felt nothing and free all the ugh the war years when many lands have been bombed almost out of existence. Therefore leadership in world reconstruction is all the more up to us. The baby is on our doorstep.

It is necessary that the homes, industries and granaries of the world be rebuilt, but the greatest need is in the spirit of the people. As a war correspondent wrote from Italy, "The rubble of the human spirit is a far sadder thing to gaze upon than the rubble of buildings. There must be a new sense of purpose the inner determination that our boys have not been sacrificed in vain.

What will happen if the troops are met on their return by a wave of selfishness, individualism and unrest? We can judge how some of them feel by what two sailors told a Montreal audience "We hear about all the Government is going to pay us in gratuities, but we would be willing to give it all up for the new spirit all of us want."

On the battlefields teamwork, courage and discipline have been as mineral as brushing We must give our men a chance to use those qualities in reconstructing a broken world, by developing those same qualities in our own lives. We can work with them for a country where industry will achieve her true destiny to make the work and wealth of the world available to all and for the exploitation of none, where schools produce citizens of character teaching children not only to think but in terms of others; where farmers, guardians of the soil conserve and replenish it for future generations, where homes become the production centres of a spirit of goodwill, and where [illegible] sending the family out to school and to work free to give their best.

A united purposeful democracy can give new leadership to the world. We must be people with no personal party axe to grind, morally tough and ready to respond instantly to need without stroke or time consciousness attending the [illegible] sacrifices.

Director, The Canada Farming Plan

THE CANADA CONVENTION

The twenty-first annual convention of the Canada Grain Growers' Association will be held in the Hotel Saskatchewan, Regina, from Monday, June 25th to Thursday, June 28th. This meeting is considered especially important because of the changes that are beginning to occur in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Annual meetings of 98 separate Farmers in the province and one hundred thousand Canadians listened to the National Radio Forum which keeps farmers informed on a hundred different subjects.

The Minister of Munitions and Supply, Hon. C. D. Howe, will speak on the "Industrial Future of Canada," who was the guest speaker said, "If I were given a large sum of money to improve farm conditions in Canada, I would suggest it be organizing co-operatives among the individual workers and in fostering a greater mutual understanding between farm and city."

Mr. Howe's statement is one of the most significant utterances which will appear on the platforms of Farm Conventions.

There will naturally be considerable of a higher order for consumers with the Canadian people, and the Government will be anxious to foster a greater mutual understanding between farm and city.

Delegates from all parts of the province will be present to hear the latest information from abroad, and to discuss farm problems and policies. Many of them will bring themselves or [illegible] of the desire to help in the [illegible] and industrial [illegible] in those important agricultural subjects. Several make a [illegible] while attending the [illegible] convention.

Production this year is expected to be down by 15 to 20 percent compared with 1944. Approximate corn acreage remaining for harvest is estimated at about 4.3 million acres, according to an official report. About 47 per cent of the total acreage planted is expected to be lost.

The United Kingdom wheat crop is making satisfactory progress, and trade sources are suggesting a crop of about 100 million bushels—Harvesting has been completed in India and fair crops were produced in most [illegible]

Volunteers for the Pacific who proceed to the Far Eastern theatre of operations will receive extra pay. The rate varies from 25c a day for a private (25c for a CWAC private) to 65c for a Warrant Officer, Class 1 (65c for a CWAC of the same rank). New Blouses?

An interdepartmental committee to co-ordinate housing activities in Canada has been formed, and this committee is instructed to promote the maximum co-operation between departments and agencies concerned to overcome shortages of building and labor.

Fewer Strikes

Time lost due to strikes in the first four months of 1945 dropped by 60 per cent from the same period last year. There were 61 strikes involving 18,488 workers with a time loss of 78,000man-days as compared with 97 strikes involving 23,278 workers and a time loss of 182,874 man-days for the same period last year.

At the end of April no strikes were reported.

What Are These Army Pensions?

Now that our men are coming back from overseas to conformable number, people spend a lot of time trying to figure out what their battle pensions mean. There are two kinds, rectangular for divisions and diamond-shaped for corps. The rectangular zone was red for the First Canadian Infantry Division; dark blue for the Second, light blue for Third, and green for Fourth. The Fifth Canadian Division has maroon patches. The diamond-shaped patches are black with a horizontal red stripe for the First Canadian Armored Brigade, and black with a blue stripe for the Second Canadian Armored Brigade Canadian military staff personnel in London wear a black circular patch with a gold border and a gold maple leaf inset.

Some veterans are wearing British Army patches of the 21st Army Group. One is a red shield with a blue cross inset, and the other the red and blue patch with crossed swords worn by headquarters personnel of the 21st Army Group

ALBERTA CATTLE

The present condition of Alberta cattle in different parts of the Province is very variable advises [illegible] Stock Yards Superintendent Warren Black. The month of April saw of the land in sight to meet all requirements [illegible] to the east and southeast. PRODUCTION OF SEED CROPS

Those who have potential seed crops now growing are advised to take every precaution to make sure that the seed production will meet the requirements of the best seed grades.

The value of a seed crop depends to a considerable extent on its purity and [illegible] Supervisor of Crop Improvement. This means that the seed produced must be free from [illegible] and other kinds and varieties which would be impossible to separate after the crop has been harvested. Frequently one small part of a field contains weeds of other [illegible] which would greatly reduce the value of the whole crop if not removed. Such areas might be cut out and used for feed, or at least separate by an adequate margin to ensure the purity of the [illegible]

CROP INSPECTION

Growers who are planning to produce Registered or Certified seed must [illegible] for a field inspection of the crop before harvest. This inspection service is conducted by the Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Calgary, to which application for field inspection should be made immediately. Inspection may not be made where applications are received later than July 15th.

If a registered or certified seed crop is to be presented for inspection, the field should be properly prepared before the inspector arrives. All margins should be carefully cultivated or mown. A small amount of labour spent in removing other crop plants or scattered weeds from the field to be inspected may make all the difference between producing an acceptable crop and one that will fail to pass inspection.

ket who has already been forced to reduce rations for [illegible] feeding needed products. The need now is even greater than during the European war. Every effort is urged, therefore, to see that all possible eggs be produced by every [illegible] and not one egg that is produced be lost either through or destruction in quality or through [illegible]

New Navigating Compass

A new astro-compass developed by British scientists shows six navigators their ground position at any moment of a flight.

The compass plugs in like an electric clock and the navigator can watch the course of his plane charted on a map with an electric light indicator which gives him his correct bearing at any time.

It is at present being used for short flights only, but once it has been adapted to make the necessary corrections for long flights, it is expected to revolutionize air navigation.

The compass is now being further developed by experts at Britain's "air university" the Empire Air Navigation School at Shropshire, England where British, Allied and Empire airmen are equipped with the most advanced navigational knowledge. Data collected by United Kingdom scientists during the recent Polar flight of the British Lancaster bomber, Mercy Coast, will be utilized—is expected to help in the development.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our mother, Clara Ann Attwell, who passed away June 20, 1942.

It is only Good Night dear mother,
It is just what we used to say.
We will see you again in the morning,
At the dawn of a beautiful day.

Ever remembered by the family.

In loving memory of Orwell Edward Kellenberg who passed away one year ago, June 22, 1944.

One year has passed since that sad day
Since we heard the sad news
Which came as a shock
Which left our hearts so broken still.

Ever remembered by Mother, Father and Sisters.

Letter to W.A.

[illegible] 19th 1945
Dear L.I.E.S.

I want to thank you for the carton of cigarettes which arrived here yesterday. You can be sure they are most deeply appreciated, and I am most grateful to you all for being so kind.

Please convey my best wishes to all the members of the Institute.

It is my hope, when I get back from the Far East that I will be able to return all the kindness that has been done for me during my years overseas.

All the very nice gifts which have been sent from the Ladies Institute of Fort Saskatchewan to me will never be forgotten, because they have helped to keep up the good spirits especially when one is so very far from home.

Once again many thanks and good luck to you all.

Yours most sincerely,
Fred J. Desjardins

The school year rapidly draws to a close and each and every pupil is busy contributing as to the quality of mental goods on the shelves. There's always the odd compartment that lacks goods of any sort and arrangements for an immediate remedy must be made. The weather, even if unsuitable to field crops, has been ideal for studying and for this we must be thankful.

On Sunday 17th, Manje Camp staged another weiner Roast to raise the wherewithal to pay many expenses. The result was highly gratifying and the management can show a handsome on the right side of its books.

The following Tuesday Beaver Hills had dedicated to a Social for raising funds for its W.A. The big attraction of the evening was the semi-final and the final games in the softball Tournament to decide who was to be the holder of the challenge cup. It may be remembered that a heavy shower interrupted the tournament of Trash Hunt Day and some arrangement had to be made to complete the games. Yesterday on Good Hope and Deep Creek and Partridge Hill left Deep Creek and Good Hope to finish the series. The game was over in the afternoon and a narrow margin of 11-10 left Good Hope victors for 1945. In a few appropriate remarks, Bert Ross performed the presentation. Mrs. Ross had kindly provided prizes for the event, but the left little time available for such pursuits and the duty into you off with the house.

A pick-up game of married and single men provided a welcome change to the serious part of the evening and the booth run by the Beaver Hills ladies endeavoured to fill blank in our larders. It was an evening to be remembered.

Students Display Fine Craftsmanship

A fine exhibit of craftsmanship made by pupils of the Fort school is displayed in the window of Carscadden's Hardware.

The articles made under the supervision of Mr. Richardson, consist of a china cabinet, 2 wooden lamps, 1 lamp made from Kem's cement, pot and ink stands, cement pen pencil and a box to hold tubes of oil paints.

Not to be outdone the girls, under the supervision of Mrs McLellan, also have some very fine handiwork on display in the form of a runner; set of a linnitz jacket, silk blouses and a sealy set.

These articles are exceptionally well made and the parents of these boys and girls should be proud of some work.

East Edmonton

Armed with soap, brushes, cleaning agents and scrubbing pails, the WIBing Workers descended in a body on their community club house one Wednesday morning, resolved on unconditional surrender of their ancient enemies, dust, grime and disorder.

No mahs, boys or armoured vehicles participated, but there came a hammer hauling a stone boat on which repposed a baghead of soft water there came a team of draught horse and a wagon piled with old lumber for repair work, white headed dames toting baby n-law, and some of the girls, and some came to care, but all had the same do-or-die look, and the din as the old hands were on the job.

The brooding quiet of the old bulldozers of hammer and saw, scrubbing brushes, brooms, and waxers, punctuated by thrill feminine voices.

In the afternoon, quite unexpectedly, but decidedly welcome, came an angel bearing gifts—buttered scones, and the refreshment of the town committee.

After that, nobody really got going again, and although the work accomplished was viewed with a great deal of satisfaction, still it was only a passing triumph. Next week, next month, some day, anyway, it would all have to be done over again.

And, after all, that's the way life is. But still, sufficient unto the day, say we all; to the good work there of.

The question as to whether the finished assets of the hockey club be pooled with those of the sports club was tabled, by reason of the fact that half only of the hockey members were present. Fort Saskatchewan to be Centre For Composite High School

A fair representation of people from Fort Saskatchewan and surrounding districts assembled in Edmonton Meeting held in the Commerce Hall. Tuesday evening to hear Hon. H. R. Ayerly, Minister of Education, Evan E. Baker, M.L.A. and Mr. J. J. Le Blanc Inspector of the Lower Beaver School Division outline plans to make Fort Saskatchewan a High School centre.

Mrs. A. A. Webster, chairman of the Lower Schoo l Board acted as chairman of the meeting and welcomed the speakers.

Mr. Baker the first speaker outlined to the audience the necessity for co-operation. He said the citizens after electing their school board members, were [illegible] to co-operate with them in solving the problems that might arise.

All this would mean the erection of a new school in Fort Saskatchewan with [illegible] gymnasium, etc. A modern [illegible] might also be built to house students who live too far away to come and go by bus every day. The happier problem to be faced would be the financing of this project, but with the co-operation and determination of every citizen to see that their children received the highest standard of education possible this task could be accomplished

Before the meeting opened Mr Baker allowed a film on "Boy Building" taken at the nutrition camp at Elk Island Park.

The camp which was erected by the residents of Lamont and district was under the supervision of Dr. Sproule, assisted by nurses from the Lamont Hospital and a dietitian, demonstrated how malnourished children can be aided and assisted to normal health by the proper food, exercise and rest. During the six weeks the camp was in operation the average weight gain of the 30 boys attending was 5.6 lbs.

It is to be hoped that more camps of this nature will be operated throughout the province so that our young folks, both mentally and physically nourished, will have an opportunity to build strong, healthy bodies the same as these more fortunate.

Fire Protection

Residents living outside the town limits desiring fire protection from the town fire department should notify the Town Council.

The bylaw in respect to the fire apparatus going to fires is: The fire-fighting equipment of the town cannot be taken outside the limits of the town to fight fires.

It should not require that if a fire breaks out in a residence just outside the town limits it would create undue hardship on that party, and therefore are willing if these residents so desire, to come to some satisfactory arrangements whereby they would receive fire protection.

Those directly concerned, and who wish to have this protection are urgently requested to get in touch with the council.

Two discharged R.C.A.F. pilots have written on from Swastika, Ont., to ask how they can get into partnership in the aviation business. Ross Bourne, Nanaimo and Val d'Or.

When it comes to handing out character and franchises for routes like these, there is authority will be considering dozens of applications from outfits like Canadian Pacific Airlines, established pre-war bush operators and the odd new organization backed by millions of dollars.

N E W S

At least two Canadian provincial governments—Ontario and Saskatchewan say they are going to operate feeder lines after the war, and they can afford to lose a lot more money doing it than these young air lines can.

N E W S

Now for the bright side of the picture. If you believe have half a million or so behind you, go ahead and get ready to apply for airline rights, but if not forget the airline proposition and think in terms of operating an airport instead. Quote in Air Trail, Flip-to-Yourself service and flying News.

N E W S

As for the airport, go after the open council of Kirkland Lake or Lander Lake or wherever place you're interested in and get busy in pitching a site on the waterfront, a site that can be used for other land planes or planes on floats.

N E W S

Also write to Cub Aircraft Corp., Hamilton, and ask them to send you a copy of a book entitled. "What Your Town Needs for the Coming Air Age." This book printed by the Piper Aircraft Co. of Lock Haven, Pa., shows the exact cost of landing facilities which can be provided, and it will be sent to you free. It can't give you the exact costs of an airport. This will range anywhere from a few hundred to many thousands of dollars depending on your individual needs.

N E W S

The boys ask two main questions. First, how can they start on the line? Second, how can they procure an airport and planes and what will be the cost? In this connection, how about used air force planes?

N E W S

We can't of course, give detailed answers to the whole problem in just one column, but to deal briefly with the airline questions, the only fair reply is "Yes probably can't."

N E W S

In the first place no airline can be operated without a government granted company charter and a franchise for each route. The truth of the matter is that there are in all Canada comparatively few open routes for feeder or mainline airlines on which any organization will have a chance to make ends meet from a regular service.

N E W S

Among the few profitable looking routes which will be open are routes in the very country from which our boys are flying, routes linking such places as Toronto and Montreal with Sudbury, Timmins, Kirkland Lake, Sioux Lookout, Fort William, Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Prince Albert, Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Moose Jaw, Brandon, Portage la Prairie, Winnipeg, Norman, and Val d'Or.

Letters to W.I.

Dear Mrs. Black:

Received your parcel yesterday, just a day or so ago and I wish to express my sincerest thanks for the same.

To be sure it was enjoyed by one and all, it being common truth within this unit to share all we obtain amongst us all, and you may realize that we all have a great treat in store for us after regularly through the great work of our home town organization.

Things are quite quiet now as we are entering the preliminary stages of refitting, better for a short while preparatory to completing our one major task which lies ahead of us and end of travels has been long and has engrossed us in periods of hard work and only through the great wash of our local organizations in keeping us in high spirits through the many days of supplying comforts has our task been made easier for the friends and everyone of the members of the Women's Institute, please convey my many thanks for your remembrance, and the kind thought and everyone of the good people of Fort Saskatchewan and Community.

Dear Mrs. Black:

This is to let you know that I received the parcel and card this month.

It made me very happy to know that we are not forgotten by our friends at home even though we have been away for so long.

I ask you to please convey, on my behalf, my heartfelt thanks to the members of the ladies of your wonderful organization for their thoughtfulness in remembering us the very welcome parcel and lovely card.

I hope that it is not too long before I will be home and able to see you all and thank you personally.

Gratefully yours,

Dear Mrs. Black:

Just a word of thanks and appreciation for the parcel and cigarettes I received today. I wish to convey many thanks on behalf of myself and those of your Institute for the good work you are doing for the boys in the service over there.

I wish to say a word about good old England. There all the decorations and those that money can procure at the people they have stood up remarkably well. They sure took an awful beating in the early stages of the war, but through all this England stands out as the country to slowly getting back to the normal standards of living.

So in closing I wish to thank you one and all again and hope that we will all be home again before very long.

Best of regards to you all.

N E W S

Dear Mrs. Black:

I just wanted to drop a few lines to let you know that I received your most welcome parcel and which was greatly appreciated. I want to thank you and the rest of the ladies concerned for thinking of me in such a way. It sort of helps to wrap and also makes you feel that you are still remembered by your home town. I was born in Fort Saskatchewan 32 years ago and remember quite a few of the old timers, but after leaving the community there were quite a few new arrivals and I was gradually forgotten and I myself am now a stranger.

My wife is in the Port at present and I would like very much to pay her a visit sometime as I know she is lonely the same as many of the wives left behind to carry on alone and prove their loved ones.

Quite a few of the boys will be back shortly I hope, but there are also the boys which will never get back and I know all of them. It will never be the same in the Port for me after this but I won't be the only one that misses Port.

Well I must bring this letter to a close and once again thanking you and your helpers for your kindness I remain a friend.

[illegible]

Dear Friends:

Many thanks for the gift of cigarettes and parcel which arrived on very opportune time. I can't express in mere words my appreciation for your gift, so will close thanking you all once again.

Yours sincerely,

Pte. J. Compeau.

London Cleaning Up

A number of readers have asked them higher than the surrounding buildings must be. Explanation is the necessity of keeping the air-conditioned area and ventilating equipment above the roof. Also there are three staircases to each floor and all must end inside, which means that each tube, which connects the roof and the ground floor must be carried up to the roof. Besides this, there are two elevator shafts which also must end on the roof. Then there are still other tubes which carry the water and heat to each floor and the ventilating ducts. The latter demand an enormous amount of space, which is why the buildings must be so high.

The difficulty presented by the use of reinforced concrete is another reason why the Monument has been built of stone. Reinforced concrete is not fire-proof, as the Londoners have found out to their cost. Besides, when concrete is exposed to heat it crumbles, whereas stone withstands it. Stone is also cheaper than concrete, and does not require the skilled labor and hard to obtain the kind of labor that is necessary for filling in concrete.

The difficulty presented by the use of reinforced concrete is another reason why the Monument has been built of stone. Reinforced concrete is not fire-proof, as the Londoners have found out to their cost. Besides, when concrete is exposed to heat it crumbles, whereas stone withstands it. Stone is also cheaper than concrete, and does not require the skilled labor and hard to obtain the kind of labor that is necessary for filling in concrete.

Now Is The Time To Deliver Your Wheat Through Pool Elevators

For the remainder of the present crop year, that is up to July 31, farmers may deliver any quantity of wheat they wish. After July 31, however, the 1945-46 delivery quota of 14 bushels per authorized acre will be in effect. This quota, set by the Wheat Board, will apply throughout the province and deliveries will be definitely limited to the amounts allowed to each farmer under it.

Now is the time, therefore, to get your delivered, unless you wish to keep it on your farm as a reserve. The place to take it is to your local Pool elevator. It is your elevator, built by you to give service at cost. It will be to your advantage to use it.

TIMELY FARM NOTES

By Fred H. Miller, District Agriculturist, Court House, Edmonton

GRAY HULL REMOVAL

The following is a method of bulk gray hulls by means of an ordinary threshing machine. It has been successfully established that young threshing pigs relish, in their feed only very limited amounts of roughage. Consequently, pig and chick starters, whether commercial or home mixed, need no mechanical means, especially when oats are one of the ingredients used.

Walter Hoe, Manager of the Olds School of Agriculture Farm, has simplified the job of removing oat hulls to a minimum. He fixes one of an ordinary threshing machine and bull-connecting to done at the time the oats are being threshed.

A flight order's helmet which the rider must wear at all times.

A dispatch rider's helmet which protection, yet is lighter and more comfortable than any previous model.

A new type of gas mask for the Army and the National Basement.

A Field of oats to be used for this purpose must be suggested to ripen well. The threshing machine is fitted with all the concaves (in good condition) and the concaves here are closed in as far as they will go. The machine is then ready for operation. The separator should be operated slightly above normal speed. It can be speeded up by means of the throttle on some of the tractor. Threshing should be done on a dry day and the machine new to be fed into the machine at a rate slower. This will result in about 25 percent of the threshed oats being sent through a fanning mill which will remove loose hulls.

Farmers should thread enough oats in this manner every fall to provide them with sufficient hulls for the winter. Threshing should be done in extra production at the Olds School Farm, experts at the Experimental Farm are urged to try this method of de-hulling oats which no doubt will result in reducing the ac- ing pigs due to summer flies.

Reception of oats hulled and prepared at the Olds School Farm by the above machine is on display in Dis-trict Agriculturists' offices.

INFECTIOUS BRONCHITIS IN PIGS

It is hardly possible to over emphasize the importance of this disease says Dr. V. L. Jones, Animal pathologist. The incidence of bull-mose has increased in Alberta to a disturbing proportions during the past year. Infected farms have found losses to almost every district in the province and the economic loss to many farmers has been severe. Losses are due to:

Origin of the disease as one commercial breeder's premises visited was the purchase of 6 head gilts from a purebred breeder. There were 176 cases of the disease during one visit and the farmer estimated the dea-

PEST CONTROL

A certain amount of damage is caused to grain by grasshoppers, but they, dark, (usually black) beetle which are very quickly destroyed. The presence of this beetle, known known as the flea beetle, is usually due to the presence of weeds, usually in the leaves of radish, turnips or cabbage.

The adult flea beetles spend the winter under trash in the garden, and in spring lay their eggs in the soil around the young plants. The larvae which hatch from the eggs feed on the roots for a short time and then emerge as adult beetles to feed on the leaves. There is only one generation of flea beetles a year. They may feed on cabbages, cauliflower and potatoes, but are particularly fond of radish and turnips.

For control of this insect, the application of dusts of Paris green is recommended. Dusts in the cooler part of the day when there is a short supply of moisture, but where it can be obtained it may be mixed at the rate of 1 part of dusts dust to 10 parts of flour or other fine mix-ture, and applied to the foliage. A good sweetening of Paris green, 1 part; copper carbonate, 1 part; and hydrated lime, 4 parts; will prevent feeding. For best results, the leaves of the plants should be treated as soon as damage is noted.

Photographic lenses for war purposes are tested by Canadian scientists for accuracies up to a millionth of an inch by placing a lens of known spherical accuracy against the one to be tested and then passing a beam of light through them both. "Interference patterns" in the shape of curves and lines show up any flaws in the new lens.

WINGS over CANADA
Russell I. GIBSON
Robert REEDS

A few days ago three young men home veterans from Dunnville, Ont., were in a hurry and could get into Hamilton by no other means than flying the 50 miles. So they chartered a plane. Steward solution such as 2 tablespoons crystals added to a gallon of water. It is necessary to add this to the sanitary condition to reduce the possibility of infection being established. In order to prevent the disease from being introduced to the premises, it is very advisable that additions to the herd be made from premises where this disease has not been seen. Until the infection is well established, it is not difficult to keep it out. Although there was a distortion of the nose—somewhat when it is pushed to one side or in the other direction. Although it looks terrible when it is first noticed, it does not affect pigs who have had the disease. Treatment is very simple. Sniffling and sneezing are the symptoms usually noticed first, but the disease soon spreads and affected pigs will rub their noses because of the irritation. Bleeding at the nose is also sometimes noticed. The appearance of the farmer cited above, is similar to that of many commercial pigs now suffering from this disease but has been the means of losing a great deal of money and a pigs before being able to bring the disease under control.

"One-Way" Farming for Profit

A striking example of the effectiveness of a machine, in helping farmers operate more profitably under present conditions, is found in the One-Way Disc. Introduced during the drought spell and period of low prices for farm products, it helped farmers cut down their production costs, thereby leaving them more margin for profit.

It is little wonder then that the One-Way Disc Harrow quickly became one of the most popular machines on the market. Preparing the soil and sowing the seed in one operation, the One-Way Disc Seeder cuts time and expense. Used as a tillage machine it destroys weeds and leaves the land in a condition to resist soil drifting. In effect the One-Way Disc offers the usefulness of two machines at little more cost than the price of one.

In design and construction the Massey-Harris One-Way Disc offers special advantages that appeal to users. The sturdy frame construction, long wear replaceable bearings, patented cone bumper, easily adjusted direct draft hitch, and quick action power lift are features that contribute to the popularity of the Massey-Harris. Your local dealer will be glad to give you full particulars.

Reconstruction--
Canada's Opportunity

THE FARM

Farms are the backbone of the nation's wealth. Think what Canadian farmers have done during the war, feeding millions at home and abroad, despite lack of help and equipment. One farmer, have always been the cradle of our national leadership. Children reared there have the daily responsibilities of farm life which develop men of character and manhood.

Saskatchewan farmer estimating the part of agriculture in the post-war reconstruction, said "The run-down-ess of many of our farms, the strained and dissatisfied condition of many of our farmers in this past, speak eloquently of the way merely materialistic objectives submerge and undervalue a social agriculture. The harsh realism of world depression and the unfinitely harsher realism of war, have surely torn from our eyes any complacency illusions about the need for a change, not only in our institutions, but fundamentally in our aims and objectives.

A brand new avenue of creative action will open up when farmers begin to see clearly their true place in national and international life. No longer will we as a class drivers and slaves and objectors from our true function of leading people. The full wealth of the farmer must become an abounding objective and will no longer be content to be content to be content to

In loving memory of our dear mother Mrs. Jaspar Smith who passed away July 3rd, 1943.

We take her from us and a friend,
On her we always could depend.
She cheered us in sickness
And comforted in sorrow
God grant some day we'll meet again.

Sadly remembered by her family.

In loving memory of Cpl. Alan J. Rowland who paid the supreme sacrifice in Burma, on July 5th, 1944.

He Rests, thought when leaving us,
He would no more return
That by in death no more would drop
And tears no more to mourn.
We do not know what pains he bore,
We did not see him die,
We only know he passed away
And never said good-bye.

Ever remembered by Mom and Sisters.

Josephburg

It is always good to see one's old friends returning to the home pad back after they have been enticed away, by visions of fatter pastures and fairer goings. The bright lights and the people and various of Edmonton seem to still possess magnets to attract the wanderers of roads, but the home earth will exercise a power by and by. All of which by-the-by is the point raising here tonight. We are to have Frank Hawing and family back in our midst, Dr. Purvis's current prescription needs—for once despite a bad allergies in the country—a stiff bout; for rural dwellers a bit longer in town. There are our people ready to over attached to this sage advice. Take it; you're welcome to extra charge!

Fred Thomas, who recently moved to the vicinity of the burg of Joseph burg, has been visiting old friends on the renovation of his new property. From looking like nobody's business the house surroundings already begin to shape into desirable residential property as our friends of the Real Estate profession would list it. Just wait till the paint brush adds its fervor, and the grass around will be green with envy. Anybody desiring the services of a super architect to would do well to engage the gentles before Otwave snaps him up to design the lay-out of the new city which will be home the League of all Nations.

The Mayor and Council of Josephburg in full regalia and piped by the leading Pipe Band in the City, went out en force to turn the first sod of the new sub-division which will form the fashionable West end of the aforesaid. Josephburg Council is working overtime to issue building permits, which by the way are dealt with in strict rotation, no partiality being shown to high or low. Tenders for the hard-surfacing and boulevarding of the main thoroughfare will be received up till $2.00 hours Saturday, July 7th. The lowest tender will not be accepted. A delay staff is endeavouring to cope with the dispensing in addition, but it is expected the taxicab service will have to take the place of a trolley bus system for a while at any rate. The present City water-mains will be totally inadequate and a permit to obtain water either from Lake Astotin or the Saskatchewan River is being sought. Shortly the Josephburg hotel interests are thronged with floaterers anxious to take advantage of the time "Watch Josephburg Grow", is the slogan.

The situation remain as sad about us our sanitation.

"Have you seen Josephburg recently?"

"Sure, I was there last night."

"Yes, but have you seen it this morning?"

And still there are folks who maintain that the age of miracles is past.

Dominion Day saw an exodus of our citizens Eastward to Bredenbun; Westward to Gibbons. Our ballteam covered itself with glory; our catcher covered himself with gore. When the smoke of battle cleared, it was found that the enemy had vanquished our boys by an insignificant margin. Two and Three was the count! My answer, after deep cogitation, is that apparently we did not make enough noise.

Which reminds us of a little incident we witnessed years ago at a Teachers Convention. A young school

Town of Fort Saskatchewan
WEDNESDAY, JULY 18

The Town Council of Fort Saskatchewan has declared WEDNESDAY, JULY 18th as a Civic Holiday to allow the Citizens to attend the Edmonton Exhibition.

At Home

"If we know our boys" said a great many people in this country in the first thing they'll want when they get discharged is a long holiday, about three months. They'll not like kids out of school. They'll want to lounge around, doing nothing but eat, sleep and loaf, with no strenuous arguments or brass hats to command.

As a matter of fact it's probably a holiday needed—but not for any three months. Canada's boys, from the moment of the Rehabilitation Information Committee Plan operation swings into full action, will be given the best aids of paper work information and sundry that the ingenuity of a number of the active forces of his country, the repatriated veteran enjoys help to the full, with his thoughts for the future. He sees his wife, children, mother or sweetheart. And he knows that he will be for so long. He drops into the drug store for a chat, has a meal when he wishes, hangs around the ball park playing catch. He gets out the old golf clubs and tries to break 100. And he does everything he has wanted to do for a long time.

But that is the realizes that all these things used to be fun because there was a job waiting for him, enough for him and play with. Now all his old pals are working long hours, are waiting for the week-end when they have to be regimented.

Loafing doesn't seem so enjoyable as he thought it would be. Something seems to be lacking. Soon, it will be time to go back to work. Then he realizes he has to take the plunge back in a civilian job.

Statistics compiled by veterans welfare officers from coast to coast show that almost 40 percent of the veterans were unable to go back to the job that is waiting for them. For many reasons, for instance, the place they left is join up, or as their own farm has been sold. "I'm not sure what I'll do," I've back. How about a new job?" Another 20 to 30 percent expressed dissatisfaction with their pre-service occupations. Often they do not think that they have been given the right jobs or they feel that the emotional effects has given them a bad show.

For such a big programme, however, the number of real complaints is surprisingly few. The Department of Veterans' Affairs and National Employment Services officers all across Canada are getting ready to handle an ever-increasing influx of men returning home. Day by day they are helping the veteran to overcome the problems of civvy street that he meets on his return.

Banks to Cash Family Allowance Cheques

Toronto, July 7—Starting sometime this month, the banks, for the first time in their history, will cash cheques for individual cheques will be issued by the government each month," he said. "Most of these cheques will be presented at the branch banks for cash on demand.

"All government cheques are cashed by the banks without charge, and the banks have willingly accepted this additional opportunity for serving Canadians. Many of them, especially the new ones that will come into contact with the banks and with the useful services they perform.

"We shall welcome all of these people and aim to make Family Allowance cheques as easy to cash as any. At the same time it is my duty to point out the need of the banks in their operation on the part of all who receive these cheques.

"Recipients of Family Allowance cheques can help themselves and the banks by remembering four simple things:

1. The need for proper identification at the bank.
2. The need to make sure that cheque is correctly endorsed.
3. The need to guard against losing cheque after endorsing and before cashing it.
4. The importance of going to the bank in the morning hours if possible.

"First of all, of course, is identification—a head must be sure that the person presenting the cheque is the right person; therefore, if the holder of a Family Allowance cheque is not known in the local bank, he or she should take into the bank when presenting it somebody who is known in the branch. This will help to obviate any delay and misunderstanding.

"Next, is the endorsement on a cheque—it must be endorsed exactly as it is issued to you. Even after it is endorsed the payee should take no chances of losing or having it stolen before it is cashed.

"Recipients can help very greatly also by using the banks during the earlier hours of the day rather than during their busiest hours.

"No doubt many cheques will reach the banks through merchants who may cash them for their own customers. Merchants and storekeepers would be well advised to make sure of the identification of such customers. Merchants and storekeepers would be well advised to make sure of the identification of such customers. Merchants and storekeepers would be well advised to make sure of the identification of such persons before offering a cheque and to make sure also that the cheque is endorsed correctly as it is made out."

KEEN INSPECTION

Among the reasons for the banks' caution is the experience of the Canning Section of the Fruits and Vegetables Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, were incorrect labelling, degrading, high mould content, unsanitary containers, low soluble solids, salvaged from fire or wreck, and packed in containers not open for inspection, and shipped out of province.

Letters to the Old Boys

Dear Mrs. Black:

The birthday parcel from the Women's Institute came safely and we were very thankful indeed. It was the first meal that has ranged through to me for the last week or so which made it doubly welcome. The soup was indeed a happy thought—it is many moons here at the moment. The cards, too, arrived in the nick of time. I last using yesterday.

We are all waiting to go back to the U.K. now, and time is heavy on our hands. We expect to get away in a couple of weeks from now. In the meanwhile we fill in the time with yoga in Venice, the monuments and with swimming in the river which runs about fifty yards from our room. Tomorrow some of us are going to Austria for a few days leave. It should be a good outing.

Once again thank you for the parcel. Best wishes to the W.I. and yourself.

Sincerely,
(Sgt.) John Gibson.

Dear Mrs. Black and Members:

I received your lovely parcel and appreciate this morning and I must say nothing is appreciated more than a remembrance birthday. My buddies also wish to add their thanks to mine for their share and I am indeed fortunate to have such a splendid organization to my home town. Please extend my gratitude and thanks to all your members.

Yours sincerely,
C. B. Rhinelan.

Dear Mrs. Black:

Just a few lines to let you know that I received the cigarettes and parcel you sent me for my birthday. I sure don't know how to thank you enough for them—you just can't buy anything over here. We are having very nice weather and have everything is ok.

I got a letter from mother the other day. She has been sick but I am not too bad now. I also got one from Mrs. Vanier, the monument man, and was interesting to the river which runs about fifty yards from our room. Tomorrow some of us are going to Austria for a few days leave. It should be a good outing.

Once again thank you for the parcel. Best wishes to the W.I. and yourself.

Sincerely,
(Sgt.) John Gibson.

Control Rent Sumner Homes

Summer cottages are under control against speculation and may not be rented for more than the amount charged during the summer of 1941, says regional rentals officer George J. Bryan. Any summer house being rented for the first time must have the rate fixed by their rentals administration of the Prices Board, Mr. Bryan reminds.

Any person desiring to spend the summer out of doors in a city may use the accommodation they own, or with the consent of their landlord sub-let the accommodation they are occupying for a "bona controls" of five months or less, and the tenant has no right of occupation at the expiration of the term. The landlord must apply to have the rental fixed if these has been no previous fixation.

Growth of Interest Farm Radio Forum

The remarkable growth of farm radio forums in Canada has called public attention to the widespread interest that Canadian farming communities are devoting to the advancement of agriculture in the post-war era, so the Canadian Association for Adult Education has announced. Since the conference on adult education in Canada recently held in Winnipeg, it was added, considerable progress has been made through the report on the progress of the national radio forum that many 1,000 rural study groups participated in the meetings during the winter months, it was said. The total number of meetings held by these groups during the forum season was approximately 10,000.

Over 50 different kinds of action projects under way were reported by the study groups in the closer of the season. A third of the study groups reported that their activities during the projected has been completed, 29 per cent are still under way, and 22 per cent of the groups are planning to undertake projects for the future. One of the outstanding action projects reported from the radio forum was the development of country veterinary service, it was said.

Projects under way in other provinces include the establishment of co-operative stores or other forms of co-operative enterprise, better health inspection, consolidated school units, and such like. In one farm forum study in one county in Quebec, since farm women's organizations are not a part of the men's work, eight of the groups having definite projects under way. One of the projects undertaken was a test under co-operative conditions.

Other projects include the purchase of pure-bred sires, co-operative buying of fertilizer, co-operative marketing, and raising money for sports equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armstrong and son, Stanley of New Norway, were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong sister, Mrs. E. Hoyer.

Alice and Gordon Miller left last Saturday for the Calgary Stampede.

Miss Pauline Elizabeth left for her home in Innisfree last Sunday, where she will begin her holidays.

Key Man for Reconstruction

As the machinery for transferring soldiers to civilian speeds up there is an increasing need for key men. These key men are the men upon which pivots the rate of a "first-in, first out" policy in regard to discharge of a soldier's service unit and overseas.

Broadly speaking, the crux of the whole problem matter is this: It is necessary to get out of the army in order to get enough fresh for other men to do.

At the present time, and increasingly as the weeks go by and more men are released from the army, there are problems in regard to re-fitting men of manpower as men return from overseas. It has been anticipated that a will take a matter of 18 months to repatriate all of those overseas personnel. To substitute who are now steadily awaiting the return of those men, 18 months may seem a long time. But learning men from war to peace is a subject that takes time to learn. It also needs experts.

All over the country there are boundless farms, factories and industrial plants which are short of manpower, and which will welcome with open arms those who are returning from overseas. But these farms are going to expand, they need men to assist in the use of the plants in their supervisory positions filled. There is also a need for technical and advancements at the present time.

The change over from war to peace-time industry is a problem which is also raising the need for alternations a plant and machinery and a large number of skilled workmen.

This programme, it has been stated, is designed to make a heavy demand on the country's labor resources, and will ultimately provide new employ for many men.

And this is why the government is facilitating the release of certain key men so that their services will be available in preparing for reconstruction.

The things that will govern these key men and the thing that will bring them out of the army into civilian life ahead of those of their comrades is the importance of their work in reconstruction, and also in the effective prosecution of the war.

Here is how the machinery for the release of these key men works. An industrial committee has been established operates under the chairmanship of the Department of labour, Industrial Relations Officer and Controllers, consisting of representative of the Labour Department and the Department of Labour and Reconstruction have been set up at Vancouver, Regina, Winnipeg, London, Toronto, Kingston, Montreal, Quebec, Saint John, Halifax and Edmonton.

If an employer requires the services of a key worker he is required to make applications to his area committee which will go over the case, and recommend on its merits. The recommendation is then forwarded to the Department of Labour at Ottawa and the application to the minister with the board's decision. If the branch of the forces to which the man is serving can spare the man, he will be released.

When it comes to the release of each needed key personnel, the men affected must agree to the decision before he can be released.

Farms For Veterans

[illegible] ...ment [illegible] ...ning was a business-like affair conducted by rural Edmonton, but that's certainly not the case in 1945. And it is certainly not the case when it comes to the Veterans' Land Act. The appointment of the Hon. Ian Mackenzie as minister charged with the responsibility of land settlement is functioning at the present time, and will continue to function to the clear purpose of seeing that the men who elect to turn from war to harvest are not the men who are made a casualty of it.

There was common sense in the way this aspect was handled after the war. The appointment of Mackenzie [illegible] ...ministration a large number of men who had served with the colors—men who had been in the ranks of the 16 months of the end of the war in this period, 19,000 men were placed on the land. It was also stated that some of the veterans of 1914-18 got their start on the land and quickly settled to agriculture. And there was also the thought that men were placed on the land who had no previous experience in the life. You have to have an aptitude for farming, just as you have to have an aptitude for being a doctor, a lawyer or a bank-keeper. You have to have the knack and the skill for it.

Another advantage of the present land settlement scheme is the fact that this time there is a trained settlement staff. This was not the case after the last war.

Re-establishment of the veteran of this war is putting stress on the angle of vocational guidance. Look before you leap is the advice given by counsellors when the man discusses the problem of farming with them. They tell him what he'll be up against, they find out whether he's really going to like the life, and whether his wife will like the life. The advantages and disadvantages of farm life are understood, and the veteran is asked to look the picture in its true perspective.

The government will help the veteran to finance land, buildings, stock and equipment up to $6,000. The maximum amount that can be expended for livestock and equipment is $1,200. The veteran makes a down-payment of 10 per cent of the cost of the land and buildings in instalments which may be extended up to 25 years. The rate of interest at this is 3 1/2 per cent. The government absorbs the balance of the cost which is approximately 54 per cent. In addition, if he has complied with the terms of the contract for 10 years the money which he obtained for equipment and livestock becomes an outright grant After 10 years, or after the veteran has paid all his instalments, whichever is the longer period, the veteran is given the deed to the property.

But the government's interest in the veteran goes past the purely financial aspect of the situation. Personal and counselling helps the man to know the type of farming he likes best—whether it be in wheat, fruit, livestock or any of the other phases of agriculture.

There is no intention of extending financial aid to veterans for establishment on land that is unsuitable for settlement purposes and the administrators of the Act are working in close co-operation with the federal and provincial departments of agriculture and Canadian agricultural schools in pursuance of this policy.

And henchmen, that beginner of land settlement, is also receiving attention. It is the intention of those in charge to see that the veterans settle in communities that are well established, and where there is a reasonable standard of social services established.

The following is a poem written a few days after the V-E Day rest to Holiday, by a shipmate of L. B. Fletcher of Tofield.

Last week you showed your Navy Pay the gallant job its done
But to-day you sneer at the lads in him
And forget how the war was won

Pay on that day of Victory
When the lads their joy did share,
There were no pals, no shows, no [illegible]
Where all the lads could go.

Can you answer those fighters
That sail the dangerous sea,
Fighting for your right to live
In land of liberty.

Those lads that suffer hardship
That no words alone can tell,
Of storms in all their fury
That make life almost ship a hell.

Because your town was damaged
By rioters in their hour,
Have you the right to turn and sneer
At a sailor on the street.

Are you proud of all the credit
In our Fighting Navy Name.

Horse Hill Wins Livestock Co-op Trophy

Excitement gushes reigned supreme last Friday between Josephburg and Horse Hill ball teams for the Alberta Livestock Co-operative trophy. The game was eventually won by the Horse Hill team after several attempts by the Josephburg team to have the game...ed. Last Sunday change has occurred. The two pass the score in the game, the two one all the ardent fans threatening to call the umpire, ye change their minds at the moment.

Earl Mortensen, Vice-Pres of the Alberta Livestock Co-operative Association, in a few well chosen words presented the cup to the winning team, stated that the directors of A.L.C. Ass...ess of stimulating an interest in the cultivation of good clean sport, among the younger generation of the rural areas. That is what motivated them in donating the cup. The history of the cup should remain in the minds of those present as are local announcements. So may Billy and Lucille be remembered as to what they were batting for, over the loud speaker, and had the cup presented to the band of his car, from where he made a capital job a giving a running commentary of the game.

Bob also came to the defense of the Horse Hill Five lineman for the cold error, when he wished to deny the records attention to the fact that the two Josephburg had every reason to be a bit excited, he having been selected to represent the University of Alberta at the All-Army Conference to be held in the East Central Stades this coming week, and that he had stayed over a day longer in order to compete in the tournament, which proves his qualifications of being both a good sport and good scholar. All joined in wishing Bill the best of luck.

Bill is the son of Mr and Mrs. Hector Clark of Horse Hill.

A close contest was also played between the Brownsvue and Lamoureux football teams. The Brownsvue boys winning with a score of [illegible] to [illegible].

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Violet Eliza Lawrence, who passed beyond, July 16, 1944.

Our love has passed since you were here,
To speak kind words of comfort and cheer.
God knows the vacant place you left,
Cannot be filled for heart bereft.
We rejoice, but sore to know,
Your infant grandchildren cannot know;
The sheer us on and to be tonight,
In paths of peace which memory wrought.

Memories ways our Father knows,
To guide his children here below.
Then in faith we leave to his care,
And say, Thy will not ours be done.

Rest remembered by Ralph, Helen, Hazel and Al.

In loving memory of our sister, and Miss Lawrence, who passed away July 16, 1944.

Her life was earnest,
Her actions kind,
A generous hand and active mind;
Anxious to please, loath to offend,
A loving sister and faithful friend.
Ever remembered by her sister and brothers.

Safe Flying

A new security system to be installed in United Kingdom civil aircraft will make flying safer than ever before. It is based on new methods of fire-fighting evolved from wartime experiences of the R.A.F.

During the hole it was found that a large proportion of crashes was caused through engine fires due to the set off escaping from damaged leads or pipelines. The fuel, it was proved, was usually fired by the ignition system of a still-rotating engine.

To combat this an extinguisher system was devised. Linked to a remote warning light of a fire should break out in the power plant and R.A.F. experts state instrument is described "fire-drill". The system was also designed to give the maximum possible protection against fires during the war on average of almost caused through crash landings. As a 6 tons a minute

As you can imagine things are the pretty quiet now and everyone is waiting to get home. The arrival of a parcel is always a welcome event, but, even more so now.

Thanking you again

Wartime radio drivers will do much to make accessibility fly, radio will soon play just as important role in the whole story cannot yet be told, however, for radio is still more in Canada's closely guarded war secret

But of radio, as on a submarine miles away under water at night it can also prevent a pilot from allowing a plane to run into an obstruction while flying blind in a cloud.

Just as important is what radio can already do for private flying enthusiasts. Compact and inexpensive radio receivers and transmitters enable a pilot to take a radio beam, or communicate with the nearest airport for weather reports and other information.

The pilot can also tune his receiver into an ordinary radio station, and with directional

The pilot can always tell when he is over the beam for then he gets a continuous signal. If he gets off it to the right he hears a dot followed by a dash, or if he strays to the left he hears a dash, then a dot. A beam will take right in to the airport for which he is headed, though he does need a few hundred feet of visibility to make a safe landing

Also the war the airplanes are being so modified that they will bring a plane in for a blind landing, and such equipment will work for private planes too, of course Trans Canada Plane Co Cruisers which are going to be built in Canada at Hamilton after the war will have built-in radio equipment so their owners can go touring day or night anywhere on the continent

A lot of people wonder how a radio beam or range work Well, we haven't space for a technical explanation, and most readers wouldn't give a hoot but in at the same the transmitter which sends out the directional signal does so in four different arms

There have to be four arms, though each of the four can point in almost any direction. Thus the Toronto beam for one arm pointing towards North Bay, another towards Buffalo, another towards Chicago and the fourth points off into nothing a particular

You could much turn is met by the radio at another airport station The next pointing from Toronto to ward North Bay will be met by another arm pointing from North Bay to Toronto, for instance. The same applies to each of Sioux Lookout Canadian Pacific Air Lines Winnipeg, Weston, in Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver

GRADING QUALITY HARD RED WHEAT

According to the annual survey made by the Grain Research Lab oratory of the Board of Grain Commissioners, the average protein content of Canada Western hard red spring wheat for the 1944 crop at Winnipeg, Canadian hard red spring wheat 12 percent. This figure is lower than that for 1943 by 0.7 percent and lower by 0.6 percent than the average for the 15 years during which surveys have been made.

The grade of the 1944 crop is not greatly deteriorated because of the large carryover of old wheat which has passed through inspection since 1943 the year for which the protein averages for the four western grades of the crop grade are as follows. The estimates of the growing crops have been derived from samples of seed cut and threshed by hand at the Cereal Research Laboratory that the bulk of the wheat crop should grade 1 and 2 Northern and that the percentages of 4 Northern somewhat higher than in 1943. Weather is front damage and consequently was the principal degrading factor.

NAIL PUSHER FOR PRYING TOMATOES

"New Agriculture" published in the United States tells a story I have heard in farmers' meetings in packing problem that arose on her husband's truck farm The women were packers hired in the were certainly energetic enough in their new profession as among her duties the crop, however, the women were packed very either too ripe or green to stand shipping. The result and He did not know what to do but his wife did.

She called in a conscientious objector, a professor of the Faculty of Agriculture at Purdue University, Indiana After several hours of deep vision, the professor decided that the women were suffering from a woman's inability to discriminate between shades of red for packing As he watched, an idea struck him. Why not mix a shade of nail polish the color of ripe tomatoes so that the women would have a standard guide at their fingertips all the time? It worked, and sure enough whenever a woman reached for the tomatoes, she picked only the ripe ones

WATER VERSUS AIR IN COOLING MILK

If a can of warm fresh milk is placed in a refrigerated room where the air temperature is at freezing point, it will take 13 hours before the temperature of the milk has fallen to 39 degrees F. That is because air absorbs heat very slowly Water absorbs heat much more quickly than air. Because in cooling milk with water, the larger the volume of water and the lower its temperature, the more quickly the milk will be cooled. Cooling is more rapid when either the milk or the water or both are kept in motion. The value of stirring the milk is a matter of commonplace knowledge on the farm, but the idea that equally good results may be obtained by stirring the water is not as well known. In stirring milk, how-

Reconstruction-- Canada's Opportunity

When he thunders "Men, it is time for God to finally about it that many a Nazi has learned to respect Bishop Arne's rugged and unswerving courage. He is a campaigner for this whole Province and as such he is also a leader in reaching home.

In an interview published recently, Bishop Fjellbo describes how the Norwegian Church continued and kept united during the years of occupation He and his wife were related to a concentration camp by the Quisling regime but escaped across the border to Sweden

The Bishop, in concluding, shall urges the church to take the lead in reconstruction

"I am quite sure the [illegible] Group has given our Norwegian Church a good part of the spiritual life and force which has made the Church able for the struggle. "Self-Propelled"

Another Move Forward for Agriculture

New developments in machinery have always had a marked effect upon farming. The reaper, the binder, the tractor and power farming equipment, and the combine all have helped farmers do their work easier, quicker and more profitably.

The latest development in farm equipment, the self-propelled combine perfected by MASSEY-HARRIS prior to the war, has revolutionized harvesting. It has also opened up new possibilities to the business of agriculture for developments in other types of farm machinery that will bring increased advantages in the saving of time and labor.

With the MASSEY-HARRIS self-propelled combine, one man with the grain tank model can harvest sixty acres and upwards in a day. Costs are less, too, because one motor operates the mechanism and propels the machine. Grain is saved, none being knocked down and shelled in opening the field. Anyone who can drive a car can learn to operate a self-propelled combine.

Good farm management employs the advantages of modern equipment to speed up the work, save labor, increase production and lower production costs. It is easier to farm profitably with good equipment. Your local dealer will be glad to give you full particulars about the self-propelled combine and other machines in the MASSEY-HARRIS line engineered and built to meet the needs of modern farming.

Resolution Passed by Alberta Farmer's Union Dispose of Your Surplus Horses

Dear Sir

In view of the interest now being taken in the Peoples Rates owing to the application by the Railway Companies for an approved revenue we direct the attention of your readers to the following resolutions passed in February 1946 by the Alberta Farmers' Union.

THAT WHEREAS Western Canadian Prairie Provinces and the Province of Alberta in particular have been subjected by authority of the Government of Canada to the imposition of crushing railway freights, entirely out of all reason based, whereby the trade, industries and agriculture of this province have been penalized and their expense increased, and

WHEREAS the shipping of feed grains to this Province of Ontario from of freights as at present, whereby hog rearing in the Province of Alberta has been penalized and it is difficult if not impossible to meet competition to equivalent products of other prairie Provinces

WHEREAS Alberta imports in round figures 60 per cent of all goods sold from extra provincial points the incidence of these rail freights falls afford every basis for this province. Thus hardware and canned goods from Montreal to Edmonton or Calgary pay 2½ times the freight on the same goods transported from Montreal across the mountains to Vancouver, and

WHEREAS we consider the maintenance of special privileges a re-opening of railway lands by the Government of Canada, whereby the taxation borne of the province and many municipalities has been relieved.

THEREFORE WE REQUEST the immediate disallowance of freight pronunciations to the Dominion Government with a view to getting relief on commodity and Freight Rates to Alberta, because Alberta public lands and natural resources in large part alienated for the purpose of such like inequalities.

That land and natural alienation tax paid for as far as land subsidies were concerned by the three prairie provinces out of mine. That in Alberta this transfer of railway land subsidy to that amounts millions, a hundred and twenty thousand acres.

A copy of this resolution has been sent to Premier Manning also Edmonton and Calgary Members of Commons.

Yours truly,
E. L. Gaunt

Any businessman will admit that it's smart practice to keep an eye on one's competitors, to know what the other fellow is doing. Which is why we're dealing in this column with testimony by the United States Aluminum Industry to a United States Senate committee recently.

The testimony, made on behalf of 2,100,000 air industry workers and their employers, who are turning out [illegible] work at present's [illegible] year (four times Canada's total war production) is incontrovertibly damning but two main parts. One part deals with commercial and military aircraft. The other part deals with personnel or private planes.

Before the war, the industry pointed, four out of every five people who bought planes sold them within a year, but with the fact that there was no place to fly them in. Not enough small airports, in other words.

Here, verbatim, is the interesting statement of the spokesman to the Senate Committee on the matter of personal aircraft: "In the post, private flying has suffered from the handicap that the purpose for which private flights were made was not important—not by comparison with flights carrying coal, flights for national defence, flights carrying passengers for hire, and flights made over remote areas of the earth. Yet, it may well be that the airplane will fill an important role as a social and private convergence of the ordinary citizen, similar in social and economic importance to the automobile, serving to raise the people's standard of living, to make their lives fuller and their pursuit of happiness more effective. The automobile did just that. It created millions of jobs. It made possible thousands of business enterprises which bring wealth and prosperity to the communities all over the region. It drew our people closer together and made all parts of our great country easier to access to every citizen. Similar personal plane can do even more than this.

What applies in the United States also applies on a smaller scale in Canada, with its vast distances between populated settlements, with its wonderful tourists and fishing areas, has more than one neighbour to the south to offer in the way of [illegible] cubse to the private flier. Ironically enough, we're a little behind the United States in the importance we attach to private flying.

New Bulletin on Farm Machinery

The Department of Dairying, University of Alberta, and the Dairy Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture have just completed a well illustrated bulletin dealing with farm cheesemaking. This bulletin is now in the hands of the printer and will be available at an early date.

Dairy producers with a surplus of skimmed milk, whole milk or cream will find many interesting suggestions in this bulletin. Farm cheese production or business making offers an outlet for home consumption, and at the same time provides an opportunity for creating and increasing the family cash income.

Anyone desiring a copy of this bulletin should write direct their request to the Extension Department, University of Alberta, or to the Extension Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Reconstruction--
Canada's Opportunity

HOMES

Why don't the nations get along like one big family? A humanist answers. The trouble is they don't. Homes are where the nation learns to live with the Nations and yet the strong leaders of the nation, they are the ruthless dictators. Some of our national leadership.

As I am no humanist such a vital part in winning the war—can she give great leadership in world reconstruction. There are many fine plans for building a new world, but whether those plans work out depends on the earning and determination of each one of us. We are all responsible. We can not expect higher standards of living and efficiency in our government than we create in our family life.

The successful failure of reconstruction down to the smallest unit of labor, ship-germinated in our homes. United families with the answer to friction have the answer for the bigger problems of national unity. Parents instead of "living on a pedestal" admit where they are wrong. Children soon catch the spirit.

Recently Mrs. Jones apologized to her eldest daughter for her indecision and then asked her opinion. When the daughter became honest about her own faults, they both changed their ways. Mr. Jones was a personnel manager of a large company, found that he could use the same technique of drastic honesty in building labour-management teamwork.

Mr. Smith, a union leader, loved getting his own way at home. When he was willing to admit he his wife that he wasn't always right, he was able to settle a nasty dispute at the plant to the lasting satisfaction of all parties.

These sound homes put unity into the community. It can start with each of us and the person we don't get along with. Only when our homes are free of petty despots can Canada and the world be permanently free of dictatorships.

Nations of united families will build a united family of nations or a sound basis of moral and spiritual reconstruction.

FROM OTTAWA
FIRE! FIRE!

This sound of the fire engine tearing through the streets of Ottawa awoke me the other night and, as always, I had to run to the window to see if the blaze was on our street. I suppose there is no all our Members feel a bit of fear in the back of their hold-over from the time when we used to love to run to a fire just because it was a thrilling spectacle.

But on the farm fire takes on much more alarming proportions. After all, on a farm you're isolated. You can't run to the phone and have a fire department racing to your home in the matter of minutes.

That's why the word "fire" must have an omnious meaning to farmers.

I notice that a recent study of farm fires indicates that there are at least 13 causes for fires on the rural areas. I don't somebody tell us to "be careful" and "be careful."

They are common-sense precautions, simple to carry out, simple to remember. Many of them are obvious. Others are not so obvious. But they all add up to safety. Here are a few of them:

Don't smoke in bed. Don't smoke in barns, stables or granaries. Don't smoke around hay, straw or grain. Don't smoke around inflammable materials. Don't smoke around gasoline, oil or kerosene. Don't smoke around explosives. Don't smoke around electrical equipment. Don't smoke around operations with gasoline power engines. Don't smoke around operations with flammable materials

NEW PLASTIC TRAY

Ships of the Royal Navy have been equipped with a novel type of plastic tray. This tray, which is especially constructed to stand up to hard wear, is made of a new melamine moulding stuff. The melamine is fabric filled so that the tray is not only strong and shock-resistant but also will stands washing, scouring and heat. The new tray has proved an unexpected find the Navy intends to employ melamine products on a much greater scale.

Identify the cost of all the small repairs needed to keep tires safe. Then allow for them when you buy. Check all your tires every week. Have them inspected often. Don't wait for your tires to tell you they need attention.

Dear Mrs. Black:

I received the lovely birthday parcel and signature which you sent today and so grateful, and find it hard to thank you with words enough in them enough. The gifts themselves are very nice and do help to the country of shortages, but more than that they tell me that my friends and neighbours at home are thinking of me and wishing me well, which means so very much. I only hope I have a chance to thank you and the other ladies personally before very long.

Yours truly,
David Jones

Dear Mrs. Black:

I received the parcel sent me by the Women's Institutes and extremely was pleased to get it. Unfortunately the time of sharing cream had broken but did not damage the other items. The fruit cake is really lovely and I certainly enjoy it with a cup of tea.

I might mention in this letter that I received three hundred cigarettes from you which came in very handy. I am in Germany at the time and very busy so did not have an opportunity to write.

Never-the-less, please express my most sincere thanks to the members of the Institute for both these parcels. I hope that before very long I might be able to thank some of the people personally.

Yours truly,
J. A. Lemay

Dear Mrs. Black:

Everything you sent and is so necessary and helps out a great deal, so thank you very much indeed.

Sincerely,
E. Atchison

Registration of Qualified Building Workers

Workers experienced in the construction industry, but not engaged at building construction work, are to be required to register with the National Employment Service during this week according to an announcement made by the minister of labour.

The registration is provided for under an order-in-council passed under authority of National Selective Service Civilian Regulations.

Men required to register are all those from 16 to 65 years of age, either skilled or unskilled, who, in the assumptions in building construction, who have had a total of at least two years experience, continuous or otherwise, in the construction industry since December 31st, 1945.

Construction tradesmen are defined in the order as skilled or unskilled tradesmen or labourers employed or engaged in any building construction work.

Men at present employed on building construction are not required to register under this special registration.

During this week the offices of the National Employment Service will be open from 9 o'clock from Monday through to Friday, to facilitate the registration of men working in employment other than construction during the daytime.

Where a person lives more than 5 miles from the place where there is an employment office, he may register at the nearest post office.

"It is necessary to try to get back into building a considerable body of experienced and qualified men who are now working in any other industry. The Local Employment Service will facilitate transfers to construction as every reasonable means. The fact that there are not a great many construction workers employed at other work is rather well known, and in very fact makes it more important to assert that every one of these men who are so located."

Means must be provided for veterans, Mr. Rinfret pointed out, not only by taking every means of providing the necessary labor and by the hope that the present home building will be carried out this year in sufficient volume.

New Chemical Weed Killer Boon To Farmers and Gardeners

The long-suffering gardener can look forward to relief from the heartbreaking chore of digging weeds from his lawns, at long last. The people of Britain are with a feeling that Churchill is not dead. For the peace, in present circumstances, the people of Britain decided, and Winston Churchill has been called to serve.

When the first feeling of disappointment is over there will come to him a demand for the relief He has won his measures, the story of the world's greatest conflict. Blue River Route May Be Open in 1946

Opening of the Blue River section of the main highway leading from Edmonton to Yellowknife by way of Kamloops is assured traffic does not appear likely before 1946, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

One party which drove over the highway recently arrived at Edmonton. There must road that is one per hundred part of the road they had great difficulty getting through, and it was evident that the road will not be opened for general traffic before next year.

Work is still proceeding on the section between Jasper and Blue River, and this highway has been "cut through" in the fall of 1946. But it is apparent that a great deal of work must be done yet before the road will be acceptable for general through traffic are exercising every care to protect their tires. It seems that for the remainder of 1945 this will be improved through greater production at the big synthetic rubber plant in Ontario at the end of this year.

Tire Restriction Easing Soon

Restriction on the retreading of tires and overflow driving purposes may be gradually loosened, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

Tire company officials who have arrived in Alberta from the east point out that restrictions have been removed on tubes for trucks. As to passenger automobiles, there has been no easing of restrictions in some categories. However, it all depends on the war situation and to what extent this will permit the government authorities to ease the regulations.

The company representatives have expressed the belief that there will be no tightening of restrictions and that any action will be along the line of further relief.

LABOUR CONTACT MEN

Plans are now under way to bring harvesters to Alberta from Ontario and Quebec. These men will be handled and distributed in much the same way as last fall.

In order to assist in recruiting and distributing harvest workers in various communities, certain men have been asked to act as local labour representatives.

The following are the local labour representatives in the areas covered by your local paper:

Josephburg — Wm. Thomas
Fort Saskatchewan — J. P. Wiebe
Clover Bar — R. S. Ryan
Beaumont — W. Hogman
Elkwater — R. Beiter
Gibbons — Norman Kash

If you require farm help kindly contact your nearest local labour representative who will place your orders directly with the district agricultural or National Selective Service.

HARVESTING AND STORAGE OF CERTIFIED SEED

The growing of seed crops requires a good deal of attention to secure best possible results. Seed crops to be harvested this year are now in a critical stage of growth. Seed fields should be looked over at frequent intervals during the growing season advises M. N. Bentley, Supervisor, Crop Improvement Service. Differential inspection can be almost required out at different times.

R E S

In spite of the best precautions, grower frequently find a part of their seed field which certainly was not many impurities to remove by hand pulling. There may be a small spot, or corner, or an end of a field which, if left, would contaminate the whole crop. The practical solution to this problem is to separate any such field from the rest of the field. Where this action is decided upon, care must be taken to prevent mixing at harvest time.

Crops from which either registered or certified seed is to be produced must pass a field inspection before being harvested. Officials of the Plant Products Division, are now busy inspecting fields for which applications have been made.

The precaution taken to grow a pure seed crop will be wasted if care is not used during harvest. In this regard the following suggestions are offered:

1. The grower should let himself or himself when the crop is being cut, threshed and stored. These not forget that with the importance of the crop may overlook or decide to ship clogging between fields.

2. Machinery must be especially cleaned before the seed crop is handled. Partial decontainment is necessary to effect a thorough cleaning of the grain threshers. A wire probe and a blower are recommended to clean crusts and corners where seed may be lodged. Even then good seed growers discard the first few bushels of grain to come from the thresher.

3. A separate granary for storing each kind of seed is not essential but is very convenient, In any case, in some cases arrangements can be made to have seed grain cleaned by hand.

Bear that it would mastering. In fact, sometimes around $25 worth ought to do it.

ANIMAL VS. VEGETABLE PROTEINS IN SWINE RATIONS

It has long been understood by good swine feeders that protein must be essential part of the swine ration if rapid and profitable growth is expected and lean, high grading carcasses the objective

Shortages of animal protein material because of the war, have made it necessary that substitute of vegetable origin be used. As a result of the above, the University of Alberta conducted experiments to determine the extent to which vegetable proteins could replace animal proteins in the ration without seriously impairing the growth and quality of hogs.

Experiments were conducted in which several groups of hogs were fed a basic grain mixture, with some getting pigs on about one-half of the same protein supplement, some on an animal protein, while others a gradually increase the percentage protein of vegetable origin The rate every few days until the ration was fed on grain—Very little It must be remembered that milk is still the best single protein supplement.

It is very advisable to start young pigs on about one-half of the protein supplement, and then increase the percentage of vegetable protein as they grow older. Soybean oil meal, peanut meal, cottonseed meal, linseed meal, fish meal, tankage and skim milk powder are all good sources of protein. Tankage is a very effective single protein supplement. I produced the most rapid gains and cut the feed requirements and feed materially.

2 When proteins of animal origin are very scarce they may be supplemented by proteins of vegetable origin up to a reasonable limit, with good results although they will not produce as rapid nor as economical gains, under similar conditions, as straight animal protein of high quality.

The most economical use of protein supplements were made when mix with grain in these proportions: Kind of Protein, From Weaning to 100 lbs., 100 lbs. to Market
Tankage ½ to 1 per cent 2 percent
Protein Supplement 1½ 4 percent
Milk and milk by-products—2 to 3 lbs. for each lb. grain—Very little

It must be remembered that milk is still the best single protein supplement.

grain and cost of 100 lbs. of grain were calculated in each case.

From the information the following conclusions are of interest:

1 When pork prices are low and feeding of corn the only additions to the pen are protein supplements, then, feed requirements per pound of grain were high and cost of the gain was relatively high.

2 Finely ground grains such as barley gains high when compared to the same grain ration properly balanced with a protein supplement. This indicates a definite need for protein supplements to farm grain for swine feeding.

3 Tankage was a very effective single protein supplement. I produced the most rapid gains and cut the feed requirements and feed materially.

4 When proteins of animal origin are very scarce they may be supplemented by proteins of vegetable origin up to a reasonable limit, with good results although they will not produce as rapid nor as economical gains, under similar conditions, as straight animal protein of high quality.

The most economical use of protein supplements were made when mix with grain in these proportions:

We've just returned from a visit to a bush flying air base at Senneterre, a little village almost 400 miles north of Montreal and 500 miles northeast of Winnipeg in Northwestern Quebec. It seemed a long way north until we had a chat with W. J. Davis, the base manager.

R E S

He showed us an order for a plane a little further north yet, 1,000 miles to be exact. Piled on his desk will from the time we had our chat were several hundred feet of lumber, some tents, bed frames, mattresses, groceries, gasoline engines and gasoline drums belonging to a diamond drill crew.

R E S

The lumber was for tent floors and the crew was all ready to be flown 1,000 miles further into the wilderness of northern bush which stretches to the Arctic Ocean. Mr. Davis estimates it would take about six trips each way and the whole job will cost a good many hundreds of dollars.

R E S

The two commercial planes at the base, a Noorduyn Norseman and an old Fairchild, made several trips a day, keeping in touch every 30 minutes with the radio station set up in a small frame office building a few yards from the dock.

R E S

The operator tells us he can keep in touch with the planes are within a 300 to 600 range, but that beyond that limit most of the flying is done by compass and dead reckoning.

R E S

Mining men take have struck it rich and are in a hurry to get south to the bright lights often call up and want to charter a plane for a flight to Montreal, and rush cabs established when railroad sleeper services to Montreal and Toronto was cancelled to conserve coal for the war effort troops. Davis turns them all down, however, for the present at least. Too many prospectors and fly-by-nights have made appointments months back for a plane to drop in on some lake hundreds of miles from anywhere as rush and rush a date to fly them back to civilization.

R E S

Davis laughingly laments the fact that this year he's been cheated out of everything but his "propeller-spring". The trip he remembers best, was which took place just before the war, was sent to Malartic to fly a crew down a shaft at Malartic and the family wanted a funeral in Montreal immediately.

R E S

Davis, who now flies for Canadian Pacific Airlines, said that those days operating for himself, and when he landed on a lake near Malartic, found the company couldn't fit the plane's doors. "We didn't want to let we the plane apart and put it together again to get the coffin in," he explained.

R E S

There is a third plane at the base, a little two-seater Cub which belongs to Davis personally and flies on floats in the summer and skis in winter. This coming winter he hopes to fly it to Florida with his wife for a four days' vacation, changing, of course, to wheels further south.

R E S

So far as gasoline and oil is concerned, it will cost him very much

An International Necessity

"There are about 2,000,000 graves in Yugoslavia. But even more appalling is the spiritual destruction which is written on the faces of practically every man, woman and child you come across. The amount of violence, the amount of hatred and greed in Europe is unbelievable.

"Families have always been the backbone and the basis of a sound society. But in Yugoslavia today there are 600,000 children whose parents have disappeared. Many of these children have been present when their mothers and fathers were murdered, or when their fathers and brothers were killed or torn to pieces."

Speaking as a delegate to the San Francisco Conference, Major Gerrie, Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs of Yugoslavia, described the devastation of Europe and pointed to the great need for a program of spiritual as well as material reconstruction.

"At the end of this Conference we shall produce a very important document, called Charter of Peace But I mentioned that no matter how perfect this charter may be, it will not be enough. It will be based on material considerations alone What is the good of new houses, if the people who use them are under the strain of spiritual destruction? Material and spiritual reconstruction should go together—for only in that way shall we be able to build something permanent. We must give life to the machinery, we must give it a soul

"In the light of what I have seen in Europe and in San Francisco, I find the solution to this problem in the philosophy of Moral Re-Armament. It gives hope for unity and spiritual recons ruction in the Balkans.

"I feel that the opportunity, which has been to give me and other delegates through Governor Warren and Mrs. Roosevelt, to attend the play written by Mr. Buchman, "The Forgotten Factor" in San Francisco at this time has a deeper meaning for us. It is a challenge from a world in distress As Dr Frank Buchman says, God has made a plan for everyone of us, if we just want to see. During the performance of that play the other day I saw something which affected the hearts of millions of men, women and children throughout Europe. Here was dramatized a philosophy which can rebuild their hearts, as well as their homes

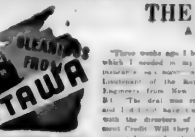
"What San Francisco has not done, the Moral Re-Armament can and must do."

Raise Wholesale Prices on Soft Drinks

Effected on August 1st, the wholesale price of soft drinks was increased 10 cent per case, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces. Consumer ceiling prices are not affected.

Board investigation disclosed that the reduced sugar ration might result in forcing many small bottlers out of business unless some adjustment were made.

Increase was not at retail level because retail trade margins per case are today greater than they had been pre-war, the Board points out.



RE-ESTABLISHMENT FACTS

Here are the facts right on any subject, and when it comes to the re-establishment of the men and women who have served their country in uniform in the different days ahead . . . well, its doubly important that we get these straight.

And that is the reason that the Rehabilitation Information Committee with the assistance of the Wartime Information Board is putting out a series of booklets to give what is called in plain English "straight from the shoulder" information on the question of re-establishment.

The first of these booklets, "The Common sense of Re-establishment," lately off the press is ready for the asking A copy may be obtained by asking the local war services officer, the Information Board, Ottawa.

"The Common-sense of Re-establishment" is just what its title implies. It's straight talk—full of common sense—and summary of rehabilitation legislation. It tells you in plain English just what you can expect to get, and what you can't get. It points out the things you should do, and the things you should not do. It tells you where to go to get the right information. It tells you what you will undoubtedly want to see for some other purpose before the ten years are up.

World of Wheat

BRITAIN—OUR FARMERS' LARGEST MARKET

Britain constitutes the largest market for our prairie farmers. Anything that happens in Britain, therefore, much affects Britain's exports and imports, will have a direct effect on the welfare of our farmers. I have studied carefully the avowed set-out policies of new Britain Labour-Socialist Government, and it seems to me that these tend much more towards "Self-sufficiency" than to increased International Trade. Yet the British people depend for their very existence on greatly increasing their exports so that they can continue to purchase the large quantities of Canadian wheat and flour, livestock products and other materials that they must have in order to live. It is to be hoped, therefore, that on the new British Government assumes responsibility and obtains a clear picture of Britain's real needs, they will demand some of their "Self-sufficiency Protectionist" ideas and will adopt the only possible means that will assist Britain, and incidentally Canada, which is a greater freedom of trade managed more by Free Enterprise, and less by Government controls and Government monopolies. At all events what happens in Britain will be well worthwhile watching and studying by our prairie farmers and their friends.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

One of the smallest U.S. Durum wheat crops on record—forecast at 27,217,000 bushels—plus the size of the overseas demand, is expected to cut U.S. domestic supply prospects.

—Egypt's wheat crop is estimated at 42,430,000 bushels, and while considerably larger than last year's crop it is still below average.

Crop reports from Argentina have been more favorable since the recent rains—The United Kingdom wheat acreage goal for 1946 is set at, 2,000,000 acres, compared with 1,855,000 acres Were this to be reached, the breaking of the drought in Australia, wheat seedings have increased considerably and although below their a crop of 160 million bushels is possible.

Prices Set For Pears Peaches and Plums

Maximum prices for peaches, plums and pears of the 1945 crop have been set at 1944 price levels except for an increase of five cents per bushel in grower's price for No. 1 Ontario-grown peaches. Maximum prices are also set for a new grade of British Columbia peaches selling this year.

Same ceilings are established for imported and domestic fruit and vegetables from August 6th for imported and domestic peaches and domestic plums, August 13th for imported pears and domestic pears and August 20th for imported pears.

A Letter to the W.I.

Dear Friends:

It seems I'm always writing to thank you for some very thoughtful gift, and this letter is no exception. When I returned from my leave I had the pleasure from you tinging for me. The food parcel apparently was mailed at many months ago because the contents were mostly stale. I'll be home and in February. I guess it must have gone around the world because there is no reason why I shouldn't have received it many months ago. The cigarettes were from the Red Cross Comforts Fund, which, I presume, is part of your organization. They were both lovely parcels and I want you to know that I appreciate them more than you will ever know. I hope it won't be many more months before I'll be home and it is my sincere wish that I will then have the opportunity to thank each of you personally for the wonderful job you have done.

Best of everything to all of you. Again, a million thanks.

Sincerely,
Arnold Mann.

Canadian Farmers First To Get DDT For Insect Control

Insecticide supplies were opened yesterday to farmers and livestock producers. Early issues as DDT have been restricted recently for sale in Canada under the Pest Control Products Act, an Act administered by the Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, under which the quality and advertising of insecticides and other pesticides is regulated.

Canada became one of the first countries in the world to have the opportunity of buying a DDT insecticide for use in insect control.

Until recently DDT was restricted almost entirely to military use in controlling lice, mosquitoes, flies and other disease-carrying insects in combat areas. Production of DDT in Canada not required for such purposes has made this new development possible. Priority may be applied to wells, cattle pens and other surfaces frequented by flies and other insects, in a fairly coarse spray sufficient to wet the surface without allowing too much runoff. One gallon is sufficient to treat about 1,000 square feet, and a portable compressed air sprayer is satisfactory for applying it. The dry deposit of DDT left on the treated surfaces after the liquid carrier has evaporated may continue to kill flies and mosquitoes that come in contact with it for several weeks after application.

The Department says that DDT spray must not be applied to live stock, as the material is a poison and in all solution is absorbed through the skin. Care should also be taken not to spray it on foodstuffs. The dry applying the spray should avoid wetting his own skin, in so far as possible, by wearing protective clothing and by washing exposed parts thoroughly in soap and water as soon as the spraying is finished. There is nothing to fear from the dry deposit on the walls, however, as DDT is not absorbed in the dry state.

The 1187 farm sprays have been prepared especially for use in farm buildings such as cattle barns, horse stables and granaries, and are not intended for household use, says the Department.

Fred Atkinson Old Time Resident Of Fort, Passes

One of Fort Saskatchewan's best known figures is gone since death came suddenly at the hospital August 13th, to Frederick James Atkinson. Born at Lucan, Ontario, 71 years ago, Mr. Atkinson came to the Fort in 1906 to work for some six years in the lumber business owned by the Williamsons, and then to engage in the livestock business and farming over since, in partnership with his brother Harry. Having been in indifferent health for some time, he was living in quiet retirement in the town, his rise to be seen in the various business places every day. Indeed he went down as usual for the mail the morning he was stricken and some before the autumn which took his life at his home. His many friends throughout the district feel keen sympathy for his sister, Miss Agnes Atkinson, and his brother Harry, in this so sudden loss to their home. Two other brothers also survive, Berley of Chicago, Ill., and Emerson of San Francisco, Calif.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. D. Ross at First United Church on Tuesday, August 14th, with Rev. E. H. Bissell, former pastor and close friend, delivering the sermon. Mrs. S. E. Thorne was at the organ, and the choir assisted. Interment was made in the Fort Saskatchewan Cemetery, with Howard and McBride in charge of the funeral. The pallbearers were: Leo Williams, C.B.W. Mager, Gordon McDonald, Ray Staples, W. M. Corbett and Clive Webb.

Many beautiful floral tributes were received.

The happy couple thanked everyone for their gifts, after which all joined hands and sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows".

Members of the Happy Gang served a very tasty lunch. Following the lunch the younger set enjoyed a couple of hours of dancing.

Will Bring Electricity To All Canada's Farms

By JANET R. SMITH
From Toronto Saturday Night

With more increased water-power per head than any other country, with the possible exception of Norway, only one Canadian farm in five has electricity. The advantages of the complete electrification of rural areas, small towns and farms are many and obvious, and the feasibility of such progress, despite the high initial cost, is proved by the very comprehensive report of the Manitoba Electrification Inquiry Commissioners appointed by Premier John Bracken in 1942, whose findings are applicable to all Canadian provinces.

Rural electrification is one of the most pressing of all projects looking to post-war reconstruction and development. Almost every province has a committee or a commission engaged in preparing plans. Recently the Minister of the Dominion Government set up to study postwar problems have endorsed rural electrification as a sound project.

The advantages of electrifying farms and small towns are obvious: increased agricultural production, improved living conditions, diversification of industry, provision of direct and indirect employment. The need for extending rural electrification in Canada is also obvious. Although we have the most increased water-power per head than any other country in the world (with the possible exception of Norway) only one Canadian farm out of five has electricity. This compares unfavorably with the situation in the United States, where two out of five farms are electrified, and in most Western European countries where from 50 per cent to 90 per cent of farms are supplied with electric power.

The percentage of Canadian farms which have electricity varies greatly from province to province. In 1944 Ontario was high with 37 per cent, Saskatchewan last until 4.7 per cent. In four provinces, less than 1 per cent of the farms were electrified.

Most Complete Study

The most complete study of rural electrification yet undertaken in any province is the report of the Manitoba Electrification Inquiry Commission. This commission was appointed by Premier Bracken in 1942 "to investigate the present system of generating, transmitting and distributing electricity in Manitoba in order to ascertain whether same can be effected by its reorganization which will enable the Manitoba Government to make available to Manitoba users a full supply of electrical energy at a substantial reduction in its present cost without at the same time increasing the standard rates for such electricity to any citizen of Manitoba."

Although the report of the commission refers particularly to the situation in Manitoba, most of its findings and recommendations are applicable to all Canadian provinces. For that reason it is a document of great importance in the field of rural electrification.

"The rural hydro-electric system of Manitoba has been in existence for more than twenty years," said Mr. Bracken in appointing the commission, "and has been actively extended during the last ten years. There are, however, only some five hundred farmers, out of a total of some fifty-nine thousand, who have found it possible to use this service. It is clear, therefore, that much still remains to be done to extend to the farms of Manitoba a service which will not make them more productive by providing facilities for the diversification of agriculture, but will lessen the physical drudgery now borne by farm women and make farm life more attractive to young people."

The advantages of electric power on the farm are discussed thoroughly in the Inquiry Commission's report. First, it is demonstrated that electric power tends to move farm income, "not primarily in the form of poultry, hog and dairy production. A home-made chicken hen for even a single electric light installed will increase mortality among young chicks by at least 15 per cent. Likewise an electric pig brooder which can be constructed for about $4, will reduce to zero losses from wet and chilled pigs. The electricity is used to light a chicken house and pump or an adequate supply of water at the right temperature, on put of eggs will be increased by 10 per cent or more."

Electric power can also reduce farm operating costs. A stanchion example of this was the testimony of one Manitoba farmer who said that he used to have to pump water for 8-A.U.-day every day in the summer month. Now 5 cents' worth of electricity does the job.

Encourages Diversification

Another advantage of electric power is that it tends to encourage diversification of output: in those areas reasonably well adapted to a multiple-crop system and low proportion of livestock. From the diversification there flows almost automatically a greater volume of goods for consumption on the farm, thus making the farm unit more self-sustained and more "depression-proof." Even the minimum electrification contributes materially, because it takes much of the drudgery out of farm life. Five cents per kilowatt hour also can have her water pumped electrically for less than a cent a day, and electric vacuum cleaners can be operated for a dollar a year, her electric iron will cost only 5 cents per month. Young people brought up in a home with electrical conveniences are less timely to abandon the farm as a method of making a living and as a way of life.

To what extent electrification of a given rural area will bring all these advantages, states the report, will depend upon the proper use of farms and the electrified, the price of electrical appliances, the cost of building wiring and the cost of conveying the farm's output to highways. "If the capital and operating costs are so high that most farmers will confine themselves to electric lights and a few small appliances, thus the real objective of rural electrification will not be achieved. To push the foregoing advantages, it will be necessary to offer the complete electrification of the farm home and other buildings."

Do Farmers Want It?

Granted the advantages of electric power on the farm, do Canadian farmers really want electricity? In order to determine the percentage of Manitoba farmers anxious to have electric power, the Commission selected seven representative municipalities and interviewed personally every farmer in those municipalities. The result of the survey showed that between 80 and 90 per cent of the farmers interviewed were definitely desirous of obtaining electricity. Of the 7 per cent who said they were not interested, most had either just taken up farming or were just about to retire.

Given the problem of tenant farmers is not a crush stumbling-block to electrification. Experience in the United States seems to indicate that at least half, and probably more, of all tenant farmers will come under the influence of electrical energy. Even if landlords hesitate to make the investment at first, they gradually come to see that they must electrify if they wish to retain a supplier type of tenant.

The question of whether corporations or governments should undertake rural electrification is of more a very important consideration. According to the findings of the Manitoba Enquiry Commission, almost nowhere in the world have private companies been able to bring power to farms on a large scale. This is not a condemnation of private enterprise per se; rather it is evidence that private utilities, organized and operated as they are, simply are not adapted to a complete job of rural electrification.

Rural lines are expensive to build because of the distance between customers, costs of maintenance are high, corporations have to pay more for borrowed capital than states, and are subject to taxation. The state, on the other hand, gets the benefits of low capital costs, can require more readily that customers bill themselves, can place poles inside the farmers' fences and get the right-of-way free of charge, and is not subject to taxation. Furthermore, the state can afford to bring power to marginal customers whom private [illegible] would have to leave unserved.

In most countries where farm electrification has made good progress, the state has resolved utilities from private ownership in addition to its abatement. Of the Canadian provinces, Ontario, Nova Scotia, Quebec and Manitoba government has provided for the payment, out of revenues from water power rentals, of a subsidy to the [illegible] Commission amounting to 50 per cent of the sinking fund and interest charges of capital expenditure for generation and transmission.

The report of the Enquiry Commission recommends that Manitoba should undertake to electrify at least 20,000 farms in the first ten years after the war. On the basis of 1939 prices and the attainment of 60 per cent saturation of possible farm service, this program would cost nearly $17,000,000. The capital cost per farm would be about $975.

To supply farm services at a rate similar to the standard rate schedule now in effect in Manitoba towns and villages (6 cents for the first 30 kwhr per month and 2 cents for all additional energy, with a minimum net monthly bill of $1.00) would require a hours rate equal to that now paid to the Manitoba Power Commission. (That is, 30 per cent of the interest and sinking fund payments on capital investment) Owing to the high capital cost of rural electrification, this hours would amount to $21 per farm service per annum.

But, even though this means the provincial government can assume capital funds at an interest rate not exceeding 3½ per cent, it will not be financially possible to cover all rural electrification in this connection it is interesting to note that farmers in the United States are now securing funds under the rural electrification administration at 2.62 per cent, and are anticipating a further reduction in the interest rate.

Federal Cooperation

"Without provincial [illegible] and with it, the problem of unemployment, have come to be accepted as national responsibilities," states the report, "the Provincial Government of Manitoba may anticipate the co-operation of the Dominion Government in the rural electrification program at low interest rates for the farm electrification [illegible]."

Presumably the same conclusion regarding the financing of farm electrification was arrived at by the Subcommittee on Agricultural Policy appointed by the Dominion Government in [illegible].

"To provide any adequate system of rural electrification in most provinces of Canada will require a very heavy capital investment, the annual charges of which must be met by practical rates and charges unless the money is made available at low rates of interest. It would appear that federal assistance would be necessary, as the Dominion Government making funds available therefore repayable over a number of years."

A rural electrification program, according to the Manitoba Enquiry Commission, is ideally suited to induce postwar employment. It merits high priority because it will be many years self-supporting than other public works projects. As well as creating jobs directly, it will stimulate a great range of industries: mining, lumbering, heavy industry producing transformers and [illegible] equipment, light industries producing electrical appliances. But electrification is of such social and economic importance that its rate of progress should not depend entirely on the volume of unemployment after the war.

Another advantage of electrifying farms after the war, and one not mentioned in the report, is that it will give those veterans who choose to settle on the land a better chance to make a success of farming.

Cost of Appliances

In the view of the Enquiry Commission, the high cost of electric appliances is the greatest handicap to the complete utilization of electricity on the farm. Because of the disparity between Canada and United States prices, it is recommended that the Government of Manitoba use its influence at Ottawa to have duties so adjusted that the prices in the two countries shall be more nearly equal. The adjustment of tariffs would be of benefit to the Canadian manufacturers, since they would then have the advantage of mass market.

To bring electricity to the majority of Manitoba's 80,000 farmers is entirely feasible and practical, according to the results of the Enquiry Commission's study. With Canada's most waterpower resources, rural electrification would undoubtedly be just as feasible in all the other provinces.

The big hurdle is the high initial cost, requiring large amounts of capital at low interest rates. But if Canada is looking for ways of promoting economic development at the same time as she provides for permanently cheap better living conditions on the land then rural electrification.

The efficiency of the operation of the combine is usually to direct proportion to the efficiency of the operator, says R. T. Stephenson, Agricultural Engineer for the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

There are four separates and distinct cases of the combine at which grain can be lost; the cutter bar, cylinder, straw rack and the fans. The cylinder loss is usually the largest, but the adjustment at the cylinder has a decided effect on the cutter bar loss

New Scheme for Training Apprentices

A new revolutionary new scheme for the training of technical apprentices in Britain is expected. It has been planned by the National Joint Industry Council with the Ministries of Labour and Education, and aims to give apprentices in the senior schools training a comprehensive training which will enable them to reach new high standards of proficiency. The plan involves the appointment of 60 area advisers throughout the country and Wales and 100 centers of employment and training. Courses will be borne by the Governm nt and local authorities in equal proportions. An important feature of this scheme is that, for the first time, the Government will be responsible for certifying craft competency. National Certificates will henceforward be awarded to all apprentices passing the State examinations

Block of Canada's concrete as a motion manufacturing aircraft after the war will be dependent on international trading conditions and tariffs. Canada won't produce one-tenth too few less than the United States, but there is every chance of our producing airplanes for less, and of exporting them all over the world

There is no such thing as mass production of planes. Ford's Willow Run and Douglas and Lockheed and the giant plants in the United S ates have failed to get mass production of airplanes in the same towns that apply to autos.

An automobile factory can turn out 5,000 cars a day Yet the most Consolidated needs is one year for the first Liberator, and even then it was running at little 3/4 over the mark. But we have got in Canada the manufacturing rights on some of the finest American designs.

In Montreal we're working on a modification of the famous American DC4, and we'll not only use it on TCA, but perhaps sell a few in other countries.

In Hamilton we have the only Canadian plant making a light plane design, the Orli, and there is no reason why Canadian-built Orlis couldn't connect with American Cubs for customers all over the world. The Cub design has been held all other designs established here to one in the United States, and the right to use that design in Canada is on important negotiation.

It all non-protective tariffs can be removed, Canadian plane makers will hold far more than their share of the world's postwar manufacturing business.

Championship Victory Garden Helps Feed Family of 18

NEAR-PERFECT, SCORE: The 200 by 50 foot plot (above), which has been adjudged the best victory garden on the Island of Montreal this year, helps feed the eight grown children and eight grandchildren of Joseph Telin (inset), section foreman for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Lakeshore West. Telin works an hour before going on duty at 7 a.m. and another hour after getting home at 5 p.m. He is assisted by his eldest son, many of whom, like Tom, missed a pay cheque, or lost about a week's wages, to help with the harvesting. Produce of the garden "without doubt the finest vegetable garden ever entered in the competition" and gave him 20 out of a possible 20 points for perfection. They included 1,000 pounds of potatoes, which he finally exhausted on his four-inch-deep cultivation, a valuable aid to carbon conservation.

New High-speed Welding Process

A novel process marking a new departure in high-speed welding has been developed by a United Kingdom firm. Its outstanding advantages are rapidity and simplicity of operation combined with one hundred per cent efficiency. The process consists in the method of assembling studs or rods to steel structures by means of a gun, which shoots the studs into the position formed in the steel-work. The apparatus is fully automatic and has the important advantage that the welding and tapping needed in other common operations are eliminated. It also dispenses with cutting the material, as standard lengths are not required in the plating

New Safety Devices

United Kingdom scientists have invented two novel devices which will raise the safety and comfort standards of Britain's civil air lines to new high levels. The first of these inventions—which will be applied to the high altitude flying—is a heated "sandwich", which overcomes the menace of ice and mist formation on the windscreens at great heights. It consists of two panes of glass, between which warmed air is pumped between the double layers of glazing forming the pressure-resistant surface of the cockpit. One important advantage of this device is that even at temperatures as low as 70 degrees F., the cockpit is so warm that special clothing can be dispensed with.

The second invention is an ingenious rubber valve which automatically regulates the cabin air pressure in correct proportion, without attention from the pilot.

Canada Thistle

Now is a good time to work on the Canada thistle eaps H. J. Mather, supervisor of Weed Control. The young shoots which the plant has been shooting in the mid-summer storms are tender and lowly to be killed by cultivation at this season. A good summer fallow now until frost—up to the end of September, methods of destroying Canada thistle but the full-time must be continued until frost-up.

Another method of fighting weeds, more and more Canada thistle, now thistle, such as one and most common in the west fall rye. Fall rye, sown at the rate of 1½ bushels per acre from August 15th to September 1st, will work while you are busy with the other tasks around the farm. If mulched earlier than August 15th, the rye can be used for limited fall pasture. Care should be taken not to overgraze if the rye is to do its full share in the killing of weeds. Heavy pasturing of the rye crop should be followed by through cultivation until frost-up, or if the field is to follow-on, that more severe measures are required, another crop of fall rye may be sown.

Ventilation Important in Barn Construction

Those building or planning to build a barn are advised not to overlook the importance of adequate ventilation system. Information on construction is readily available.

A proper ventilation system provides for the removal of moisture, carbon dioxide and other waste products given off in the animals. It allows a sufficiently frequent change of air to maintain a healthy atmosphere in the barn. It aids in the prevention of disease, to the spread of which poor ventilation contributes. Adequate ventilation removes odours. It is also essential in the production of first quality milk, and it maintains an even temperature in the barn.

Information on the installation of a suitable ventilating system may be obtained by writing to the Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Movement of Harvesters

Arrangements have been made to pay one-way transportation for harvesters who move from districts where crops are short, or where harvesting is finished, to other areas in the province where assistance is required. The assistance will be provided under the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labor Agreement.

Farm workers in short areas who are available to assist in other parts of the province must contact an officer of Selective Service or the Local District Agriculturist for direction and transportation. Refunds can be made in cases where such purchase their own railway tickets.

Live Stock Improvement

Although our live stock is being steadily improved by constructive breeding, there are still many farmers who are not taking full advantage of the better quality sires now being introduced and fitted in the various breeds.

Assistance in the choice of superior type stock is available in the form of a number of policies administered by the Live Stock Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture. Application forms and price ranges can be obtained from District Agriculturists, who can also give valuable advice on the choice of pure bred bulls, boars and rams.

Precious Metal Put to Many Uses

The production of penicillin, drug manufacturers and doctors are among the users of several rare metals which Britain has put into mass production during the war. Since 1939 the industry has undergone the greatest expansion in a short period ever recorded in any industry has been concerned in research, production and distribution of platinum, palladium, rhodium, iridium and osmium. Platinum has been extensively used in the manufacture of glass, chemical and engineering. It has been employed in every phase of the electrical industry and in the manufacture of aeronautical, radio-location equipment. Among the other rare metals which have been found indispensable are molybdenum, tungsten, tantalum and vanadium. Many of these metals have been produced in Britain's own colonies and dominions.

Much as the Board sympathizes with welcome home receptions, it can not afford to allot extra rations. Canada's ration system, based on population totals and adjusted periodically, could not stand the strain of such additional pressure without a decrease in present consumer rations.

Organizers of such receptions must, therefore, use individual members' ration allowances if they serve refreshments involving rationed foods.

In the 1934-35 season, the number offered was 53,518, which sold at an average price of $6.77 each. The number sold in 1942-1944 was 66,712 at an average price of $18.27. In the 1942-1943 season, only 38,268 prairie wolf pelts entered the market. Most of the pelts come from Alberta and Saskatchewan, but some are from Manitoba and British Columbia.

Page, who is a prisoner of War of three years' standing, had been in solitary confinement for most of the time. Cobbold was one of the first to be released by the Japanese. Both Major-General Page and Lord Cobbold were among the many thousands of British prisoners photographed in the Medical section of the Rangoon prison camp They were given no medical supplies, were treated says Major MacLeod, their fellow prisoner and Medical Officer "like animals". Meatless Day Starts 4 a.m.

Meatless days in public eating places now start 4 a.m. Tuesdays and Fridays and continue for the 24 hour period following, instead of the former 24 hour period commencing midnight, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces.

This change, requested by the restaurant trade to conform with normal hours of operation, will enable consumers to plan menus for the full 24 hours from 4 a.m. through the late midnight meal period. In all-night restaurants, it will alleviate the problem of making menus alternations at the stroke of midnight.

Meatless Tuesdays and Fridays save about 1,000,000 pounds of meat weekly and contribute materially to the meat ration program due to September. Restrictions on meat dishes include any meats less except pork, of which meat is an ingredient, but excepting "pork and beans" and kitchen-prepared pork and beans provided that no pork, except edible fat, is included in the serving.

Now or Never

The winter shoal may be "one of the grimmest in history" for the liberated millions of Europe, warned Herbert E. Lehman, Director-General of United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, the other day in London. He was recommending a new UNRRA levy of $1,810,000,000 upon participating nations. He told the delegates of 43 members countries, "We stand before the crisis. We must act and we must act now."

The danger of winter brings warm clothing to mind. There is much that Canadians would do if they could. Of manufactured goods Canada has little, but there are millions of serviceable used garments lying in attics and clothes closets across the country which can be spared without having to be replaced. A National Clothing Collection is to be held from October 1st to the 30th to reach into every home in Canada for these used clothes. Giving them will not deplete the local supply to a danger point. Quick and decisive action is necessary, for Europe needs them next winter, it is now or never.

This is a fateful hour in history and heed should be given Mr. Lehman's stark warning when he says that unless contributing countries supplement their aid steadily given, "the name of the United Nations will be a mockery in Europe this winter". He asked for millions more as he told the meeting: "It is inconceivable that the United Nations could abandon the victims of the liberated areas of Europe at the moment of their greatest peril. They must be brought safely through the following months."

These war-torn peoples will be living precariously at the mercy of the elements from October to April. They are no a shipwrecked crew adrift at sea. We have life-saving equipment. We should give them all we can spare.

Europe's Christmas hearths will be meagerly kindled and the Christmas celebrations, if there are any, will be hungry. Europe's starving millions will look at the raiment that shields their frail bodies, and they will think of us who live in lands of plenty according as we measure up to our responsibility and share with them that we can spare—and see that they get it all and get it quickly.

To Form Rehabilitation Committee at Fort

The council of Fort Saskatchewan has decided to help form and support a rehabilitation committee in the interest of returned men. In order that this committee may offer the utmost help to returning boys it will be the civic duty of all citizens to aid in every practicable manner. The purpose of this article is merely to rally the civic duty of all citizens to aid in the rehabilitation work. The committee has not as yet made any definite plans, they are Dominion Government, Provincial Legislature and the indivi dual communities. All must shoulder their respective responsibilities. Therefore the town and district should rally in response to the notice below, that the committee may be able to offer not only advice but help of a tangible sort wherever it is needed.

Many men are being discharged from armed forces at the present time and as many are fairly large sums of money in the form of gratuities coming to them With this money they wish to start business, etc., but in a great majority of cases they have no conception of the difficulties that await them, especially as many of these have had no business experience and actually do not know what they wish to do.

The committee hopes to point out the difficulties which will confront these veterans and will endeavour with the help of the business men of the town to offer advice and guidance.

In asking business men, all ex-service and farmers to list with the secretary any work available, do not get me wrong, we could take those jobs which would not only help them to re-adjust themselves to civilian life but to make room for returned men. Some of work they wished to do, but would also have interest and consume time needed to carry on their own vocation to their best advantage.

WINGS over CANADA
Russell L. GIBSON
Robert REEDS

Len Tripp began flying 25 years ago and today, with over 14,000 hours in the air to his credit, he runs one of Canada's foremost civilian flying schools and is just waiting on new post-war planes for a onward thing over expansion.

It was during the last war when Len, a member of the Imperial Army, got into flying. He'd been wounded by shrapnel in the trenches, and it was in the days when pilots were needed badly. They were being shot down almost as fast as they took to the air.

Because a man can't die in a plane, flying in those days was considered an easy job—as far as physical requirements were concerned, at least. So while still more or less recuperating, Len learned to fly and stayed with it until the end of the war and for four years after.

While still a member of the Royal Flying Corps, he heard about flying to Canada, and the planned formation of a special air service to help Fight forest fires in Ontario. So to Canada he came and got a job flying those big old flying boats that were first used to ferry fire fighters and their equipment in to the timber regions.

In 1928 a historic event took place. Canada's first civilian flying school opened in Hamilton, and Len was hired as its first and only instructor. Students came from all over Canada to train on the old war Jenny which Len flew from early morning to late at night.

Dual instruction was $35 an hour, but there was no fortune in it for either Len or the school operator. Most of the money went down the drain in the high costs which had to be met. But some of T.C.A.'s best veteran pilots today are men who got their first flying instructions from Len Tripp in Hamilton 19 years ago. The airport they used then, incidentally, is now an artillery range about 5 miles out, where the Canadian Airport where the Fall Aircraft factory is located, and Len, today, by coincidence, is the old dealer in Ports, cats as well as a flying school operation.

Late in the 20's, Len began instructing with another civilian flying school at Toronto's Barker Field and two years ago he branched out on his own. His small pre-war light planes are now essentially in the air and one of his best customers is a T.C.A. captain who flies in regularly several times a week from Winnipeg on his 350-mile-an-hour Lockheed, then drives over to Baker field for a flight in a Bellanca high-wing, two-seater, 90-mile-an-hour Cub.

"He puts a tremendous kick out of it," chuckles Len. "I suppose it's because flying a big plane is work while this is more like play."

GRAIN SEPARATOR SUGGESTIONS

In spite of the more extensive use of the combine, a great deal of crop will be threshed with the grain separator this fall, and more next year to come. As an aid to efficient operation, the following suggestions are given by F. F. Parkinson, Instructor in Farm Mechanics at the Olds School of Agriculture. By keeping these points in mind, says, Mr. Parkinson, and using them, the average thresherman operator who is mechanically inclined should have no difficulty in satisfactorily operating his equipment.

1. Uniform feeding is essential.
2. Uniform cylinder speed must be maintained at the correct speed for the kind and condition of the grain being threshed.
3. Concaves should have no more rows of teeth than necessary to do a good job of threshing.
4. The equipment must be set level crosswise, and either level endwise or lower behind. It should never be set high.
5. Sieves must be opened wide enough to allow grain to pass through freely, without too much chaff getting through.
6. Wind from the fan should be sufficient to hold the chaff floating on the chaffer, and should strike near the front of the chaffer.
7. Keep all nuts and bolts tight.
8. Keep all parts properly lubricated.

DIPLOMA COURSE IN DAIRYING

Ex-service men and women who are considering employment in the dairy industry will be interested in a diploma course in dairying covering a period of five months which will be offered this fall at the University of Alberta, Edmonton. Applicants should preferably have had two seasons of experience in a dairy plant. However, applicants with a Grade IX or higher standing but without practical experience may register at the Department of Dairying, University of Alberta, for a preliminary practical course at any time between September 24th and October 1st, 1945. The regular diploma course will commence on November 3rd and continue until April 20th, 1946. For the present, acceptance of applications for this course will be confined to ex-service personnel.

Full information and application forms may be obtained from the Department of Dairying, University of Alberta, Edmonton.
